Wine, William E., assignor to The Tractor Grip Wheel Company, Toledo, Ohio. Traction shoe. 1,634,639; July 5.
Wineman, Wade H., Michigan City, Ind., assignor to Sullivan Machinery Company. Valve mechanism. 1,635,146; July 5.
Wirth, Heinrich, assignor to the Firm J. A. Maffei, Munich, Germany. Locomotive. 1,634,526; July 5.
Wise, Solomon, Cincinnati, Ohio. Display stand. Des. 73,017; July 5.
Wolff, Joseph, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Sonora Phonograph Company, Inc., Needle rest. 1,634,702; July 5.
Wolff, Joseph, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Sonora Phonograph Company, Inc. Needle receptacle. 1,634,703; July 5.
Wood, Charles D., assignor to The Grasselli Chemical Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Making paper from straw and product. 1,634,603; July 5.
Wood, William H., South Euclid, Ohio. Storage battery. 1,634,527; July 5.
Wood, William H., South Euclid, Ohio. Lamp. 1,634,528; July 5.
Woodlands Limited. (See Hutchinson, Robert, assignor.)
Woodring, Alberto I., assignor to National Safety Devices Company, Waterloo, Iowa. Percussive device. 1,634,927; July 5.
Woods, Samuel J., Newport, R. I. Gas-igniting device. 1,635,104; July 5.
Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation. (See Benson, Harry F., assignor.)
Wright, James G. E., Alplaus, N. Y., and W. J. Bartlett, East Cleveland, Ohio, assignors to General Electric Company. Ester-resin composition and prepartion. 1,634,969; July 5.
Yankelewitz, Hirsh W., Newark, N. J. Advertising and amusement apparatus. 1,634,765; July 5.
Yoder, Sam, Blackwell, Okla. Corner piece for buildings. 1,634,862; July 5.
Young, John M., Brooklyn, assignor to American Can Company, New York, N. Y. Compound lining head. 1,634,481; July 5.
Youtsey, Floyd S., assignor of one-half to C. D. Lukens, St. Louis, Mo. Casting method and apparatus. 1,634,482; July 5.
Zastrow, Edgar E., Chanute, Kans. Storage-battery terminal. 1,634,280; July 5.
Zecchino, Michele, Corona, N. Y. Door or window screen. 1,634,312; July 5.
Zixinis, Paul T., Belmar, N. J., assignor to Industrial Spray-Drying Corporation, New York, N. Y. Spray-processing apparatus. 1,634,640; July 5.
Zobel, Benjamin J., Buffalo, N. Y. Tire rim. 1,635,105; July 5.
Zworykin, Vladimir K., Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. Wireless transmitting system. 1,634,390; July 5.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF INVENTIONS

FOR WHICH

PATENTS WERE ISSUED ON THE 5TH DAY OF JULY, 1927.

NOTE.—Arranged in accordance with the first significant character or word of the name (in accordance with city and telephone directory practice). Includes patents, reissues, and designs.

Accelerometer, Recording. G. Gardner. 1,634,992; July 5.
Acid, Production of hydrocyanic. G. Bredig and E. Elöd. 1,634,735; July 5.
Adjusting mechanism. F. X. Malocsay. 1,634,718; July 5.
Advertising and amusement apparatus. H. W. Yankelewitz. 1,634,765; July 5.
Advertising device, Illuminated. W. G. Shelton. 1,634,309; July 5.
Aeroplanes, Safety attachment for. F. Beni and D. Iarussi. 1,634,442; July 5.
Agricultural implement. W. F. Smith. 1,634,728; July 5.
Aircraft, Fire-extinguishing apparatus for. G. W. Burke, jr. 1,634,977; July 5.
Aircraft, Mooring dirigible. J. A. Steinmetz. 1,634,964; July 5.
Airplane stop. C. F. Jenkins. 1,634,904; July 5.
Alkali cellulose, Drying. P. C. Seel. 1,635,012; July 5.
Alloy. G. O. Smith. 1,634,343; July 5
Alloy filament. A. Pacz. 1,635,055; July 5.
Ammonium chloride and alkali-metal sulphate, Production of. O. Geragross. 1,634,870; July 5.
Anchor block. G. F. A. Ochs. 1,634,268; July 5.
Animal trap. G. A. Samouce. 1,634,270; July 5.
Animal trap. J. E. Sapp. 1,634,688; July 5.
Ankle protector. G. F. Hogan. 1,634,576; July 5
Antiholdup device A. Goodman. 1,635,121; July 5.
Antirattling device. S. Baruch. 1,634,349; July 5.
Antiskid device. A. A. Sunde. 1,635,017; July 5.
Apparatus for delivering measured quantities of a fluent material B. Jirotka. 1,635,126; July 5.
Aquarium, Illuminated. J. A. Schrimp. 1,634,305; July 5.
Arc cutting, repairing, and welding apparatus, Transformer for electric-. F. C. Owen. 1,634,959; July 5.
Article lifter. F. W. Skroch. 1,634,856; July 5.
Ash receiver. J. Y. Tice. 1,634,761; July 5.
Assembling and lasting machine B. Jorgensen. 1,634,502; July 5.
Automatic switch. L. W. Gilbert. 1,635,078; July 5.
Automobile, Child's foot-power. J. A. Bried. 1,634,486; July 5.
Automobile hotel and garage. R. C. Hecox. 1,634,498; July 5.
Automobile jack. J. T. Amiss. 1,634,391; July 5.
Automobile lock. V. L. Gilpin and C. R. Wells. 1,635,079–80; July 5.
Automobile lock. G. B. Kissinger. 1,634,583; July 5.
Automobiles and the like, Air cleaner for. F. S. Orem. 1,635,007; July 5.
Automobiles, Coach body of. R. A. Fatoux. 1,634,656; July 5.
Automobiles, Paint stick for. R. T. Romine. 1,634,341; July 5.
Automobiles, Thermostatically-controlled radiator shutter for. J. F. Raleigh. 1,634,301; July 5.
Automobiles, Wind deflector for. B. Jassen. 1,634,290; July 5.
Bag: See—
Sand bag. Swimming bag.
Bag-filling machine. N. M. Fegely. 1,634,538; July 5.
Bags, Latch device for hand. S. Steinman. 1,634,918; July 5.
Ball transmission, G. S. Morison. 1,634,507; Juyl 5.
Basket, Frying. W. B. Wills. 1,634,733; July 5.
Battery: See—
Storage battery.
Battery casing. R. H. Wappler. 1,634,475; July 5.
Battery container, Storage-. C. J. Dunsweller and M. W. Severance. 1,634,284; July 5.
Bead-placing ring. H. A. Denmire. 1,635,073; July 5.
Bearing for link chains and belts. S. J. Bens. 1,634,641; July 5.
Bearing, Self-adjusting connecting-rod. M. D. Greenig. 1,634,993; July 5.
Bearings of connecting rods, Machine for boring the. A. H. Wadell. 1,634,889; July 5.
Bedstead. R. C. Erskine. Des. 72,994; July 5.
Bedstead corner lock. A. J. Schultz. 1,634,306; July 5.
Belt, Sprocket chain or link. S. J. Bens. 1,634,647; July 5.
Beverage-dispensing apparatus, Carbonated-. W. E. Doughty. 1,634,457; July 5.
Bib or faucet. H. D. Rahling. 1,634,960; July 5.
Bill posting. H. Mock. 1,634,333; July 5.
Binders, Flyleaf for loose-leaf. H. C. Sterling. 1,634,345; July 5.
Bird house. P. Troski. 1,634,763; July 5.
Bit: See—
Drilling bit.
Blade, Cultivator. F. R. Bergsten. 1,634,531; July 5.
Block: See—
Board: See—
Dry-steam sleeve board. Wall board.
Ironing board.
Board and making the same, Composition. F. J. Hallauer. 1,634,462; July 5.
Boat, Foot-propelled. C. Garro. 1,634,257; July 5.
Boiler: See—
Steam boiler.
Boilers, Automatic alarm and shut-off for steam. J. M. Barrett. 1,634,392; July 5.
Bone clamp. C. E. Mullens. 1,635,137; July 5.
Bottle-capping machine. E. Jabs. 1,634,363; July 5.
Bottle-capping machine. J. A. Johnson. 1,634,464; July 5.
Bottle construction. E. B. Clark. 1,635,070; July 5.
Bottle-filling apparatus. A. J. Galland. 1,634,416; July 5.
Bottle holder. J. L. Freisner. 1,634,747; July 5.
Bottled goods, Cooler for. S. Kaye. Re16,669; July 5.
Box: See—
Fare box.
Brace: See—
Tool brace.
Brad. A. C. Strandberg. 1,634,632; July 5.
Braiding machines, Bobbin for. C. P. Berolzheimer. 1,634,607; July 5.
Braille matrix. N. D. Clark and A. B. Armstrong. 1,635,032; July 5.
Brake: See—
Velocipede brake.
Brake. W. S. Adams. 1,635,021; July 5.
Brake. W. L. Krieg. 1,635,087; July 5.
Brake. L. E. La Brie. 1,634,367–8; July 5.
Brake. G. J. Thomas. 1,635,100; July 5.
Brake beam. C. F. Huntoon. 1,634,995; July 5.
Brake-beam safety hanger. J. H. Glimpel. 1,634,902; July 5.
Brake equalizer. W. J. Laurine. 1,634,671; July 5.
Brake-operating mechanism. W. J. Andres. 1,634,250; July 5.
Brake shoe. A. Y. Dodge. 1,634,369; July 5.
Brake shoe, Pivoted. A. Y. Dodge. 1,634,370; July 5.
Bricks, Making arch. R. J. Himmelright. 1,634,356; July 5.
Brush, Fountain. N. M. Cottrell. 1,635,114; July 5.
Buckle. N. D. Richards. Des. 73,009; July 5.
Buckle, Belt. E. S. Mix. 1,635,135; July 5.
Building blocks and process of molding, Mold for. R. B. Fuller. 1,634,900; July 5.
Building unit. J. A. Birkholz. 1,634,283; July 5.
Buildings, Corner piece for. S. Yoder. 1,634,862; July 5.
Burglar detector. W. G. Thorpe. 1,634,472; July 5.
Burial-casket handle. M. F. Davoran. Des. 72,990; July 5.
Burial casket or coffin. N. N. Barron. 1,634,767; July 5.
Burner: See—
Oil burner.
Bushings and the like, Device for extracting. C. D. Thompson. 1,634,600; July 5.
Calculating machine. H. A. Bowers. 1,634,485; July 5.
Calculating machine. C. M. F. Friden. 1,634,990; July 5.
Calculating machine. H. Hoffmeister. 1,635,125; July 5.
Can ends, Method of and machine for lining the flanges of. J. M. Hothersall. 1,634,500; July 5.
Can opener. H. Falla. 1,634,493; July 5.
Candlestick. E. Magnussen. Des. 73,003; July 5.
Cane juice, Preserving. A. K. Balls. 1,634,848; July 5.
Car and the like, Cane. L. D. Gregg. 1,634,779; July 5.

Car-couplers, Lock-pin lifting and holding device for automatic. O. H. Le Compte. 1,634,588; July 5.
Car, Drop-bottom mine. S. H. McCrary. 1,635,048; July 5.
Car for aeroplane swings. H. G. Traver. Des. 73,014; July 5.
Car, Self-propelled rail. J. P. Irwin. 1,634,362; July 5.
Car, Trackless street. W. Leathers. 1,634,587; July 5.
Caramels, Separation of. F. F. Mollé. 1,635,136; July 5.
Carbon, Electric-furnace apparatus and process for making decolorizing. L. Wickenden and S. A. W. Okell. 1,634,480; July 5.
Carbon, Electric-furnace apparatus and process of revivifying decolorizing. L. Wickenden and W. F. Demmerle. 1,634,479; July 5.
Carbon, Making decolorizing. L. Wickenden and S. A. W. Okell. 1,634,477; July 5.
Carbon, Process and apparatus for making decolorizing. L. Wickenden and S. A. W. Okell. 1,634,478; July 5.
Carbureting apparatus. W. G. Hemenway. 1,634,782; July 5.
Carburetor. W. Grikscheit. 1,634,461; July 5.
Card holder, Playing-. V. C. Teneau. 1,634,696; July 5.
Carrier: See—
Contact carrier. Tire carrier.
Luggage carrier.
Carton, Egg. W. A. Schurmann. 1,634,596; July 5.
Cartridge rack. M. McCune and C. L. Paulus. 1,634,953; July 5.
Case: See—
Filing case. Show case.
Cast iron, Manufacturing malleable. M. Kubo. 1,634,586; July 5.
Caster. E. Schultz. 1,634,631; July 5.
Caster mechanism. M. E. Roe. 1,634,558; July 5.
Casting apparatus, Centrifugal. L. Reichold. 1,634,914; July 5.
Casting method and apparatus. F. S. Youtsey. 1,634,482; July 5.
Catamenial sack and womb support. W. S. Peloubet. 1,634,555; July 5.
Cellulose acetate and making the same. R. Baybutt and E. S. Farrow, jr. 1,635,026; July 5.
Cellulose acetate, Treating. E. S. Farrow, jr. 1,634,986; July 5.
Cellulose ethers, Reducing the viscosity characteristics of. P. C. Seel. 1,635,013; July 5.
Cement and bulk material, Method and apparatus for handling. W. H. Drath. 1,634,255; July 5.
Cementing apparatus. G. J. Gorsuch. 1,634,496; July 5.
Centrifugal drier. G. H. Elmore. 1,634,868; July 5.
Centrifugal machines, Brake-actuating mechanism for. W. Colclough. 1,634,651; July 5.
Chain coupling and tightener. L. Travis. 1,634,698; July 5.
Chain, Drive. F. L. Morse. 1,634,334; July 5.
Chain for coal-loading machines, Conveyer. T. L. Johnson. 1,635,085; July 5.
Chains, Link joint for. S. J. Bens. 1,634,645; July 5.
Chains or belts, Link for. S. J. Bens. 1,634,644; July 5.
Chair: See—
Revolving chair.
Chair. R. C. Erskine. Des. 72,995; July 5.
Chandelier, Base for. G. E. Villaret. Des. 73,016; July 5.
Cheese and making the same, Processed. E. E. Eldredge. 1,634,410; July 5.
Chuck. L. A. Edelmann. 1,634,536; July 5.
Cigar-bunching machine. W. H. Schussler. 1,634,690; July 5.
Cinematographic projections, Apparatus for. E. C. Solá. 1,634,597; July 5.
Cinematography, Apparatus for projecting multi-color images in. W. Thorner. 1,634,709; July 5.
Circuit-breaker system, Automatic reclosing. O. C. Traver. 1,635,061; July 5.
Circuit-continuing device. H. A. Douglas. 1,634,404–5; July 5.
Circuit controller, Unit. R. C. Leake. 1,634,620; July 5.
Clamp: See—
Bone clamp. Wire-tie clamp.
Rod clamp.
Clamp. D. E. Bowe. 1,634,532; July 5.
Clamp. C. G. E. Johnson. 1,634,834; July 5.
Clasp. J. Cousilin. 1,634,321; July 5.
Cleaner: See—
Keyboard cleaner. Water-pipe cleaner.
Cleansing device, Hole-. E. G. Gartin. 1,634,495; July 5.
Clip: See—
Pen or pencil clip.
Cloth, Apparatus for moiré-finishing. J. J. Lyth. 1,635,091; July 5.
Clothes hanger. D. D. Jones. 1,634,750; July 5.
Clothespin. P. H. W. Wendt. 1,634,892; July 5.
Clutch-control device. W. Cotterill. 1,634,983; July 5.
Clutch, Electromagnetically-operated friction. J. Bing. 1,635,068; July 5.
Clutch, Friction. J. Kaltf, jr. 1,635,086; July 5.
Clutch mechanism. F. Cartlidge. 1,634,489; July 5.
Clutch, Reversing oil. J. A. Maim. Re16,608; July 5.
Clutches, Attachment for. S. B. Lambert. 1,634,948; July 5.
Coating composition. C. D. Hocker. 1,634,359; July 5.
Coil, Adapter. E. C. Rodman. 1,635,096; July 5.
Coin bank. J. F. Punsak. Des. 73,008; July 5.
Combustion. J. L. Breese, jr. 1,634,533; July 5.
Combustion apparatus. R. J. Sovereign. 1,634,857; July 5.
Combustion system. A. J. Boynton. 1,634,570; July 5.
Compound lining head. J. M. Young. 1,634,481; July 5.
Compressor-controlling mechanism. F. D. Holdsworth. 1,634,542; July 5.
Compressor unloader mechanism. O. R. Cundy. 1,634,491; July 5.
Compressors, Cylinder-cap construction for. H. E. Thompson. 1,634,633; July 5.
Concrete blocks, Mold and molding faced. D. McPherson and F. B. Schultz. 1,635,093; July 5.
Condenser control. R. N. Ehrhart. 1,634,256; July 5.
Condenser, Variable. C. P. Brockway. 1,634,930; July 5.
Confection-coating machine. L. A. Smith. 1,635,015; July 5.
Contact carrier. H. A. Douglas. 1,634,407; July 5.
Containers and the like, Apparatus for cleaning. L. Deutsch and A. Pfeifer. 1,635,115; July 5.
Control apparatus. E. F. Carter. 1,634,979; July 5.
Controller. F. B. Miller. 1,634,677; July 5.
Controlling device and system employing the same. H. W. Brown. 1,634,973; July 5.
Controlling mechanism. F. D. Holdsworth. 1,634,577; July 5.
Conveyer pan. E. E. Slick. 1,634,273; July 5.
Cooling apparatus for cream and other viscous liquids. P. Matthews and A. Bracher. 1,634,910; July 5.
Cooling heated surfaces. E. N. Fales. 1,635,039; July 5.
Cooling systems, Method of and device for preventing freezing of motor. H. R. Bernard. 1,634,394; July 5.
Core drill. W. C. Barnes. 1,634,865; July 5.
Core drill. J. S. Mitchell. 1,634,506; July 5.
Corn-husking machine. M. W. Sells. 1,634,758; July 5.
Cotton, Device for picking. I. Martinez. 1,634,621; July 5.
Cotton picker. H. N. Berry. 1,635,161; July 5.
Coupler release rigging. W. C. Sleeman and A. J. Monfee. 1,634,693; July 5.
Coupling: See—
Flexible coupling. Spring-cross yieldable coupling.
Shaft coupling.
Coupling. W. G. Stevens, jr. 1,635,144; July 5.
Crate. J. F. Maurer, jr. 1,635,133; July 5.
Cup dispenser. E. G. Wessman. 1,634,566; July 5.
Curler, Hair. J. Kreisberg. 1,635,046; July 5.
Current generator, Continuous-. T. C. Lennox. 1,635,000; July 5.
Current motor, Alternating-. J. I. Hull. 1,634,944; July 5.
Current transformer, Continuous-. T. C. Lennox. 1,635,002; July 5.
Currents, Controlling alternating. E. F. W. Alexanderson. 1,634,970; July 5.
Cutter: See—
Glass cutter.
Cutter head. F. T. Flinchbaugh. 1,634,494; July 5.
Cutting machine, Flock-. W. J. Decoteau. 1,634,741; July 5.
Damper construction. W. A. Schmidt. 1,634,559; July 5.
Deaerating water. G. H. Gibson. 1,634,776; July 5.
Dental facing. T. E. Dimelow. 1,634,612; July 5.
Dental impression tray. G. H. Light. 1,634,717; July 5.
Depth-indicating device. H. W. King. 1,634,427; July 5.
Detector: See—
Burglar detector.
Dial scale and similar apparatus. E. Gase. 1,634,324; July 5.
Digger: See—
Peanut digger.

Disclaimer.

1,528,728.—Carl R. Houghton and John T. Wilbin, Connersville, Ind. METER. Patent dated March 3, 1925. Disclaimer filed July 18, 1927, by the assignee, Connersville Blower Company.

Hereby enters its disclaimer as follows, to wit:

(1) To so much of claim 2 as may cover a gas meter, as specified in said claim, in which the pair of intermeshing gears, the casing forming the externally gas-tight chamber, and the bearings, as specified in said claim, are not provided at each end of said meter, and in which the teeth of the gears are not formed with substantial backlash and oppositely set as to backlash;

So that said claim will cover a gas meter, as specified in said claim, in which the pair of intermeshing gears, the casing forming the externally gas-tight chamber, and the bearings, as specified in said claim, are provided at each end of said meter, and in which the teeth of the gears are formed with substantial backlash and oppositely set as to backlash.

(2) To so much of claim 5 as may cover a gas meter, as specified in said claim, in which the pair of intermeshing gears, the casing forming an externally gas-tight chamber, the bearings, and the end wall having a conduit, as specified in said claim, are not provided at each end of said meter, and in which the teeth of the gears are not formed with substantial backlash and oppositely set as to backlash;

So that said claim will cover a gas meter, as specified in said claim, in which the pair of intermeshing gears, the casing forming an externally gas-tight chamber, the bearings, and the end wall having a conduit, as specified in said claim, are provided at each end of said meter, and in which the teeth of the gears are formed with substantial backlash and oppositely set as to backlash.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES.

Commissioner's Decision.

Ex parte Ballman and Evers.

Decided July 14, 1925.

1. Application—Division—Statutes Construed—Patent Authorized for Single Invention Only.

While no specific provision is made in the statutes for requirement of division, it was evidently the intent of the law (secs. 4884 and 4886–4889 R. S.) that a patent should be limited to a single invention.

2. Same—Same—When Proper in Reissue.

Where the original patent contained only generic claims, Held that division should be required in application for reissue thereof between claims specific respectively to different modifications.

[Affirmed by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia —— O. G. ——.]

Appeal from Examiners in Chief.

Application for patent for projecting apparatus filed August 4, 1920, Serial No. 401,276.

Mr. Paul Carpenter for the applicant.

Kinnan, First Assistant Commissioner:

The applicants have appealed from the decision of the Examiners in Chief affirming that of the Primary Examiner denying the allowance of claims 30, 31, and 36 to 45, inclusive. Claims 30 and 36 will serve for illustrative purposes:

30. A projecting apparatus comprising a source of light, an object, a reflector arranged to receive part of the rays emitted by said source, and means for reflecting another part of the rays emitted by said source upon said reflector, said reflector being constructed and arranged to concentrate on said object the rays received by it, and means for projecting an image of said object on a screen.

36. A projecting apparatus comprising an object to be projected, a projecting lens, an electric light bulb having part of its surface formed as a reflector and constructed and arranged to receive and concentrate the rays emanating from the filament on said object.

The references are: Welsh, 299,885, June 3, 1884; Crossley et al., 341,997, May 18, 1886.

This is an application for the reissue of a patent granted August 6, 1918, No. 1,275,120. The claims have been denied patentability upon two grounds: First, division was required between claims 30 and 31 on the one hand and 36 to 45 on the other. The first two claims were held specific to the construction shown in Fig. 9, while the claims in the second group were deemed specific to the arrangement disclosed in Fig. 13. The second ground of rejection relates to claims 36, 37, 41, and 42, and they were denied patentability over the prior art as exhibited in the references Welsh and Crossley et al. These latter claims were also denied allowance on the ground that they were functional. The Examiners in Chief found that the Crossley et al. patent was lacking as a reference for these claims 36, 37, 41, and 42, but sustained the rejection upon the patent to Welsh.

Appellants contend that the claims involved in the division differ merely in scope, but cover the same invention. They give a careful explanation as to the elements of each claim and seek to show that all the claims may be interpreted as reciting this general combination involved in the single inventive concept, and that each claim merely expresses in detail, but in the same general combination, a different one of the elements of the single invention. Reference is made, further, to the statement in the original patent that Fig. 13 may be modified to show the combined ellipsoid of other figures, including Fig. 9. Upon this basis appellants press the view that division should not be required.

It may well be that a single structure could be devised upon which all these claims would read, but it is not open to dispute that the application does not disclose such a structure. Rule 50 provides that—the drawing must show every feature of the invention covered by the claims.

The imaginary figure which might be devised in view of the original disclosure and the original statement of how it might be modified is not in the drawing. The two constructions of Figs. 9 and 13 are clearly intended modifications or different embodiments of the one generic feature of the invention.

[1, 2] Appellants invite attention to the holding of a former Commissioner in the case of Ex parte Van Nostrand, 194 O. G. 1141, which is to the effect that division should not be required in an application for reissue, and seek a withdrawal of the requirement even if it be held claims 30 and 31 are specific to one figure and the other group specific to another figure. The statutes do not specifically provide for division or the limitation of an application to a single invention; but a review of their language, especially sections 4884 and 4886 to 4889, makes it plain, and they have been heretofore so interpreted, that their intent is to authorize a patent only for a single invention. This explains clearly enough the failure in the statute relating to reissues to provide for a requirement of division. Rules 41 and 42 were established with the approval of the Secretary and have been in force for a long time and are deemed "not inconsistent with law," section 483. These rules make provision for requiring an application to be limited to a single invention except under certain conditions. In the instant case appellants presented in their parent application and obtained in their patent generic claims only. Had applicants presented claims specific to the two modifications disclosed in Figs. 9 and 13 in the original application, division would have been required. Had it not been required, however, it is believed the Examiner should not make such a requirement in the reissue application. Presenting such claims in the application for reissue raises the question of division under rules 41 and 42. If such a procedure were omitted, it would partially nullify such rules and would enable a patentee by reissuing his patent to obtain any number of claims each specific to a different modification when he could not obtain such a patent in the first instance. It is thought this procedure is not contemplated by the rules. The insistence of the Office that the reissue patent must conform, as to claims based upon different species, to the condition of the original patent is not forbidden by the statute. It is believed, in view of the foregoing, the Examiner was right in requiring division.

I am constrained to agree with the Examiners in Chief and the Examiner that claims 36, 37, 41, and 42 are functional in that they do not define sufficient structure. Certainly they do not define any structure not found in the references, especially the patent to Welsh, and should not be allowed. It may be they are intended to cover patentable subject matter; but that matter should be defined in concrete terms rather than in mere functional statements.

The decision of the Examiners in Chief is affirmed.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

PRESCOTT AND RUMMLER v. MICHELIN.

No. 1,874. Decided February 7, 1927.

1. INTERFERENCE—RIGHT TO MAKE CLAIM.

Where the claim to a wheel included the limitation that the nuts which hold the body portion on stubs projecting from the hub are formed to cooperate with the body so that they are held fast by the driving torque, Held that while the term "driving torque" does not appear in M.'s specification, M. clearly discloses the construction and adjustment of the nuts and bolts in such manner that they will automatically be held in place and tightened by the action of the driving torque, and consequently M. can make the claim.

2. SAME—RIGHT TO FOREIGN FILING DATE—DISCLOSURE IN FRENCH PATENT.

Where M. relied upon his filing date in France, and the French patent shows the same structure as his U. S. application, except that the former does not clearly show the holes in the wheels to be larger than the studs on the hub flanges, Held that in view of the French specification, the French patent discloses the invention in issue, and M. is entitled to his foreign filing date.

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. James T. Newton for Prescott et al.

Mr. Ernest Wilkinson for Michelin.

Before MARTIN, Chief Justice, and ROBB and VAN ORSDEL, Associate Justices.

VAN ORSDEL, J.:

Appellants, Prescott and Rummler, appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of Patents in an interference proceeding awarding priority of invention to appellee Michelin.

The issue is embraced in the following count:

In a wheel of the type described, the combination with a hub having a plurality of laterally extending studs, of a body mounted on said hub and a tire rim mounted on said body, and nuts on said studs engaging the body, said nuts being so formed and co-operating with the body so that they are held fast by the driving torque for holding said body on said hub and thereby causing said body and rim to run true and silently under varying driving stresses.

It appears that appellants filed their application December 12, 1919. Appellee filed in this country on April 16, 1920, and was accordingly made the junior party. Appellants filed a motion to dissolve on the ground that appellee's application did not support the count, and he therefore had no right to make the claim. This motion was denied. Michelin then moved to shift the burden of proof to appellants, basing his motion on a French patent, relying upon the provisions of the Nolan Act. This motion was granted by the Examiner of Interferences. The earliest date alleged by appellants in their preliminary statement was subsequent to the date of appellee's French application. The Examiner, therefore, issued an order against appellants to show cause why judgment should not be entered against them on the record. No showing was made or testimony taken, and judgment was accordingly entered.

The case is here on the right of appellee to make the claims, and also upon his right to the benefit of his French application or patent. Appellee's right to make the claim depends upon the formation of the nuts co-operating with the body so that they are held in fast position by the driving torque, holding the body tight on the hub, "thereby causing said body and rim to run true and silently under varying driving stresses."

Appellee in his application states as follows:

In order to prevent rattling, and to form a snug and firm joint, the bearing on the web plate for the bolts is provided with concave sockets, preferably in the form of zones of spheres to engage corresponding bosses on the fastening bolts and nuts, as shown in Figures 3 and 4. Moreover, the screw-threads on the opposite ends of the fastening bolts should be oppositely disposed, as shown, so that when the fastening nuts are screwed down tight any tendency of one nut to shake loose will cause the opposite nut to tighten on the screw, and thus both nuts will be automatically held tight in place. Moreover, the bolts and nuts should be so arranged that the nuts of a right-hand wheel should have right-hand threads, and the nuts of a left-hand wheel should have left-hand threads, whereby these nuts would tend automatically to set up tighter.

[1] While the term "driving torque" does not appear in appellee's specification, he clearly discloses the construction and adjustment of the nuts and bolts in such manner that they will automatically be held in place and tightened automatically by the action of the driving torque. It thus appears that appellee's disclosure clearly supports the claim and that he has a right to make it.

Coming to appellee's French patent, the only question is whether it discloses the invention of the issue. On this point the Examiner of Interferences said:

The French patent on which the moving party relies shows exactly the same structure in the drawings except that the drawings do not clearly show the holes in the wheels to be larger than the studs or bolts on the hub flanges; however, the specification which relates to this structure reads as follows: "These nuts have their bearing points rounded. This form provides an automatic locking when it is run for the wheel to play on the hub by reason of bad attachment; for this purpose the nuts on the left have a left-hand pitch and those on the right a right-hand pitch, the opposite of the ordinary axle nut."

[2] From this we think it clearly appears that the invention of the issue is disclosed in the French patent, which was issued long prior to appelants' alleged date of conception. The tribunals of the Patent Office were therefore fully justified in entering a judgment of priority in favor of appellee on the face of the record.

The decision of the Commissioner of Patents is affirmed.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

O'BRIEN v. BONELLI.

No. 1,926. Decided March 7, 1927.

INTERFERENCE—DELAY OF MORE THAN TWO YEARS IN COPYING CLAIMS FROM PATENT—SHOWING IN SUPPORT OF, INSUFFICIENT.

O'B., who copied the claims from B.'s patent more than two years after the patent was granted, filed an affidavit to show circumstances justifying the delay, which affidavit was held insufficient by the Commissioner. Held that there was no abuse of discretion in the Commissioner's ruling and that the order of the Examiner declaring the interference was void.

APPEAL from the Commissioner of Patents. Affirmed.

Mr. Joseph J. O'Brien pro se.

Before MARTIN, Chief Justice, ROBB, Justice, and GRAHAM, Presiding Judge U. S. Court of Customs Appeals.

MARTIN, C. J.:

This is an appeal in an interference proceeding. The invention relates to certain improvements in forms for structures for plastic material and methods of building continuous conduits. The controlling question in the instant appeal, however, does not require a detailed description of the involved inventions.

O'Brien filed his application on September 16, 1918; Bonelli filed on November 29, 1919. On January 17, 1922, no interference having been declared between the two applications in the meantime, a patent was granted to Bonelli upon his application. On August 21, 1924, notwithstanding that more than two years had elapsed after the date of Bonelli's patent without an interference proceeding, the Examiner instituted such a proceeding between the parties, O'Brien copying Bonelli's claims. On May 25, 1925, priority was awarded to O'Brien, but afterwards the Examiner vacated this award upon the ground that O'Brien had no right to maintain the interference, for the reason that more than two years had elapsed after the granting of Bonelli's patent, before the interference was instituted. O'Brien then filed an affidavit for the purpose of showing circumstances which would justify the delay, and moved that the Examiner's order be vacated. This motion was overruled by the Examiner, and also by the Commissioner of Patents, and priority was awarded to Bonelli. O'Brien undertook to appeal to the Board of Examiners in Chief, but the appeal was not entertained. He then appealed to this court.

The decisive question is whether O'Brien was entitled to be heard in the interference proceeding in view of the fact that more than two years had passed after the granting of Bonelli's patent, without the declaration of such an interference. This question is answered in the negative by Sundstrand v. Gubelmann, 335 O. G. 1079; 55 App' D. C. 200, wherein this court held that in the absence of special circumstances justifying the delay in copying claims from an issued patent, the two years' limitation applies, and there is no basis for the declaration of an interference. This question was held to be jurisdictional, such as could be raised at any time in the case. Under that authority we hold that the order of the Examiner declaring the interference was void, unless a showing was made of special circumstances justifying the delay. The Commissioner held that O'Brien's affidavit was insufficient to justify the delay, and we think there was no abuse of discretion in this ruling.

We are therefore of the opinion that O'Brien was not entitled to proceed with the interference under the circumstances, and we affirm the decision of the Commissioner of Patents.

Affirmed.

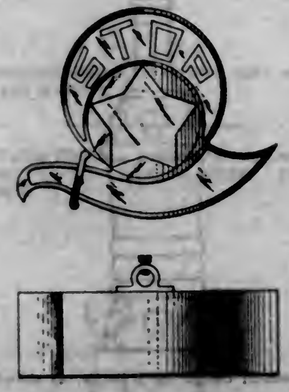
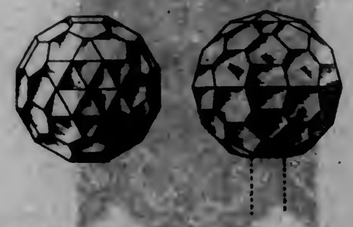
73,179. CURTAIN-POLE END. WILLIAM FREDERICH HOFMANN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to H. L. Judd Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 29, 1927. Serial No. 21,391. Term of patent 3½ years.



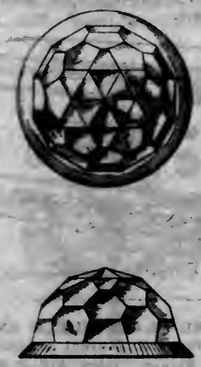
The ornamental design for a curtain pole end, as shown.

73,180. CURTAIN-POLE END. WILLIAM FREDERICH HOFMANN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to H. L. Judd Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 29, 1927. Serial No. 21,392. Term of patent 3½ years.



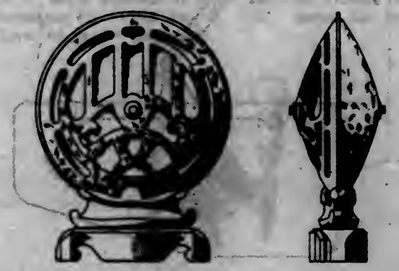
The ornamental design for a curtain pole end, as shown.

73,181. VEHICLE TAIL LAMP. ADOLPH W. JAEGER, Newark, N. J. Filed Apr. 15, 1927. Serial No. 21,614. Term of patent 14 years.



The ornamental design for a vehicle tail lamp, as shown.

73,182. KNOB OR SIMILAR ARTICLE. HENRY J. KAESCH, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Dec. 7, 1926. Serial No. 19,961. Term of patent 7 years.

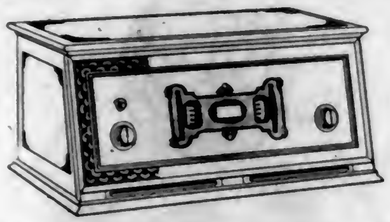


The ornamental design for a knob or similar article, substantially as shown.

73,183. KNOB OR THE LIKE. HENRY J. KAESCH, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Dec. 7, 1926. Serial No. 19,962. Term of patent 7 years.

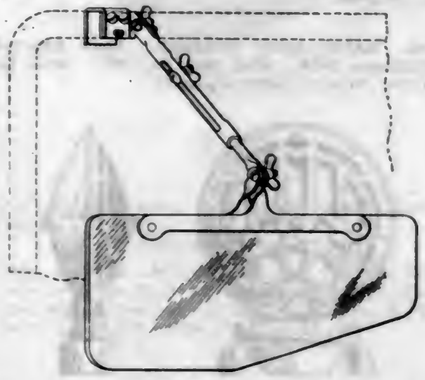
The ornamental design for a knob or the like, substantially as shown.

73,184. RADIO LOUD SPEAKER. JACOB KERSTEN, Kalamazoo, Mich. Filed Mar. 28, 1927. Serial No. 21,379. Term of patent 3½ years.



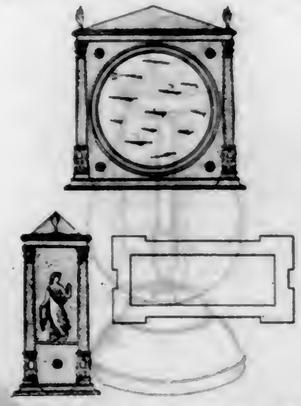
The ornamental design for a radio loud speaker, as shown.

73,185. SOAP DISPENSER. MARTIN W. LEVERNIER, Winnetka, Ill. Filed Oct. 2, 1926. Serial No. 19,231. Term of patent 7 years.



The ornamental design for a soap dispenser, as shown.

73,186. RADIOCABINET. WILLIAM TURNOR LEWIS, Racine, Wis., and MILTON MERWIN EELLS, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Western Coil & Electrical Co., Racine, Wis. Filed Sept. 20, 1926. Serial No. 19,117. Term of patent 14 years.



The ornamental design for a radiocabinet, as shown.

73,187. COMBINED GLARE SHIELD AND BRACKET THEREFOR. HARRY S. LIBBEY, Arlington, Mass., assignor to Edwin Stanley Libbey, Arlington, Mass. Filed Mar. 3, 1926. Serial No. 16,762. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for a combined glare shield and bracket therefor, substantially as shown.

73,188. CABINET FOR A RADIO LOUD SPEAKER. CHARLES A. LIPPI, Camden, N. J. Filed Mar. 25, 1927. Serial No. 21,321. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a cabinet for a radio loud speaker, substantially as shown.

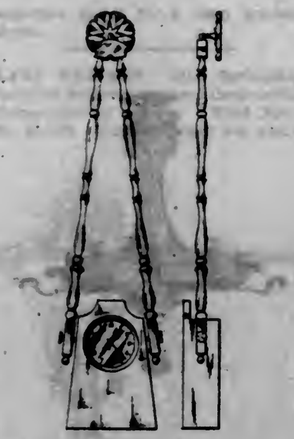
73,189. FLAG STAND. NICHOLAS LOANESS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 16, 1927. Serial No. 21,626. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a flag stand, as shown.

73,190. BOTTLE. GEORGE MEZITIS, Washington, D. C. Filed May 26, 1927. Serial No. 22,172. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for a bottle, as shown.

73,191. LACE. ALBERT E. NEWTON, Providence, R. I. Filed June 15, 1927. Serial No. 22,439. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for lace substantially as shown.

73,192. FLASH LIGHT. CHARLES OSBAN, Woodcliff, N. J., assignor to National Carbon Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 26, 1923. Serial No. 8,147. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for a flash light substantially as shown and described.

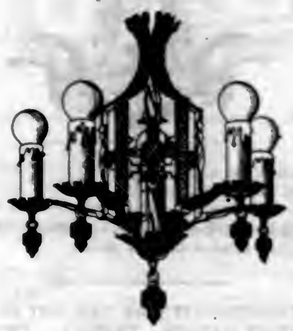
73,193. WALL CLOCK. JOHN H. PAGE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Jan. 31, 1927. Serial No. 20,550. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for a wall clock, as shown.

73,194. CHANDELIER OR ARTICLE OF SIMILAR NATURE. THORVALD J. PETERSEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Isidor Rosenblatt, New York, N. Y., doing business as Globe Lighting Fixture Manufacturing Co. Filed June 3, 1927. Serial No. 22,310. Term of patent 3½ years.

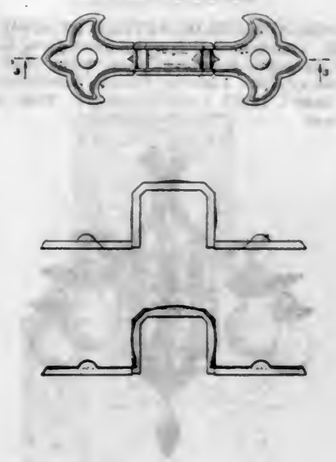
The ornamental design for a chandelier or article of similar nature substantially as shown.

73,195. LIGHTING-FIXTURE BRACKET OR ARTICLE OF SIMILAR NATURE. THORVALD J. PETERSEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Isidor Rosenblatt, New York, N. Y., doing business as Globe Lighting Fixture Manufacturing Co. Filed June 3, 1927. Serial No. 22,311. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a lighting fixture bracket or article of similar nature substantially as shown.

73,196. CHANDELIER OR ARTICLE OF SIMILAR NATURE. THORVALD J. PETERSEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Isidor Rosenblatt, New York, N. Y., doing business as Globe Lighting Fixture Manufacturing Co. Filed June 3, 1927. Serial No. 22,312. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a chandelier or article of similar nature substantially as shown.

73,197. CHANDELIER OR ARTICLE OF SIMILAR NATURE. THORVALD J. PETERSEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Isidor Rosenblatt, New York, N. Y., doing business as Globe Lighting Fixture Manufacturing Co. Filed June 3, 1927. Serial No. 22,313. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a chandelier or article of similar nature substantially as shown.

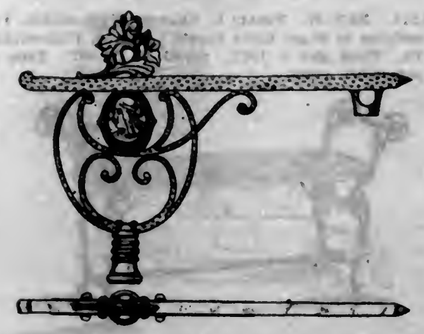
73,198. PIPE SUPPORT. MAX RACHLIN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,694. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for a pipe support, as shown.

73,199. LAMP-POST. GEORGE W. REYNOLDS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 13, 1927. Serial No. 21,570. Term of patent 14 years.

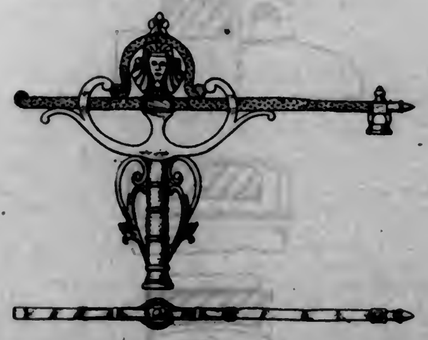
The ornamental design for a lamp post, as shown.

73,200. CHANDELIER OR ARTICLE OF SIMILAR NATURE. ISIDOR ROSENBLATT, New York, N. Y. Filed June 3, 1927. Serial No. 22,306. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a chandelier or article of similar nature substantially as shown.

73,201. ASH TRAY. ANNETTE ROSENSHINE, New York, N. Y. Filed May 27, 1927. Serial No. 22,205. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for an ash tray as shown.

73,202. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1927. Serial No. 21,719. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

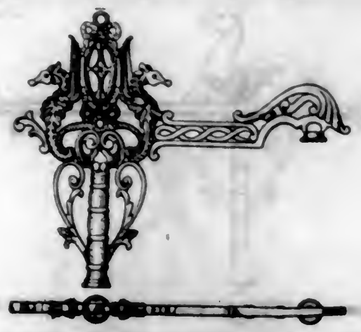
73,203. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1927. Serial No. 21,720. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,204. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1927. Serial No. 21,721. Term of patent 3½ years.

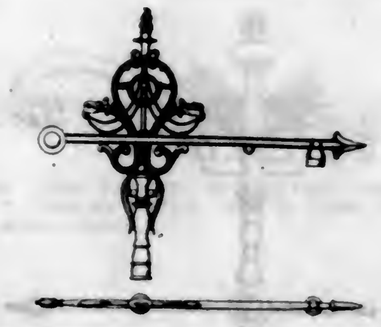
The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,205. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1927. Serial No. 21,722. Term of patent 3½ years.



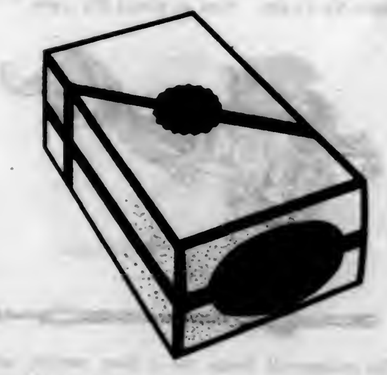
The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,206. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 27, 1927. Serial No. 21,753. Term of patent 3½ years.



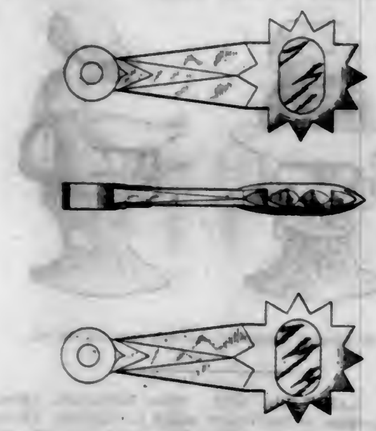
The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,207. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 27, 1927 Serial No. 21,754. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,208. LAMP BRACKET. MAX ROTHBART, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rembrandt Lamp Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 27, 1927. Serial No. 21,755. Term of patent 3½ years.

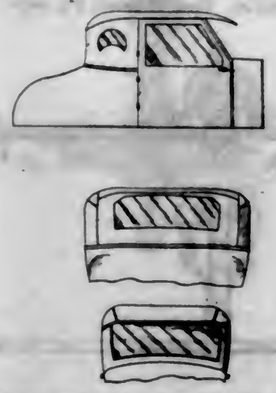


The ornamental design for a lamp bracket, substantially as shown.

73,209. PAPER CARTON. WARREN C. SCHILLING, Green Bay, Wis. Filed Apr. 6, 1927. Serial No. 21,486. Term of patent 14 years.

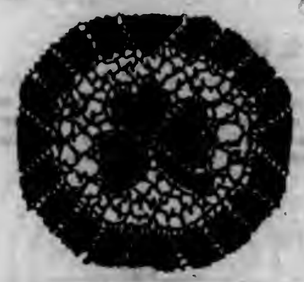
The ornamental design for a paper carton, as shown.

73,210. SIGNAL ARM. ANTONIO SESTO, San Jose, and JOHN LOIACONO, near San Jose, Calif. Filed Jan. 5, 1927. Serial No. 20,286. Term of patent 14 years.



The ornamental design for a signal arm as shown.

73,211. BENCH. PHILIP C. SHAPIRO, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Siegel Light Supply Company, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 9, 1927. Serial No. 21,887. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a bench as shown.

73,212. AUTOMOBILE BODY. CHARLES SPURGES, De Kalb, Ill. Filed Sept. 7, 1926. Serial No. 18,997. Term of patent 14 years.

73,213. LACE CENTER MOTIF. FRED TRUMAN, Pawtucket, R. I., assignor to North American Lace Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 21, 1927. Serial No. 22,124. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a lace center motif, substantially as shown.

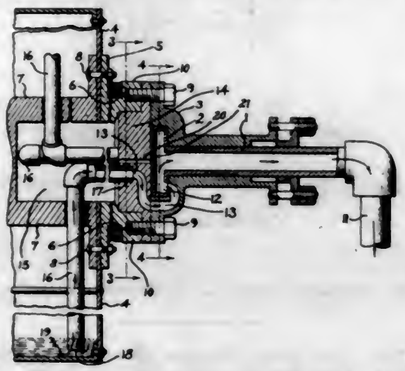
73,214. AUTOMOBILE ROADSTER BODY. MURRAY CUTHBERT TUNISON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 9, 1924. Serial No. 9,831. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for an automobile roadster body, as shown.

73,215. BOOK END. HOWARD H. WESSEL, New Britain, Conn., assignor to The Hart & Cooley Manufacturing Company, New Britain, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Feb. 4, 1927. Serial No. 20,615. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for a book-end as shown.

73,216. PENDANT. FREDERIC WHITAKER, Providence, R. I. Filed Mar. 22, 1927. Serial No. 21,249. Term of patent 3½ years.



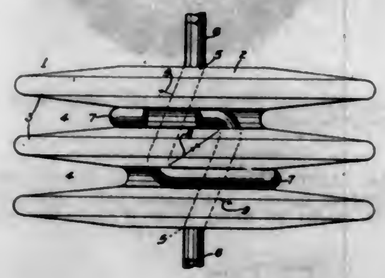
The ornamental design for a pendant substantially as shown.

PATENTS

GRANTED AUGUST 2, 1927.

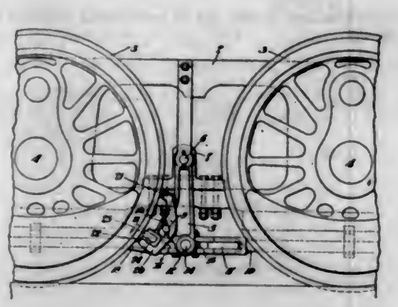
1,637,327. DRAINAGE OF STEAM CHAMBERS. CHARLES H. ATKINS, Palmer, Mass. Filed May 2, 1927. Serial No. 188,378. 8 Claims. (Cl. 34—4.)

1. In a device of the character described, a shaft having a chamber adjacent one end thereof, a steam drum on and revolvable with the shaft, means for introducing steam into the drum, a diaphragm plate closing the end of the chamber in the shaft and having a plurality of openings therethrough, a pipe secured in each opening of the diaphragm plate and terminating in an open end adjacent the periphery of the drum, a tubular slide valve having an opening aligned with the openings in the diaphragm plate, a valve seat for the tubular valve and means for pressing the valve against the valve seat to prevent escape of steam from around the valve.



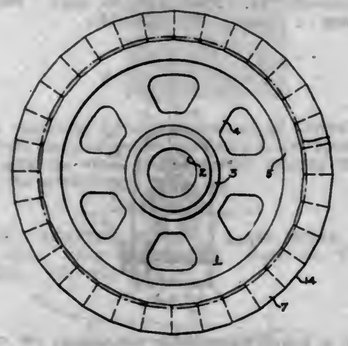
1,637,328. ELECTRODE FOR ELECTROLYTIC CONDENSERS. CHRISTIAN AALBORG, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 23, 1920. Serial No. 419,025. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—317.)

1. An electrode comprising folded sheet metal having slits therein providing wings and body portions, and stiffening means formed integrally with said sheet.



1,637,329. INSULATOR. CHRISTIAN AALBORG, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 15. 1922. Serial No. 543,908. 6 Claims. (Cl. 173—366.)

4. In an insulator, the combination with an insulating member comprising a plurality of laterally projecting portions and reduced portions between said projecting portions, of a terminal connector for each end of the insulator comprising a looped member disposed in openings in said insulating member and extending partially around one of said reduced portions.

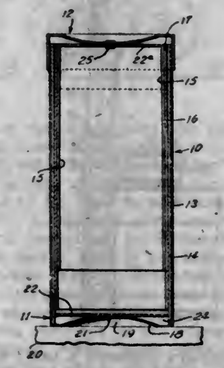


6. An insulator of the link type comprising an elongated body member having a plurality of longitudinally spaced laterally projecting portions and openings extending from the ends of the chamber to the spaces between the laterally projecting portions thereof.

1,637,330. WHEEL-MACHINING APPARATUS. FRANK M. A'HEARN and EDWIN FOSTER RICHARDSON, Greenville, Pa. Filed Sept. 22, 1926. Serial No. 137,003. 3 Claims. (Cl. 82—4.)

1. A cutting tool for re-turning the treads of wheels and tires on railway rolling stock having brake mechanism including brake heads having brake shoes mounted thereon, said tool comprising a body portion adapted to be substituted for said brake heads, said body portion having a projecting transversely slotted tool holding portion adjacent one end of its wheel engaging face, a cutter bit in the slot in said tool holding portion, and a heel portion adjacent the other end of said wheel engaging face of said body portion adapted to engage the wheel tread being turned to determine the position of the cutter bit relative to the wheel tread.

1,637,331. MOLDED GEAR. HARRY C. BIEBMAN, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 25, 1923. Serial No. 659,271. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—28.)

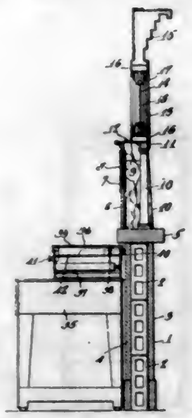


1. A composite article comprising a metal hub and a non-metallic rim integral therewith, said rim comprising a strip of fibrous sheet material helically wound about said hub and consolidated with a hardened binder, the strip being slit and twisted to provide a rim structure of uniform density.

1,637,332. QUICK DETACHABLE CAP. ADELBERT E. BRONSON, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Dill Manufacturing Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 12, 1920. Serial No. 358,298. 12 Claims. (Cl. 152—12.)

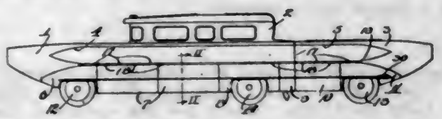
1. A cap for valve stems and the like comprising a shell having a closed end and an open end and a member within the shell and capable of sliding movement therein and adapted to directly secure the shell to the stem.

1,637,333. CONTAINER. DAVID E. CARPENTER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Dictaphone Corporation, Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 18, 1924. Serial No. 686,984. 8 Claims. (Cl. 206—15.)



1. A container for fragile tubular articles having a bottom and a member having a pliant edge portion to be engaged by the end of a tubular article received in the container, said member being resilient and being supported on said bottom at a point inwardly removed from said pliant edge portion which yields upon engagement of a tubular article therewith.

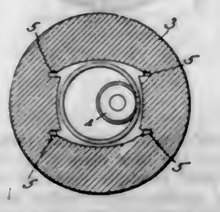
1,637,334. CLICK CHECK FOR REELS. PLINY CATUCCI, Newark, N. J. Original application filed Mar. 21, 1925, Serial No. 17,420. Divided and this application filed Jan. 28, 1927. Serial No. 164,197. 6 Claims. (Cl. 242—84.6.)



1. A click mechanism for fishing reels, comprising in combination with the back plate of a reel frame, a triangular click pawl pivotally mounted on said plate, a pair of mating springs each bearing upon one and the same edge of said pawl, and means for adjustably securing said springs on said plate whereby their pressure upon said pawl may be separately regulated.

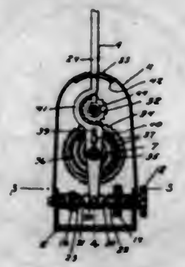
1,637,335. SCREEN INCLOSURE. WILLIAM GEORGE CHRYST, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Feb. 3, 1926. Serial No. 85,645. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—16.)

1. A screen inclosure including a base; a shelf on the base; an upright wall on the shelf; columns on the shelf spaced from the wall; an inverted channel having air ports and resting on the wall and the columns, and a superstructure secured to the channel.



1,637,336. SECTIONAL PONTOON. ALBERT HUGHES COOK, Evanston, Ill., assignor to Charles B. Cook, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 17, 1925. Serial No. 50,735. 16 Claims. (Cl. 115—1.)

1. The combination with an auto marine vehicle, of a pontoon unit hingedly supported thereon and comprising a plurality of interfitting, independently, air tight pontoon sections, and extensible bolt connecting means for rigidly securing said pontoon sections together to form the pontoon unit.

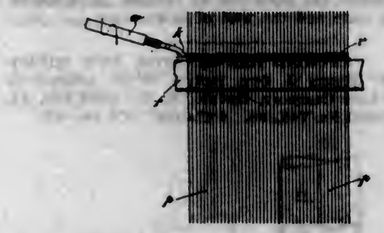


16. The combination with a plurality of interfitting pontoon sections, of extensible bolts adapted to connect a plurality of said sections together to form a unit.

1,637,337. METHOD OF MAKING WATCHCASES. HARRY COOK, Sag Harbor, N. Y., assignor to Joseph Fahys & Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,880. 4 Claims. (Cl. 29—179.)

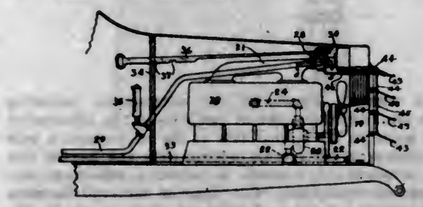
1. The method of making watch-case centers, which method consists in forming a substantially torus-shaped watch-case center blank, in arranging said blank within a die provided with a lug-forming recess, and finally in flowing the metal from the inturned flanges of said torus-shaped blank into the peripheral body thereof by a combined axial and radial expansion and in continuing the axial and radial expansion of the blank to flow the metal of said blank into said lug-forming recess.

1,637,338. POWER HOIST. ROBERT A. FONTAINE, Martinsville, Va. Filed Apr. 30, 1924. Serial No. 710,066. 7 Claims. (Cl. 192—139.)



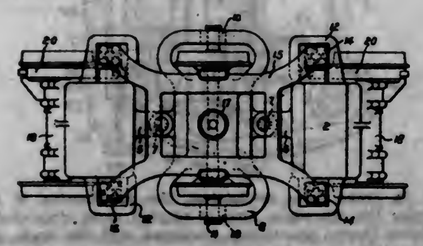
1. In a power transmission mechanism, the combination of a driven shaft, a drive shaft, gear connections between the shafts, a clutch mechanism for making or breaking the connection between the drive and driven shafts, a lever for controlling the clutch mechanism pivotally mounted with respect to the shafts, a member carried by the lever and movable thereon, a cam having a spiral groove in its face, the cam being carried by the driven shaft, and a stop element adjustably mounted on the cam and cooperating with the member carried by the lever.

1,637,339. MEANS FOR INSTRUCTING GOLF STROKES. MICHAEL J. GLENNON, Summit, and HARRY G. HIGHAM, Murray Hill, N. J. Filed Apr. 9, 1927. Serial No. 182,273. 3 Claims. (Cl. 273—35.)



1. A device for the instruction of golf strokes, comprising a base member, and a pair of laterally spaced longitudinally extending upstanding guide shoulders on said base adapted to define a guideway for the free passage of the head of a properly swung golf-club, and within which the ball to be addressed may be placed, said guide shoulders and the guideway defined thereby being inclined outwardly relative to the side of the base-member opposite which the user takes position.

1,637,340. ELIMINATION OF FIBROUS WASTE FROM MACHINES. EMIL GMINDER, Reutlingen, Germany. Filed Sept. 16, 1926, Serial No. 135,735, and in Germany Oct. 31, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 28—1.)

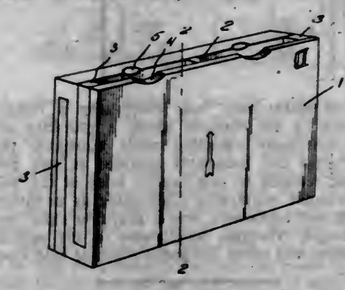


1. An apparatus for the elimination of fibrous flying waste from machinery, which includes a tool adapted to engage with the waste, and means for rotating the tool to form the waste into a roving.

1,637,341. HEATING SYSTEM. JAMES HOLAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Dec. 22, 1924. Serial No. 757,390. 1 Claim. (Cl. 237—12.3.)

In a motor vehicle having a water-cooled motor, a radiator, a circulating pump and system of connections whereby the water is circulated through the motor and radiator, the combination of a radiator in the body of the vehicle, a pipe for supplying hot water to the last-mentioned radiator connected to said circulating system at a point between the motor and the first-mentioned radiator, a valve at said point for directing the hot water from the motor either to the first-mentioned radiator or to said pipe, a return pipe from the second-mentioned radiator to the connection between the first-mentioned radiator and said pump, means for shutting off the flow of cooling air through the first-mentioned radiator, and operating means for said valve and the last-mentioned means extending into said body to a point accessible from the operator's station therein and whereby the flow of air through the radiator may be interrupted when said valve is positioned to direct the water into said pipe.

1,637,342. TRUCK STRUCTURE. HAROLD A. HOUSTON, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 10, 1925. Serial No. 61,715. 11 Claims. (Cl. 105—166.)

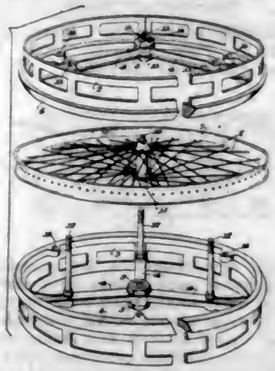


1. The combination, in a railway vehicle truck, of a plurality of wheel axles, motors journalled on some of said axles, and a frame portion for journalling the other of said axles, said frame portion being supported by said motors.

1,637,343. AUTOMOBILE LOCK. HENRY G. HUGHES, Mendon, Utah. Filed Aug. 11, 1926. Serial No. 128,682. 2 Claims. (Cl. 200—45.)

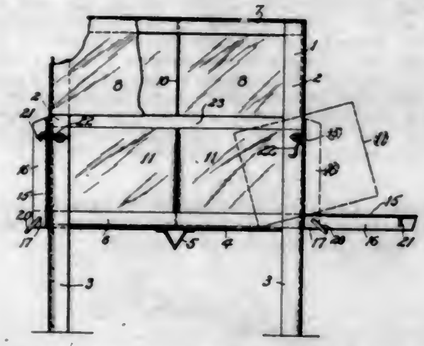
1. In a lock for automobiles the combination of a casing having holes bored therein with slots at right angles to each other in the peripheries of the holes; a plate secured in front of said casing, with holes and slots therein similar to the holes in said casing and in alignment therewith; an insulated cover over the rear of said casing having a central hole bored therethrough in alignment with the central holes in the casing and plate and with slots at right angles to each other in the periphery of said hole; dials operable in the holes in said plate with the rear side of each of greater diameter than the front side and having slots cut in the enlarged rear side of said dials through which guide members are slidable when all of the slots are in alignment; turning knobs on each of said dials with holes bored centrally therethrough; a switch post operated through the holes in said knobs; a switch attached thereto; contact members secured through said insulated cover adapted to be brought into contact with said switches by turning said posts; a locking sleeve operable through the central hole in said casing, plate and cover; and guide members carried in said sleeve, operable in the slots in the periphery of the holes in the casing, plate and cover, adapted to hold the locking sleeve rigid in the lock.

1,637,344. CARD HOLDER. GORDON H. KENNEY, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Sept. 23, 1926. Serial No. 137,282. 1 Claim. (Cl. 273—151.)



A card holder comprising a single block having recesses cut therein from opposite longitudinal edges, a central partition strip fitted into each recess, and end strips fitted into the end portions of the recesses, dividing them into individual card compartments each compartment being provided with finger notches to facilitate removal of the cards.

1,637,345. THE MANUFACTURE AND TRUING OF BUILT-UP WHEELS. GEORGE MCKENZIE, Finchley, London, England. Filed June 16, 1926, Serial No. 116,465, and in Great Britain June 17, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—87.)



1. In a jig for the manufacture and truing of built-up wheels, the combination of a pair of circular clamps between which the wheel rim may be gripped, a bevelled an-nular portion on the clamps adapted to engage the inner periphery of the wheel rim, and a support for the wheel spindle carried by each clamp adapted to locate the wheel spindle centrally of the wheel and to allow it to float freely in the axial direction during the tightening of the spokes, substantially as set forth.

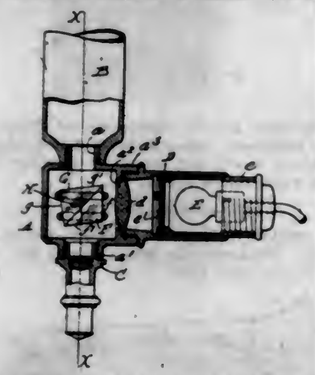
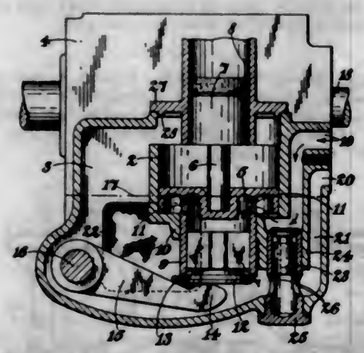
1,637,346. MULTIPLE HENS' NEST. JOHN W. MYERS, Quincy, Ill. Filed July 2, 1923. Serial No. 648,946. 3 Claims. (Cl. 119—45.)



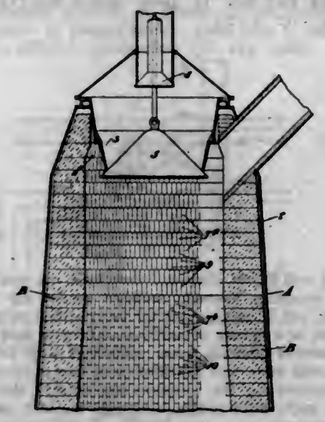
1. An all metal hens' nest comprising a rectangular casing open at its opposite sides, a plurality of rectangular containers affording nests insertable through the open sides and removably mounted in two rows in end to end relation in said casing, some of the walls of said rectangular containers functioning as partitions between adjacent containers, and a partition rigid throughout its height extending length-wise of the casing centrally thereof and above the upper edges of said nests.

1,637,347. MUFFLER FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. FREDERICK A. NELSON, Worcester, Mass. Filed Apr. 7, 1922. Serial No. 550,271. 6 Claims. (Cl. 137—160.)



1. A muffler for internal combustion engines, comprising a tube having a constriction therein with converging and diverging sections leading to and from said constriction, one of said sections serving as an inlet and the other as an outlet for exhaust gases, and a mute positioned in said outlet and tapered in the same direction as said outlet, said mute being spaced from the wall of said outlet and having parts cooperating with said outlet to deflect the gases flowing through the space between said mute and the wall of said outlet.

1,637,348. VERTICAL ILLUMINATOR FOR MICROSCOPES. HARRY G. OTT, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Spencer Lens Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Oct. 18, 1924. Serial No. 743,308. 9 Claims. (Cl. 88—40.)

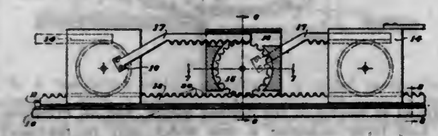


1. A vertical illuminator for microscopes, including means for admitting light at one side of the illuminator at an angle to the optical axis of the microscope, a pair of prisms arranged in said optical axis and having two faces arranged in contact, a partially reflecting continuous, microscopically thin film of material between said contacting faces and arranged at an angle to the optical axis to reflect light admitted at one side of the illuminator to the object, and through which light rays from the object may pass to the eye of the observer, the outer faces of the prisms being formed to cause light passing through said prisms and reflected from outer faces of said prisms to pass in directions other than perpendicular to said outer faces.

1,637,349. RELAY MECHANISM FOR VEHICLE BRAKES. FRANK GORDON PARNALL, Coventry, England, assignor of one-half to Triumph Cycle Company Limited, Coventry, England, a British Company. Filed Oct. 21, 1926, Serial No. 143,214, and in Great Britain Apr. 12, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—152.)

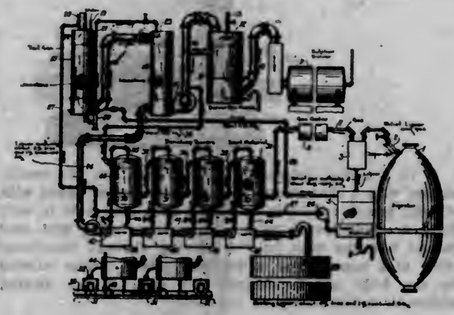
2. In brake relay mechanism, the combination of a cylinder through which fluid is adapted to be circulated, a piston therein operatively connected with the brake, a tubular extension of said piston projecting beyond said cylinder end, an inlet port for said fluid in the wall of said cylinder, a passage connecting the interior of said cylinder with the interior of said tubular extension, an exit port for said fluid in said extension, a valve adapted to regulate said exit port, and means forming part of a brake applying device for controlling the opening of said valve, substantially as set forth.

1,637,350. BLAST FURNACE. WILLIAM C. PARSONS, Swissvale, Pa. Filed Sept. 15, 1926. Serial No. 135,576. 3 Claims. (Cl. 266—25.)



1. The combination with a metallurgical surface, of a refractory lining composed of blocks, said blocks being arranged so that a major portion of their joint seams extend substantially parallel to the vertical axis of the furnace whereby the abrasion from stock entering and descending in the furnace is materially decreased, and the strength of the blocks is preserved.

1,637,351. CIRCUIT-INTERRUPTING DEVICE. KARL C. RANDALL, Edgewood Park, and HERMAN K. ANSINGH, Murrysville, Pa., assignors to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 30, 1921. Serial No. 456,881. 1 Claim. (Cl. 200—48.)

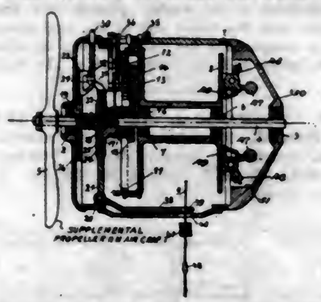


In an electrical protective and circuit-interrupting device, the combination with an elongated stationary contact member of substantially inverted channel-shape, of a relatively movable co-operating structure therefor comprising a rotatable supporting shaft exteading at substantially right angles to the said channel and a yieldable contact member formed and related to the stationary contact member to be readily guided into and out of engagement with the under side of the said channel member and to compensate for variations in the distance between the latter and the center line of the shaft.

1,637,352. MECHANICAL MEANS FOR TRANSMITTING POWER. RUSSELL J. REANEY, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, assignor to Reaney Limited, Ottawa, Canada. Filed Sept. 29, 1925. Serial No. 59,303. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)

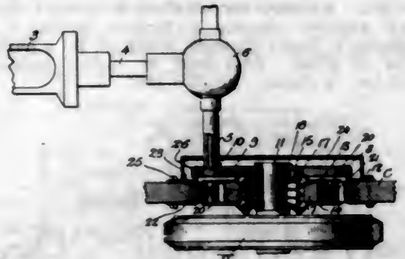
1. A mechanical means for transmitting power comprising a train of meshing gear and rack elements, said gears being encased in individual carriages to each of which, excepting the first in the train, is applied a rack adapted to mesh with the gear immediately preceding.

1,637,353. METHOD OF MAKING SULPHITE COOKING LIQUOR. GEORGE A. RICHTER, Berlin, N. H., assignor to Brown Company, Berlin, N. H., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Sept. 28, 1921. Serial No. 503,846. 4 Claims. (Cl. 23—130.)



1. A process of making a sulphite cooking liquor of high free SO_2 content, which comprises forming a raw acid liquid of relatively low free SO_2 content, passing gas rich in SO_2 upwardly through a series of masses of confined inert interstitial material, maintaining a supply pool of said liquor associated with each of said confined masses, simultaneously circulating said liquor from said pools downwardly through said confined masses of inert material associated therewith, and causing the liquor to flow progressively through the pools in opposite direction to the flow of the gas and at a rate ensuring the recirculation of the liquor from each pool through the corresponding tower, whereby such liquor is progressively increased in free SO_2 content.

1,637,354. ANTENNA REEL. KARL ROTTGARDT, Dahlen, near Berlin, Germany, assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 26, 1921, Serial No. 495,599, and in Germany Jan. 16, 1918. 10 Claims. (Cl. 242—99.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. A reel for retractile antennæ comprising a revoluble drum, an antenna wire adapted to be wound on said drum, driving means therefor, a clutch coupling said driving means to said drum, a lever for operating said clutch, said lever having a hole therein through which passes the antenna wire, a stop on said wire adapted to engage said lever and operate it to release said clutch when the antenna is wound to the desired length, and an extension on said lever engaging a cam which may be manually operated to engage and disengage said clutch.

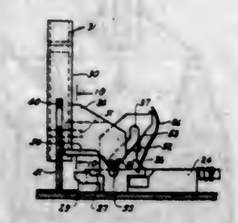
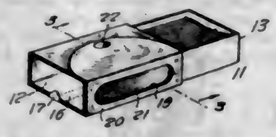
1,637,355. VEHICLE CONSTRUCTION AND SUSPENSION. BENJAMIN F. SEYMOUR, Washington, D. C. Filed June 22, 1920, Serial No. 390,827. Renewed Feb. 2, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 180—71.)



1. In a power driven vehicle construction, the combination with a chassisless body of stub axles equipped with wheels, means revolubly mounting each stub axle in said body, a resilient sustaining element cooperating with said means and the stub axle, a driving element associated with said means, and a common power means carried by the body and connected with each of the driving elements, substantially as set forth.

1,637,356. PROTECTIVE SYSTEM FOR MOTORS. WALTER H. SMITH, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 1, 1925. Serial No. 34,066. 9 Claims. (Cl. 171—118.)

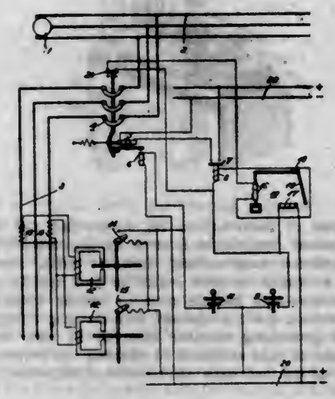


1. The combination with a motor-generator set, of a main source of power, an auxiliary source of power, means for connecting the generator across the auxiliary source of power to operate the generator as a motor, and means sensitive to the flow of current in the generator disposed to connect the motor across the main source of power when it rotates at a predetermined speed.

1,637,357. PAPER-FASTENING DEVICE. SVEN SVENSON, Fond du Lac, Wis., assignor of one-half to Michael K. Reilly, Fond du Lac, Wis. Original application filed Feb. 4, 1924, Serial No. 690,397, now Patent No. 1,610,362, dated Dec. 14, 1926. Divided and this application filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 147,937. 8 Claims. (Cl. 1—2.1.)

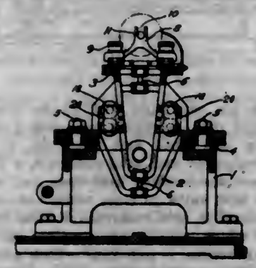
1. In a tool of the character described, the combination with a manually operable member guided for vertical movement and a slide guided for longitudinal reciprocable movement, of a spring normally maintaining said member in an elevated position, arms connected with said member and said slide and provided with cam means formed for interaction for the reciprocation of said slide in accordance with the movements of said member, said slide being retracted upon the downward movement of said member, a forming die guided for vertical movement and provided with a resiliently yieldable support from said member, said die including laterally spaced legs having extremities which, in the normally elevated position of said member, are spaced above a portion of said slide and are adapted to receive such portion between them prior to its retraction and means for feeding wire transversely of said slide and positioning said wire in the advanced position of said slide beneath said legs to be acted on thereby.

1,637,358. SAFETY-MATCH-BOX HOLDER. JOHN Q. TAYLOR, Media, Pa. Filed Nov. 2, 1926. Serial No. 145,815. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—31.)



1. A holder for safety-match boxes, comprising an open-ended casing in which the match box fits more or less snugly, members slidably mounted in one wall of the casing and terminally formed to overlie the edge of the match-box cover and project into the path of movement of the match container when such match box is in the casing, and spring means to exert return pressure on either member when operated.

1,637,359. SHUTTLE-TENSION DEVICE. ALEXANDER TEMPLETON, Paterson, N. J. Filed Jan. 24, 1927. Serial No. 162,944. 7 Claims. (Cl. 139—214.)

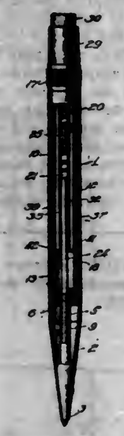


1. A loom shuttle including, with a shuttle body and means to support therein an endwise-delivering weft-thread package with its longitudinal axis lengthwise of the shuttle, spaced thread-guides to be bridged by the thread arranged in endwise spaced relation to said package and in a line transverse of said axis, and a movable thread-guide engaged by the part of the thread bridging the spaced thread-guides and spring-urged from the latter lengthwise of said axis and movable toward them under the pull of the thread.

1,637,360. CIRCUIT-INTERRUPTING SYSTEM. HENRY A. TRAVERS, Forest Hills Borough, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 9, 1921. Serial No. 483,417. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—294.)

1. In a circuit-interrupter-controlling system, the combination with an interrupter embodying a closing coil, of means for completing an energizing circuit for the closing coil and two switches for controlling said means, one of said switches being actuated to its open position by an electrically operated relay device after each closing of the interrupter and maintained in its open position by holding means embodied in said relay device as long as the other of said switches is maintained in its closed position.

1,637,361. DAMPING DEVICE. WILLIAM E. TRUMPLER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 25, 1926. Serial No. 52,370. 8 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)

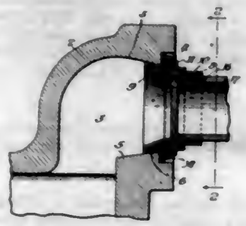


1. A balancing machine comprising a stationary base and a vibratory bed, and electromagnetic damping means for said bed, said means comprising electromagnets having toothed pole pieces secured to said base and bed and adapted to dampen the vibratory movement of said bed without materially influencing the frequency of vibration thereof.

1,637,362. MOLDED PANEL AND METHOD OF MAKING SAME. FRANK H. TUPPER, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 29, 1924. Serial No. 702,727. 15 Claims. (Cl. 18—56.)

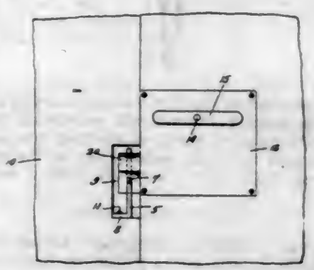
5. A laminated article comprising a felted cotton impregnated with a phenolic condensation product, covering layers of impregnated wood veneer and a molded bead in one of said layers.

1,637,363. MECHANICAL PENCIL. JOHN C. WAHL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Wahl Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 17, 1925. Serial No. 44,191. 13 Claims. (Cl. 120—18.)



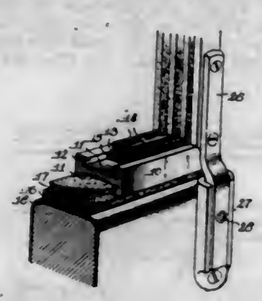
1. In a mechanical pencil, a casing, an actuating tube, an actuating member longitudinally movable in said tube, and a pair of elongated members insertible into said tube to straddle said actuating member and having sides and bottoms cooperating with said tube to define a lead magazine.

1,637,364. VEHICLE BUMPER. ALFRED WEILAND, Neshanic, N. J., assignor to Pneumatic Appliances Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 19, 1926. Serial No. 149,402. 6 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



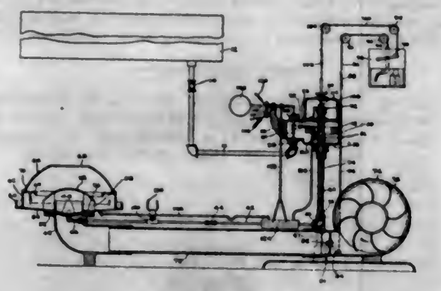
1. A vehicle bumper comprising an impact bar, supports for connection to a vehicle frame, cushioning elements interposed between said impact bar and said supports, and guard members slidably mounted respectively on said cushioning elements and joined at one end to the respective ends of said impact bar.

1,637,365. SPUD FOR WASTE CONNECTIONS AND THE LIKE. KARL A. WERNLE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to James B. Clow & Sons, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 15, 1926. Serial No. 109,448. 3 Claims. (Cl. 285—50.)



1. In a connection assembly of the character described, a spud having a shank portion and an outwardly inclined end portion adapted to be disposed within an opening in a ceramic vessel or the like, the opening in said vessel being of slightly greater diameter at the mouth thereof than the greatest cross sectional dimension of the spud and increasing in diameter inwardly for a distance sufficient to afford a substantial abutment for a substantial portion of the length of the inclined portion of the spud and said opening at the exterior portion of the mouth thereof being substantially polygonal in shape, a resilient member adapted to be disposed between the inclined portion of the spud and the adjacent walls of the vessel, means for clamping the resilient member between the inclined portion of the spud and the adjacent walls of the vessel, and a polygonal member engaged in the polygonal shaped portion of the mouth of said opening and having means non-rotatively engaged with said spud for holding said spud against rotation in said opening.

1,637,366. DOOR LATCH. GUSTAV A. WESTFIELD, Salem, Oreg. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,218. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—223.)

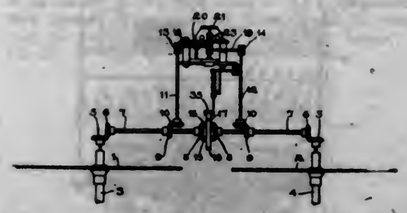


A latch structure of the class described including, a casing, an operating shaft journaled transversely of the casing, a crank arm extending from the operating shaft, a link engaged with the crank arm, an operated shaft journaled longitudinally in the casing, a crank arm extending from the operated shaft and engaged with the link, a coil spring disposed about the operated shaft having one end fixed to the casing and the other end fixed to the crank arm extending from the operated shaft, a pawl on the outer end of the operated shaft, and a striker plate having a notch therein for the reception of the pawl, the entrance to the notch being provided at its lower edge with an inclined surface leading upwardly thereto, said operated shaft and said pawl being disposed in relation to each other so that said operated shaft will enter the notch first dragging the pawl behind it to engage the inclined surface to swing the pawl and the operated shaft so that said pawl may enter the notch fully.

1,637,367. AUTOMOBILE INCLOSURE STRUCTURE. JOSEPH B. ZIMMERS and OLLIE L. HERRON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 26, 1924. Serial No. 702,011. 1 Claim. (Cl. 296—45.)

An article of manufacture for supporting and sealing a transparency comprising a strip having oppositely disposed duplicate longitudinal channels with restricted openings, a flexible member seated in and held in one of said channels—said flexible member having longitudinal rabbets wherein the transparent member may function, a non-sound producing member inserted in and held by the external of said channels to cushion the structure at the point of contact with an associated structure.

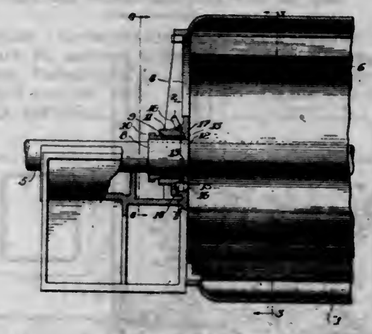
1,637,368. APPARATUS FOR SUPPLYING FUEL OIL TO FURNACES. ASHLEY C. BENNETT, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Irene E. Bennett, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed June 25, 1923. Serial No. 674,680. 6 Claims. (Cl. 158—36.)



1. Apparatus for supplying fuel oil to furnaces comprising a storage tank, a casing enclosing a reservoir, a pipe connecting said tank and reservoir, a valve controlling the passageway into said reservoir, a float in said reservoir, connections between said float and valve which normally cause said valve to close when the oil reaches a predetermined level in said reservoir, a tube leading from said reservoir which carries off surplus oil when said valve fails to function, a pan into which said tube discharges, a member positioned to force said valve into closed position when weight is applied to the member, means for suspending said pan from said member, a burner, and a pipe connecting said reservoir with said burner.

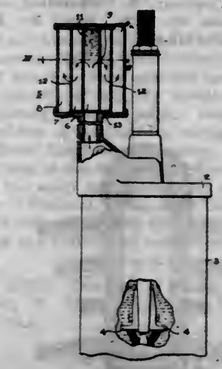
1,637,369. CONTROL DEVICE FOR HEATING APPARATUS. EDGAR P. BOGAN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 19, 1925. Serial No 63,447. 5 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

2. In a control device for heating apparatus, the combination of a separate member having a longitudinal slide therein, a housing secured thereto, having longitudinal guide ways, a slide member in said guide ways, a chain secured to one end of said slide having one end operatively connected to a regulating device on the heating apparatus, an electro-magnet at the top of said slide, an armature normally held away from said magnet, a trip having one arm engaging said slide and the other engaging said armature, means for energizing said magnet to release the slide from said trip for closing the regulating device, and means for automatically deenergizing said magnet when said slide is in its lower position.



1,637,370. VOLT-AMPERE-HOUR METER. GEORGE ARTHUR CHERTHAM, Manchester, England, assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 19, 1922, Serial No. 582,900, and in Great Britain Aug. 20, 1921. 5 Claims. (Cl. 171—34.)

5. The combination with a plurality of meters adapted to operate accurately between predetermined different ranges of values of a quantity to be measured, indicating means, and a planetary gear system actuated by the meters for controlling the connection of the meters to the indicating device.



1,637,371. STUFFING-BOX VENT. RALPH C. ENYART, Connersville, Ind., assignor to The P. H. & F. M. Roots Company, Connersville, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Nov. 15, 1923. Serial No. 674,821. 8 Claims. (Cl. 230—205.)

1. In pumps and the like, the combination of a casing having an inlet and an outlet, a shaft extending exteriorly of the casing, a pump member secured to the shaft within the casing, a stuffing box surrounding the shaft, the casing being formed with a passage extending from the stuffing box to the inlet side of the casing and the passage having an opening exteriorly of the casing, and means normally closing the opening.

1,637,372. BAFFLING AND SEPARATING STRUCTURE. OTTO H. ESCHHOLZ, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 8, 1923. Serial No. 617,762. 3 Claims. (Cl. 133—100.)

1. In a baffling and separating structure, a passageway communicating with a liquid-containing chamber, a plurality of separating chambers communicating with openings in said passageway, said openings being so located in said passageway that liquid thrown into said passageway by an expanding gas tends to move beyond said connecting openings without opposing the escape of the propelling gas through said openings.

1,637,373. WORK FEED FOR SEWING MACHINES. WILBUR H. FISHER, Ottawa, Ill., assignor to A. Stein & Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 27, 1922. Serial No. 577,789. 7 Claims. (Cl. 112—2.)

1. The combination in a sewing machine; a movable work holder, a work holder guide assembly, one guide element of which has substantially universal movement in a horizontal plane and is connected with the work holder, said element being formed with an opening corresponding in shape to the design of stitching required, a detachable cover plate for said element, a cam plate mounted on the under side of the cover plate and having the same general shape but smaller in size than the opening in the said universally movable element, and propelling means for said element operatively engaging the same with the opening therein and engaging the cam plate to move said element in a path corresponding to the configuration of the cam plate and the opening in said element.

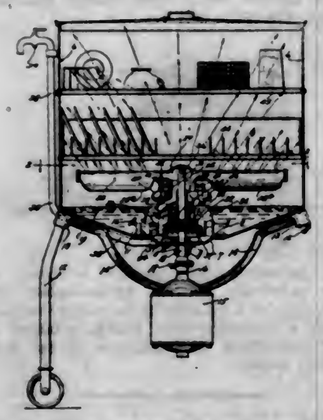
1,637,374. INSULATOR. CHARLES LE G. FORTESCUE, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 29, 1922. Serial No. 571,752. 5 Claims. (Cl. 173—318.)

1. An insulator comprising terminal members, a tensioned member connected therebetween and a second member disposed between said terminal members, said second mmber being permitted of operative positioning by reason of displacement of said terminal members in response to the tensioning of the tensioned member.

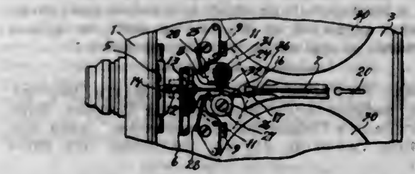


2. A tubular insulator structure comprising end members, a tensioned core member secured adjacent to its ends to said end members and a member disposed between the end members under compression therefrom, said core member being tensioned by pulling said end members oppositely to permit the reception of said compression member.

1,637,375. LAMP AND BRACKET THEREFOR. JOSEPH GALAMB, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Ford Motor Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 10, 1923. Serial No. 667,596. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—131.)

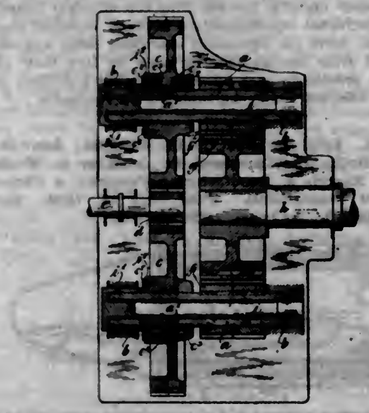
1. In a lamp, a substantially flat back member forming a combined license plate holder bracket and lamp back, a tubular body member having retaining means at its outer end, a cup shaped lens member of transparent material within said body, a translucent colored lens member, disposed against the bottom of the cup lens and means for securing said body member to the back member, adapted to press the translucent member against the cup lens and the cup lens against the back member by the engagement of the retaining means with the translucent member.

1,637,376. DISHWASHING MACHINE. JAMES J. GIBNEY, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Aug. 29, 1924. Serial No. 734,907. 12 Claims. (Cl. 141—9.)



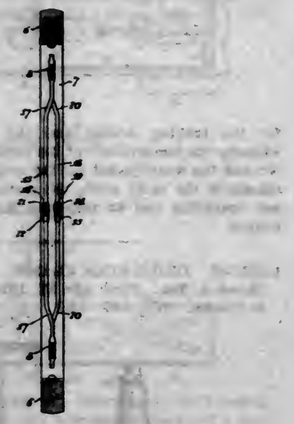
1. In a dish washing machine, a tank, a rotary sprayer within the tank, a pump receiving water from the tank and delivering the same to said sprayer, a motor with connections for driving said pump, frictional driving means between said pump and sprayer, and means for braking said sprayer proportionately to an increase in speed of said motor.

1,637,377. PELLET-FORMING APPARATUS. ADOLF HEICKE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Armour & Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Jan. 22, 1926. Serial No. 82,158. 8 Claims. (Cl. 83—91.)



1. In a device of the character set forth, a heated receptacle having an apertured bottom, a plurality of isolated tubular nipples each supplied by an aperture, and means to vary the effective size of the apertures.

1,637,378. MOTION-PICTURE MECHANISM. ALBERT S. HOWELL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Bell & Howell Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 21, 1925. Serial No. 70,449. 7 Claims. (Cl. 88—17.)



1. In a motion picture mechanism the combination of a revoluble film sprocket, a guide for retaining film thereon, means carrying the sprocket for movement into and out of film retaining relation with the guide, a spur gear fast on the sprocket, a second spur gear meshing with said first gear for driving the sprocket and disposed with its axis in a plane passing through the axis of said first mentioned gear and normal to said movement of the sprocket and maintaining engagement with said first mentioned gear in said movement of the sprocket.

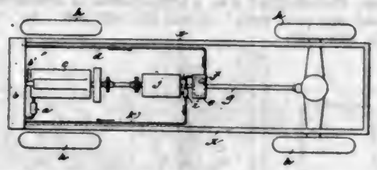
1,637,379. RESILIENT GEARING. ROBERT JENSEN, Frederiksberg, near Copenhagen, Denmark, assignor to F. L. Smidth & Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Sept. 22, 1924, Serial No. 738,874, and in Denmark Sept. 29, 1923. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

1. Gearing comprising a driving pinion, a plurality of gears in engagement with said pinion, a plurality of hollow shafts on which said gears are respectively mounted, and a plurality of torsion members within the shafts respectively and operatively connected at one end with the shaft and at the other end with the gear.

1,637,380. LOOM HARNESS. JACOB KAUFMANN, Elkins Park, Pa., assignor to Steel Heddle Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 20, 1923. Serial No. 633,360. 10 Claims. (Cl. 139—92.)

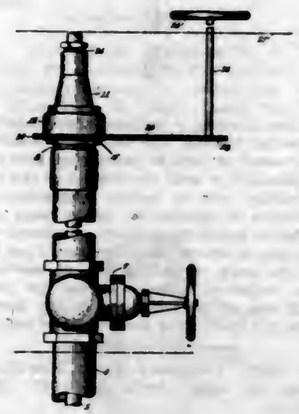
1. In a loom harness, a harness frame, beddle supporting bars carried thereby, and individual heddles formed of thin flat metal or wire mounted upon said supporting bars in a plurality of sets, the heddles of one set having warp controlling eyes at certain longitudinal locations and the heddles of another set having warp controlling eyes at different longitudinal locations, whereby the warp controlling eyes of one set of heddles are in one horizontal plane and the warp controlling eyes of another set are in another horizontal plane, and the eye portions of one of said sets of heddles being in the same vertical plane as the eye portions of another set of heddles.

1,637,381. SAFE. CHARLES F. KLOSS, New Haven, Conn. Filed Jan. 29, 1925. Serial No. 5,627. 20 Claims. (Cl. 109—8.)



3. A safe structure provided with a storage compartment and a hollow wall upon each side and the back thereof, a relatively shallow tube located in the hollow of each of said walls adjacent the exterior of the same, said tubes being adapted to contain a vaporising fluid and to communicate with the hollow of the wall within which they are located, and communicating at their lower ends with reservoirs containing a vaporising liquid.

1,637,382. COOLING SYSTEM. AUGUST H. LEIPERT, New York, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 19, 1926. Serial No. 82,229. 1 Claim. (Cl. 168—264.)



In a motor vehicle having an internal combustion engine and a drive shaft, in combination, a cooling system for the engine comprising a radiator, a water-jacket surrounding the internal combustion engine, a pump, connections between the radiator, the water-jacket and the pump whereby water may be circulated through the cooling system for the engine, braking devices for the vehicle, a water-jacket surrounding said braking devices, a second pump, said pump being driven by the drive shaft of the vehicle and independently of the operation of the engine, and connections between the radiator, the water-jacket for the braking devices and the second named pump, whereby the temperature of the cooling water in the radiator and the water-jacket for the engine is maintained substantially the same while the motor is under no load or not operating and at full load during operation of the vehicle.

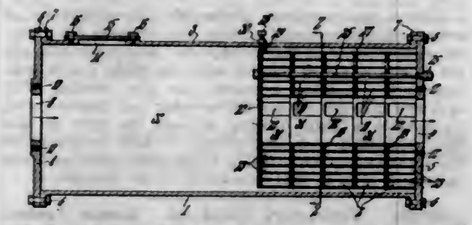
1,637,383. DRILL-STEM CLAMP. GERALD R. LIVERGOOD, Houston, Tex. Filed Apr. 17, 1924. Serial No. 707,081. 9 Claims. (Cl. 166—14.)

1. In well drilling apparatus of the rotary type, the combination with the rotary drill pipe and the surrounding stationary casing, of a support applicable to the casing and provided with horizontal shoulders spaced one above the other, a clamp sleeve having an outstanding flange confined between said shoulders and a compressible conical gripping portion surrounding the pipe and expansible when relieved of pressure to permit the pipe to rotate freely therein, a contracting sleeve surrounding the conical portion of the clamp sleeve, said contracting sleeve being guided by the stationary support for movement over the clamp sleeve and adapted to be supported by said stationary support in position to leave the clamp sleeve free of the rotating pipe and means for shifting the contracting sleeve with respect to the support and the stationary casing to cause the clamp sleeve to engage with and act as a brake on the pipe.



1,637,384. COPYHOLDER FOR TYPEWRITERS. GEORGE E. MARLATT, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Feb. 10, 1925. Serial No. 8,188. 21 Claims. (Cl. 120—32.)

1. The combination, in a copy holder, of a rotatable copy-carrying drum, a clutch for mechanically turning said drum, and a structure permitting said drum to be turned direct-manually in a selected direction regardless of said clutch, said structure comprising a hollow shaft on which said drum and said clutch are mounted, a ball-like brake secured to said hollow shaft at opposite ends of said drum and serving to cause said drum and said hollow shaft to turn in unison under the influence of said clutch, a bearing shaft on which said hollow shaft turns, and means supported on said bearing shaft for holding the elements of said clutch normally separated.

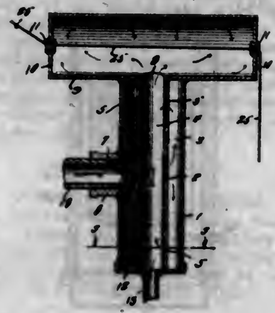
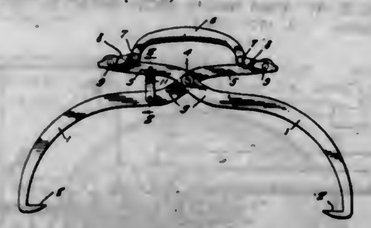
1,637,385. SILENCER. HIRAM PERCY MAXIM, Hartford, Conn., assignor to The Maxim Silencer Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Jan. 25, 1923. Serial No. 615,434. 10 Claims. (Cl. 137—160.)



1. In a device of the character described, a structure providing a central chamber surrounded by a plurality of annular chambers of different diameters one outside of the other in series, the circumferential wall of each chamber having a radially directed port at one side only thereof opening directly into the adjacent chamber for unobstructed communication between adjacent chambers, said ports for successive chambers being angularly displaced from one another by more or less than 180° so as to provide in each annular chamber a divided passage of unequal length between successive ports.

1,637,386. SHELLAC-VISCOSITY TESTER. JOHN RUSSELL MCCLAIN, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 13, 1924. Serial No. 719,740. 7 Claims. (Cl. 265—11.)

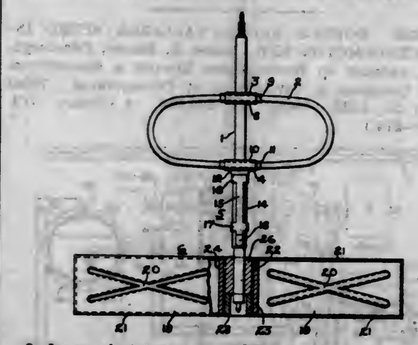


1. A testing apparatus for determining viscosity which comprises a plate provided with a receptacle in one portion thereof, said receptacle having an elongated channel communicating therewith, and a cover for retaining heat in said plate.

1,637,387. STEAM TUBE AND PIPING FOR TEXTILE MACHINERY. OWEN F. MCENANEY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 11, 1926. Serial No. 154,250. 6 Claims. (Cl. 28—59.)

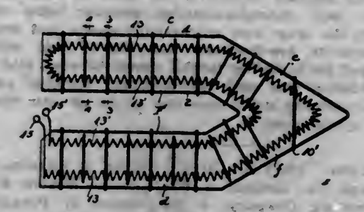
1. A steam tube for use on textile machinery of the class described, comprising a pair of spaced vertical tubes one arranged within the other, a horizontal tube having thread guides mounted in opposite ends thereof, and the inner vertical tube having a plurality of apertures for the flow of steam from the annular chamber surrounding said tube to the interior thereof, said inner tube being in communication at one end with the horizontal tube, and being in communication at the other end with a discharge pipe, and means for the inflow of steam to the annular chamber between the respective spaced vertical tubes.

1,637,388. TONGS. JOHN ANTON NELSON, Bertrand, Nebr. Filed Apr. 21, 1926. Serial No. 103,577. 2 Claims. (Cl. 294—118.)



1. A pair of tongs, comprising arched jaws having their outer ends formed with inwardly extending prongs and their opposite ends arranged at different angles and disposed in lapping relation and pivotally connected, said angle portions merging into oppositely directed straight arms, a substantially U-shaped yoke arranged around and pivoted to the end of each arm, a substantially U-shaped handle having its ends pivoted to the yokes and a spring catch fixed to one of the arms and adapted for interlatching engagement with one of the jaws when the handle is moved in the direction of the jaws.

1,637,389. AERIAL PROPULSION. PETER PETERSON, Berkeley, Calif. Filed Dec. 1, 1925. Serial No. 72,471. 1 Claim. (Cl. 170—172.)



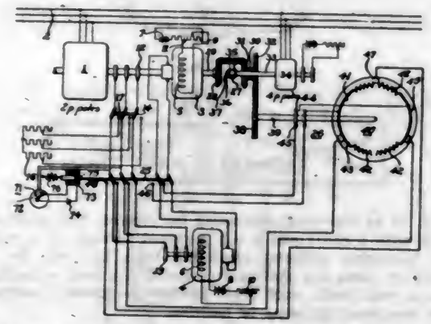
An aeroplane propeller comprising two separable plates secured to each other having a steam conduit in each blade and a chamber in the hub closed on one side and adapted to open into the propeller shaft on the other, and tangential branches from said conduits leading to the rear edges of the propeller blades each having a restricted portion opening into an enlarging funnel discharge nozzle on the edge of the blade.

1,637,390. ELECTRICAL MEASURING INSTRUMENT. RAYMOND T. PIERCE, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 8, 1923. Serial No. 616,786. 9 Claims. (Cl. 171—95.)

2. In an electrical measuring instrument, the combination with a shaft and a coil mounted thereon, of a body of insulating material extending from the coil for a distance along the shaft and a conducting lead extending along said body, said lead having an integral portion for mounting the same in position.

1,637,391. ELECTRIC HEATING STRUCTURE. THOMAS C. RUSSELL, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 23, 1926. Serial No. 124,303. 11 Claims. (Cl. 219—19.)

1. In an electric heating structure, the combination of a sheet metal supporting frame having slots cut in from its edges, bars of electrical insulating and heat resistant material set in said slots to be thereby supported, said bars having slits extending inwardly from their side edges, and a resistance conductor in the form of a wire helix engaged in said slits to be thereby supported and insulated from said frame.



1,637,392. COMBINED RESILIENT SUSPENSION AND TRANSMISSION. BENJAMIN F. SEYMOUR, Washington, D. C. Filed June 2, 1924. Serial No. 717,401. 12 Claims. (Cl. 152—45.)

5. In a combined resilient transmission and bearing for vehicle wheels, the combination of a hub portion and a rim portion, a disk carried by the hub portion at its inner end, a central cone element fixed to the hub portion adjacent said disk, an inner side plate carried by the wheel rim portion and bearing against said disk, diametrically opposed cone elements supported on said disk, additional diametrically opposed cone elements arranged substantially at right angles to said first-mentioned cone elements and carried by said inner side plate, a bearing element carried in bearing relation against the inner side plate, an apertured member cooperating with the cone elements, and a spring member engaging the apertured member for yieldingly maintaining in position the respective parts, substantially as set forth.

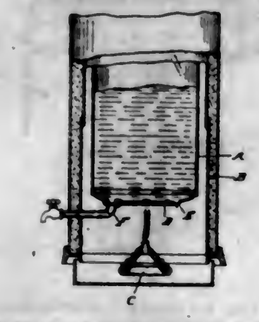
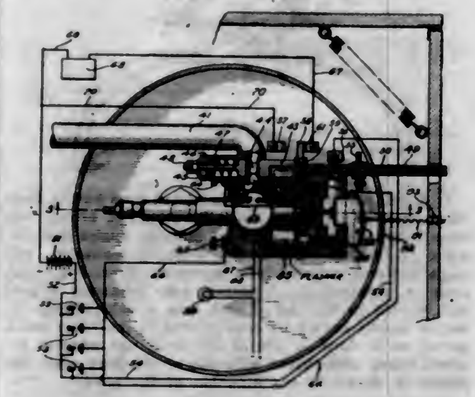
1,637,393. DOUBLE-RANGE-VARIABLE-SPEED INDUCTION-MOTOR SET. EBROL B. SHAND, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 21, 1923. Serial No. 633,666. 4 Claims. (Cl. 172—274.)



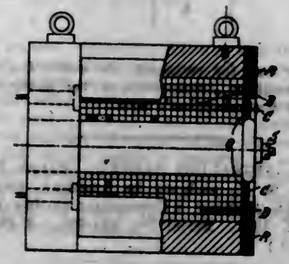
1. In a variable-speed drive, the combination of an induction motor, a direct-current machine, a dynamo-electric current-converting machine connected between the secondary member of said induction motor and said direct-current machine to control the speed of said induction motor, said current-converting machine being unstable within the range near synchronous speeds, and means responsive to low-frequency currents in said secondary member for including in the circuit between said induction motor and said direct-current machine auxiliary means securing stable operation of the set over the range near synchronism.

1,637,394. DRIVING BOX. VICTOR J. SHEPARD, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 7, 1922. Serial No. 599,546. 9 Claims. (Cl. 105—224.)



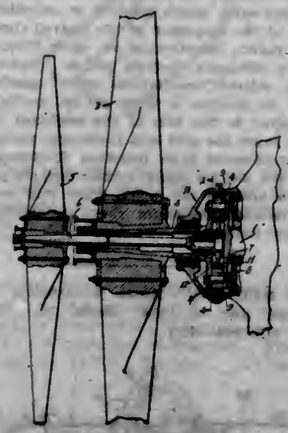
1. A locomotive driving box comprising a substantially box-shape casing, an integral projection formed thereon, a bearing block, and a spring saddle, said saddle, bearing block and projection being secured by a plurality of dowel pins.

1,637,395. WATER-HEATING APPARATUS. FRANK W. SHUELL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Everhot Heater Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 7, 1924. Serial No. 784,878. 6 Claims. (Cl. 122—13.)



1. In a water heater, the combination of an outer casing, a gas burner, a water storage tank spaced within said container forming an annular flue passageway, said tank having its entire lower end spaced a substantial distance above said burner and adapted to deflect the flame laterally to communicate with said annular flue and a depressed portion extending slightly below the remaining portions of said tank arranged to direct the drippings of condensed water away from said burner, said depressed portion being of such small height as to prevent any appreciable downward deflection of the combustion gases before entering the annular flue.

1,637,396. ALARM SYSTEM. SAMUEL SOLODAR, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 1, 1924. Serial No. 747,259. 2 Claims. (Cl. 177—314.)



1. In an alarm system for the protection of buildings, a container for a compressed fluid, an audible signal device operable by compressed air, a conduit connecting said device and container and having therein a valve, normally spring pressed into closed position to prevent operation of the signal device, said valve having a projecting operating stem, electromagnetically controlled means for operating the valve to open position, an electric light, an explosion device, means for controlling the explosion device, said light being controlled by electromagnetically controlled means, a master circuit for controlling the explosion device controlling means and said electromagnetically controlled means, a second valve in the conduit between the audible signal device and the other valve and spring pressed to open position, the movable member of the second valve having a by-pass conduit movable into communication with the container through the first valve when it shuts off communication from the container to the audible signal device, and means operable by the second valve when moved to cut off the audible signal device for changing the condition of the master circuit to cause an operation of the first valve and light and placing the exploding controlling means in a condition to prevent operation of the exploding device whereby the operativeness of the device may be readily determined without operation of the audible signal device or said explosion device.

1,637,397. TELEPHONE TRANSMITTER AND RECEIVER. ADRIAN FRANCIS SYKES, New Barnet, Herts, England. Original application filed July 21, 1924. Serial No. 727,242, and in Great Britain July 21, 1923. Divided and this application filed Nov. 28, 1925. Serial No. 71,919. 12 Claims. (Cl. 179—115.)

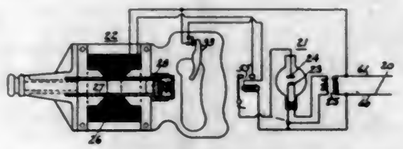
2. In non-resonant means for reproducing sound, the combination of a non-resonant reflecting barrier, a magnetic field and a conducting element set in close proximity to the barrier.

1,637,398. AIRPLANE CONSTRUCTION. MICHAEL SYRACUSA, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 14, 1926. Serial No. 81,293. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—25.)

1. The combination with a crank shaft, a relatively large propeller, a hollow shaft supporting said propeller, of a solid shaft disposed in said hollow shaft, a relatively small auxiliary propeller carried by said solid shaft, said auxiliary propeller being disposed in front of said first named propeller and covering the inactive area of said first named propeller, a gear disposed between said crank shaft and said hollow shaft and rigidly mounted upon said solid shaft, pinions rotatably disposed between said crank shaft and said hollow shaft, and in mesh with said gear, and means cooperating with said pinions, said gear, and said solid shaft for actuating said auxiliary propeller at a greater speed than said first named propeller when said crank shaft is rotated.

1,637,399. TIE STRAIGHTENER. FRANCES R. VAN HOUTEN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 30, 1925. Serial No. 65,837. 1 Claim. (Cl. 223—19.)

A tie stretcher embodying a length of flat metal bent intermediate its ends, to provide leg members, the adjacent faces of the leg members contacting with each other throughout portions of their lengths, the free ends of the leg members being arranged in spaced relation with each other, and the inner adjacent faces of the leg members lying in the same plane.



1,637,400. AUTOMATIC ARM. PAUL VON KIRÁLY and JOSEF LOVÁSZ, Budapest, Hungary. Filed Oct. 5, 1925. Serial No. 60,661, and in Germany Oct. 6, 1924. 5 Claims. (Cl. 42—4.)

1. In an automatic fire arm having a barrel arranged for short recoil and a bolt, the combination with the barrel of a bolt actuating slide and a lever to actuate the slide, the lever being adapted to receive and to transmit to the slide the impact of the recoiling barrel, the slide being adapted to open the bolt by its own impact, said barrel being arranged for lost motion equal to more than two thirds of the total recoil movement thereof before the slide is actuated by the lever, and said slide being arranged for lost motion equal to more than twice the total recoil movement of the barrel, before the bolt is actuated by the slide.

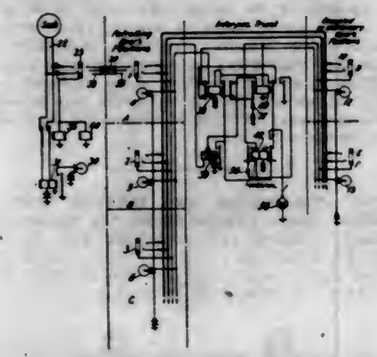
1,637,401. METHOD OF AND MEANS FOR CONTROLLING RECIPROCATING MOTORS. CARL S. WEYANDT, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Central Electric Tool Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 5, 1924. Serial No. 697,051. 15 Claims. (Cl. 172—240.)

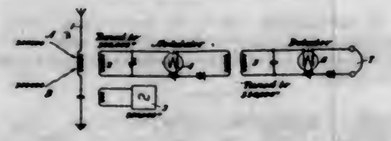
1. The method of operating a reciprocating motor provided with a movable magnetizable member, which comprises selecting solely by asymmetrical electrical conduction successive current impulses from a source of single phase alternating current, and effecting movement of said magnetizable member by undulatory electro-magnetism produced by said impulses.

6. The combination with a reciprocating motor comprising an actuating winding and a reciprocating magnetizable member, of a source of single phase alternating current, and an electric valve in circuit with said source and said winding and serving as the sole means for selecting current impulses from said source for energization of said windings to effect magnetically movement of said magnetizable member in each direction.



1,637,402. POWER-TRANSMISSION PULLEY. GEOFFREY JOSEPH ABBOTT, London, England. Filed Oct. 9, 1926, Serial No. 140,637, and in Great Britain Nov. 11, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 64—8.)

1. An expanding pulley comprising in combination a pair of relatively thin dished pressings having alternate radially extending grooves and depressions, a pair of comparatively rigid reinforcing backings for said pressings and means for connecting each pressing to its respective backing member.



1,637,403. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. HENRY H. ABBOTT, New York, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 9, 1926. Serial No. 93,507. 4 Claims. (Cl. 179—53.)

1. In a telephone system, a subscriber's line, a link circuit, an interposition trunk for the connection of said subscriber's line with said link circuit, a signal associated with each end of said trunk, means responsive to the connection of the subscriber's line with one end of said trunk for making said line test busy and for operating the signal at the other end of said trunk, and means responsive to the disconnection of the link circuit from the trunk for actuating the signal at the said one end of said trunk and for restoring the subscriber's line to a nonbusy condition, irrespective of the connection of the trunk with the subscriber's line.

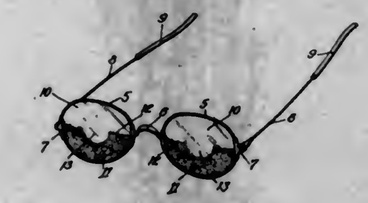
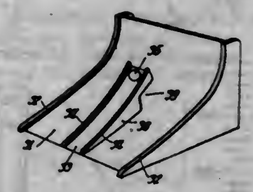
1,637,404. SIGNALING SYSTEM. RALPH BOWN, East Orange, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 12, 1921. Serial No. 451,700. 2 Claims. (Cl. 179—171.)



1. The method of increasing the selectivity of signal receiving apparatus, which consists in selecting to favor oscillations of the frequency of the desired signal carrier, thereby to reduce interference on other frequencies and substantially eliminate that on remote frequencies, combining the selected oscillations with another set of oscillations to produce a third set of oscillations of a frequency equal to the sum of the combined frequencies, selecting to favor the said sum frequency, thereby further reducing interference from incoming frequencies not remote from the desired signal carrier frequency, and then detecting to produce the signal from said selected sum frequency oscillations before they are again subjected to inteference sources.

1,637,405. MUD GUN. EDGAR E. BROSIUS, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Aug. 4, 1926. Serial No. 127,000. 10 Claims. (Cl. 266—42.)

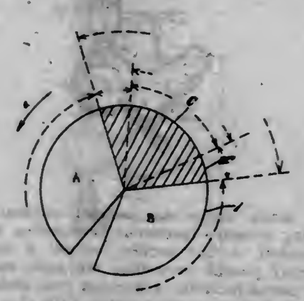


1. A mud gun having a clay feeding reservoir mounted thereon, said reservoir communicating with the chamber of the gun through a normally open connection, means for creating a discharging pressure on the clay in the reservoir, and piston means in the gun chamber effective for ejecting clay therefrom, the piston forming a closure for the open connection during a portion of the piston stroke.

1,637,406. GOLF GOGGLES. WILLIAM C. BRUMDER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed July 31, 1922. Serial No. 578,659. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—14.)

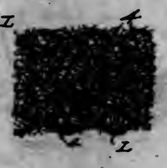
A pair of goggles, comprising lenses having transparent portions and opaque portions, said opaque portions extending over the bottom portion of said lenses, the center of said lenses being transparent and the bottom half thereof being opaque at both sides of the central transparent portion whereby the sight of the wearer through the bottom half of the lenses is obscured to compel the wearer to face an object on the ground sighted through said goggles, the upper part of said lenses being transparent to permit the wearer to see objects at a distance above a predetermined plane.

1,637,407. PUTTING APPARATUS. WILLIAM C. BRUMDER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Apr. 2, 1923. Serial No. 629,395. 10 Claims. (Cl. 273—36.)



1. A putting apparatus comprising an inclined main runway, an inclined supplemental runway thereon and means for deflecting a ball from said supplemental runway laterally to said main runway.

1,637,408. CURVATURE-MEASURING DEVICE. LUCIAN W. BUGBEE, Jr., Indianapolis, Ind., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Continental Optical Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 8, 1925. Serial No. 74,207. 7 Claims. (Cl. 33—172.)



1. A curvature measuring device including a micrometer screw having a pin at one end, a threaded tube in which said screw is threaded and longitudinally movable, a thimble secured to the other end of the screw and surrounding said tube, said thimble and tube being provided with means for determining the relative movements of said parts, a plate secured to and extending laterally of the plate, and fixed pins in said plate on diametrically opposite sides of said first mentioned pin, whereby the curvature of a curved surface may be determined.

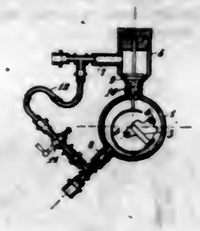
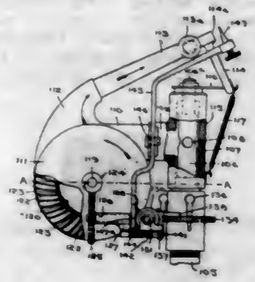
Motion picture apparatus useful for taking pictures as well as for projecting the same, characterized by a non-variable shutter disc having a plurality of segmental blades and segmental gaps therebetween, the gaps with the exception of one, being covered by a filter which transmits some visible light but no actinic light.

1,637,410. COATED METAL LATH. WILLIAM CLAYTON CORYELL, Youngstown, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Truscon Steel Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 23, 1922. Serial No. 608,778. 3 Claims. (Cl. 72—116.)



1. A coated metal lath including a meshed metal structure, and a plastic matrix with fibrous elements therein coating the metal structure.

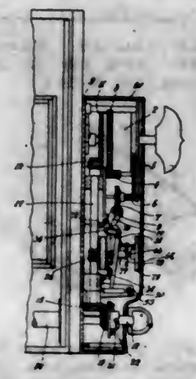
1,637,411. PALLET. CHARLES B. CUSHWA, Youngstown, Ohio, assignor to The Commercial Shearing and Stamping Company, Youngstown, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 14, 1924, Serial No. 720,082. Renewed Mar. 1, 1926. 9 Claims. (Cl. 34—17.)



1. As an article of manufacture, a pallet having a curved bead on the ends and sides thereof, said bead having overlapping projecting flanges secured to the body of the pallet, there being a reinforcing flange at the corners of the pallet, substantially as described.

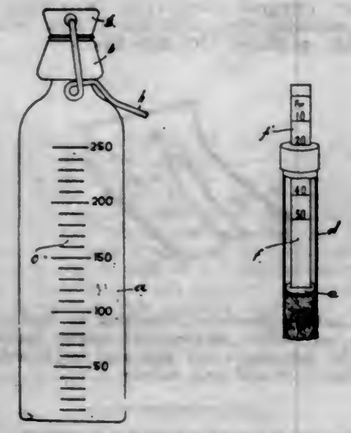
1,637,412. SAFETY DEVICE FOR APPARATUS FOR FORCED LUBRICATION IN COMBUSTION ENGINES. JAN EILERS, Meester Cornelis, Java, Dutch East Indies, assignor of one-half to Tjoen Siang Ie, Meester Cornelis, Java, Dutch East Indies. Filed Feb. 3, 1927, Serial No. 165,736, and in the Netherlands Sept. 18, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—196.)

1. A safety device for internal combustion engines employing pressure lubrication, comprising an oil pressure conduit, a fuel supply conduit, a valve in the fuel supply conduit controlling the same, and valve operating means including a Bourdon tube within said fuel supply conduit in communication with the oil pressure conduit.



1,637,413. APPARATUS FOR WATERING AREAS OF LAND. DONALD ELDER, Onehunga, New Zealand. Filed Jan. 5, 1922, Serial No. 527,259, and in New Zealand Nov. 8, 1920. 15 Claims. (Cl. 299—18.)

1. In apparatus for watering land, a supply pipe, a sprayer communicating with said supply pipe and comprising a hollow fitting mounted so as to be rotatable about said supply pipe and carrying a turbine provided with a nozzle; gearing between the turbine shaft and said pipe whereby the water passing to the nozzle operates said turbine; means for raising and lowering the mouth of the nozzle during the rotary motion of the sprayer; and means for reversing the travel of the turbine about the supply pipe.



1,637,414. AUTOMATIC ROLL-FILM CAMERA. FREDERICK HOWE HADFIELD, Auckland, New Zealand. Filed Jan. 19, 1926, Serial No. 82,350, and in New Zealand July 24, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 242—71.)

1. In a film camera, spring operated means to wind the film on a spool, a longitudinal shaft driven by said spring means, a winding spool spindle rotated in one direction by said shaft, a wheel having its axis at right angles to said shaft and driven by said longitudinal shaft, holes in the face of said wheel corresponding in number to the exposures to be made on the film and spaced so that the rotation of said shaft will at each exposure be sufficient to wind the film the correct amount for the next exposure, a lever pivoted across the face of said wheel, a portion of said lever adapted to fall into said holes, means whereby when said lever falls into one of said holes the spring operated means will be stopped, and means for releasing said lever immediately the exposure is made, substantially as described.

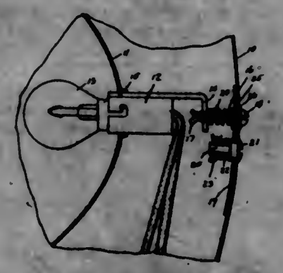
1,637,415. APPARATUS FOR PREPARING LIQUID MILK FROM MILK POWDER. KARL HOFFELMAYR, Kempten in Allgau, Germany. Filed Apr. 16, 1926. Serial No. 102,555. 2 Claims. (Cl. 215—11.)

1. An apparatus for preparing liquid milk from milk powder, comprising in combination a mixing vessel, a scale on the said mixing vessel, a measuring vessel and a scale on the said measuring vessel, the graduations of the two scales being so related to each other that similar graduations on the two vessels indicate quantities of liquid and milk powder, which, when mixed together, constitute normal milk, as set forth.

1,637,416. FEEDING OR CONDUCTING TUBE FOR AGRICULTURAL DRILLS OR CULTIVATORS. CLARENCE HUNT, Beulah West, Victoria, Australia. Filed Feb. 24, 1923, Serial No. 620,945, and in Australia Oct. 28, 1922. 2 Claims. (Cl. 221—189.)



1. In a machine for continuously sowing seed, the combination of a feeding wheel mounted to rotate about a substantially horisontal axis and having a central disc or web and a peripheral rim that projects an equal distance laterally in opposite directions from said web, a delivery chute into which said wheel projects; the aperture in the wall of said chute through which the wheel passes having portions of equal dimensions at both sides of said web, a conduit connected to and extending downward from the delivery chute and having two terminal branches, and a removable partition extending through said conduit and into the delivery chute to provide separated passages from the feed wheel to the inlets to said branches of the conduit.

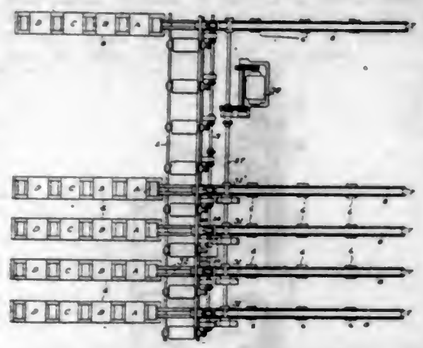
1,637,417. ADJUSTING DEVICE. SAMUEL W. HYATT, Connersville, Ind., assignor to Indiana Lamp Corporation, Connersville, Ind., a Corporation. Filed Feb. 2, 1926. Serial No. 85,580. 7 Claims. (Cl. 240—44.)

1. The combination with a lamp casing, and a reflector mounted therein, of a socket slidably mounted in said reflector for supporting a source of illumination, means for adjusting the position of said socket by slidably moving the same with respect to said reflector, a circular disc having a cam-like slot therein through which said adjusting means extends, and means for pivotally mounting said disc on said casing and rotating the same for varying the position of said adjusting means and effecting a tilting movement to said socket independently of its sliding adjustment.

1,637,418. BRUSH ATTACHMENT FOR WASHING MACHINES. MINNIE ISSMAN, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Margaretha A. Vierling, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Nov. 12, 1921, Serial No. 514,533. Renewed Jan. 4, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—22.)

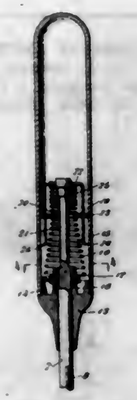
A scrubbing attachment for washing machines comprising a support in the form of a housing, rotatable scrubbing elements carried by the support, and means carried by the support for detachably connecting said support to a wringer, the upper portion of said housing constituting a guide.

1,637,419. NAIL-EXPANSION ANCHOR. CHARLES H. KLEIN, Jersey City, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 23, 1923. Serial No. 659,023. 1 Claim. (Cl. 85—2.4.)



An expansion anchor consisting of a hollow cylinder parted by a longitudinal slot, the top of said cylinder being flared and the lower portion of said cylinder carrying a plurality of circular corrugations, said corrugations reducing the diameter of the center hole at the low points of the corrugations, and the outwardly projecting ridges formed by said corrugations being rounded.

1,637,420. MATERIAL-HANDLING APPARATUS. CLARENCE J. KLEIN, Bellevue, Pa., assignor to United Engineering and Foundry Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 30, 1925. Serial No. 59,527. 35 Claims. (Cl. 214—6.)



1. In a material handling apparatus, a carrier, a plurality of cradles at one side of said carrier and located different distances therefrom, means operable transversely of said carrier for engaging a body thereon and delivering the same to any one of said cradles, said cradles being shaped to support said means when moved into cooperative relation therto, and driving mechanism for said means, substantially as described.

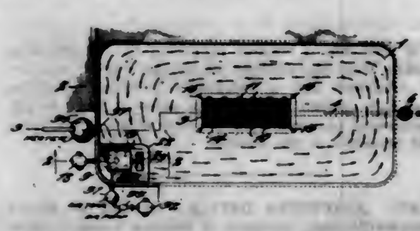
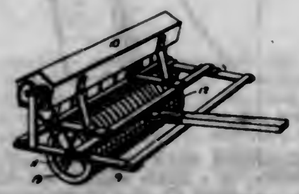
1,637,421. PRESSURE INDICATOR. EMANUEL WM. LIPSCHUTS, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 23, 1926. Serial No. 117,910. 2 Claims. (Cl. 73—31.)



1. In a pressure indicator, a graduated stem having one end capable of engagement with various areas of the anatomy to test the sensitiveness to pressure upon said areas, a sleeve member operated by pressure to move along said stem, a coil spring having one end connected to said sleeve member, a guide member secured to the other end of said spring, a yoke secured to said stem and extending through said guide member for movement relative thereto, said yoke having means to engage said guide member to also cause a unitary movement of the yoke and member, and a second spring interposed between and secured to said guide member and said yoke, the initial pressure upon said sleeve member causing a movement of said yoke and said second spring relative to said guide member, and subsequent pressure upon said sleeve member expanding the first named spring and moving said yoke and guide member in unison.

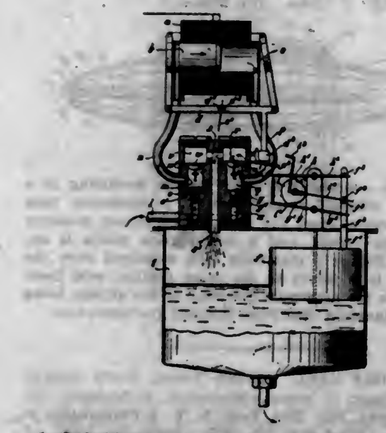
1,637,422. ENGINE STARTER. WILLIAM L. MCGRATH, Elmira, N. Y., assignor to Eclipse Machine Company, Elmira, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 2, 1919. Serial No. 314,051. Renewed Jan. 19, 1927. 24 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



1. The combination of a driving element, a rotatable shaft, a driving member mounted on the shaft, for longitudinal movement thereof and rotary movement therewith, and means which normally connect said element and shaft together for transmitting the torque for the driving operation but adapted to be operated to disconnect them when the longitudinal movement of the driving member is interrupted.

1,637,423. SWIMMING POOL. PAUL CHARLES MILLER, Jacksonville, Fla. Filed Dec. 27, 1926. Serial No. 157,159. 8 Claims. (Cl. 4—172.)

1. A swimming pool comprising a substantially rectangular tank with rounded corners, means for creating a current in the water around the perimeter of the tank with a mild vortex at the center thereof and a sump in the center of the tank below the floor and opening directly into the main body of water near said vortex to receive the matter which settles out of the water.



1,637,424. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENT. ROBERT BLAKE MORROW, Brunswick, Victoria, Australia. Filed Mar. 9, 1926, Serial No. 93,517, and in Australia May 6, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 55—77.)

2. In a machine of the character described, in combination a frame, an axle journalled therein, a pulrality of discs arranged at suitably spaced intervals on said axle and provided in the peripheries with alining notches, a plurality of elongated bars constituting roller bearings arranged in the alining peripheries of the discs in parallel with the axle, and a crushing roller rotatably mounted on said bars including a plurality of rings, the end rings being in the form of wheels and secured to said shaft and all of said rings having U-shaped peripheral portions, substantially as and for the purposes set forth.

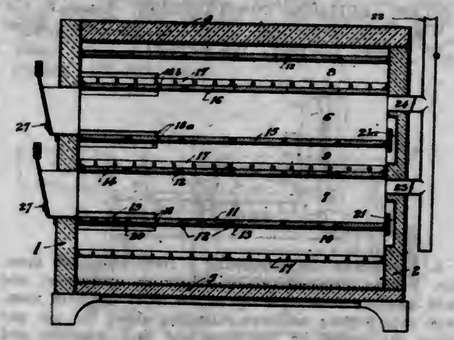
1,637,425. SWITCH FOR ELECTRICAL FUEL-FEEDING APPARATUS. AUGUST NAGEL, Stuttgart, Germany. Filed Aug. 4, 1925, Serial No. 48,180, and in Germany Aug. 26, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—26.)

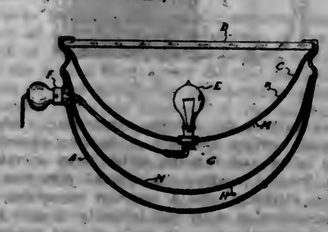


1. Switching apparatus for electrical fuel-delivering apparatus and the like, comprising a magnetizable reciprocating member, two solenoids for reciprocating said member, and means for energizing said solenoids alternately, said means comprising a movable switch member, a reversing rod, magnetic means for displacing said reversing rod upon the magnetizable reciprocating member reaching either end of its stroke, an abutment on said reversing rod, the movable switch member being adapted to engage with said abutment during displacement of the reversing rod and to be released thereby at the end of said displacement, and resilient means for changing the position of the movable switch member as soon as said switch member is released by the abutment, said resilient means being stressed by the displacement of the reversing rod.

1,637,426. MACHINE FOR COATING ELECTRIC STORAGE-BATTERY PLATES. WILLIAM H. NORDHAUS, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to K. W. Battery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,815. 21 Claims. (Cl. 226—39.)

1. In a machine of the character described, a plate table arranged to receive a double row of grids, means for reciprocating said table horizontally, and coating mechanism above and adjacent the path of said table arranged to coat grids on said table, said table having a pair of movable sections operable to reverse and transfer the grids from one row to the other.

1,637,427. BAKING OVEN. CHARLES HENRY RICHES, Toronto, and CLARENCE WILLIAM AIRD, Brantford, Ontario, Canada, assignors to The Brantford Oven & Rack Co. Limited, Brantford, Canada, a Corporation of the Province of Ontario. Filed Mar. 8, 1924. Serial No. 697,756. 1 Claim. (Cl. 107—55.)

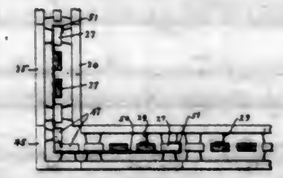


A baking oven comprising a baking chamber, two heating chambers, one located below and separated from the baking chamber by the baking deck and the other located above the baking chamber and separated from it, an electric heating element in each heating chamber, a vent connecting the baking chamber with the heating chamber below it and provided with an opening into the baking chamber the lower edge of which is substantially in the same plane as the top surface of the backing deck, for maintaining a circulation of air from the baking chamber to the heating chamber, and a vent connecting the heating chamber with the baking chamber above it having an opening into the baking chamber above the level of the first-mentioned vent for the circulation of the heated air from the heating chamber to the baking chamber.

1,637,428. MINERAL FEED AND PROCESS OF PREPARING THE SAME. VIRGIL R. RUPP, Quincy, Ill. Filed Sept. 24, 1926. Serial No. 137,631. 4 Claims. Cl. 167—10.)

1. The herein described process of producing a mineral feed, which consists in treating rock phosphate with concentrated sulphuric acid whereby a portion of the fluorine is eliminated and calcium sulphate formed, and mixing the treated rock phosphate with other mineral elements, the calcium sulphate serving as a binder for the whole.

4. A mineral feed, comprising a mixture of mineral elements including a lime compound, and rock phosphate from which a portion of the flourine has been removed, the mixture being held together by a binder of anhydrous calcium sulphate.



1,637,429. GLARELESS LAMP. JAMES MILNE STEWART, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia. Filed Sept. 9, 1926, Serial No. 134,548, and in Australia Oct. 2, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.2.)

1. A lamp having a focalising light projecting reflector, a light source in the focal zone of the reflector, said reflector being provided with symmetrically disposed perforations, a lenticular cell rearward of said reflector having a concave reflector forming its rearward wall, said cell having a surface colored differentially in relation to the color of the light emitted from the lamp.

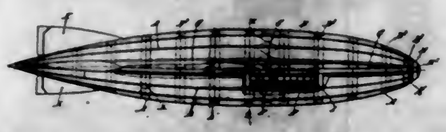
1,637,430. BUILDING CONSTRUCTION. ELMER E. VAN WIE, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Jan. 25, 1926. Serial No. 83,534. 6 Claims. (Cl. 72—29.)

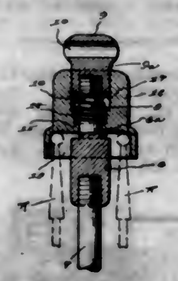


1. A building tile comprising a front and back member, locking members arranged between said front and back members near each side of the front and back members, said locking members extending above the top and below the bottom of the front and back members and being narrower than the distance between the front and back members, and means to secure the front and back members to the locking members.

1,637,431. CONCENTRATOR FOR LIQUIDS. WILHELM VOGELBUSCH, Vienna, Austria. Filed Aug. 7, 1924, Serial No. 730,671, and in Germany Nov. 22, 1923. 1 Claim. (Cl. 159—23.)

In a concentrator for liquids, comprising a plurality of superposed heating elements, a heating chamber enclosing the latter and through which flows a uniformly distributed heating medium in upward direction along said heating elements, and a common vaporizing chamber in communication with and laterally of said heating elements; the combination, in each of said heating elements, of one lower row of wide horizontally located heating tubes and a plurality of rows of narrow heating tubes upwardly inclined toward the vaporizing chamber and in communication with and above said wide heating tubes for a passage of the liquid to be concentrated first through the wide and then through the narrow heating tubes from the uppermost down to the lowermost heating element.

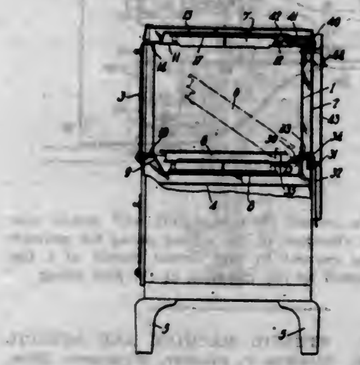
1637,432. LIGHTER-THAN-AIR AIRCRAFT. BARNES NEVILLE WALLIS and CHARLES DENNISTON BURNEY, Westminster, London, England, assignors to Airship Guarantee Company, Limited, London, England. Filed Dec. 17, 1925, Serial No. 75,981, and in Great Britain Jan. 9, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—3.)



An airship comprising a front portion consisting of a semi-prolate ellipsoid approximately 2 diameters long at which distance from the nose the maximum diameter of the airship occurs, and a rear portion which is approximately 2½ or 3 diameters long measured from the place where it is joined to the front portion, said front portion up to the maximum diameter of the airship being free or substantially free from external protuberances.

1,637,433. DRY CELL. VICTOR YNGVE, South Orange, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to National Carbon Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,921. 6 Claims. (Cl. 136—139.)

1. The method of preparing dry cell mixture which consists in milling together depolarizing and ordinary carbonaceous materials, the latter being less in quantity than is required in the mix, and then adding the balance of the required carbonaceous material in ordinary form to the milled product.



1,637,434. ATTACHMENT FOR PARASOL AND UMBRELLA HANDLES. AARON BURKOWITZ, Newark, N. J. Filed May 29, 1926. Serial No. 112,578. 1 Claim. (Cl. 135—44.)

A device of the character described, comprising a body portion adapted to be secured to an umbrella or parasol and having a shank portion reduced in diameter to present a shoulder intermediate the ends of said body portion, a knob carried by the upper end of said shank portion, a reciprocatory member having a socket portion and having an axial bore adapted to receive said shank portion, said bore being increased in diameter to define a shoulder and further increased in diameter to slidably receive the lower reduced portion of said knob and to define a second shoulder and tensioning means positioned within the last-mentioned bore abutting the first-named shoulder and the face of said knob, said tensioning means constantly urging said body portion against the shoulder in said body portion, and said second shoulder cooperating with the inner face of said knob to limit the outer sliding movement of said reciprocatory member.

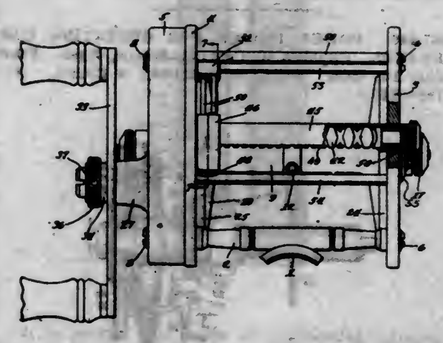
1,637,435. ELECTRIC OVEN. THOMAS GIBB BROWN, St. Laurent de Montreal, Quebec, Canada, assignor to The Gurney Foundry Company, Limited, Toronto, Canada, a Corporation. Filed Feb. 25, 1926. Serial No. 90,446. 4 Claims. (Cl. 219—35.)



2. In an electric oven having a wall, a heating element, a hinged mounting for said element on said wall, and a knife-blade switch adjacent to said hinged mounting and controlling the connection between said element and the current main.

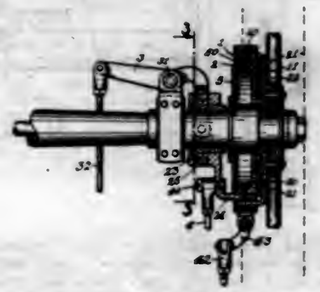
1,637,436. CHUCK. OSCAR J. CAMERON, Luling, Tex. Filed Jan. 28, 1926. Serial No. 84,462. 8 Claims. (Cl. 279—7.)

2. A chuck device for holding the screw-threaded ends of nipples, comprising a head having an inner jam face, a separate holding member mounted upon the head and having an inner opening for exposing the jam face, slidable jaws mounted upon the holding member in a group surrounding the inner opening and having their inner ends threaded to engage the threads of the nipple, a combined jam and clamp plate mounted upon the holding member clamping against said jaws and having an inner opening leading into the first named inner opening said opening of the jam and clamp plate being of a proper size to receive the work with the work substantially contacting with the wall of said opening, and means for binding the head, holding member, and combined jam and clamp plate together, the arrangement being such that the nipple may be turned while in engagement with the screw-threaded jaws whereby its end may clamp against the jam face and its periphery may engage with the wall of the inner opening of the combined jam and clamp plate.

1,637,437. FISHING REEL. FRANCIS M. CASE, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, assignor to The Enterprise Manufacturing Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 2, 1922. Serial No. 565,377. 18 Claims. (Cl. 242—84.4.)

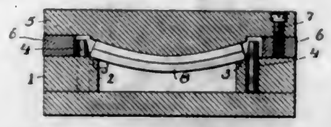
1. A fishing reel, comprising a frame including connected end plates and a gear casing, in combination with a rotatable spool, operating gears within said casing, and flange members on the frame extending circumferentially around and thereby confining one of the gears in place.

1,637,438. AMPLIFYING HORN. FRANCESCO CIRELLI, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 18, 1926. Serial No. 109,643. 6 Claims. (Cl. 181—27.)



3. A horn having a part of non-uniform taper joined to a part of uniform taper, the radius of the horn at the point of juncture being substantially equal to one-ninth of the largest diameter of the first mentioned part, the length of said part being substantially equal to five and one-third times the diameter at the juncture point, the length of the uniformly tapering part being substantially equal to fifteen and one-fourth times the diameter at the juncture point, the free end of said part being substantially equal to one-sixth of the diameter at the juncture point, the first mentioned part being curved to a right angle to the second mentioned part, the curving beginning at the point of juncture, and the second mentioned part having a series of convolutions disposed at right angles to the axis of the uniformly tapering part.

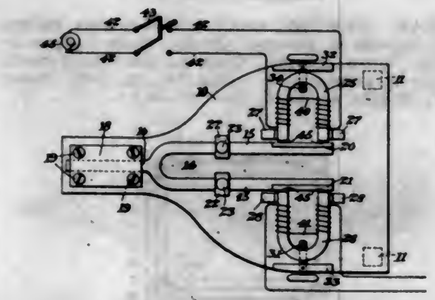
1,637,439. EYE-PROTECTIVE GLASS. WILLIAM WEBER COBLENTZ, Washington, D. C., assignor to Secretary of Commerce of the United States, as trustee for the Government of the United States and the People of the United States. Filed June 10, 1926. Serial No. 115,110. 4 Claims. (Cl. 106—36.1.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, 22 Stat. L., 625.)



2. As a new article of manufacture a glass containing the usual glass-making constituents and sufficient cobalt oxide to give a blue color equivalent to blue 20 + 8 on the Lovibond scale and sufficient cerium oxide to stop the ultra-violet rays.

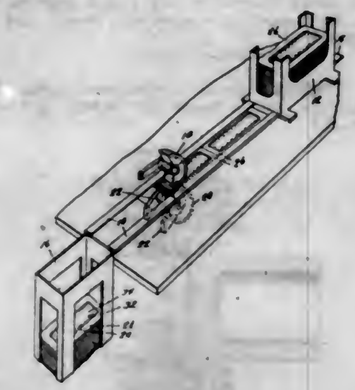
1,637,440. POWER DEVICE FOR OPERATING CAR BRAKES. CHARLES W. COLLINS, Seattle, Wash. Filed July 13, 1926. Serial No. 122,064. 4 Claims. (Cl. 188—140.)

1. In a brake operating mechanism for automobiles, having a brake drum secured upon a wheel and a brake acting upon said drum, the combination with said drum of a friction clutch device having a friction member carried by and within said drum, a complemental friction member mounted within the drum to oscillate about the wheel axis, a link pivotally connected with said oscillable member and operatively connected with the brake applying mechanism, a grooved hub connected with the oscillable clutch member, a yoke lever engaging said hub by its groove and manually operable means for operating said lever to engage the friction surfaces of the clutch device.



1,637,441. MOLD FOR COMBINATION HEELS. LEON B. CONANT, Cambridge, Mass., assignor to George M. Conant, Bridgewater, Mass. Filed July 12, 1926. Serial No. 121,958. Renewed Apr. 28, 1927. 7 Claims. (Cl. 18—42.)

1. A mold for combination heels, comprising a centreplate having a shoulder flush with the upper surface thereof, a backplate co-operating therewith, and means for positioning a heel base relative to the centreplate, said positioning means consisting of pins projecting from one of said plates.



1,637,442. ALTERNATING-CURRENT SELECTOR. HERBERT GROVE DORSEY, Gloucester, Mass., assignor to John Hays Hammond, jr., Gloucester, Mass. Filed Oct. 12, 1917. Serial No. 196,302. Renewed Feb. 20, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 177—353.)

1. The combination of a tuning fork comprising a pair of prongs having the same predetermined rate of vibration, an electro-magnet having its poles in close proximity to a single prong of said fork whereby said fork is influenced by the electro-magnet, a circuit including said electro-magnet and means having the same frequency as the prongs for controlling the current flow in said circuit, a second electric circuit and means controlled by the vibration of the second prong for generating alternating current in said second circuit of a frequency determined by the vibration of the first prong.

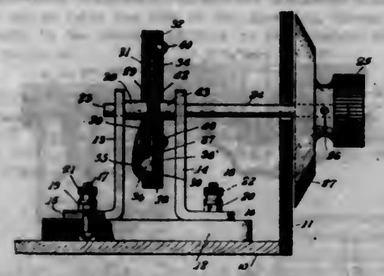
1,637,443. STENCIL MACHINE AND STENCIL THEREFOR. HARMON P. ELLIOTT, Watertown, Mass. Filed Jan. 13, 1927. Serial No. 160,871. 6 Claims. (Cl. 101—52.)

4. The combination of a stencil having a strong inflexible frame provided with a window therein, a thin flexible stencil sheet attached to said frame over the window, and superposed driving sectors for said stencils and adapted to engage and drive the stencil between them and characterized by each having a width greater than the width of said window and overlying and exerting a driving force on the frame only of said stencil and preserving said thin stencil sheet free from any substantial driving force.



1,637,444. SNAP-ACTION VALVE FOR FLUSH TANKS AND THE LIKE. HARRY C. EUSTIS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 8, 1926. Serial No. 107,682. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—104.)

In a float actuated valve, a valve body provided with a longitudinal bore, a second bore intersecting said longitudinal bore at an angle; said body providing a valve seat above the intersection of said second bore, a valve member in said longitudinal bore movable to open and closed positions, respectively; comprising a lower cylindrical member closely fitted in said longitudinal bore below said point of intersection, a reduced diameter intermediate portion above said lower cylindrical member, and an upper cylindrical member above the intermediate portion; the lower termination of the upper cylinder being disposed in alignment with said second bore when the valve is moved to closed position.

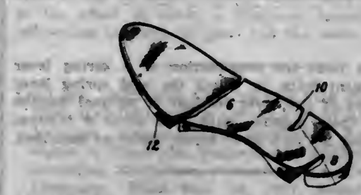
1,637,445. VARIABLE MICA CONDENSER. ALBERT W. FRANKLIN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Chas. Freshman Co. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 11, 1923. Serial No. 667,879. 2 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.5.)

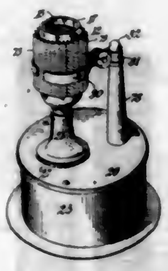


1. A variable condenser, comprising liquid condenser plates of variable area, separated by a dielectric plate, said condenser plates mounted in dielectric containers, said dielectric plate and containers secured to each other, and shafts placed in tandem relation forming electrical conductors from each of the condenser plates.

1,637,446. DRY CELL. WILLIAM F. HENDRY, Ossining, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to National Carbon Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 30, 1923. Serial No. 654,611. 14 Claims. (Cl. 136—136.)

1. In a dry cell, layers of depolarizing mixture, a carbon electrode surrounded by and a zinc electrode surrounding said layers, and extensions of said carbon electrode projecting between said layers towards the zinc electrode.

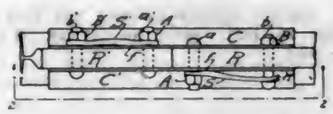
1,637,447. SHOE. MATHEW HILGERT, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 23, 1921. Serial No. 517,248. 8 Claims. (Cl. 36—43.)



1. A shoe having a detached, non-metallic, filler piece inserted therein, said filler piece having a smooth lower surface and being of a length substantially shorter than the inside length of the shoe and having a taper at its forward extremity more abrupt than that of the insole of the shoe so as to permit the forepart of the filler piece to slide relatively to the insole of the shoe without wrinkling or buckling as the sole of the shoe is flexed during walking.

1,637,448. AIR-PURIFYING DEVICE. BENNO F. JANCKE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Hallwell-Shelton Electric Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 31, 1923. Serial No. 616,092. 9 Claims. (Cl. 167—3.)

1. An air purifying device, comprising electrodes adapted for the production of ozone, one of said electrodes comprising a liquid receptacle adapted to be heated by the discharge from said electrodes, whereby liquid contents thereof may be volatilized.



7. An air purifying device for chamber use, comprising an exposed electrode adapted for the production of ozone, means for supplying said device with current from a lighting circuit, and means for transforming said current to one of a high voltage and high frequency at said electrode, whereby a high potential heating and discharge current without dangerous effect on the human system may be produced at said electrode.

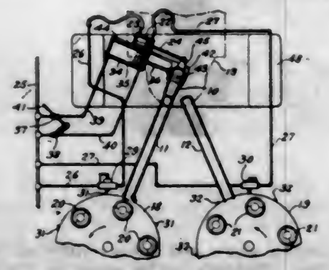
9. An air purifying device adapted for the production of ozone, comprising a pair of substantially cylindrical spaced electrodes, one of said electrodes being in the form of a liquid receptacle and the other of said electrodes having a spinose surface.

1,637,449. RAIL JOINT. FRANK C. KRONAUER, Glen Rock, N. J. Filed Mar. 28, 1927. Serial No. 179,132. 11 Claims. (Cl. 238—259.)

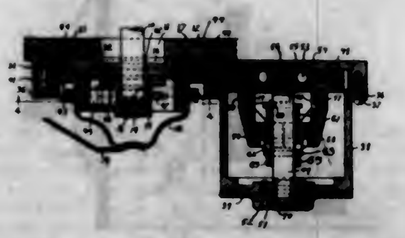
1. In a rail joint the combination of a spring lever element and joint bolts, in which the said spring lever element consists of two lever sections of unequal lengths that form at their junction with each other a fulcrum about which they act as a lever substantially as described.

1,637,450. HAND ROLLER. FREDERICK H. MARTIN, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The B. F. Goodrich Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 12, 1925. Serial No. 68,627. 1 Claim. (Cl. 216—61.)



A hand-roller comprising a roller-mounting having a substantially flat face adapted to fit the palm of the hand, and an abutment face curved out of the plane of said flat face and adapted to be engaged by the portion of the hand nearer the wrist, means for securing said mounting to the hand, and a pressure roll journaled on said mounting near the center thereof.

1,637,451. PROCESS OF TREATING ALUMINOUS ORES. RICHARD MOLDENKE, Watchung, N. J. Filed July 9, 1925. Serial No. 42,579. 6 Claims. (Cl. 23—148.)

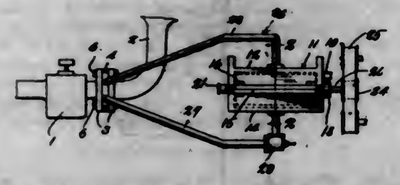


4. In the process of recovering aluminum from alunite ore, the steps which comprise converting a portion of the aluminum in said ore into a potassium alum, separating the potassium alum therefrom, converting the remaining portion of the aluminum contained in said ore into an ammonium aluminum alum and treating the potassium alum and ammonium alum thus formed with ammonia to convert same into aluminum hydrate.

1,637,452. DELIVERY APPARATUS FOR MOLTEN GLASS. ERNEST G. NELSON, Jr., Hartford, Conn., assignor to Hartford-Empire Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 6, 1926. Serial No. 79,563. 10 Claims. (Cl. 49—55.)

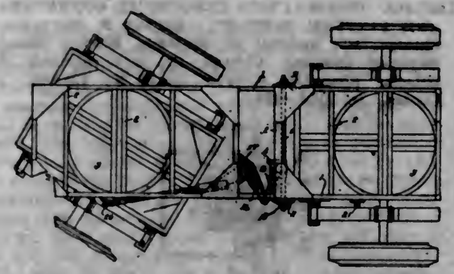
1. A glass delivering apparatus adapted to receive charges of molten glass from a glass feeder and deliver them to a plurality of glassware shaping machines, comprising a deflector, a movable support for the deflector, means for moving the deflector on said support to deliver charges of glass alternately to the shaping machines, and means for moving the support and the deflector bodily into and out of glass-receiving position.

1,637,453. GOVERNOR FOR TRACTOR ENGINES. OTTO T. NICHOL, Omaha, Nebr., assignor of one-half to Albert H. Becker, Council Bluffs, Iowa. Filed Jan. 3, 1927. Serial No. 158,599. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—195.)



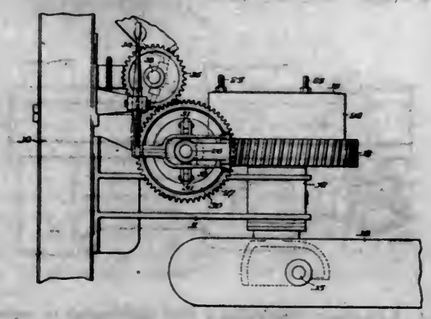
1. In a governor mechanism for Fordson tractor engines, a cupped gear adapted to fit upon the engine camshaft in the normal location of the commutator-brush-assembly, a commutator-brush mounted upon said gear at the cupped front side thereof, a governor-casing inclosing said gear and having a cupped front portion extending into the cupped side of the gear, said portion of the casing having an opening therein through which the gear-hub and commutator-brush extend, there being formed in the casing about said opening a seat for retaining a commutator-case in operative relation with said commutator-brush, and means for securing said casing upon the front-cover of the engine.

1,637,454. BUMPER BAR AND REAR FENDER FOR AUTOMOBILES. FRANK PEACOCK, Croydon, near Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Nov. 24, 1925, Serial No. 71,042, and in Australia Dec. 10, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 293—55.)



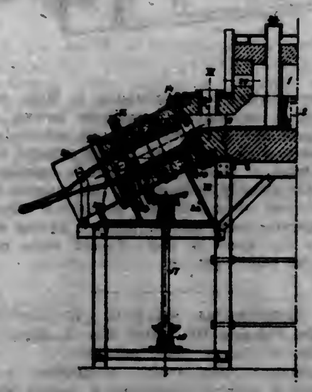
A bumper for a motor vehicle comprising a plurality of flat steel bars disposed with their flat sides in horizontal planes and having their ends curved edgewise, thimbled bolts securing said bars spaced apart and parallel with each other to form a vertical rack, a flat steel carrier bar having forwardly looped ends disposed edgewise rearwardly of said flatwise bars and adapted to be secured to the vehicle frame, and clamps embracing the ends of said carrier bar and said flatwise bars and having portions extending between the flatwise bars for maintaining them spaced apart.

1,637,455. ATTACHMENT FOR CARBURETORS. CHARLES POWELL, Pueblo, Colo. Filed Dec. 29, 1925. Serial No. 78,171. 1 Claim. (Cl. 48—180.)



In a device of the class described, a gasket and means for mounting the gasket in the fuel intake line of an internal combustion engine, a loop-shaped conduit opening through the gasket at spaced points, a power-driven rotary mixing device in the conduit, and an imperforate partition disposed in the gasket between said points, the partition constituting means for deflecting the whole fuel charge from one side of the partition, through the conduit, to the mixer, and back to the opposite side of the partition.

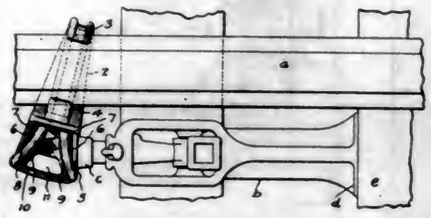
1,637,456. STEERING GEAR FOR TRAILERS. FREDERICK MALCOLM RIBB, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Fruehauf Trailer Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Nov. 4, 1925. Serial No. 66,707. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—98.)



1. In a steering device for attachment to the frame of a vehicle which has a cross member of I-beam construction, a steering unit carried by the frame and including a pair of members for engagement with opposite sides of the web of the I-beam, and means for holding the members in position consisting of a plate connecting the two members and engaging under the flange of the I-beam means for reciprocating the unit, and means connecting the unit with wheels of the vehicle.

1,637,457. POWER BOOM-SWINGING MECHANISM. RICHARD W. RUNOE, Oshkosh, Wis., assignor to Leach Company, Oshkosh, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed July 17, 1925. Serial No. 44,252. 4 Claims. (Cl. 212—68.)

1. A mechanism for swinging a pivotally mounted boom, including a power operated gear mounted in axial alignment with the pivotal axis of the boom, a set of friction disks in non-rotatable association with the gear, another coacting set of friction disks in non-rotatable association with the boom, and springs for pressing the disks of one set into frictional engagement with the disks of the other to effect a frictional torque transmitting connection between the gear and the boom.



1,637,458. METHOD AND MEANS FOR THE CONTINUOUS MANUFACTURE OF GLASS TUBES OR RODS. PANCRAS SCHOONENBERG, Eindhoven, Netherlands, assignor to Naamlooze Vennootschap Philips' Gloeilampenfabrieken, Eindhoven, Netherlands, a Limited Liability Company. Filed Nov. 23, 1921, Serial No. 517,418, and in the Netherlands Dec. 2, 1920. 6 Claims. (Cl. 49—17.)

1. The method of continuously drawing glass tubes which comprises permitting molten glass to flow into a hollow glass forming member inclined towards its discharge opening, causing the glass to be distributed on the inner surface of said hollow member by rotating said member so that the glass flows towards the discharge opening by gravity, and always maintaining the interior of the tube out of contact with any solid during the formation of the tube, the glass being then drawn from the discharge opening of the member.

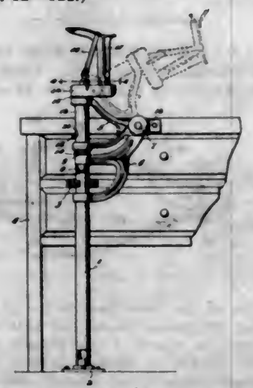
1,637,459. TIE SPACER. FRANK H. SCHWERIN, Bellevue Borough, Pa., assignor to The Duff Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 8, 1926. Serial No. 140,233. 6 Claims. (Cl. 254—43.)

1. A tie-spacer comprising a yoke constructed to extend across under and to grip the base flanges of a rail by skewing horizontally thereon, and having at one end a symmetrical upstanding head, said head having on opposite sides supporting ledges and curved pockets adapted to retain a jack head at the various angles which the spacer may assume on rails of different sizes.

1,637,460. WINDOW REFRIGERATOR. JOSEPH C. SPARROW, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 9, 1925. Serial No. 7,792. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—104.)

A window refrigerator comprising a main member consisting of a rectangular receptacle having a top, a bottom, back and two end walls all relatively fixed with relation to each other, and a door adapted to form a complete front of such member; and a laterally positioned member slidably mounted on the exterior of said main member and adapted to vary the lateral dimensions of the refrigerator, said slidable member having a depth substantially the same as that of said main member, and having its front open.



1,637,461. ELECTRICAL SWITCH. WILLIAM FRANKLIN WELLS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,116. 6 Claims. (Cl. 200—67.)

1. An electrical snap switch comprising a frame equipped with a pair of terminals, a switch lever for the latter pivotally mounted on said frame, a hand-lever pivotally mounted on said frame, a spring held toggle lever pivotally associated at its ends with said switch lever and said hand-lever, a pair of spaced stop formations on said switch lever disposed for alternate engagement by the middle portion of said toggle lever and disposed upon opposite sides of a radius of the pivotal axis of said switch lever, the pivotal axis of said toggle lever on said switch lever being disposed laterally of said radius.

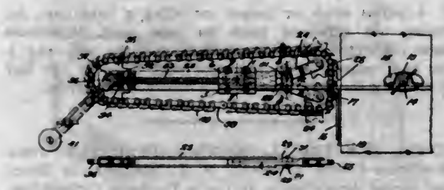
1,637,462. COBBLER'S JACK. JEAN A. YOUNG, Millville, N. J. Filed Mar. 26, 1926. Serial No. 97,742. 3 Claims. (Cl. 12—123.)

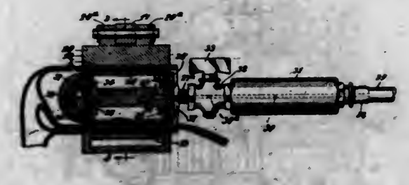


1. In a cobbler's jack, a post, a lower bracket comprising spaced arms, one of the arms extending over the post and having a depending portion entering the post and the other arm being apertured to receive the post which passes therethrough, an upper bracket pivoted to the lower bracket and including spaced arms, a last carrier having a hollow shank mounted in the arms of the upper bracket, and a work holder including a member within the said shank and a strap extending through the shank and the top of the last carrier.

1,637,463. COMBINATION ELECTRICAL CONNECTER AND FIXTURE SUPPORT. REUBEN B. BENJAMIN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Benjamin Electric Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 6, 1920. Serial No. 428,443. 3 Claims. (Cl. 173—338.)

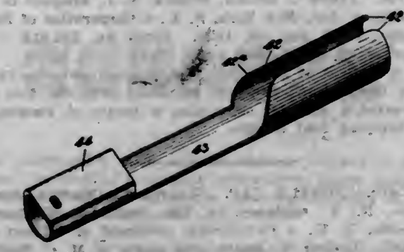
1. A receptacle for cooperation with a plug-in device, which plug-in device has a pair of contact blades, said receptacle having a pair of contact devices for cooperation with said contact blades respectively, each of said contact devices comprising two elongated members extending transversely of the blades between which the blades are received, one of said elongated members being substantially rigid, and the other being a bow spring, said rigid portion having its central portion on one side of the bow spring and its ends on the other side of the bow spring.

1,637,464. MORTISING MACHINE. JOSEPH C. BIANCA, Jr., Scranton, Pa. Filed Oct. 2, 1924. Serial No. 741,238. 1 Claim. (Cl. 144—73.)



A portable mortising machine including a main frame, a supporting beam mounted on the frame and adapted to be moved longitudinally thereof, a pair of arms pivotally carried at one end of the beam, sprockets mounted on the free ends of the arms, a removable spacing member connected with each arm, each spacing member having a shoulder to engage the adjacent arm to hold the arms in spaced relation with each other, an endless cutting member operating over the sprocket wheels and adapted to urge the arms inwardly against the spacing members, and means for operating the cutting members.

1,637,465. TUBULAR-MOLDING APPARATUS. EDWIN W. BIERMAN, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Standard Four Tire Co., Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed July 14, 1925. Serial No. 43,453. 8 Claims. (Cl. 18—38.)

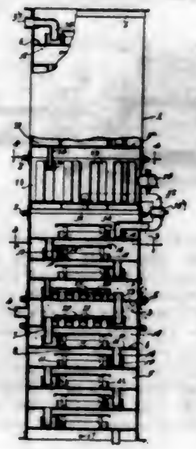


1. Apparatus for vulcanising rubber tube splices, including a hollow steam heated mold formed with a rigid cylindrical inner wall and having a narrow, longitudinally extending key segment that is radially removable to afford a longitudinal slot through which a cuffed endless tube may be inserted for contact of the splice with the cylindrical inner walls of said mold and key, in combination with a loose pivotal mounting for the key upon the mold for swinging the key into and out of the slot in parallelism therewith, the outer part of said slot being substantially wider than the key, the inner slot engaging surfaces of the key being approximately the same size and taper as the slot, and the outer part of the slot being substantially wider than the key to afford clearance for such swinging movement of the key, and said parts being formed with cooperating gauge elements operating as stop to position the inner, tube-engaging surface of the key flush with the corresponding inner surface of the mold.

1,637,466. TUBE-SPLICING METHOD. EDWIN W. BIERMAN, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Standard Four Tire Co., Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Original application filed July 14, 1925, Serial No. 43,453. Divided and this application filed Apr. 17, 1926. Serial No. 102,641. 5 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)

1. The method of curing tube splices which includes folding the tube upon itself to form a two-ply cuff surrounding a section of the tube and with the splice in the outer ply of the cuff, inserting the cuffed tube within a heated mold and inserting an expander within the cuff in such a manner that the expander is surrounded for a semi-circumference only by the two plies of the cuff and through its other semi-circumference by the two plies of the cuff and the two plies of tubing which are enclosed within the cuff, and operating the expander to firmly press the splice into engagement with the hot walls of the mold.

1,637,467. CUFFING DEVICE FOR INNER TUBES. EDWIN W. BIERMAN, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Standard Four Tire Co., Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Original application filed July 14, 1925, Serial No. 43,453. Divided and this application filed Apr. 17, 1926. Serial No. 102,642. 3 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)



1. As a new article of manufacture, a cuffing device for an endless tube, including an approximately cylindrical tube-folding guide having a relatively wide slot therein through which the endless tube is adapted to be inserted prior to being folded back over the guide, said guide being of small diameter in comparison to the endless tube to be cuffed by it, thus permitting ready removal of the cuffed tube, and a shank forming a continuation of one side of the cylindrical guide member and terminating in a handle.

1,637,468. CONTACTING MEANS. HALBERT EVANS BONER, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 21, 1926. Serial No. 103,464. 16 Claims. (Cl. 196—100.)

2. In a fractionating tower, the combination of a receiver for crude oil, a stripper section with screens, means for conducting crude oil from the receiver into the stripper section and for guiding the same to flow across the screens, means for passing a heated vapor or gas up through the screens to vaporise the heavier fractions, a re-boiler above the receiver, a fractionating section above the reboiler and having screens, means for conducting the vapors from the stripper section through the oil receiver, through the re-boiler and through the screens of the fractionating section, means for guiding condensate of substantially the desired fraction across the screens of the fractionating section and into the re-boiler, and means for leading off the vapors from the fractionating section.

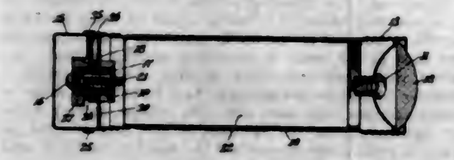
1,637,469. HAIR-TREATING METHOD AND COMPOSITION. JAMES C. BROWN, Newark, N. J., assignor to E. Frederics, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 26, 1926. Serial No. 131,813. 16 Claims. (Cl. 132—36.2.)

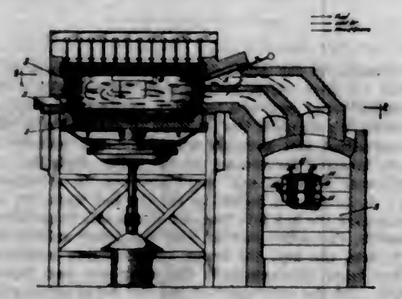
5. A method of imparting a permanent wave to hair, which includes bringing into proximity with the hair to be treated a material containing a borate of ammonia, and applying heat thereto.

1,637,470. BOTTLE CAP. WALTER L. CHAPLIN, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to The Smith-Lee Company, Oneida, N. Y., a Partnership composed of Wilbert L. Smith, Hurlbut W. Smith, and estate of M. C. Smith. Filed July 24, 1924. Serial No. 728,030. 1 Claim. (Cl. 215—51.)



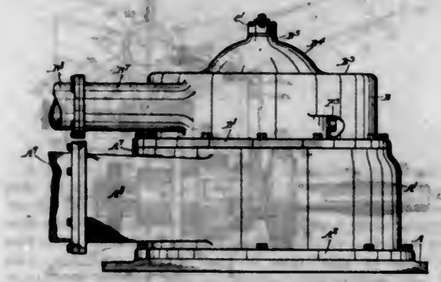
A bottle cap consisting in a paper board disk having on its upper surface a lifting tab which is formed of an integral portion of the disk, that part of the disk beneath the tab being thinner than the remainder of the disk, the tab being separated from the disk excepting at its outer edge and said cap being creased between the tab and its margin on alined lines substantially parallel to the outer connected edge of the tab, said thin portion of the tab and said creases cooperating to form a hinge line across the cap, for the purpose set forth.

1,637,471. SAFETY BURIAL VAULT OR CASKET. JOHN Q. CLARKE, Crawfordsville, Ind. Filed July 28, 1924. Serial No. 728,576. 12 Claims. (Cl. 27—6.)



1. A burial vault or casket including a base part, an open-top bed arranged upon the base part, adjustable clamps connected to the base part and the bed, and a cover part connected to the base part clear of the bed and entirely covering the bed at a distance therefrom.

1,637,472. ELECTRICAL TESTING APPARATUS. JOHN MAXWELL COOTE, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Coote Products Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 21, 1921. Serial No. 479,332. 4 Claims. (Cl. 175—183.)

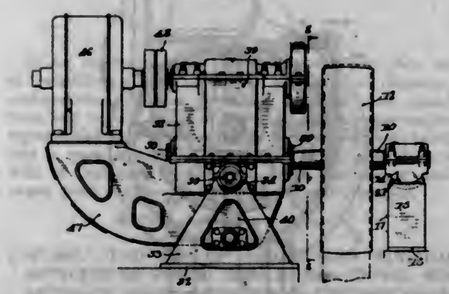


1. Combined testing apparatus and flash lamp, comprising a metallic container provided at one end with a lamp and at the opposite end with a rotatable contact-making test receptacle adapted to receive directly the member to be tested, and an electric battery included between said ends, one pole being electrically connected to the lamp and the other adapted to be connected with the container thru said rotatable means when the same is rotated sufficiently.

1,637,473. FURNACE AND METHOD OF OPERATING THE SAME. ALBERT L. CULBERTSON, Mount Vernon, Ohio, assignor to The Chapman-Stein Furnace Co., Mount Vernon, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 20, 1926. Serial No. 82,423. 10 Claims. (Cl. 49—53.)

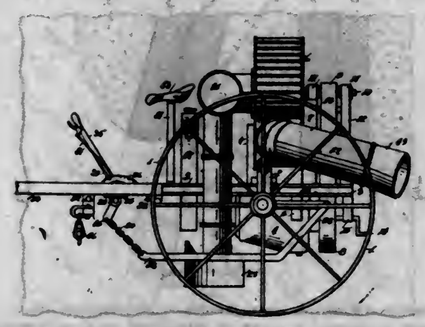
1. A furnace having a hearth, a heating chamber disposed above said hearth, means for moving the hearth relative to the chamber, and inlet and outlet ports for heating gases located at different levels on one side of said chamber to cause the gases to pass across the hearth at one level, turn, and then pass back across the hearth at another level before leaving the chamber.

1,637,474. TURBO BLOWER. CHARLES W. DAKE, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 5, 1926. Serial No. 99,780. 11 Claims. (Cl. 230—11.)



1. In a turbo blower having turbine and blower housings, a rotor interposed between and forming a partition between them, and a bearing support for the rotor mounted on the wall of the turbine housing, extending therethrough and into but out of contact with the blower housing.

1,637,475. WAX EMULSION. LEWIS DAVIS, Worcester, and ELMER W. BENNETT, Westboro, Mass., assignors to Davis & Bennett, Inc., Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Dec. 2, 1924. Serial No. 753,430. 2 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)

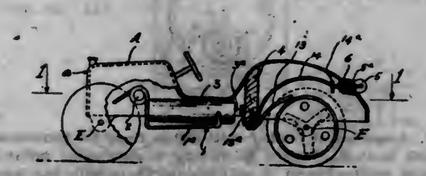


1. A dispersoon consisting of carnauba wax dispersed in water, and a mixture of sodium and potassium stearates serving as the dispersing agent.

1,637,476. ELEVATOR DRIVE. PERCY C. DAY, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Falk Corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Dec. 8, 1921. Serial No. 520,843. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)

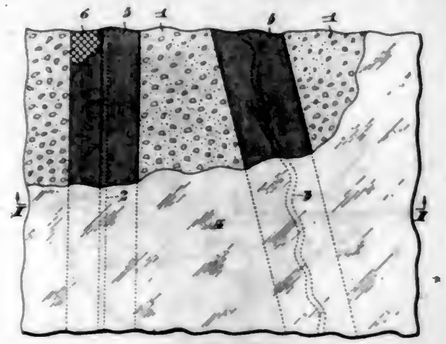
1. In an elevator head the combination of a shaft, a belt supporting pulley carried by said shaft intermediate the ends thereof, a vertically adjustable support for one end of said shaft, a gear casing supporting the other end of said shaft, gears in said casing for driving said shaft, and a pivotal support for said casing permitting said pulley, shaft and gears to be adjusted as a unit to effect proper tracking of said pulley.

1,637,477. INSECT-EXTERMINATING MACHINE. VERNON NEVILLE DELGADO, Waco, Tex. Filed Sept. 1, 1925. Serial No. 53,810. 4 Claims. (Cl. 43—140.)



1. In an insect exterminating machine, the combination with a wheeled supporting frame of a bladed fan mounted on said frame of a coniform baffle plate adjacent the blades of said fan; of a pipe in communication with said fan laterally disposed across said frame having a plurality of flexible suction conduits depending therefrom; of means for driving said fan operative to extract insects and other infested particles from vegetation and convey same into the blades of said fan as said machine is drawn thereover, and means for discharging the masses of matter against an adjacent row of said vegetation.

1,637,478. MUSICAL-INSTRUCTION TOY-APPARATUS. MONA DOWNS, Glendale, Ohio. Filed May 20, 1925. Serial No. 31,653. 1 Claim. (Cl. 84—471.)

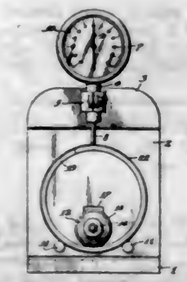


In combination with a board element marked to represent the staff of a musical composition, pieces adapted to represent the key signatures, and opposite sides of the pieces marked to represent related keys.

1,637,479. ELECTRIC TOY. HARRY C. EVELYN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 19, 1925. Serial No. 57,287. 6 Claims. (Cl. 46—48.)

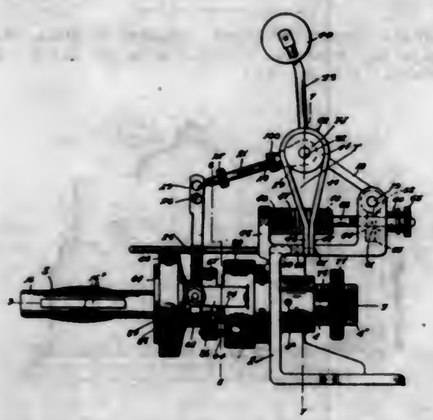
1. In a wheeled toy the combination of a lighting circuit for said toy including a lamp, a battery and a rotative switch for controlling said circuit, comprising a body member adapted to revolve on its axis in the propulsion of the toy, and provided with chambers radiating from its axis, a mass of mercury adapted to flow from chamber to chamber in the rotation of said body member, and terminals located in the path of said mass of mercury and electrically connected in said circuit.

1,637,480. PAVING CONSTRUCTION. ROBERT B. GAGE, Trenton, N. J. Filed Sept. 3, 1926. Serial No. 133,362. 4 Claims. (Cl. 94—18.)



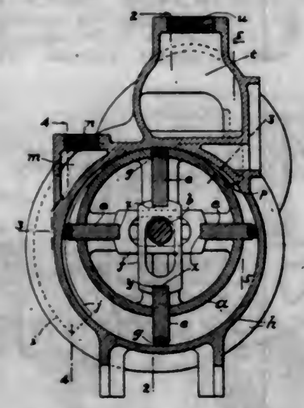
4. A paving construction comprising a foundation containing joints, a wearing surface, and joint coverings in the shape of flat stregthening strips positioned above the joints in said foundation and secured in place by the said wearing surface.

1,637,481. METHOD OF PRODUCING MERCURY. WALTER GLAESER, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 14, 1924. Serial No. 750,000. 3 Claims. (Cl. 75—22.)



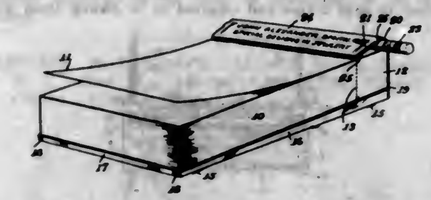
1. In a method of extracting mercury from finely divided cinnabar ore, the step which consists in reacting upon such ore with a hypochlorite of an alkaline or alkaline earth metal and a metal, thereby liberating mercury and forming an amalgam with the metal present.

1,637,482. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR TESTING PISTON RINGS. HARRY S. GRAVES, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Spiral Piston Ring Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 8, 1925. Serial No. 61,210. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—147.)



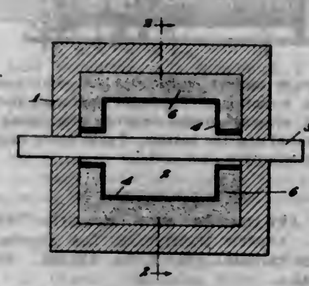
1. A method of testing split piston rings for roundness, which method consists in making a continuous uninterrupted resilient band of uniform thickness with the inner diameter of the band corresponding to the diameter of a cylinder wall, holding the band at its outer wall so that said band cannot yield, placing a split ring under compression in the held band, then releasing the held band so that said band inclosed ring may be handled as a unit, and then rotating the band inclosed ring relative to an indicator engaging the outer wall of the band so that the indicator will show imperfections in the contour of the band corresponding to similar imperfections in the ring inclosed by the band.

1,637,483. TENSION DEVICE. MARTIN B. GROUT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Kellogg Switchboard and Supply Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 5, 1925. Serial No. 6,959. 20 Claims. (Cl. 242—156.)



1. In a winding machine, of the character described, including a rotatable spool holder and a source of wire supply, a winding mandrel, a pivoted rocking element having a to-and-fro movement, a toggle joint supporting said rocking element, a plurality of springs provided with adjustable tensioning means, and means controlled by the tension on the strand of wire between the said wire supply and the said winding mandrel for actuating said pivoted-rocking element to operate said toggle to control said rotatable spool holder, said springs in association with said means maintaining a constant tension upon said strand.

1,637,484. VACUUM PUMP. CYRUS HOWARD HAPGOOD, Nutley, N. J., assignor to The De Laval Separator Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 3, 1924. Serial No. 710,730. 8 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)

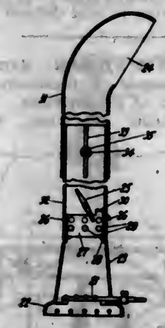


1. In a vacuum pump of the sliding vane type, the combination with a driving shaft, a rotor mounted thereon and oppositely disposed vanes extending through slots in the rotor and slidable radially therein, of a housing enclosing the rotor and vanes and having a true circular bore whose center is offset relatively to the center of the shaft, and slidable spacers between oppositely disposed vanes limiting the approach of such vanes toward each other but permitting their relative recession.

1,637,485. DESK-PAD HOLDER. WILLIAM C. HIERING, Newark, N. J., assignor to J. E. Mergott Co., Newark, N. J., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 1, 1926. Serial No. 98,994. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—66.)

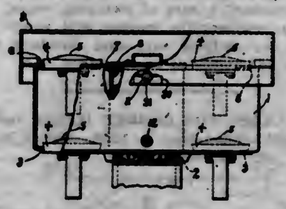
A pad holder comprising a flat base plate to receive a pad, an upright wall at one end of said plate, a downwardly inclined shelf blended by a curved connection with said wall, said shelf having end notches, a plate overlying said shelf folded to engage longitudinally over its front edge, and tabs on the ends of said plate to enter the mentioned notches and be clinched therebelow, the forward edge of said plate presenting a smoothly finished surface pressing on the top of a pad on said base due to the resilience of said shelf.

1,637,486. ELECTRIC FURNACE. JAMES KELLEHER, Chippawa, Ontario, Canada, assignor to Harper Electric Furnace Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 17, 1925. Serial No. 44,183. 2 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)



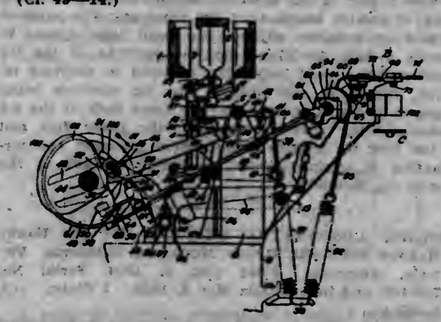
1. An electric furnace comprising end and side walls of refractory silicon material enclosing a chamber, a carbonaceous resistor extending through said chamber from end to end, an inner lining of carbonaceous material surrounding said resistor and forming a chamber therefor, and a packing between the inner lining and the outer wall of sufficient thickness to avoid entrance of silicon vapor from said walls into said resistor chamber.

1,637,487. PROCESS OF SIZING AND FINISHING ARTICLES OF FIBER. FRED M. KERN, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Cincinnati Grinders Incorporated, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 5, 1923. Serial No. 673,041. 3 Claims. (Cl. 51—278.)



1. The method of sizing and finishing an article of fiber which comprises grinding the article with an abrasive element, and simultaneously supplying to the fiber article and the abrasive element a medium containing a non-aqueous liquid which will preserve the surface finish and shape of the fiber article and maintain the abrasive element freely cutting.

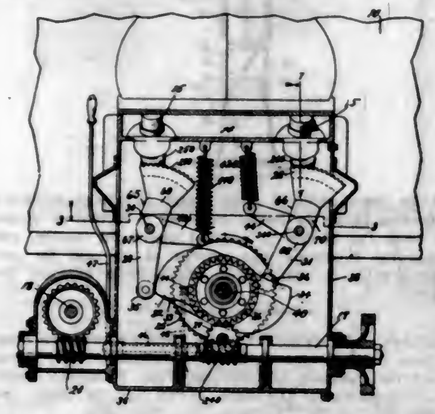
1,637,488. HEATER AND DRIER. OTTO A. KNOPP, Oakland, Calif. Filed June 4, 1925. Serial No. 34,922. 5 Claims. (Cl. 34—26.)



1. In combination, a room heater, a tubular extension projecting above the heater to direct a current of heated air from the heater to a point above the heater, and means for throttling this current of air and for permitting it to be transmitted into a room adjacent the heater.

1,637,489. BREATHER VALVE. JOHN KUHL, San Francisco, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 25, 1924. Serial No. 752,276. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—85.)

A breather valve comprising a body having a hood loosely adapted to fit the body and being spaced therefrom, pressure and vacuum relief valves secured within the body, a flash arrester, means for connecting the said body to a container, and a chamber surrounded by the flash arrester through which the pressure or vacuum is transmitted to the said relief valves.



1,637,490. GLASSWARE-TRANSFERRING DEVICE. EDWARD H. LORENZ, West Hartford, and JOHN DAVIS, East Hartford, Conn., assignors to Hartford-Empire Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 25, 1925. Serial No. 52,344. 12 Claims. (Cl. 49—14.)

1. In combination with a glass shaping mold, a take-out device including means for removing ware from said mold and conveying it laterally a portion of the distance toward a delivery station, and means for receiving the ware from the first-mentioned means and conveying it the remainder of the distance to said delivery station.

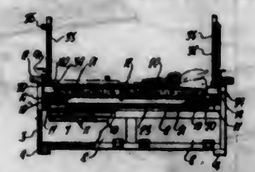
1,637,491. LOCOMOTIVE STOKER. NATHAN M. LOWER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Locomotive Stoker Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 17, 1925. Serial No. 3,026. 11 Claims. (Cl. 110—113.)

10. In a stoker, a pair of swinging vanes, means including cam members for moving said vanes forwardly, and means for shifting said cam members to operate one vane to the exclusion of the other.



1,637,492. CLASP FOR BOBBED HAIR. JOHN D. LUI, Napa, Calif. Filed May 3, 1926. Serial No. 106,328. 1 Claim. (Cl. 132—50.)

A clasp for bobbed hair formed of a single strand of resilient wire which is bent intermediate its ends to provide a pair of leg members, one of said leg members being of greater length than the other one, the portions of said leg members adjacent the bend being spaced to provide a hair receiving loop, the portions of the leg members below said loop being disposed in abutting relation, the lower free ends of the leg members being disposed in diverging relation, the lower ends of the leg members being curved outwardly, the lower free end of the long leg member being curved inwardly and terminating at a point below the lower free end of the shorter leg member.

1,637,493. COMBINATION BED AND COUCH. HARRY MANOTT and JOHN HENRY MCGRATH, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Filed Aug. 6, 1924, Serial No. 730,465, and in Australia May 3, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 5—53.)

In a convertible bed and couch, a couch body having upstanding arms at its ends, each arm including a hand rail, and a back including an open frame pivotally mounted between said arms and adapted to be swung from an upright position at the back of the couch body to a lowered position resting thereon between the arms, upholstery covering the front of said frame, a spring mounted in said frame and adapted to support a mattress in the rear portion of the frame, and members pivoted to said frame and adapted to be swung from an upright to a lowered position in overlying relation to the frame and a mattress carried thereby, latch rods rotatably carried by said end members and having upper and lower arms and adapted to be rotated by the upper arms to move the lower arms into and out of position to engage beneath the hand rails of said arms and retain the end members elevated, and means to releasably secure the end members lowered.

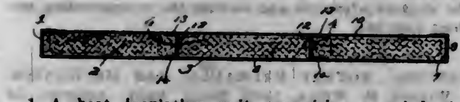
1,637,494. ICE-BOX CONSTRUCTION. ROBERT GEORGE MARSH, Detroit, Mich. Filed Sept. 10, 1923. Serial No. 661,859. 1 Claim. (Cl. 62—31.)

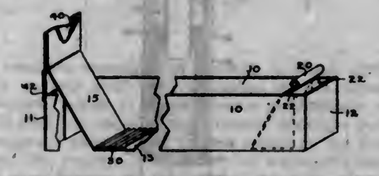
An ice cream cabinet comprising an outer casing, an inner casing, a lining of insulation material about said inner casing, spacing means between the lining of insulation material and the bottom of said outer casing, and a drain connection for each casing.

1,637,495. APPARATUS FOR MOLDING PLASTIC BLOCKS. ANDREW MARTINDALE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 29, 1926. Serial No. 112,441. 3 Claims. (Cl. 25—41.)



3. A machine for forming plastic blocks comprising a base support, a metal mold consisting of a stationary side wall, rigidly secured to said support and a movable front wall carrying end walls hingedly secured to said support, latches pivoted to the stationary wall and engaging the movable wall for locking the walls against movement when the same are brought into operative relation to each other, said side walls having alined openings formed therein, a plunger mechanism including a plurality of plungers connected together for simultaneous movement, a rock shaft mounted on said base support, links connecting the plungers and said rock shaft, a lever for actuating said rock shaft to reciprocate the plungers within the alined openings formed in the side walls of the mold form, and a spring controlled tamper frame mounted on said base support for tamping the plastic material as the same is introduced to the mold form.

1,637,496. MATCH SAFE. JACOB E. NEAHR, Hartsdale, N. Y. Filed June 24, 1924. Serial No. 722,029. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—20.)



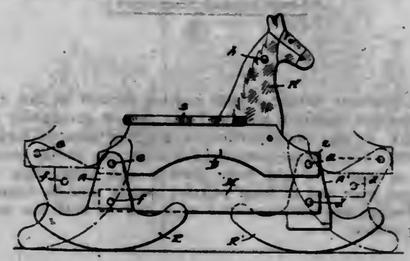
1. A clip for a flexible packet of the described matches, comprising an ash-receiving bowl having a broad bottom, an ash tray, and a pedestal connecting said tray to said bowl, with the tray in close proximity to the bottom of the ash-receiving bowl and coacting therewith to clip firmly the thin end of the described flexible packet thrust between the bowl and the ash-tray.

1,637,497. HEAT-INSULATING UNIT. HENRY W. O'DOWD, Jersey City, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Standard Gas Equipment Corporation, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Apr. 24, 1924. Serial No. 708,646. 2 Claims. (Cl. 154—44.)

1. A heat insulating unit comprising a reinforcing frame, cross members extending between the walls of the same to produce cells therein, strips of heat resisting material associated with the cross members and presenting edge flanges extending parallel with the plane of the face of the frame, a heat resisting fibrous filler in the cells of the frame, and a sheathing of heat resisting material enclosing the frame and filler and cemented to said edge flanges.

1,637,498. RECEPTACLE FOR ADDRESS PLATES. HENRY C. OSBORN, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The American Multigraph Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 24, 1926. Serial No. 118,299. 4 Claims. (Cl. 101—47.)

4. A metal receptacle for address plates, comprising a box having sides, ends and a bottom and an inclined partition forming a continuation of the bottom and leading from its forward end and extending upwardly to an intermediate region on the front and a corrugated sheet of metal resting on the bottom.



1,637,499. TEMPORARY TIRE-TUBE VALVE. GEORGE W. RUNDLETT, Washington, D. C. Filed Dec. 15, 1925. Serial No. 75,535. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—12.)

A temporary valve comprising a tubular casing, said casing being flared outwardly at its lower end, said lower end having screw threads over a portion of its surface, a cover plate screw-threaded interiorly to engage with the screw threads on the lower end of the casing, said cover plate being further provided with an aperture thru the center thereof, a resilient washer retained in the flared portion of said casing and having an aperture adapted to coincide with the aperture in the cover plate, an air valve mounted in the upper portion of said casing, and a cross handle bar for manipulation of the device.

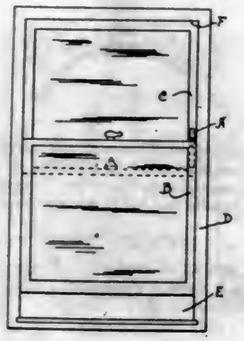
1,637,500. ROCKING-HORSE. WILLIAM H. SHERROD, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 17, 1925. Serial No. 76,032. 2 Claims. (Cl. 272—53.)

1. A rocking horse comprising a body having a pair of horizontal members disposed edgewise, a head attached thereto and extended thereabove, a seat also attached to said members, a rocker pivotally attached to and between the front portions of said members, a pair of rockers pivotally connected to and outwardly of the rear portions of said members, and a pair of horizontal bars pivotally connecting said front and rear rockers and disposed edgewise in the plane of and adapted to engage said body members for limiting the movement of the body.



1,637,501. GROOVING MACHINE. BENJAMIN A. SLOCUM, Binghamton, N. Y., assignor to Ansco Photoproducts, Inc., Binghamton, N. Y. Filed Apr. 19, 1926. Serial No. 103,178. 1 Claim. (Cl. 92—68.)

A grooving machine comprising a base, a supply spool and a take up spool thereon, rollers on said base between which a strip of material is adapted to pass from one spool to the other, V-shaped grooves in one of said rollers and similarly shaped ribs on the other roller adapted to fit in said grooves whereby V shaped grooves are formed in said material, driving means for said rollers and said take up spool, and a friction clutch between said take up spool and said driving means.

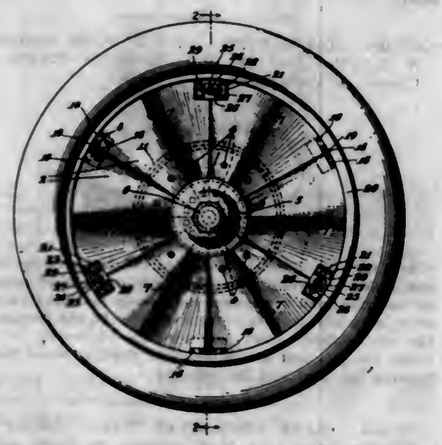
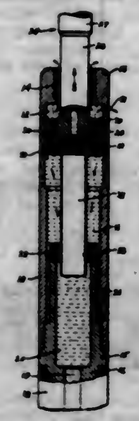
1,637,502. FASTENER. ARTHUR G. STANTON, Fargo, N. Dak. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,793. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—343.)



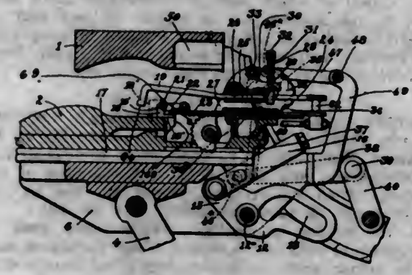
A fastener having a body portion formed of flat, thin spring-like material, marginal ribs formed throughout the length of said body portion, a gripping member formed through the central portion by bending one end to extend at an angle to said body portion and bifurcating the turned over end to form piercing points thereon adapted to engage against a window sash and to hold the same in position.

1,637,503. LEG CONSTRUCTION FOR METAL DESKS. PETER M. WEGE, Grand Rapids, Mich., assignor to Metal Office Furniture Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Aug. 4, 1924. Serial No. 729,884. 5 Claims. (Cl. 45—48.)



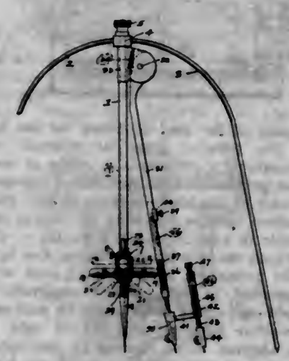
1. A leg for furniture and the means of attaching the same comprising an angle member attached to the outside of a vertical corner of the furniture and having its vertical edges free, a leg member having inturned flanges adapted to slip between the free edges of the angle member and the body of the furniture and means for limiting the upward movement of the leg relative to the body of the furniture.

1,637,504. VEHICLE WHEEL. PHILLIP A. WHITE, St. Albans, N. Y., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-half to Robert W. Simpson, New York, N. Y., and one-half to Evina A. Kemp, New York, N. Y. Filed May 14, 1925. Serial No. 30,154. 15 Claims. (Cl. 301—63.)



6. A disk type wheel made up of radiating sheet metal sections and means for demountably attaching a rim thereto comprising devices located at joints between the sections aforesaid and locking the corresponding sections together.

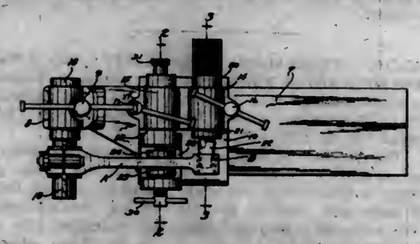
1,637,505. ROTARY HYDRAULIC JAR MECHANISM. WILSON B. WIGLE, Long Beach, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Wm. D. Shaffer, Brea, Calif. Filed June 1, 1925. Serial No. 33,974. 19 Claims. (Cl. 255—27.)



1. A rotary jar mechanism comprising a hollow cylinder constituting a fluid chamber having a counter bore at the upper end thereof, and a jar hammer having a stem extending through the upper end of said cylinder and adapted to be connected to a string of pipe, said stem being normally disposed in the lower portion of said cylinder below the counter bore and having a sliding fit therein, whereby when the jar hammer enters the counter bore the fluid therein will be displaced to cause an impact of the hammer with the cylinder.

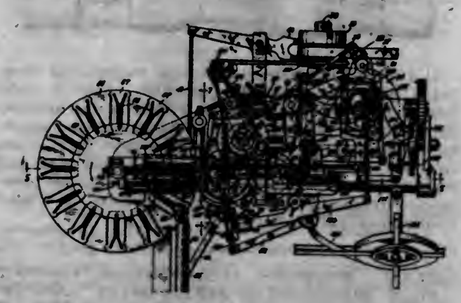
1,637,506. SOLE-PRESSING MACHINE. REGINALD BOYD WOODCOCK and ERNEST HOPE, Leicester, England, assignors to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 5, 1924, Serial No. 690,772, and in Great Britain Feb. 9, 1923. 19 Claims. (Cl. 12—21.)

18. In a sole pressing machine, a sole gage carrying member, and a sole gage on said member having a plurality of gaging surfaces and arranged to have different operative positions corresponding respectively to the said surfaces, whereby the desired surface can be brought into gaging position against a sole.



1,637,507. COMPASS. ALFRED N. ZAVAGNO, San Francisco, Calif. Filed May 24, 1924, Serial No. 715,565. Renewed May 11, 1927. 2 Claims. (Cl. 33—30.)

1. A compass, comprised of a shaft; a frame slidably mounted on said shaft and extending out on opposite sides thereof; a pair of complementary semi-circular segments having the opposite ends thereof pivotally joined to the opposite ends of said frame; means on the frame to adjust the angular position of the segments; and a scribing arm having an end thereof rotatably mounted on said shaft and the opposite end adapted to contact with the periphery of the segments.



1,637,508. ALIGNING AND REAMING MACHINE FOR CONNECTING RODS. WILLIAM AAB, New Ulm, Minn. Original application filed Oct. 5, 1925, Serial No. 60,474. Divided and this application filed Apr. 23, 1926. Serial No. 104,063. 1 Claim. (Cl. 77—62.)

A machine of the kind described having an arbor, a centering member, and a bearing between said arbor and centering member, a tubular shaft mounted in the bearing and having a U-shaped member, and a pair of axially aligned shafts, one of which has threaded engagement with the tubular shaft and the other of which has threaded engagement with the outer prong of said body, said pair of shafts having co-operating jaws at their inner ends between the prongs of said body member.

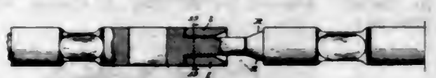
1,637,509. BAG-CLOSING MACHINE. THOMAS ALLATT, Westfield, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Millie Patent Holding Co. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 26, 1922, Serial No. 590,622. Renewed Oct. 23, 1926. 18 Claims. (Cl. 226—56.)

1. A bag-closing machine, comprising a metal strip feeding means, an intermittently moving bag-supporting table, an intermittently moving carrier for receiving said bags from said table, means for transporting the bags from said table to said carrier and puckering the mouths thereof, a second carrier, a cutting mechanism for severing metal bands from said strip, means for forming each band into substantially U-shape and transporting the same to said second carrier, said second carrier moving intermittently and bringing said U-shaped bands into operative relation to the bags on said first-mentioned carrier, and co-acting dies for forming the bands into ring-shape and applying the same to the bags so as to encircle and compress the puckered mouths thereof.

9. A bag-closing machine comprising a metal strip feeding means, a bag support, a carrier for receiving said bags from said support, means for transporting the bags from said support to said carrier and puckering the mouths thereof, a second carrier, a cutting mechanism for severing metal bands from said strip, means for forming each band into substantially U-shape and transporting the same to said second carrier, said second carrier bringing said U-shaped bands into operative relation to the bags on said first-mentioned carrier, and coacting dies for forming the bands into ring-shape and applying the same to the bags so as to encircle and compress the puckered mouths thereof.



16. A bag-closing machine, including a carrier comprising an intermittently moving disk, equidistantly spaced arms projecting therefrom, each arm being provided on its outer end with a longitudinal slot receiving a bag, a lever, two horizontally disposed pins thereon, one above and the other one below said arms, and means for swinging said lever to and from said arms bringing said pins nearer to the center of said disk than the inner end of a slot in an arm before said carrier stops in its intermittent movement.

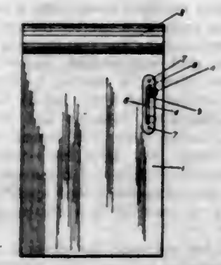
1,637,510. MINERAL-OIL DERIVATIVE AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. GELLERT ALLEMAN, Swarthmore, Pa., assignor to Sun Oil Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 6, 1924. Serial No. 691,023. 4 Claims. (Cl. 87—16.)

1. The process of manufacturing metallic derivatives from petroleum which comprises obtaining from petroleum a composition containing a water soluble fatty acid soap and resinous material having characteristics of the precipitate resulting from the treatment with an alkali of acid-treated mineral oil, but free from mineral oil, adding thereto a water soluble metal salt in amount sufficient to exchange the metallic ion of the added salt for the metallic ion of the water soluble soap, separating out as a sticky mass the metallic derivative, and washing out the other reaction products.

1,637,511. METHOD OF MAKING DRILLING JARS. PAUL ARBON, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Mar. 17, 1924. Serial No. 699,938. 3 Claims. (Cl. 76—101.)



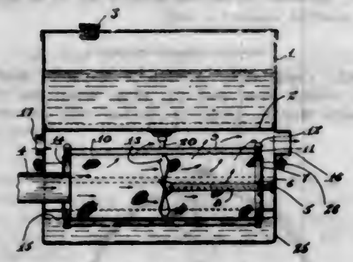
1. A method of making drilling jars consisting in forming a socket member with oppositely disposed slots, forming a stem member with a T-head having substantially flat sides, heating one of said members and inserting the stem member in the socket member so that the cross bar of the T-head will extend into said slots, and then shaping the heated member to cause the socket member to surround the stem member and prevent the T-head from pulling out of said slots.

1,637,512. RESINOUS CONDENSATION PRODUCT FROM DIHYDROXYDIPHENYLETHANE AND REACTIVE METHYLENE BODIES AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. LEO H. BAEKELAND, Yonkers, N. Y., assignor to Bakelite Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 30, 1922. Serial No. 572,082. 7 Claims. (Cl. 260—4.)

1. Process of preparing a resinous condensation product comprising reacting with a hardening agent upon dihydroxydiphenylethane until a resinous condensation product is formed.

1,637,513. SAFETY CATCH FOR SHUTTERS. CARL BORNMANN, Binghamton, N. Y., assignor to Ansco Photoproducts, Inc., Binghamton, N. Y. Filed Feb. 18, 1927. Serial No. 169,385. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—53.)

1. In combination with a camera, a shutter, an operating lever for said shutter, and a saftey catch for said lever.



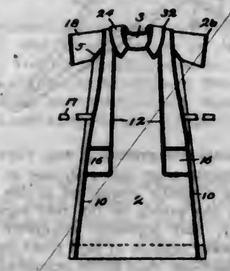
1,637,514. PRODUCTION OF CAUSTIC ALKALI, ETC. LINN BRADLEY, Montclair, N. J., and EDWARD P. MCKEEFE, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 2, 1921, Serial No. 449,244. Renewed Nov. 8, 1926. 16 Claims. (Cl. 23—185.)

1. The method of producing a solution of a causticizible alkali metal salt, which comprises causing an alkali metal sulfate to react with an insoluble calcium salt, the acid radical of which forms a causticizible alkali metal salt, in the presence of an amount of free acid not greatly in excess of the amount required to bring about the reaction, with resulting production of gypsum and a solution of the causticizible alkali metal salt.

1,637,515. TREATMENT OF RESIDUAL LIQUORS. LINN BRADLEY, Montclair, N. J., and EDWARD P. MCKEEFE, New York, N. Y., assignors to Bradley-McKeefe Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 7, 1922, Serial No. 534,768. Renewed Oct. 15, 1926. 18 Claims. (Cl. 23—131.)

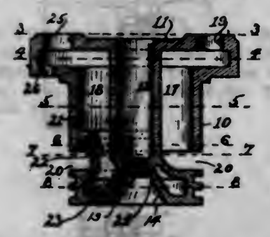
1. The method of treating residual liquor from the production of pulp with a cooking liquor containing essentially sodium sulfite or sodium sulfite and caustic alkali which comprises concentrating the residual liquor and crystallizing sodium sulfite therefrom.

1,637,516. MUFFLER. MORRIS R. BAILLIANT, Roxbury, Mass. Filed Aug. 2, 1926. Serial No. 126,736. 2 Claims. (Cl. 261—92.)



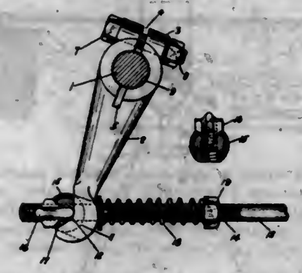
1. Apparatus of the kind described for use in combination with the exhaust pipes of internal combustion engines, comprising a receptacle, a source of water supply in the upper portion of said receptacle, automatic means to admit water to the lower portion of said receptacle to a predetermined level, a rotatable cylindrical screen comprising a pair of spaced members having a plurality of layers of screen mesh mounted thereon and in the lower part of said receptacle, a portion of said screen being always immersed in said water, removable clamping means to hold said screen mesh layers on said spaced members, a propeller fixed to and within said cylindrical screen and adapted to be rotated by the exhaust gases emitted from the exhaust pipe, and an air inlet to, and an outlet from, said receptacle.

1,637,517. GAME APPARATUS. BRUCE A. BRISTOW, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, assignor of one-third to W. Allen Chamberlain and one-third to Dudley A. Bristow, Toronto, Canada. Filed Nov. 28, 1925. Serial No. 72,021. 12 Claims. (Cl. 273—127.)



6. In a game apparatus, the combination of a support; an indicator pivoted intermediate its ends on said support whereby it may occupy a "set" position with its weight mainly at one side of the axis on which it moves, or a tripped position with its weight mainly on the other side of the axis on which it moves; and a depending lever pivotally connected with said support, said lever when rocked while the indicator is in set position being adapted to move the latter a sufficient distance to overbalance it so that it will move to the tripped position.

1,637,518. FROCK. MARY V. BRUNK and DAISY D. HARRISON, Kansas City, Kans. Filed Aug. 9, 1926. Serial No. 128,160. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—74.)



A garment having neck and arm openings, detachable sleeves having extensions at their upper portions to project into said arm openings, a retaining element fixed to the under portion of each sleeve and adapted to engage the interior of the garment adjacent to the respective arm openings, and retaining elements secured to the sleeve extensions and adapted to engage over the exterior of the garment adjacent the neck opening and form a collar.

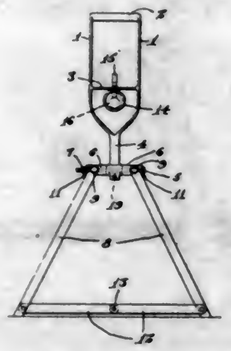
1,637,519. CYLINDER HEAD FOR SLEEVE-VALVE INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Corporation, Reno, Nev., a Corporation of Nevada. Filed Nov. 30, 1926. Serial No. 151,645. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—75.)

1. A cylinder head for sleeve valve internal combustion engines, a hollow formed cylindric body of two diameter periphery, a cylindric wall extending substantially axially with and in the center of the body, a recess formed within the said cylindric wall, the said recess opening through the end of the body having the end periphery of greatest diameter, a threaded aperture opening from the other end of the said recess through the end of the body of least periphery diameter, partitions formed within the hollow interior of the body, the said partitions dividing the interior chamber of the body into a cell and a passage way, the said cell being adapted to contain cooling fluid, the said passage way being adapted to provide a fresh fuel charge passage communication through the head, an opening formed from the said cell through the end of the body having the cylindric periphery of greatest diameter, the said passage way within the body opening through the end of body which end is of greatest diameter and the said passageway opening through the periphery of the body of least diameter.

1,637,520. BRAKE-CONTROL-ACTUATING MECHANISM. ADIEL Y. DODGE, South Bend, Ind., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Bendix Brake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 22, 1924. Serial No. 701,172. 3 Claims. (Cl. 287—90.)

2. Connections comprising, in combination, a lever, a link, an adjustable device connecting the link and lever, and a spring yieldingly holding said device, the lever and said device having surfaces in operative engagement to turn said device automatically to a predetermined angular position when pressure is applied to the lever.

1,637,521. SHANK AND SOCKET FASTENING DEVICE. GEORGE HENRY ELWELL, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Carr Fastener Company, Cambridge, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Nov. 21, 1921. Serial No. 516,818. 9 Claims. (Cl. 24—211.)

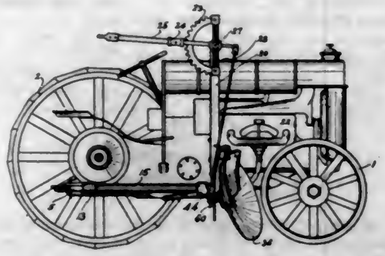


1. A fastener comprising, in combination, a socket presenting a stud-receiving aperture surrounded by a wall of fixed dimensions, a stud having two parts axially movable relative to each other to permit engagement and disengagement between the stud and the socket, one of said parts provided with fixed means engageable with the wall surrounding the stud-receiving aperture, while said other part provides rigid means for preventing separation of the stud and socket until axially shifted relative to said part which engages said socket.

1,637,522. SHINGLE COVERING. JAMES H. GRAHAM, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Johns-Manville Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 22, 1926. Serial No. 143,405. 3 Claims. (Cl. 108—9.)

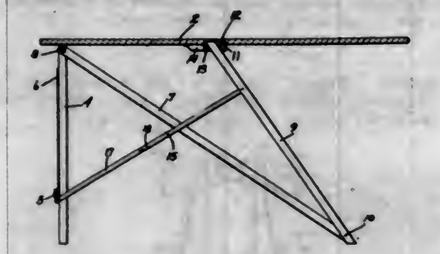
1. Shingle covering comprising interchangeable shingles preperforated near the head for roof-nails and near the foot for storm nails, interchangeable spacers having roof nail perforations placed to register with roof nail perforations of the shingles, a spacer secured near the head of each shingle by roof nails driven through the registering roof nail perforations of shingle and spacer, storm nails, each having a head and a clinching shank, the head lying between a spacer of one tier and roof covering material nailed thereover and the shank passing up through the storm nail perforation in a shingle of the next overlying tier, and each shingle fitting between spacers on shingles in the tier next below.

1,637,523. GARDEN-HOSE SUPPORTER. BURTON C. HAMILTON, Brookline, Mass. Filed Sept. 28, 1926. Serial No. 138,209. 1 Claim. (Cl. 248—29.)



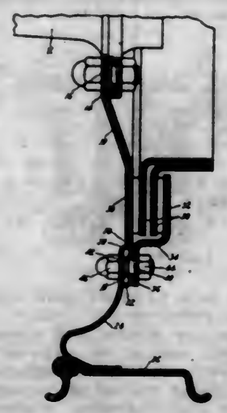
A hose supporter of the kind described, comprising a body portion adjustably mounted on a support, a handle at one end of said body portion, a rib in said body portion, hose receiving and supporting means and a hose retaining spring affixed to said rib, and means to permit adjustment of said body portion.

1,637,524. LOCKING MEANS FOR ROTARY MEMBERS. JAMES H. HARRIMAN, San Francisco, Calif. Filed May 24, 1926. Serial No. 111,174. 1 Claim. (Cl. 151—20.)



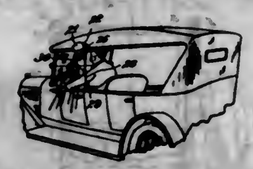
A washer provided with a solid body of gradually tapering thickness and split through its thickest portion, and said washer having an opening therethrough of a substantially triangular form rounded at one of the inner corners of the triangle.

1,637,525. TRACTOR PLOW. TOM HUSTON, Columbus, Ga., assignor to C. R. Medley, Columbus, Ga. Filed June 23, 1923. Serial No. 647,210. Renewed Oct. 23, 1926. 16 Claims. (Cl. 97—47.)



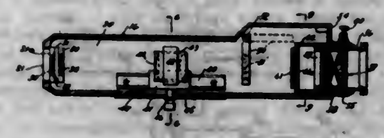
1. A plow attachment for tractors comprising a thrust bar having means to connect it to the tractor's draw bar, a plow frame disposed between the front and rear tractor axles and having means to mount it on said bar, means to transmit the working thrust of the plow frame to the forward end of said bar, a bracket adapted for rigid connection to the tractor frame and having a bearing for the forward end of said bar, a disk plow mounted on said frame, and means to adjust the frame about the thrust bar's axis.

1,637,526. IRONING TABLE. JOHN E. KALGREN, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to J. R. Clark Company, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Mar. 24, 1924. Serial No. 701,434. 3 Claims. (Cl. 68—10.)



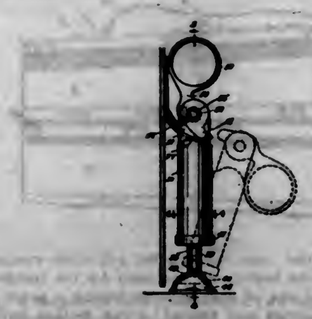
1. An ironing board comprising a top, rear legs pivotally connected thereto near one end, one at each side thereof, a front leg pivotally connected at the same end of the top between the pivots of the rear legs, supports extending upwardly, and pivotally connected at their lower ends to the lower portion of said front legs, a brace comprising hinged sections, said brace extending from the upper portions of said supports to the lower portion of said rear legs, a bracket on the under side of the top providing an open end recess between the top and bracket, a bar connecting the upper ends of the supports and adapted to rest in said recess when the board is in use but movable out of the recess when the top is slightly tilted thus permitting the sections of the brace to be folded and said leg and supports collapsed.

1,637,527. WHEEL. LUDGER ELIZE LA BRIE, South Bend, Ind., assignor to Motor Industries, Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 24, 1925. Serial No. 64,662. 6 Claims. (Cl. 301—6.)



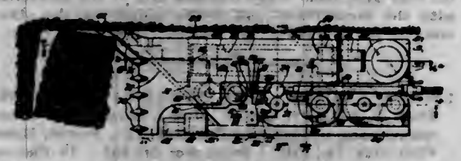
3. A wheel comprising, in combination, an inner disk rabbeted a short distance from its outer edge to form a circular shoulder and having a radial friction surface on its inner side within the outline of said shoulder, a drum part having a flange overlapping the outer part of the inner disk on its inner side outside the outline of said shoulder, thence offset inwardly and continued as a radial friction flange opposite and parallel to said friction surface, an annular outer rim-carrying disk seated at its inner edge on said shoulder, and fastenings passing through the disks and the overlapping flange of the drum part.

1,637,528. AUTOMOBILE SIGNAL ACCESSORY. JOHN E. LIBRICH, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed July 17, 1924. Serial No. 726,438. 2 Claims. (Cl. 177—329.)



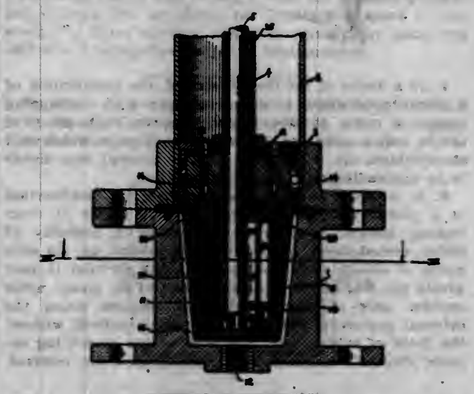
2. An automobile accessory comprising a lamp support by which it may be attached to an automobile, an electric switch, and an operating element connected to said switch and adapted to be extended into the normal horizontal path of movement of the signaling arm of the driver, said operating element comprising a flexible cord.

1,637,529. FOCUSING INSTRUMENT FOR CAMERAS AND THE LIKE. GEORGE A. MITCHELL, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Mitchell Camera Corporation, a Corporation of California. Filed Aug. 28, 1926. Serial No. 132,089. 17 Claims. (Cl. 95—44.)



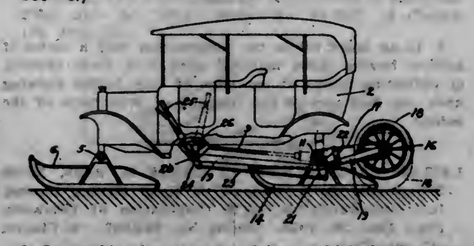
1. A focusing instrument for cameras, embodying a defined image receiving plane adapted to receive an image from a photographic lens of a camera, a second defined image receiving plane spaced fixedly from the first mentioned image receiving plane, and an objective lens positioned between the two said planes and movable to and from them into positions in each of which it casts an image from the first mentioned plane into the second mentioned plane.

1,637,530. AUTOMOBILE HOOD CLAMP. RAYMOND G. MOORE, Bridgeport, Conn., assignor to The Bassick Company, Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Oct. 28, 1924. Serial No. 746,294. 7 Claims. (Cl. 292—69.)



1. In a clamp, a tubular barrel formed of sheet metal bent transversely into tube form about the axis of the barrel and forming a longitudinal seam, the line of bending being parallel to the axis, spaced integral extensions on said barrel at each side of the seam, and rigid means connected and forming a rigid support between said extensions adapted to maintain them rigidly with respect to each other and to secure the tubular relation of said barrel.

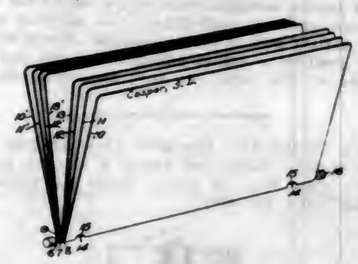
1,637,531. MINING MACHINE. EDMUND C. MORGAN, New York, N. Y.; Olive Eugenie Morgan executrix of said Edmund C. Morgan, deceased. Filed Nov. 15, 1920. Serial No. 424,050. 113 Claims. (Cl. 262—5.)



33. A mining machine comprising a supporting frame, an upright series of coal digging and splitting devices, and an upright wall at the forward end of said frame in angular position to engage dislodged material and cause the same to slide along the same away from the mine wall.

1,637,532. MOLD FOR FORMING CONTAINERS. WILLIAM HAROLD OLIVER and EDWIN S. CULVER, Oakland, Calif. Filed Nov. 22, 1923. Serial No. 676,232. 5 Claims. (Cl. 92—60.)

1. The process of forming containers or the like which consists of introducing pulp in a mold member, inserting a core member within said pulp, squeezing the pulp by means of a flexible diaphragm adjacent one of said members in the direction of the other member, carrying away the surplus liquid squeezed from the pulp by a current of air passing through drainage means in the member toward which the pulp has been squeezed.



1,637,533. TRACTION DRIVING MEANS FOR VEHICLES. HERMAN E. PEARSON, Wayzata, Minn. Filed June 8, 1923. Serial No. 644,147. 3 Claims. (Cl. 180—6.)

3. In combination a motor driven vehicle having runners in lieu of wheels and including a rear axle having the usual driving means, an auxiliary axle in the rear of the rear axle having traction wheels, driving connections between the wheels and the driving means, thrust bars connected with and swingingly supporting the auxiliary axle and extending and pivoted forwardly of the rear axle of the vehicle, bellcranks rockably mounted on the rear axle, links connecting one arm of the bellcranks with the thrust bars, and means connecting the other arms of the bellcranks, for rocking the cranks.

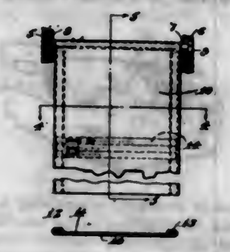
1,637,534. FILING AND INDEXING EQUIPMENT. JOHN T. QUIGLEY, Boston, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Postindex Company, Inc., Boston, Mass. Filed July 14, 1919. Serial No. 310,691. 10 Claims. (Cl. 129—16.)

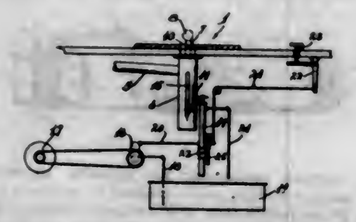
1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a plurality of sheets arranged in a series of overlapping groups, a series of sheet-holders, one for each group of sheets, and a mounting presenting bearings in which said sheet-holders are mounted to turn to present said sheets in an upstanding or a depending position.

6. In a device of the class described, the combination of a plurality of sheets arranged in a series of overlapping groups, each group comprising a plurality of folded, nested sheets, a series of sheet-holders, one for each group of sheets, each sheet-holder being received in part within the fold of the innermost sheet of its group, while another part of such sheet-holder extends along the external surface of the outermost sheet entirely without the folds of said sheets, and a mounting presenting opposed channels in which said sheet-holders are received.



1,637,535. INDEX. JAMES H. RAND, North Tonawanda, N. Y., assignor to Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc., Tonawanda, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 18, 1922. Serial No. 645,999. 12 Claims. (Cl. 283—41.)

1. In an index device the combination with a series of holders having index material upon both faces thereof, of indicating means at one edge of each holder showing upon one face thereof the contents of both faces of the holder.



1,637,536. INDEX DEVICE. JAMES H. RAND, North Tonawanda, N. Y., assignor to Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc., Tonawanda, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 26, 1923. Serial No. 682,647. 4 Claims. (Cl. 40—72.)

1. An index comprising a support mounted to revolve freely in opposite directions, a stiff resilient holder carried by the support, the holder having integral flanges at its opposite edges, and a plurality of removable index lips provided with indicia upon their opposite sides and having their ends secured beneath the respective flanges, the holder being so constructed and arranged that the opposite sides of each slip are exposed to view.

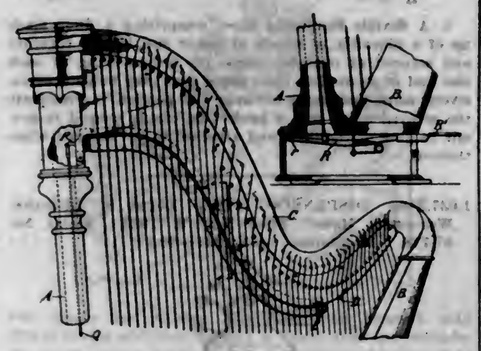
1,637,537. AUTOMATIC GOLF-BALL TEE. THOMAS C. ROBERTS, Long Beach, Calif. Filed May 28, 1927. Serial No. 194,886. 7 Claims. (Cl. 273—33.)

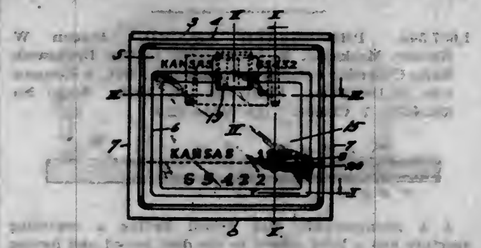


1. An automatic golf ball tee comprising a hydraulic cylinder, means to supply liquid to said cylinder, a tee, means operatively connecting said cylinder and tee, and means to release the liquid from said cylinder when it is desired to depress the tee and replace a ball thereon.

1,637,538. GOLF-CLUB CARRYING CASE AND BAG. HAROLD A. SAMPSON, Burlingame, Calif. Filed July 16, 1924. Serial No. 726,337. 4 Claims. (Cl. 150—1.5.)

1. A combination case and bag for golf clubs comprising hinged sections having one end open for the reception of the clubs and one of said sections having a notch on the edge of the open end thereof, a cap section having releasable fastening means for securing it to the hinged sections over the projecting clubs, a bag carrying strap secured at one of its ends to the notched edge of the open end of one of the hinged sections and detachably secured at its opposite end to the lower portion of the same section whereby the detachable end may be placed in the cap section when the parts are assembled as a carrying case, and a handle for the carrying case arranged on one of the sections.

1,637,539. HARP DAMPER. EMIL O. STARKE, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,458. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—264.)

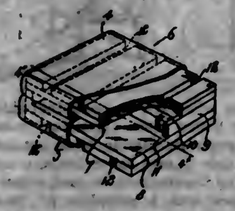


2. In combination with a harp having a curved neck which includes a pair of curved action plates embracing a downwardly open space back of the strings, a damper bar of curved outline similar to that of the neck mounted adjacent the strings below said action plates and a pair of carrying plates for said bar extending respectively from the lower edges of the action plates and spaced apart to accommodate actuating mechanism for the bar, said mechanism comprising plungers attached to the damper bar at intervals in its length, extending perpendicularly from the plane of said bar and slidably mounted in one of said carrying plates, a cam associated with each plunger and rockable about the axis thereof for moving the bar toward the harp strings, together with links connecting said cams for simultaneous operation and disposed between the two carrying plates, said plates being of such width as to fully mask said links throughout the length of the damper bar.

1,637,540. REVERSIBLE COLLAR. PHILIP SUKNOW, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Joseph V. Roemer, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 14, 1926. Serial No. 122,415. 4 Claims. (Cl. 2—131.)

1. A reversible collar comprising two separate plies having cooperating band and fold over top forming portions, a reinforcement between the band forming portions of said plies having a folded over edge for establishing the fold line of the collar, and means for securing the band forming portions of said plies and said reinforcement together and for also securing the fold over top portions of said plies together at their edges only in a manner to form a comparatively stiff band and also to provide a fullness in the fold over top whereby the latter folds readily in either direction upon and conforms to the band.

1,637,541. MOTOR-CAR IDENTIFYING APPLIANCE. STRAUD K. WOOD, Hutchinson, Kans. Filed Jan. 24, 1927. Serial No. 163,060. 12 Claims. (Cl. 40—17.)



1. A car identifying appliance comprising a housing consisting of a back member and a front member having a window, slidably connected together, a suitable support against which the back member fits, means for fastening the back member to the support, a transparent plate within the housing and covering the said fastening means and rendering the same inaccessible, a certificate within the housing and fitting against the back of said transparent plate, and means within the housing projecting through the certificate for tearing the same in the event the front member and said transparent plate are slid out of engagement with the back member.

1,637,542. CAR-IDENTIFYING APPLIANCE. STRAUD K. WOOD, Hutchinson, Kans. Filed Mar. 21, 1927. Serial No. 177,114. 7 Claims. (Cl. 40—10.)

1. An appliance of the character described, comprising a pair of casing members fitted slidably together and conjointly providing a chamber, the front member having a window opening; a plate fitting in the casing and transparent opposite the window opening and provided with a groove in its rear face, a certificate interposed between the back member of the casing and said plate and bridging said groove in the latter, and a key removably mounted in the casing and projecting through the certificate into said groove.

1,637,543. BALE-DIVIDING DEVICE. ALFORD C. BARROWS, Ann Arbor, Mich., assignor to Economy Baler Company, Ann Arbor, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Apr. 20, 1925. Serial No. 24,603. 5 Claims. (Cl. 100—24.)

1. A bale dividing device for baling presses using covering material for bales comprising upper and lower walls against which a portion of said covering material lies, said device also having provision for receiving another portion of said covering material during the time the material to be baled is being compressed.

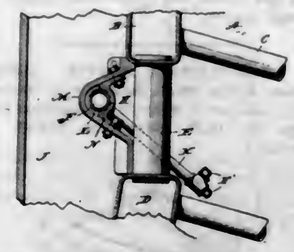
1,637,544. PHONOGRAPH RECORD. JOSEPH W. BISHOP, Muskegon, Mich., assignor to The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 20, 1923. Serial No. 633,463. 7 Claims. (Cl. 274—42.)



1. A phonographic disk record having a centering aperture and a label affixed to the disk record and having an opening registering with said aperture, the edge of the label at said opening being embedded in the body of the record to prevent the wearing and damaging of said edge.

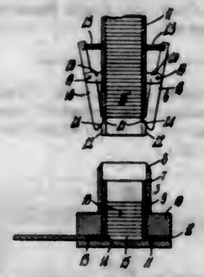
✓1,637,545. CONTAINER FOR EYEBROW PENCILS AND THE LIKE. ARTHUS H. BOSWORTH, Wichita, Kans. Filed Apr. 21, 1925. Serial No. 24,799. 3 Claims. (Cl. 206—56.)

1. A container for eye-brow pencils and the like, comprising a tube closed at one end, a U-shaped soft pencil-engaging combined buffer and clip in the closed portion of the tube, and a freely movable weight between the closed end of the tube and the combined buffer and clip.

1,637,546. SOOT BLOWER. FRANK BOWERS, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Diamond Power Specialty Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 28, 1919. Serial No. 334,025. 5 Claims. (Cl. 122—392.)

1. In a boiler structure, the combination with a header and a bank of boiler tubes extending from said header, of a series of water circulation tubes extending from said header at an angle to said boiler tubes, a rotatable blower header extending transversely to and adjacent said water circulation tubes and a plurality of branch discharge pipes projecting from said blower header between said water circulation pipes and adapted to discharge upon said boiler tubes.

1,637,547. INSULATING MATERIAL. HAUGHTON BROWN, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Dec. 24, 1925. Serial No. 77,629. 2 Claims. (Cl. 154—45.)

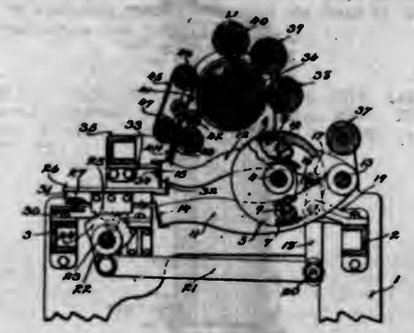


1. A flexible insulating sheet comprising a filler made up of a plurality of sheets of paper laid loosely together and secured at opposite edges, the sheets being of such size and so secured at their edges that they bulge progressively more and more towards the portion intermediate the secured edges, and a protecting casing shaped to permit bulging of the filler and attached to the secured edges thereof.

1,637,548. DISPENSING TOP. LOUIS S. BURBANK, Worcester, Mass. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,718. 10 Claims. (Cl. 221—60.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a dispensing container for the purpose described, having a top provided with an opening therethrough, an elastic sheet covering said opening and having a passage therethrough out of registration with said opening, and means for holding the sheet against the surface of the top.

1,637,549. COIN RECEPTACLE. DANIEL L. CHANDLER, Worcester, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to William H. Whitcomb, Newton, Mass. Original application filed June 30, 1924, Serial No. 723,390. Divided and this application filed Mar. 9, 1925. Serial No. 14,067. 5 Claims. (Cl. 133—1.)



5. A coin receptacle in two parts, namely a tubular base having a beveled upper edge and an auxiliary tube detachably positioned on the upper end thereof, and a spring actuated lever constituting a detent pivoted to said auxiliary tube and adapted to project beneath a column of coins therein when said auxiliary tube is detached from said base, the lower end of said lever being adapted to engage the beveled upper end of the base when the auxiliary tube is being positioned thereon, whereby the lever will be moved from beneath a column of coins in the auxiliary tube and allow the same to enter the base.

1,637,550. INTERFOLDING MACHINE. PETER J. CHRISTMAN, Jr., Green Bay, Wis., assignor to Paper Converting Machine Co., Green Bay, Wis. Filed Dec. 22, 1926. Serial No. 156,405. 7 Claims. (Cl. 270—39.)

7. In an interfolding machine, the combination of a pair of holders having inwardly directed marginal lips, means for successively feeding sheets downwardly towards said holders, an upper and a lower tucker blade adapted to tuck the sheets into the space between said holders, said holders acting as supports for the interfolded sheets, and means for causing relative motion between said tucker blades and said holders in timed relation, whereby the upper tucker blade passes downwardly between said lips and the lower tucker blade passes upwardly between said lips.

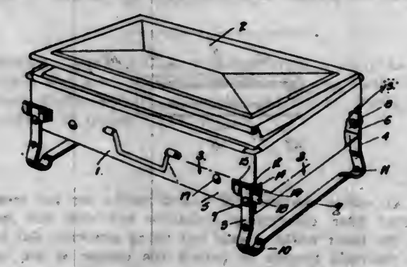
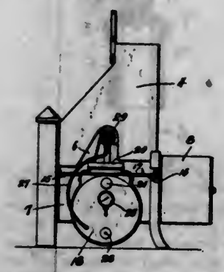
1,637,551. GOLF TEE. GEORGE CLAUSING, Portsmouth, Ohio, assignor to The Vulcan Last Company, Portsmouth, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 19, 1927. Serial No. 176,807. 9 Claims. (Cl. 273—33.)



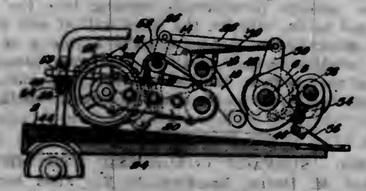
1. In combination, a tee, a plurality of detachable ground engaging means mounted therein, and means for yieldingly clamping said ground engaging means in said tee.

1,637,552. CENTRIFUGAL MACHINE. WILLIAM C. COLEMAN, Wichita, Kans. Filed Aug. 6, 1923. Serial No. 656,101. 3 Claims. (Cl. 209—199.)



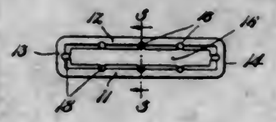
1. A centrifugal separator comprising a casing having an inlet and an outlet, upstanding supporting members carried by the casing, a disk fast on the casing, a flange depending from the disk, and a distributing collar between the ends of the flange.

1,637,553. RECEPTACLE-SUPPORTING MEANS. WILLIAM C. COLEMAN, Wichita, Kans. Filed Sept. 6, 1924. Serial No. 736,373. 3 Claims. (Cl. 220—69.)



1. A receptacle having slotted side walls, latch bars fastened to the inner faces of the side walls having jaws projectable through the slots, legs pivoted to the said side walls engageable by the jaws and cross bars connecting the legs.

1,637,554. HEATING STOVE. WILLIAM C. COLEMAN, Wichita, Kans. Filed Oct. 3, 1925. Serial No. 60,248. 11 Claims. (Cl. 126—93.)



1. A stove comprising a casing, a burner in the casing having a vapor inlet, a unit removably associated with the casing, the unit comprising a tank to contain liquid under pressure, a vapor generator having valve connections with the tank and means of connecting the vapor generator to the tank, the unit being bodily movable into the casing to aline the generator with the vapor inlet in the burner, and spaced supporting means carried by the casing and removably supporting the unit in cooperative relation with the vapor inlet.

1,637,555. SHEET-FEEDING MACHINE. FRANK L. CROSS, Port Washington, N. Y., assignor to Cross Paper Feeder Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Nov. 15, 1922. Serial No. 601,112. 10 Claims. (Cl. 271—38.)

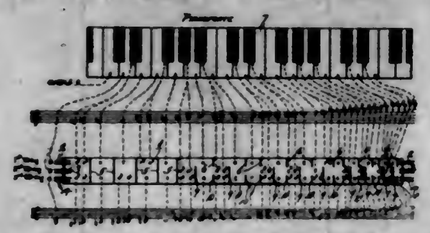
1. A sheet feeding machine having, in combination, a comber for separating and advancing the top sheets of a pile, means for blowing air against the edges of the sheets, during each sheet separating cycle, and means for automatically regulating the action of the blowing means on the sheets in accordance with the condition of the sheets being operated upon by the comber.

1,637,556. EDIBLE CONTAINER FOR ICE CREAM. JAMES DENARO, Cambridge, Mass. Filed Apr. 20, 1925. Serial No. 24,320. 2 Claims. (Cl. 99—10.)

1. An edible container of baked pastry for ice cream or other filler, comprising a shallow box with one open end; the inner walls of said box being generally flat but with channels therein to permit the escape of air outwardly as the filler unit is introduced to the box.

1,637,557. BARBER'S DISPENSING BOTTLE. ROY DEPUE, Milford, Iowa. Filed Nov. 8, 1926. Serial No. 147,144. 1 Claim. (Cl. 215—41.)

In combination with a bottle having an elongated neck with a bead thereon, a bottle stopper comprising a resilient symmetrical integral head and sleeve, said sleeve adapted to embrace the outer portion of the bottle neck and having a boss at the juncture of the sleeve and head to interlock with the bead, said head having a symmetrical projection extending outwardly from its central portion and having rounded exposed surfaces to contact with the human part to which contents of the bottle is being applied, said head and projection having a continuous passage therethrough opening into the bottle neck and to the exterior, the inner wall of said passage being plain, and a stopper element having a threaded shank adapted to be forced into said plain passage for causing the resilient material to enter into the spaces between the threads of the shank to form a leak-tight fit.



1,637,558. SURFACE CONDENSER AND METHOD. FRANK M. DOYLE, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Sept. 15, 1926. Serial No. 135,515. 17 Claims. (Cl. 257—28.)

1. A surface condenser comprising a shell within which is an elongated steam space, said shell being provided with a steam opening adjacent one end of the steam space to cause the steam being condensed to flow longitudinally along the steam space; cooling tubes traversing said steam space longitudinally; means to circulate a cooling fluid through said tubes in the direction of flow of the steam, whereby the tubes are coldest at the entrance end of the steam space and warmest at the opposite end; means to purge the steam space of noncondensable gases by withdrawing them from that portion of the steam space which is adjacent the warmest portion of the cooling tubes; and means to cool said gases after they have been withdrawn from the steam space.

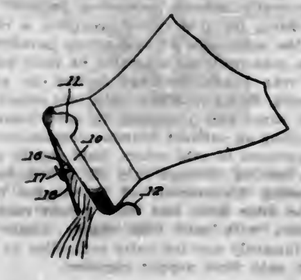
1,637,559. STRINGED INSTRUMENT. ADOLPH FRANIC, Fort Recovery, Ohio, assignor to Tamboritza Manufacturing Company, Fort Recovery, Ohio. Filed June 12, 1926. Serial No. 115,658. 6 Claims. (Cl. 84—485.)

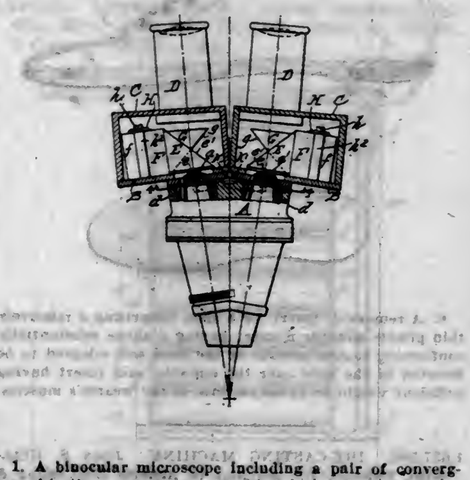
3. The combination with a finger board having first, second and third strings extending longitudinally over the finger board, of whole tone frets carried by the finger board adjacent one side thereof and disposed beneath the first string, half tone frets carried by the finger board beneath the second string and arranged longitudinally on the finger board substantially centrally thereof, and octave change frets carried by the finger board adjacent the opposite side thereof and disposed beneath the third string.

1,637,560. CARTON-BLANK SEPARATOR. JACOB H. KRAPF, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 30, 1926. Serial No. 110,495. 5 Claims. (Cl. 271—1.)



1. A device of the class described comprising a frame having a magazine for supporting a stack of blanks, means for supporting the lowermost blank, an ejector arranged to shift the lowermost blank edgewise for separating it from the stack, and a plurality of fingers pivotally mounted on the sides of said frame for supporting said blank in its separated position, said fingers being movable out of supporting position to permit the blank to drop vertically from such position.

1,637,561. TOY STRIKING BAG OR THE LIKE. HAROLD GREGORY FRENCH, South Haven, Mich. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,901. 1 Claim. (Cl. 272—77.)



In a device of the character described, a bag having one end of flaring shape, and a supporting handle for the bag formed from a single blank of flexible material having an elongated rectangular intermediate portion and trapezoidal end portions, said rectangular intermediate portion being folded longitudinally to provide a plurality of plies and being folded transversely to define a loop, said trapezoidal end portions being located within the smaller end of the bag and secured thereto in conforming relation to the shape thereof.

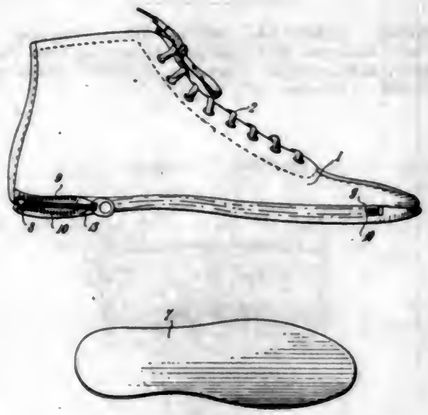
1,637,562. AUTOMATIC BOTTLE CAP. ROBERT R. FRYE, Worcester, Mass. Filed Mar. 31, 1926. Serial No. 98,884. 2 Claims. (Cl. 215—63.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a bottle cap comprising a circular perforated wall to cover the open mouth of the bottle, means for detachably holding it on the bottle, and a circular imperforate plate movably connected with said wall at its center and arranged to cover the perforations when the bottle is in upright position and to swing away from the perforated wall when the bottle is inverted in all directions.

1,637,563. BINOCULAR MICROSCOPE. CHARLES L. GARY, Kenmore, N. Y., assignor to Spencer Lens Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Aug. 17, 1925. Serial No. 50,639. 12 Claims. (Cl. 88—39.)

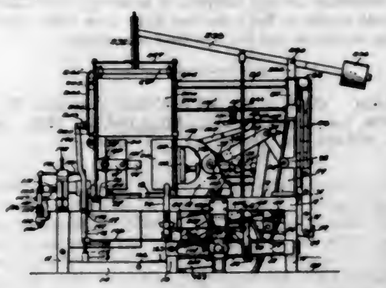
1. A binocular microscope including a pair of converging objectives arranged with their optical axes at an angle to each other to produce stereoscopic effect, eyepieces converging at a smaller angle than said objectives, and reflecting means interposed between said objectives and said eyepieces for reflecting light from said objectives to said eyepieces and for erecting the image.

1,637,564. CLIP AND RETAINER. GEORGE T. GILLETTE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 24, 1926. Serial No. 156,817. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—259.)



1. As an article of manufacture, a restraining clip comprising; a unitary metallic body comprising front and back sections in contact for a part of their length, the front section being longer with respect to the back section; fingers located at the sides of the front section; a centrally located finger in the rear section; and rearwardly curved free ends of the fingers.

1,637,565. PHYSICAL-DEVELOPMENT SHOE. ABRAHAM L. GORDON, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 13, 1926. Serial No. 148,179. 6 Claims. (Cl. 272—70.)



2. A shoe having a compartment located adjacent to its out-sole and provided with an opening in one side for admission into said compartment, one or more weighted members adapted to be inserted into said compartment to add weight to the shoe, and means to detachably retain edges of the opening closed for retaining the members in the compartment.

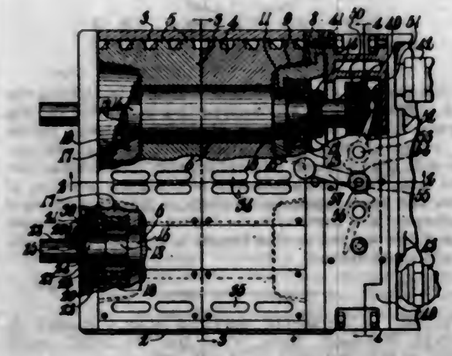
6. A removable insert for a shoe comprising a relatively thin pliable metallic member having a shape substantially conforming to the contour of the shoe sole adapted to be inserted in the shoe over the out-sole, said insert having sufficient weight to cause exercise of the wearer's muscles.

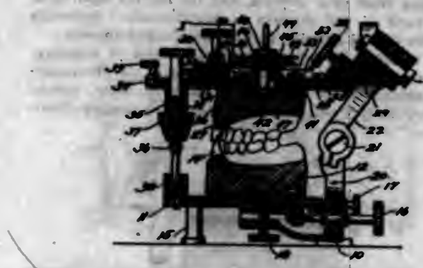
1,637,566. DIE-CASTING MACHINE. JOHN S. GULLSORG, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Alemite Die-Casting & Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 1, 1924. Serial No. 729,450. 26 Claims. (Cl. 22—69.)



1. In a die casting machine, the combination of die mechanism, a relatively stationary metal pot, a nozzle dipping in said pot, said nozzle having upwardly turned ends, one of said ends having a compressed air connection, an upwardly pointed nozzle spout at the other end of said nozzle, means for moving said nozzle relative to said pot to bring said nozzle spout into communication with the under side of said die mechanism for transferring the molten metal thereto, and spring means cooperating with said last named means for holding said nozzle spout in resilient engagement with said die mechanism.

1,637,567. RUBBER-COMPOUND PAVING BLOCK. RUFUS F. HERRICK, Winchester, Mass. Filed Sept. 16, 1924. Serial No. 738,018. 1 Claim. (Cl. 94—11.)

A paving block for roadways constructed in one piece of rubber compound and comprising a body portion having a flat bottom face and a series of ribs extending longitudinally thereof and projecting downwardly therefrom, the opposite side faces of said ribs converging downwardly and said ribs being spaced apart both transversely and longitudinally of said block and from the opposite sides and ends thereof, the spaces between said ribs being open at their opposite ends, and rods projecting through said ribs and spaced apart from the flat bottom face of said block.

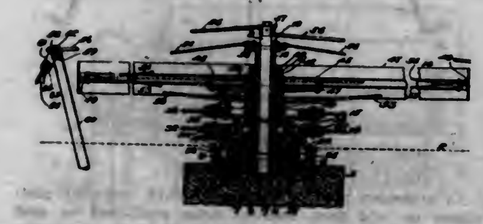


1,637,568. ROTARY FLUID-PRESSURE MOTOR. MORRIS P. HOLMES, Claremont, N. H., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Jeffrey Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Original application filed Nov. 10, 1916, Serial No. 130,579. Renewed Apr. 21, 1922, Serial No. 555,916, Patent No. 1,544,398. Divided and this application filed Sept. 4, 1923. Serial No. 660,803. 27 Claims. (Cl. 121—70.)

25. In a rotary engine, the combination with a pair of rotors each provided peripherally with means forming series of generally helically extending pressure receiving pockets, a casing for said rotors providing a rib extending across the lower side of said rotors parallel to their axes and in conformity to a portion of their peripheries, front and rear heads, bearings carried by said front and rear heads, shafts rotatable with said rotors and supporting the same and journaled in said bearings, said casing providing an exhaust chamber communicating with the upper surfaces of said rotors, fluid supply means for said rotors opening through said rib and including passages extending transversely of the engine below the plane of the rotor axes, and relief means constantly in communication with said fluid supply means and including an inwardly opening valve controlled by the pressure within said fluid supply chamber.

1,637,569. DENTAL TRITURATING APPLIANCE. MILUS M. HOUSE, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Nov. 6, 1924. Serial No. 748,070. 3 Claims. (Cl. 32—1.)

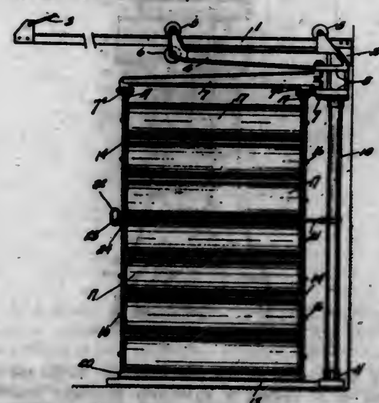
1. An attachment for articulators or occluding frames, comprising a denture-holding element adapted for removable connection to the articulator or frame, said element being also adapted for universal floating movement in a single plane, and means for imparting to said element a continuous unidirectional movement of small amplitude.



1,637,570. RUNNING BOARD. MATTHEW WALTER HUBER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Motor Wheel Corporation, Lansing, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,805. 1 Claim. (Cl. 280—169.)

As an article of manufacture, a running board for vehicles comprising a sheet metal pan-like base containing a hardened originally plastic composition, the base having longitudinally extending elevations of less height than the pan depth, a metal plate fixedly secured to the lower face of the pan and bridging the recess formed beneath the elevations, and bolts for removably attaching the plates to the hanger brackets of the vehicle with the bolt heads accommodated within the recess above the plates.

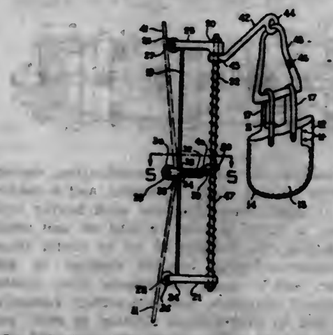
1,637,571. DUPLEX OIL-WELL PUMPING POWER. HERBERT H. ICE, Muskogee, Okla. Filed July 3, 1926. Serial No. 120,848. 15 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)



14. In an apparatus of the class described, the combination with a casting, a shaft fastened upon said casting, of a tapered sleeve on said shaft, and a belt wheel and an eccentric adjustably mounted on said tapered sleeve.

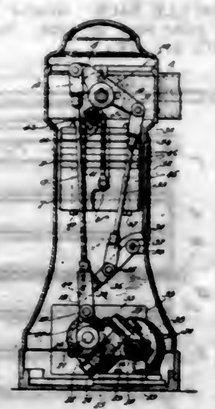
1,637,572. METHOD OF MAKING SHEARS. WILLARD A. ISBELL and HENRY H. CANFIELD, Woodbury, Conn. Filed Apr. 5, 1926. Serial No. 99,771. 2 Claims. (Cl. 76—104.)

1. The process of making a shear member for a pair of tension shears, which comprises placing a thin blade of steel upon a supporting shear bow, inserting a separating strip of non-metallic material between the portion of said blade and bow extending from the pivot point to the inner end of said blade, heating said parts to a welding temperature and forcing said blade and bow together under pressure.



1,637,573. DISPLAY RACK. GUSTAF JOHANSSON, Bay City, Mich. Filed Sept. 10, 1923. Serial No. 661,801. 5 Claims. (Cl. 211—18.)

1. The combination with a fixed rail, of a trolley mounted thereon, horizontally extending hanger arms pivotally secured at their inner ends to said trolley, and spaced apart hanger bars depending from said hanger arms.



1,637,574. LIFE-SAVING DEVICE FOR CHILDREN. ELIZABETH KARIKAS, McKeesport, Pa. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,909. 1 Claim. (Cl. 227—11.)

In a device of the class described, a supporting member comprising a bracket provided with an upper extended portion, and a lower extended portion, at right angles thereto, to accommodate a rod rigidly attached thereto, said bracket provided with an upper yoke and a lower yoke, extended therefrom at right angles, and in an opposite direction to the said upper extended portion and the said lower extended portion, an upper pulley rotatively mounted on a pin rigidly attached to the said upper yoke, a lower pulley, rotatively mounted on a pin rigidly attached to the said lower yoke, an intermediate pulley rotatively mounted on a pin rigidly attached to the extremities of a U shaped support, slidably mounted between protruding portions of the said bracket, and centrally positioned on the said bracket, a coil spring disposed between the said bracket and the head of the said support, and held in place by a protruding portion of the said bracket, and a protruding portion of a disc attached to an adjusting screw threadedly attached to the said head of the said support, said adjusting screw provided with a lock nut.

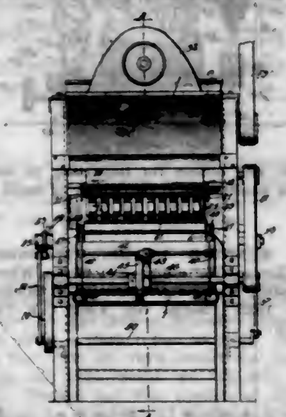
1,637,575. GATE MECHANISM. Max Kushlan and Hugh E. Young, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 14, 1921. Serial No. 444,872. 3 Claims. (Cl. 39—7.)

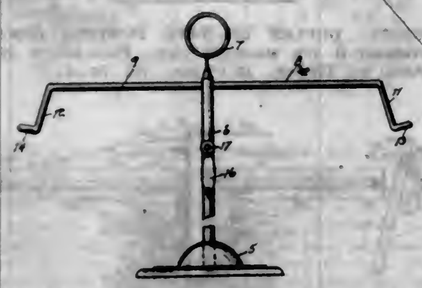
1. In mechanism of the character set forth, the combination of a casing, a gate arm pivotally connected therewith, means for operating said gate arm, a counterweight, a rod operatively connected with said gate arm eccentrically of its pivot, a lever pivotally supported at one end and connected between its ends with said rod, and a connection between said lever at its onter end and said counterweight.

1,637,576. AUTOMATIC OIL BURNER. Thomas M. Lambeth, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 8, 1926. Serial No. 107,583. 4 Claims. (Cl. 236—8.)



1. In an automatic oil burner, in combination, casings defining separated oil and steam chambers, and a control chamber, said oil and steam chambers each having inlet and outlet ports, a valve in each of said oil and steam chambers controlling the passage of oil or steam therethrough, a pressure-operated control element in said control chamber, and a single continuous stem passing through the several chambers, and operatively connected to said valves and to said control element to shift said valves upon movement of the control element, said stem projecting from said chambers, and means operable upon rotation of said stem for adjustment of one only of said valves relative to its port and independent of the other valve and said control element.

1,637,577. CHOCOLATE-DIPPING MACHINE. Elmo G. Lanzi, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Bonus Candy Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 14, 1922. Serial No. 568,142. 14 Claims. (Cl. 91—4.)



1. In a device of the kind described and in combination, a hopper, carriers, a movable delivery table normally out of the path of movement of said carriers, and a plurality of means for feeding articles from said hopper into said carriers, dipping said filled carriers, forcibly ejecting said articles from said carriers, and for moving said table into the path of the carriers at predetermined intervals so that the dipped articles may be discharged thereon.

12. In a device of the kind described and in combination, a hopper, a dipping vat, a plurality of circumferentially spaced series of cages, a delivery table, means for automatically feeding articles from said hopper simultaneously into all of said series of cages, means for dipping the filled cages in said vat, means for discharging the dipped articles onto said table, means for moving all of said cages in unison forwardly a predetermined distance to discharge the dipped contents of one series of cages onto said table and then backwardly half of said distance to fill said emptied series of cages, and means for moving said table in synchronism with the forward movement of said cages to receive said discharged articles thereon.

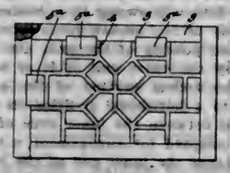
1,637,578. DISPLAY RACK. Walter W. Lewis, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Feb. 26, 1925. Serial No. 11,780. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—14.)

In a display rack, a base, a standard vertically positioned on said base, resilient arms positioned on said standard, said arms extending horizontally outwardly therefrom, and in opposite directions to each other, said arms being bent downwardly and outwardly so as to form hooked extensions, said hooked extensions serving to support and tension a garter or the like display thereon, and a retaining element positioned on said standard and serving to engage a portion of said garter for the purpose of displaying the same in a stretched position.



1,637,579. SIGN. Lewis R. Long, Peoria, Ill. Filed Sept. 5, 1925. Serial No. 54,691. 6 Claims. (Cl. 40—76.)

1. In a changeable sign, an actuator comprising a web, having a fixed center shaft projected from one of its faces and having a worm gear rim, a drum having thrust bearing on said shaft, and pins on the web member engaging the drum to rotate the drum with the web member, a worm meshing with said worm gear, and means for driving the worm.

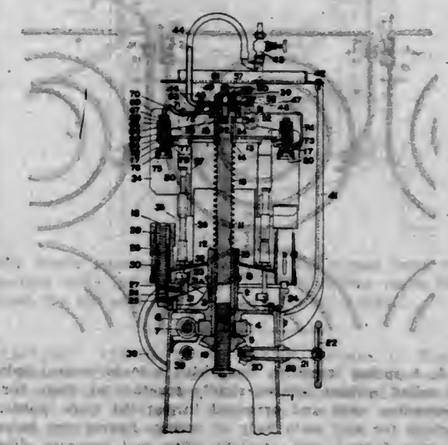
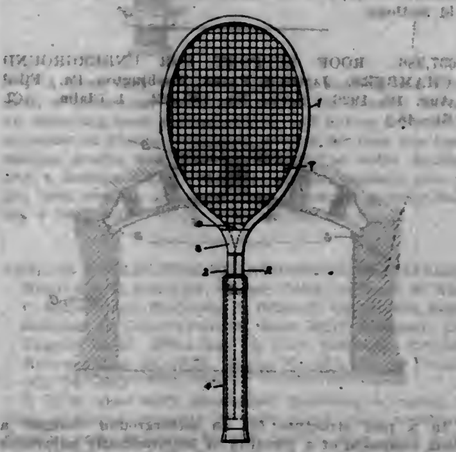
1,637,580. TILE WALL OR FLOOR. Charles A. Lowry, Shaker Heights, and Frederick H. Abel, East Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 17, 1925. Serial No. 44,287. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—23.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a framed tile slab, comprising a tile facing, a removable surrounding frame, and a backing of hardening plastic material cast while plastic within said frame and behind said facing, said frame thereby accurately fitting the monolithic slab within it and protecting the same during handling and shipping, and said slab upon removal of said frame being adapted for assembly with others to form a tile surface.



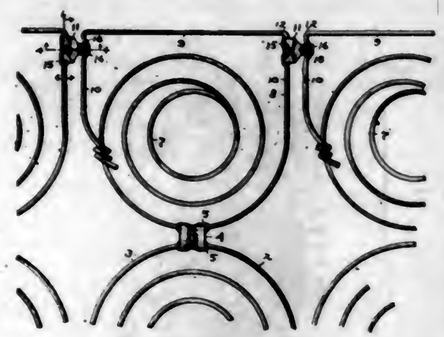
1,637,581. CLOTHES WRINGER. Samuel N. McClean, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 28, 1920. Serial No. 398,938. 12 Claims. (Cl. 68—32.)

1. A clothes wringer provided with companion opposing rolls, a floating spring, and means including cable and sheave mechanism for operatively connecting said spring with the opposite ends of one of the rolls so as to automatically adjust the tension between said rolls.



11. A clothes wringer provided with a pair of companion rolls, a wringer frame carrying the rolls and having a cylindrical part formed beneath the rolls, a drip-board movable around the cylindrical part of the frame as a bearing support therefor, a floating spring carried within the cylindrical part of the frame and connected with the opposite ends of the upper roll for automatically regulating the tension between said rolls, and driving means connected with the lower roll.

1,637,582. BOTTLE-FILLING MACHINE. William Meadowcroft, Blackburn, England. Filed July 17, 1923, Serial No. 652,088, and in Great Britain Sept. 19, 1922. 3 Claims. (Cl. 226—98.)

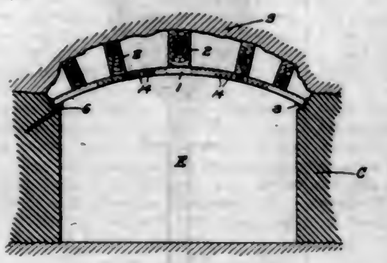


1. In a bottle filling machine, a support provided with a vertical bearing, a sleeve journaled in the bearing, a table secured to the sleeve and provided with bottle rests, a shaft splined to the said sleeve and revolving with it and the table, a top plate secured to the said shaft and provided with bottle filling heads, a spring supporting the said top plate and shaft, adjusting devices for raising and lowering the shaft and top plate, and driving mechanism for revolving the said sleeve.

1,637,583. RACKET FOR TENNIS AND SIMILAR GAMES. Harold W. Norton, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Dayton Steel Racquet Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 17, 1922. Serial No. 575,586. 1 Claim. (Cl. 273—73.)

A tennis racket frame constructed of channel-section metal having, on its inside perimeter, outwardly-beveled portions containing string-receiving holes.

1,637,584. SPRING CUSHION, MATTRESS, SEAT, AND BED. DAVID T. OWEN and WESLEY G. LEHMANN, Cleveland, Ohio; said Lehmann assignor to said Owen. Filed Oct. 25, 1922. Serial No. 596,716. 2 Claims. (Cl. 5—270.)

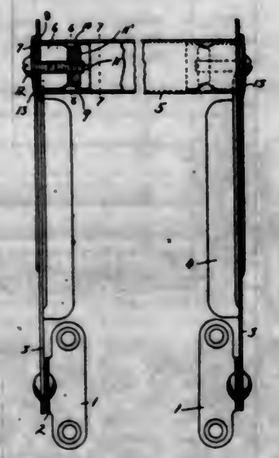


1. A spring structure, comprising a main central body of coiled springs jointed rigidly together at their corresponding ends and arranged in parallel rows, border springs for said main body of springs having end loops of wire formed with straight sides, and separate clips indented into and rigidly united with each end loop of the border springs and hinged to the next adjacent loop co-extensively with the straight sides thereof.

1,637,585. SECTIONAL RAILWAY CAR. ROBERT L. PARKER, Oakland, Calif. Filed Oct. 30, 1924. Serial No. 746,747. 9 Claims. (Cl. 105—4.)

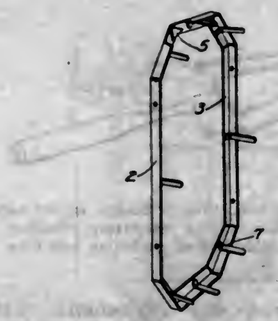
1. A railway car comprising pivotally connected separable sections, trucks supporting the extremities of said car, a common truck arranged to support said sections at their point of connection, and a unitary vestibule mounted for pivotal movement about the pivotal axis of said sections.

1,637,586. ROOF SUPPORT FOR UNDERGROUND CHAMBERS. JAMES S. PATER, Washington, Pa. Filed Aug. 19, 1926. Serial No. 130,222. 1 Claim. (Cl. 61—45.)



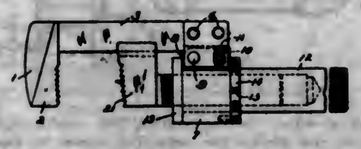
In a roof structure for an underground chamber a beam composed of a plurality of longitudinally adjustable upwardly arched channel-shaped sections nested one within another and pinned one to another through registered pin-holes, the said beam engaging at its ends opposite walls of the chamber, and load supporting members resting on the beam.

1,637,587. WIRE STRETCHER. ERNEST L. PELTS, Rapid City, S. Dak. Filed Jan. 16, 1926. Serial No. 81,804. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—81.)



A wire stretcher comprising an arm, the intermediate portion thereof being arched, wire gripping means carried by the outer end of said arm, a lever comprising a pair of parallel spaced flat strips, a block secured between the outer ends of said strips, wire gripping means associated with said block, a hook pivotally secured between the inner ends of said strips, the inner end of said arm being pivotally secured between the spaced strips of the lever at a point adjacent the outer end thereof, the inner end portion of said arm being adapted to be confined between the spaced outer end portions of the strips of the lever when the latter is swung to a horizontal position, whereby the ends of the broken fence wire are disposed within the arched portion of the arm, the wire gripping means carried by the outer end of lever being also disposed within the arched portion of the arm when the lever is swung to a horizontal position in one direction, the hook secured between the inner ends of the strips of the lever being adapted for engagement with the portion of the wire adjacent the inner end of the lever when the latter has been swung to its horizontal position whereby the wire will be held taut.

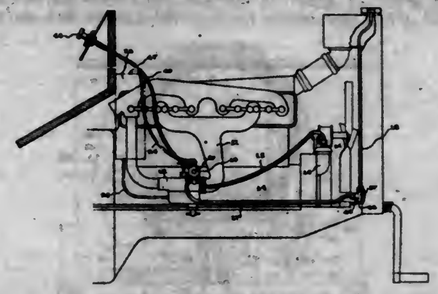
1,637,588. FOOT REST. ALBERT T. POTTER and ALBERT B. MEDVILLE, Detroit, Mich., assignors to Ainsworth Manufacturing Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 7, 1924. Serial No. 684,856. 9 Claims. (Cl. 296—75.)



1. In a foot rest, a support, an expansible member, means for rigidly securing said expansible member to said support, a foot rail telescopically engaging said member, and means independent of said first mentioned means for expanding said member for detachably securing said rail thereto.

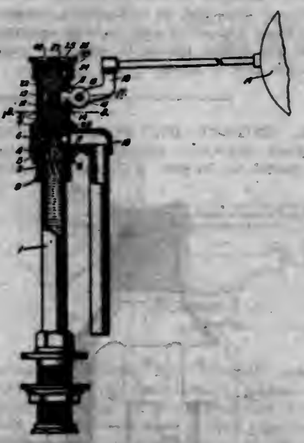
1,637,589. PICTURE FRAME. EDWARD H. ROBERTS, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Oct. 26, 1925. Serial No. 64,816. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—156.)

In a device for holding picture elements, a frame element comprising a strip of sheet metal bent longitudinally to form a side rail and a keeper flange and bent transversely to shape the frame, straps having flanges and adapted for seating in the angles formed by rail and keeper flange of the frame, said strap flanges welded to the keeper flange, the straps welded to a limited portion of the said rail that they contact, said straps being adapted for adjustable bending over the said picture elements to hold the same in the device.



1,637,590. WRENCH. NATHAN H. ROBINSON Braintree, Mass. Filed Apr. 8, 1924. Serial No. 704,954. 2 Claims. (Cl. 81—99.)

1. A wrench comprising a movable jaw having an integral elongate screw threaded shank, said jaw having a guide groove in its rear face, a substantially cylindrical handle having an internally screw threaded bore in one end to receive the shank of the movable jaw, said handle having a fixed flange at the end in which the bore is formed, a holder mounted upon the handle to turn freely relatively thereto, one end of said holder bearing against said flange, a collar secured to the handle and bearing against the other end of the holder to retain the latter in operative position axially of the handle, the last-named end of the holder having a plurality of socket openings therein, a pin carried by the collar, said pin being engageable with any selected one of said openings to lock the handle against rotation, a fixed jaw having a substantially straight and smooth shank slidably engaging the guide grove in the rear face of the movable jaw, and means attaching the shank of the fixed jaw to the holder.



1,637,591. FUEL ECONOMIZER. FRANK H. ROTH, Bay Shore, N. Y. Filed Aug. 25, 1925. Serial No. 52,457. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—25.)

1. In combination with an internal combustion motor, a mixing valve in communication with the intake manifold of the motor, a conductor effecting communication between the mixing valve and the crank case, a moisture supply conductor connected with the mixing valve, a valve carried by the mixing valve and mounted for fixed setting to regulate the supply from the mixing valve for full load consumption of the motor, and a manually controlled valve interposed between the mixing valve and the intake manifold for regulating the supply from the mixing valve for variation of load conditions under full load, the last said valve having a remote control.

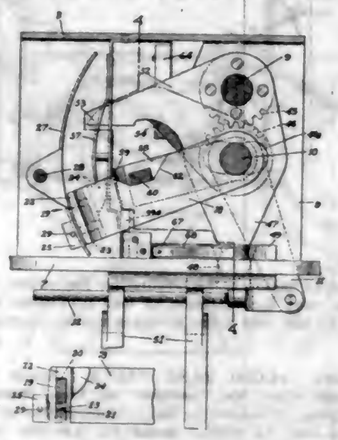
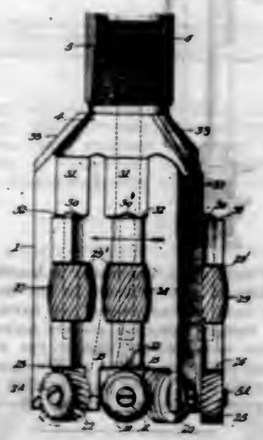
1,637,592. FLUSH-TANK VALVE. JAMES C. RYAN, Kansas City, Mo., assignor to Ross Manufacturing Company, Kansas City, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Oct. 11, 1926. Serial No. 140,785. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—104.)



1. A flush tank valve comprising a housing and valve seat, a cylindrical valve slidable in the housing having an operating head seating groove, and having a series of unconnected leakage collection grooves between the head seating groove and the seat end of the valve member and a leakage collection groove at the opposite side of the head seating groove, and an operating member having a head seated in the head seating groove.

1,637,593. SELECTIVE TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. BENJAMIN F. SCHMIDT, Exeter, Calif., assignor to King C. Gillette and Benjamin F. Schmidt, Copartners, doing business as Gillette-Schmidt Gear Shift Company, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 12, 1919, Serial No. 296,385. Renewed Jan. 25, 1922. Serial No. 531,734. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—58.)



1. In a gear shift mechanism including a casing, a plate having a plurality of open ended slots positioned therein, arms mounted in said casing, gear shift forks operatively connected therewith to move the same and having their ends projecting through the slots in the plate, actuating means for the arms and gear shifting forks, means for selecting any of said arms, a member slidably mounted in the casing adapted to move into any of the slots to select a gear change, an operating means mounted on the steering wheel of the vehicle, operative connections between the slidable member and said operating means, a sleeve surrounding the connecting means, said connecting means being parted therein and spring means in the sleeve connected to the parted ends whereby movement of one end of connecting means in either direction when the other end is held against movement, will cause the spring means to compress until such last named end is free to move.

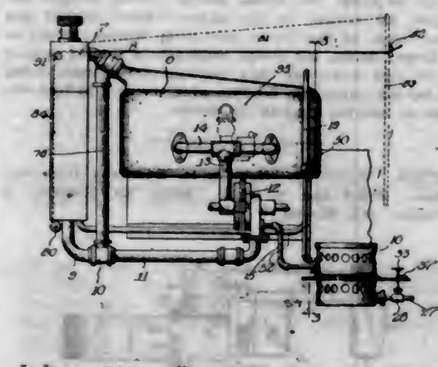
1,637,594. ROTARY BIT FOR DRILLING WELLS. ALEXANDER STEWART, Denver, Colo. Filed Mar. 15, 1926. Serial No. 94,883. 8 Claims. (Cl. 255—71.)



1. The combination in a tubular well drilling bit; of a rotatable stem comprising a water supply pipe, a drill bit consisting of a body portion detachably secured eccentrically to the lower end of the water supplying pipe; said body portion being provided with recesses in its periphery on one side thereof; rotary cutters mounted therein on vertical shafts secured in said body portion; said body portion having its upper end sloping downwardly from its connection with its supporting stem, and radial ridges on said downwardly sloping surface having a cutting edge; said body portion being also provided with radial shafts on its bottom surface provided with a plurality of rotary cutters, arranged to cut out the entire circular area of the bottom of the well hole being drilled by said rotary bit.

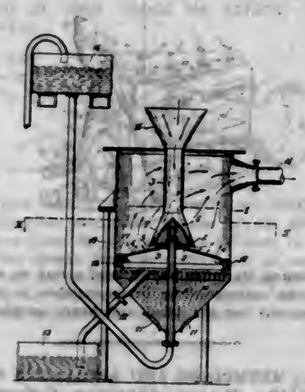
1,637,595. MOP. HERBERT M. STURGIS, Kansas City, Mo., assignor to Sturgis Mop Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 18, 1924. Serial No. 756,700. 4 Claims. (Cl. 15—228.)

1. A mop frame comprising a handle, spaced bars extending from the handle, and rearwardly extending, outwardly diverging spring fingers carried by said bars.

1,637,596. HEATER FOR AUTOMOBILE WATER-COOLING SYSTEMS. EDGAR AMES TURNER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 30, 1916, Serial No. 139,880. Renewed Oct. 31, 1919. Serial No. 334,885. 19 Claims. (Cl. 123—174.)

5. In a water cooling system, the combination of a radiator, and means for supplying steam to the water in the lower part of the radiator.

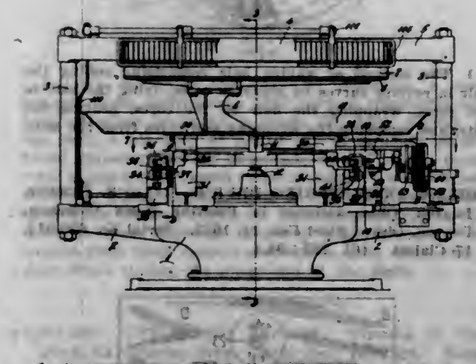
10. In a water cooling system, the combination of a water jacket, a radiator, a steam generator and a siphon connection between said steam generator and the said water jacket.



16. In a water cooling system, an auxiliary heating system including a steam generator having a delivering part at a higher level than the water in the water cooling system proper, said generator being in communication with the water in the cooling system.

19. In a water cooling system the combination of a water jacket, a radiator, means for supplying steam to the water in said system, and a by pass for circulating heated water through the water jacket without passing through the radiator.

1,637,597. APPARATUS FOR CLEANING, COLLECTING, OR SEPARATING GASES. GERARDUS JACOBUS ULRICI, Dusseldorf, Grafenberg, Germany. Filed July 21, 1920, Serial No. 397,979, and in Germany Dec. 23, 1918. 4 Claims. (Cl. 261—112.)



3. In apparatus of the class described, a container, a gas distributer therein, an inlet pipe for conducting gas to said distributer, a baffle plate beneath said gas distributer, said gas distributer consisting of a conical shell having its small end connected to said inlet pipe, a conical member within said conical shell disposed so as to form an annular space or nozzle around the lower edge of said conical shell adapted to direct gas in a thin blast upon said baffle plate, and means for causing liquid to flow over said baffle plate the lower portion of said container being adapted to collect said liquid, said container having a gas outlet above said baffle plate and a liquid outlet below said baffle plate said liquid outlet being adapted to maintain the liquid at a constant level in said container.

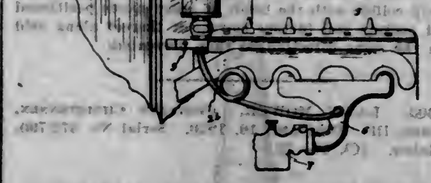
1,637,598. GARMENT PRESS. CHARLES E. WAREAM, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The American Laundry Machinery Company, Norwood, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 15, 1921. Serial No. 507,964. 4 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)

1. A garment press including relatively movable pressing members, a carriage supporting one of said members and movable laterally with said pressing member, said one pressing member being movable towards and from pressing engagement with the other pressing member, fluid means for effecting said pressing engagement between said members, and electric means for effecting lateral movement of said carriage and for controlling said fluid means.



1,637,599. TIRE AND RIM. JAMES C. BALLAW, Akron, Ohio. Filed Sept. 20, 1926. Serial No. 136,629. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—20.)

2. A rim for wheels carrying pneumatic tires having one of its edges formed with a flanged side, a removable plate for the second side, bolt members between the sides, nuts engaging the bolts, a tire adapted to rest on the bolts, a flat ring member also resting on the bolts, a threaded valve carrying stem secured to the ring member and adjustably secured to the rim or felly, said ring member having flanged sides whose outer faces are arched and formed with continuous ribs and wedge-shaped strips of compressible material arranged between the said flanges of the ring and the inner thickened sides of the tire, a continuous rib on the inner face of the rim adjacent to the outer end thereof, and a compressible gasket contacting said rib and being in turn contacted by the removable side of the rim or felly.

1,637,600. LUBRICATING APPARATUS FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. CHARLES C. BERG, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 15, 1924. Serial No. 750,176. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—196.)

1. Lubricating apparatus for internal combustion engines comprising an oil container, a hollow cylinder mounted centrally of the oil container and having an opening therein above the oil level, a feed pipe having its upper extremity secured in said opening in the cylinder and its lower extremity immersed in the oil, tubing connecting the cylinder with the manifold of the engine, and means for restricting the flow of oil through the cylinder comprising a wall arranged in the cylinder below said opening and having a restricted aperture therein, whereby oil is evenly drawn through said restricted aperture whenever suction is exerted from the manifold of the engine.

1,637,601. SPREADER. HUGH BUSSEY, East St. Louis, Ill. Filed May 10, 1926. Serial No. 108,025. 1 Claim. (Cl. 221—128.)

In a spreader and in combination, an axle shaft, shafts spaced at opposite sides of the axle shaft, and equipped with sprocket gears, a horisontal table mounted directly on the axle shaft, a hopper spaced above said table, sprocket belts mounted on the sprocket gears and having horizontal upper stretches disposed between the table and the discharge end of the hopper, transverse blades carried by the sprocket chains and movable over the table, and forming with the said belts an endless conveyor, a swingable wiping board hinged at its upper edge to the hopper at the rear side thereof and disposed exteriorly to the hopper and arranged to cooperate with the endless conveyor in preventing too free discharge of material, and a retractile spring yieldingly holding the wiping board to its work, said spring connected to the hopper and extending across the same and also extending through an opening in the rear wall of the hopper.

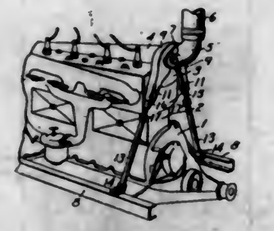
1. A puzzle having, in combination, a plate having a slot therein and a series of fingers adjacent to said slot spaced apart and forming pockets, and a plurality of spools each embodying a head and a shank, the shanks being movable along and within said slot and into and out of said pockets, the diameter of each of the shanks of a plurality of spools being approximately equal to the width of said slot, and the diameter of one of the shanks being less than that of each of a plurality of the other shanks, the diameter of the heads of a plurality of said spools being such that as they are slid along said slot they will collide with the heads of other spools positioned in said pockets and further movement thereof along said slot in the same direction be thus prevented.



1,637,603. LAWN MOWER. CHRISTEN CHRISTENSEN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 10, 1920. Serial No. 372,790. 5 Claims. (Cl. 56—26.)

1. In a lawn mower, a mower frame, a shaft carried by said frame, mower bearing wheels carried by said shaft, a cutter carried by said shaft, and a source of driving effort carried by the mower remote from said shaft for driving said cutter, said cutter being disconnected from said bearing wheels and driven independently of said wheels at all times.

1,637,604. ANTIVIBRATING DEVICE. EDWARD E. CLARK, Kansas City, Mo., assignor, by mesne assignments, to H. W. Jacobs and U. S. Weary, Junction City, Kans. Filed Sept. 15, 1926. Serial No. 135,565. 1 Claim. (Cl. 180—64.)

In a device of the character described, a head comprising diverging legs having outwardly opening sockets, tubular brace members each adapted for engaging a chassis bar at one end, a threaded shank slidable in each brace member and extended into a head socket, a collar on each shank slidable in the corresponding head socket, a spring in each socket engaging the contained collar and cushioning its brace shank, and a nut on each shank engaging the corresponding brace member to provide adjustable spread for the head and brace member.

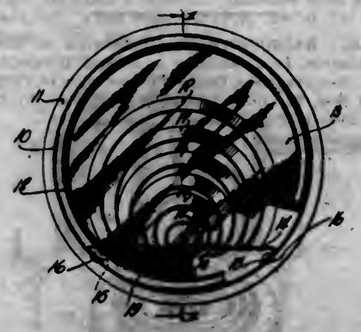
1,637,605. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR WAVING HAIR. MAGNIEN CLÉMENCE, Coffeyville, Kans. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,190. 4 Claims. (Cl. 132—33.)

1. The method of waving hair comprising coiling the hair in reverse curves on separate cores, tying the hair to the cores, wrapping the hair on the cores, heating the hair, and removing the wrapping and cores from the hair.

1,637,606. REGISTERING DEVICE. ISAAC S. DEMENT, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to Printing Index Company, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Feb. 24, 1923. Serial No. 620,914. 17 Claims. (Cl. 235—91.)



17. In a registering mechanism for a motor or the like, a driving shaft rotatable in either direction, a registering element, an actuating device for said registering element comprising a part having a cam surface, and a rotatable member connected with said driving shaft and arranged to engage said cam surface and cause said actuating device to move said registering element in the same direction when said shaft is rotated in either direction.

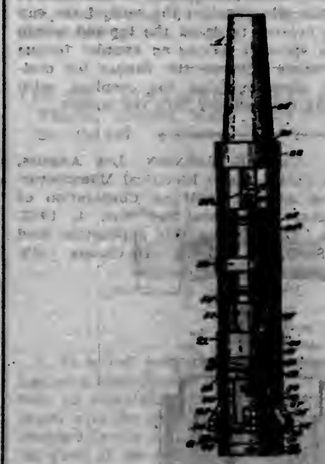
1,637,607. SPRING-OPENED CLIPPING SHEARS. WILLIAM M. EGGERS and GEORGE MAHR, Jr., Los Angeles, Calif., assignors of one-third to James R. Townsend, Los Angeles, Calif., and two-thirds to said Mahr. Filed July 21, 1924. Serial No. 727,177. 1 Claim. (Cl. 30—13.)

The unitary spring opened shears set forth having hackles adjustable along the shanks of the shears and flexible connections for the shackles adapted to hold the blades of the shears from spreading out of mesh; said shackles being frictionally held and adapted to be easily adjustable either toward or from the blades of the shears to change the spread limit of the blades.

1,637,608. ANTIGLARE ATTACHMENT. ALBERT A. EHRLICHMAN, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed May 12, 1926. Serial No. 108,555. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.4.)

2. In a device of the character described, a shell adapted to be secured to a head light, a transverse support extending horizontally across the lower portion of the shell, a plurality of nested curved members of different diameters having their ends secured to the transverse support, said curved members being of a width substantially equal to the width of the shell and having their walls inclined forwardly and downwardly, the distance between adjacent members being gradually decreased from their central portions to their ends, and a glass front closing the outer end of the shell.

1,637,609. PNEUMATIC SANDER. THOMAS S. GILMORE, La Grande, Oreg. Filed Dec. 15, 1926. Serial No. 154,957. 4 Claims. (Cl. 291—11.)

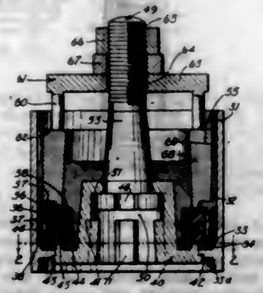


2. In a sanding device, the combination of; a casing having an intake, a curved passage extending therefrom to an outlet directed at a convenient upwardly inclined angle, the lower portion of said passage forming an approximately horizontal trap, a chamber adjacent to said outlet, having a downwardly facing discharge outlet, an air recess above the chamber, having a first duct extending therefrom into and toward the central part of said curved passage outlet at a pre-determined angle, a valve seated in the upper end of said duct, a second duct extending from said recess into said chamber for discharge therefrom toward the central part of the chamber outlet and a valve seated in the upper end of said second duct.

1,637,610. CURRENT-INTERRUPTING DEVICE. ALFRED HERZ, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 3, 1924. Serial No. 696,491. 12 Claims. (Cl. 200—113.)

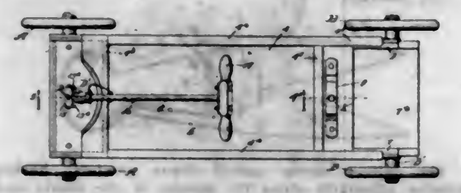
1. In combination, a body of insulating material having a groove therein, terminals for the ends of the groove, a body of conducting liquid in the groove connecting the terminals, and an opening in the side walls of the groove for defining the height of the liquid in the groove.

1,637,611. BORING MECHANISM. JOHN T. HISCOCK, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,867. 8 Claims. (Cl. 77—58.)



1. A boring tool comprising a supporting member, cutting-edge-equipped devices adjustable thereon for regulating the depth of cut, and devices for separately adjusting said first named devices, said last named devices being movable toward and away from each other and one thereof being formed of fingers spaced apart and the other thereof formed of a member having ribs thereon alternately disposed relative to said fingers and adapted to intermesh therewith, said parts being so constructed and arranged that said last referred to member may extend into the space surrounded by said fingers in the intermeshed condition of said ribs and fingers.

1,637,612. HIGH-PRESSURE GREASE COUPLING. WALTER F. HUNDEMER, Alameda, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Gat Gun Lubricating Corporation, Oakland, Calif., a Corporation of California. Original application filed July 21, 1924, Serial No. 727,342. Divided and this application filed June 1, 1925. Serial No. 33,097. 2 Claims. (Cl. 285—168.)



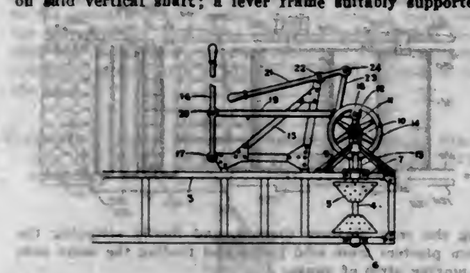
1. A fitting, formed with a tapered mouth and an enlarged base portion, a coupling comprising a cup formed with a perforation in the bottom thereof allowing the latter to slide over the tapered mouth and against the enlarged base so as to form a groove defined by the bottom and the side wall of the cup and the tapered mouth of the fitting, and in which the bottom of the groove joins the tapered mouth at the bottom end of the taper, an annular U shaped washer in said groove having an outer flange lying against the wall of the cup and an inner flange tapered to fit on the tapered mouth of the fitting and a spreader having an annular tongue extending into the space between the flanges for positioning the washer when applying the coupling, with yielding means urging the spreader into the washer.

1,637,613. MOLD. CARL E. JOHNSON, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to United States Electrical Manufacturing Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Original application filed Nov. 4, 1925, Serial No. 66,879. Divided and this application filed Sept. 15, 1926. Serial No. 135,672. 10 Claims. (Cl. 22—116.)

1. A mold comprising: a body adapted to receive laminations; a core adapted to extend inside said laminations, having means for engaging a lower lamination; a cap adapted for insertion into said body, having means for engaging an upper lamination; and means for clamping said cap and said core in a manner to compress said laminations.

1,637,614. COASTER WAGON. WALTER R. KOHLER, Janesville, Wis., assignor to Janesville Products Company, Janesville, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed May 29, 1926. Serial No. 112,552. 5 Claims. (Cl. 280—87.5.)

1. In a coaster wagon, a body, parallel front and rear steering posts journalled therein and geared together, the front post carrying a pivoted tubular socket-member and the rear post carrying a fixed tubular socket-member, a front axle carrying the front steering post, wheels journalled on said axle, wheels supporting the rear portion of said body, and a steering-handle having a shaft adapted to fit in either of said socket-members and interlock therewith, and means for securing said shaft in either socket-member.



1,637,615. RADIOCOMPASS. FREDERICK A. KOLSTER, Washington, D. C., assignor to Federal Telegraph Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Nov. 22, 1920. Serial No. 425,834. 17 Claims. (Cl. 250—11.)

1. Apparatus for determining the bearing and sense of bearing of a source of electro-radiant energy, comprising a closed circuit having a directional characteristic and including an element rotatable to a position corresponding with the bearing of said source, a plurality of reactances in said circuit, an antenna path connected to a point between said reactances, said reactances being relatively variable to render said closed circuit symmetrical with respect to said antenna path, receiving apparatus subjected to the received energy, and means for rendering said closed circuit unsymmetrical with respect to said antenna path without change of setting of said reactances for determining the sense of bearing of said source comprising a further reactance, and switching mechanism for bringing it into symmetry-disturbing relation with respect to said reactances.

1,637,616. HAND FEED FOR DRAG-SAW MACHINES. VALENTINE JOHN KOSIANCIC, Crescent Valley, British Columbia, Canada. Filed Nov. 11, 1924. Serial No. 749,165. 1 Claim. (Cl. 143—63.)

In a hand feeding device for drag saw machines; the combination with a runway and revolving log carrying drums mounted on a shaft suitably journalled in said runway; of a pinion carried at the outer end of said shaft; a second shaft suitably supported from one side of said runway and at right angle to first said shaft; a pinion mounted on said second shaft, adapted to mesh with and drive first said pinion; a crank wheel mounted on said vertical shaft; a lever frame suitably supported from said runway; a drive lever pivotally mounted at one end to said frame; a drive link between said drive lever and said crank wheel; an auxiliary lever fulcrumed on said frame and a connecting link between said drive link and the end of last said lever.

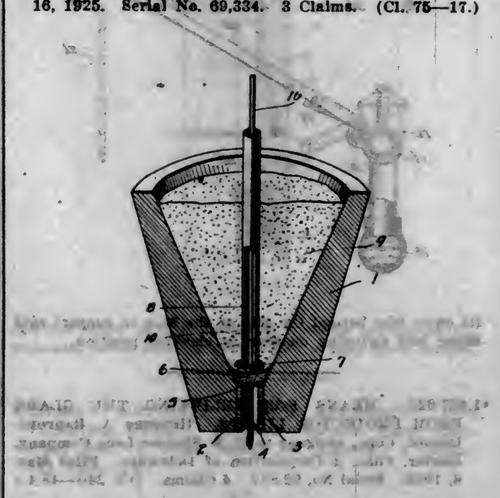
1,637,617. BAKING UTENSIL. BLANCHE RING KRALIK, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 14, 1925. Serial No. 56,362. 2 Claims. (Cl. 53—6.)



1. A cooking utensil comprising a pan-like body having relatively thick walls for the sides and bottom, a tubular center core open at both ends and tapering throughout its length with its walls of the same thickness as the sides and bottom of the body, a relatively thick cover for the body and core having a tight fitting joint with the top of the core, said cover having perforations therethrough communicating with the pan body and an aperture communicating with the core, and means carried by the cover for controlling the passage of heat and steam through the perforations and aperture.

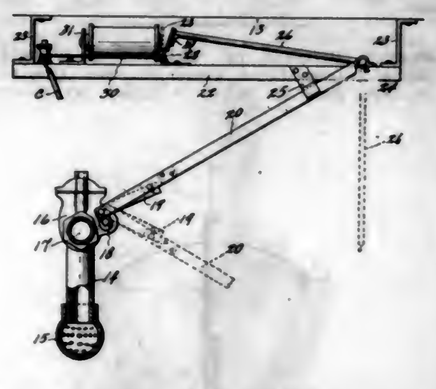
1,637,618. BAKING OVEN. FRIEDRICH KÜHTZ, Cannstatt, Germany. Filed June 15, 1925, Serial No. 37,207, and in Germany June 17, 1924. 6 Claims. (Cl. 107—57.)

5. A baking oven comprising a substantially horizontal conveyer movable in said oven, a movable hood extending over said conveyer located at the entrance of said oven and arranged to be coupled with and to travel a limited distance with said conveyer, steam supplying means connected with said hood, means for moving said hood relatively to said conveyer, a flange on said hood, and a check on said oven for limiting the motion of said hood.

1,637,619. METHOD OF PRODUCING WELDING METAL. ANTON LUCAS, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Nov. 16, 1925. Serial No. 69,334. 3 Claims. (Cl. 75—17.)

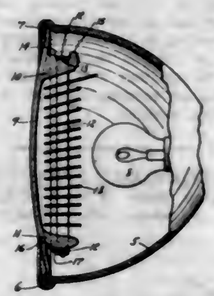
1. The method of effecting alumino-thermic reaction, consisting of locating an ignition element in the bottom of a crucible, locating an ignition conduit above said element, locating an alumino-thermic mixture within the crucible above the ignition element and about the conduit, and passing an igniting element through the conduit to the ignition element.

1,637,620. NUT-LOCKING DEVICE. KENNETH MACKENZIE, Taunton, Mass. Filed Nov. 24, 1926. Serial No. 150,447. 4 Claims. (Cl. 151—52.)



1. In a nut lock, the combination with a bolt and a nut, of a locking plate provided with a hole to receive the bolt, an annular series of inclined resilient tongues integral with the plate abutting against the nut and wholly enclosed by the nut, and interspaced shields integral with the plate at the edge of the hole projecting in a direction away from the nut.

1,637,621. AUTOMATIC FIRE SPRINKLER SYSTEM. HENRY M. MINNIS, Wylie, Tex., assignor of one-third to Etta A. Thomas and one-third to John H. Finch, Wylie, Tex. Filed July 2, 1926. Serial No. 41,010. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—139.)



A valve controlling means for a fire extinguishing system comprising a pivoted valve, a swinging member extended from the pivot thereof, a base, a rock shaft having a horizontally disposed portion pivoted thereon and formed with a supporting lug at one side of the base to lie beneath said member and an elongated gravity finger at the opposite side of the base, a magnet upon the base, and a cooperating armature having a shoulder upon its outer face beyond the side of the base to support said finger and swinging member in elevated position.

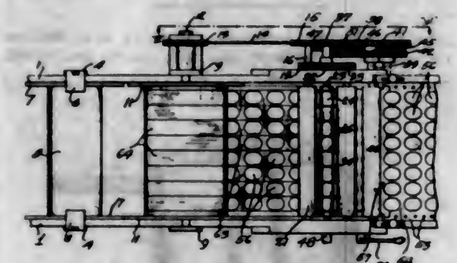
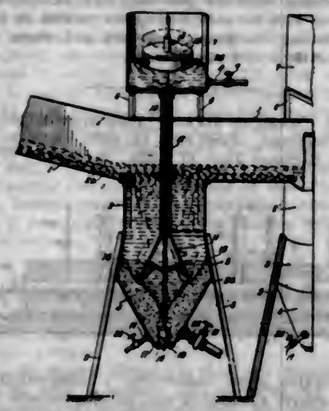
1,637,622. MEANS FOR RELIEVING THE GLARE FROM PROJECTOR LIGHTS. HERBERT A. RADFORD, Denver, Colo., assignor to U. S. Shutter Lens Company, Denver, Colo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,817. 4 Claims. (Cl. 240—48.4.)



3. In means for relieving the glare from projector lights, the combination of a closure lens therefor that is provided with a plurality of lugs extending from the rear face thereof, one of said lugs being formed with a seating recess and another with a snap-in socket, and a non-glare masking device directly supported by said lugs in proximate association with the aforesaid rear face of said lens, which masking device embodies an open frame support containing a vertical series of appropriately spaced and forwardly declining laterally disposed reflecting vanes, and one portion of said open frame support being adapted for seating within said seating recess, while another portion thereof is provided with a snap-in spring element for projection within said snap-in socket.

1,637,623. METHOD OF MAKING CORN PLASTERS. OTTO G. SCHMITT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Scholl Mfg. Co., Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 13, 1925. Serial No. 43,423. 8 Claims. (Cl. 154—2.)

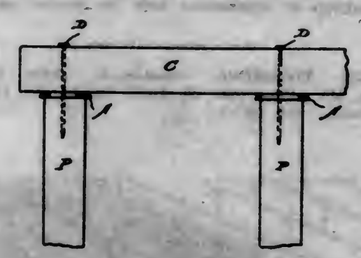
1. The method of producing corn plasters consisting of applying layers of adhesived material in superimposed relation on stationary plates, punching the material and picking out the punched parts, then applying an additional layer of adhesived material on the punched layers of material on said plates after which the layers of material are again punched to produce corn plasters on said plates, stripping the waste material from said plates and leaving the corn plasters thereon, and finally stripping the corn plasters from said plates and feeding the same onto a moving strip of gauze.



1,637,624. CORN-PLASTER MACHINE. OTTO G. SCHMITT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Scholl Mfg. Co., Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 13, 1925. Serial No. 43,424. 20 Claims. (Cl. 154—1.)

1. A corn plaster machine comprising a frame, presser rolls mounted thereon, a cutter positioned between said presser rolls, means for supplying a strip of gauze to said pressure rolls, a corn plaster carrying plate movably mounted on said frame, a stripper mechanism, and means for operating said presser rolls, said cutter and said plate to permit the stripper device to strip the corn plasters from said plate and deliver the same onto said strip of gauze.

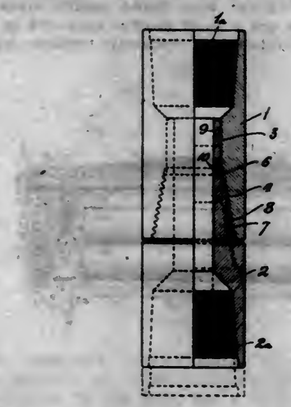
1,637,625. SAND CLEANING AND CLASSIFYING DEVICE. EDMUND SHAW, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 20, 1926. Serial No. 110,403. 1 Claim. (Cl. 209—158.)



In a device of the character described, a receptacle for material to be cleaned, having a lower valved outlet and an upper overflow outlet, a cleaning fluid tank having a supply intake, a conduit leading from the tank into the receptacle and having a flared terminus above the valved outlet co-operative with material accumulated in the receptacle to variably restrict flow from said conduit to the overflow outlet, a float in said tank, a valve for the valved outlet, and a rod extending through said conduit and connecting the float and the valve, whereby operation of the valve is effected by variation of level in the tank.

1,637,626. SIGN. WALTER H. SMITH, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Aug. 21, 1926. Serial No. 130,669. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—132.)

A sign comprising a rim portion formed of spaced rings forming a lamp box and central openings and having outwardly facing grooves at their inner edges, brackets secured to and extending between the inner edges of said rings, a housing ring secured to the outer edges of said rings, closing the lamp box, concavo-convex lenses having their edges seated in said outwardly facing grooves, keeper plates attached to the rim rings and overlying the lenses, and lamp sockets mounted on said brackets and extending into said rim portion.



1,637,627. PILE-HEAD PROTECTOR. WILLIAM W. WANNAMAKER, Jr., Orangeburg, S. C. Filed Mar. 9, 1926. Serial No. 93,458. 1 Claim. (Cl. 61—54.)

A pile head protector including an outer casing of metal comprising a circular body having a marginal depending frusto-conical flange, and an elastic cushion within the casing and cemented thereto.

1,637,628. TOOL JOINT. EDWIN C. WEISGERBER, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Nov. 15, 1926. Serial No. 148,433. 4 Claims. (Cl. 285—146.)

1. A coupling device for connecting lengths of drill pipe comprising two sections each having a longitudinal perforation and formed for attachment to a length of drill pipe, the sections respectively provided with interengaging threads, and one section having a recess for collecting foreign accumulations displaced during the interengagement of the threads of the respective sections and the other section having an opening communicating with said recess and the perforation of said other section.

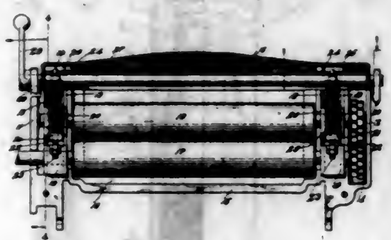
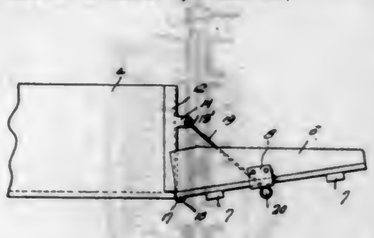
1,637,629. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR PUMPING WELLS. IRWIN B. WINSOR, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Dec. 31, 1926. Serial No. 158,353. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—179.)



1. In combination with well casing, a packer in the casing, a liner suspended from the packer and communicating with the casing above the packer, a pump barrel suspended from the liner, a standing valve in the pump barrel, a hollow pump rod in said barrel connecting with the liner, a piston in said barrel having an upwardly opening valve controlling flow between the barrel and rod, an upwardly opening valve on the rod controlling flow between the rod and liner, and means for operating the pump rod.

1,637,630. WRINGER. ALPHEUS W. ALTORFER, Peoria, Ill. Filed May 27, 1925. Serial No. 33,176. 14 Claims. (Cl. 68—32.)



1. In a wringer, a main frame, the end members thereof being provided with channelways for supporting members of the wringer rolls, a wringer roll supported by the main frame, a detachable head member, a roller member supported by the head member, resilient means interposed between said last named roller member and the head member, releasable interlocking means including locking members on the main frame having arcuately fashioned portions and a shaft member supported in the head member provided with cut-away portions transversely thereof for cooperation with the arcuate portions of the locking members on the frame, whereby optional release or interlock may be effected between the frame and head member and coordinately effect release of pressure on the rolls or effect pressure on the rolls.

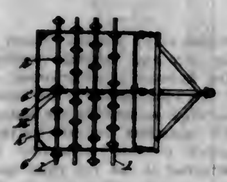
1,637,631. END-GATE SCOOP BOARD. TJEBBE DURK BEINTEMA, Leighton, Iowa. Filed Nov. 13, 1926. Serial No. 148,203. 2 Claims. (Cl. 296—58.)

1. In a combined end gate and scoop board for wagon bodies, a unit constructed for detachable association with the rear end of the wagon consisting of a pair of vertical hollow posts interconnected at their lower ends and being provided at their inner edges with vertical slots for receiving the edges of the wagon body side boards, said side boards being provided with vertical cleats for engagement within the posts to prevent the disengagement of the unit from the body other than in a vertical manner, a combined end gate and scoop board proper hingedly connected to the bottom portion of the unit, means for supporting the board in a vertical or inclined position with respect to the unit, said means consisting of rearwardly extending tongues formed upon the rear sides of the posts for engagement through openings in the board proper, rods pivotally connected at their outer ends to the ends of said tongues and having heads on their opposite ends for engagement with the board to support the same in an inclined position, and means whereby the rods may be secured in overlapping horizontal position upon the rear side of the board for supporting the board in a vertical end gate assuming position.



1,637,632. VEHICLE FENDER. WILLIAM F. BROWN, Tottenville, N. Y. Filed Nov. 29, 1926. Serial No. 151,466. 10 Claims. (Cl. 293—45.)

2. A safety device for vehicles comprising a fender having a front panel, and inclined side panels, the fender being normally arranged in front of the vehicle, and means whereby the fender may be swung away from in front of the vehicle to permit access to the entire front of said vehicle.

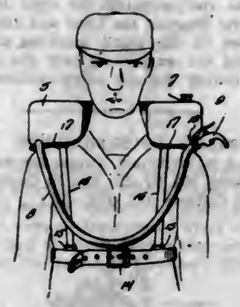
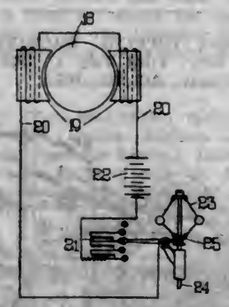
1,637,633. HARROW. CECIL JOHN BUSWELL, Wallingford, England. Filed July 19, 1923, Serial No. 652,599, and in Great Britain July 24, 1922. 4 Claims. (Cl. 55—34.)



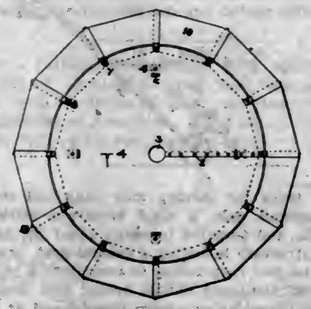
1. A harrow comprising a frame, a plurality of transverse tooth carrying bars journaled thereto, a central bar having hangers with openings of larger diameter than the diameter of the tooth carrying bars, bushings slidable upon the tooth carrying bars, cams adjustable upon a portion of the bushings, and means on the bar for holding the bushings in engagement with the hangers and the cams.

1,637,634. FLOORING. CHARLES J. CARTER, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Feb. 28, 1927. Serial No. 171,422. 6 Claims. (Cl. 20—8.)



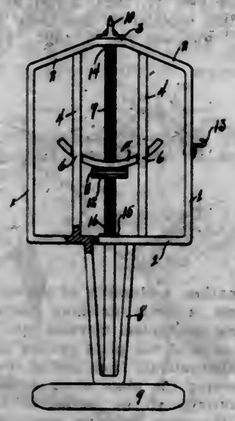
2. As an article of manufacture, a unit comprising paired strings of blocks, the strings having grooves on their opposite faces, a spline to be received by opposed grooves of units assembled in a floor, and means for securing one unit to another.

1,637,635. LUBRICANT-TRANSPORTING RECEPTACLE. MARSHAL D. CORLEY, Norphlet, Ark. Filed Nov. 8, 1926. Serial No. 147,087. 1 Claim. (Cl. 224—5.)



In a lubricant transporting device, a closed receptacle of substantially C-formation, said receptacle being adapted to be disposed for rest upon the shoulders of a person, a discharge pipe associated with the receptacle, and means for rigidly securing the receptacle in position on the shoulders, said means comprising a lug depending from the bottom of the C-shaped receptacle at the intermediate portion thereof, a vertical arm adapted for disposition against the back of a person, the upper end of said arm being pivotally secured to said depending lug, a waist encircling strap secured to the lower portion of the arm, a pair of front strap members secured at their upper ends to the free ends of the C-shaped receptacle, and loops carried by the front end of the waist encircling strap to which the lower ends of the vertical strap members are attached.

1,637,636. CONTROL OF PRIME MOVERS. ERIC CRAWDSON, Kendal, England. Filed Mar. 24, 1926, Serial No. 97,044, and in Great Britain Apr. 1, 1925. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—180.)

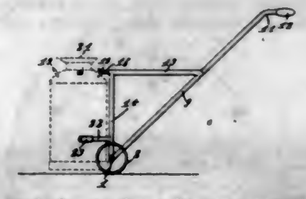


1. Apparatus for controlling the speed of prime movers comprising a metal element rotated from the prime mover, electromagnets creating an electromagnetic field through which the said element rotates thereby creating eddy currents and setting up an artificial load on the metal element, a governor driven from the said prime mover, and means to control the circuit including the said electromagnets by the said governor.

1,637,637. ADJUSTABLE BROODER HOVER. FREDERICK FRENGLE, Cotati, Calif. Filed May 4, 1926. Serial No. 106,612. 5 Claims. (Cl. 119—32.)

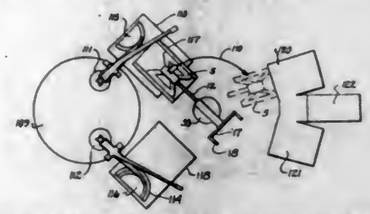
1. An adjustable brooder hover comprising, a top piece, a plurality of joined extension members attachable to the edge of the top piece, and a band secured to the top piece for maintaining the extension members at the edge of the top piece.

1,637,638. OPENER AND CLOSER FOR JARS AND THE LIKE. CHARLES V. HATZFELD, Mineral Wells, Tex. Filed July 6, 1924. Serial No. 724,458. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—3.1.)



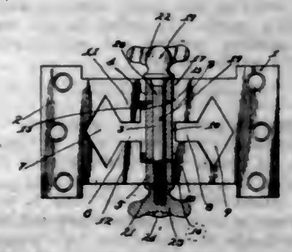
1. A vessel opener and closer comprising a frame having an opening in one end and having the front end angular for forming a gripping member and longitudinal guide members integral with said frame, a screw shaft operating in said opening, and a curved gripping member engaged by said shaft and actuated thereby and having cut-outs for receiving said guide members whereby said curved gripping member is guided in its longitudinal move, said gripping member and said angular frame member having inclined teeth.

1,637,639. MANUFACTURE OF BROOMS. ORLIE A. HAWKINS, Lamar, Colo. Filed Dec. 10, 1925. Serial No. 74,628. 2 Claims. (Cl. 300—21.)



1. The method of treating the blades of the yucca plant for forming straws to permit the same to be used in the manufacture of brooms, baskets and the like, which consists of subjecting the blades to a high temperature so as to dry the same, then flattening out the blades, and finally cutting the same into strips of substantially the same width.

1,637,640. HAND TRUCK. WALTER HENDRICKS, Pendleton, Oreg. Filed June 19, 1923. Serial No. 646,391. 2 Claims. (Cl. 280—53.)

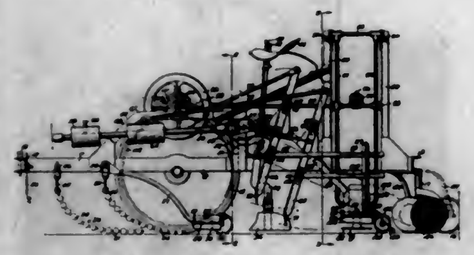


1. In a truck for moving milk cans and the like, a wheel supported axle, a rigid structure extending upwardly from and mounted to swing about the axis of the axle, said structure including a central post, arms diverging from the post cooperating to constitute a can embracing yoke, an elongated handle behind and fixed relative to the post extending upwardly therebeyond at an angle, a forwardly extending connection between the post and handle, and a can lifting member fixed relative to the post and extending forwardly therefrom, said member constituting means for extending under and engaging the handle of a can to lift the can when the post is swung to an upstanding position and to support the can in a vertical position along the post and within the yoke.

1,637,641. STEREOTYPE-PLATE MECHANISM. ALBERT A. HENZI, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Goss Printing Press Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Original application filed Feb. 17, 1921, Serial No. 455,863. Divided and this application filed July 8, 1922, Serial No. 573,752. Renewed Jan. 5, 1927. 17 Claims. (Cl. 22—3.)

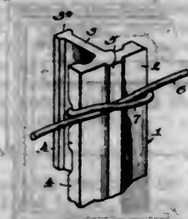
1. In combination, a plurality of stereotype plate casting mechanisms, a plate finishing mechanism, and a single delivering mechanism movable into operative relationship with each of the plate casting mechanisms, for taking plates alternatively from any of the casting mechanisms and moving the plate along a circular path beginning substantially at the casting mechanism and delivering it to the plate finishing mechanism.

1,637,642. FRICTION HINGE. ROLAND C. HILTON, Hollywood, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Joseph Berman, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 10, 1926. Serial No. 93,591. 2 Claims. (Cl. 16—140.)



1. A friction hinge comprising in combination a pair of hinge leaf elements, each leaf having a web portion, a part to be connected to a door or a door jamb and a hub portion, said various portions being substantially in one plane, one of the leaf elements having a slot in the web with hubs spaced apart on opposite sides of the slot, the other hub element being rigid and having a central hub, washers, each having a flat annular portion and a rim, the rim having a cut-out section, said washers being fitted between the connecting hubs with the cut-out portion of the rim engaging the rigid leaf element, a pintle extending through the hubs and the washers, and a nut threaded on the pintle allowing pressing of the outer hubs and the washers against the inner hub, the leaf element having the slot being resilient.

1,637,643. CHILD'S ROCKING-HORSE. CONRAD HOFMANN, Berirk Schluckenau, Czechoslovakia. Filed Mar. 25, 1926, Serial No. 97,427, and in Czechoslovakia Jan. 24, 1925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 272—53.)

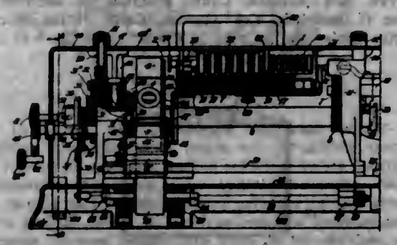


1. A travelling rocking horse comprising in combination with the hollow body of the horse open in the lower surface, a spindle in the front part of said body, a pair of front legs pivotally mounted at the front corner of the upper end on said spindle, a rod connecting the one with the other the legs of the front pair, a spindle in the rear part of said body, a pair of hind legs pivotally mounted at the front corner of the upper end on said rear spindle, a rod rigidly connecting the one with the other the two legs of the hind pair, rockers under said front legs, rockers under said hind legs, spreading springs fixed between the pairs of legs and acting upon said rods for pushing the front legs and hind legs away from one another, locking hooks oscillatably suspended on said spindles and having each a notch designed to receive said cross rods of the pairs of legs, a central vertical piece having a large top end against which said legs are pressed when said rods are caught by said locking levers, and a horizontal detent element for holding said locking hooks in the locking position.

1,637,644. BEET-TOPPING MACHINE. GENSUKE ISAGO, Ely, Nev. Filed July 1, 1926. Serial No. 119,864. 8 Claims. (Cl. 55—107.)

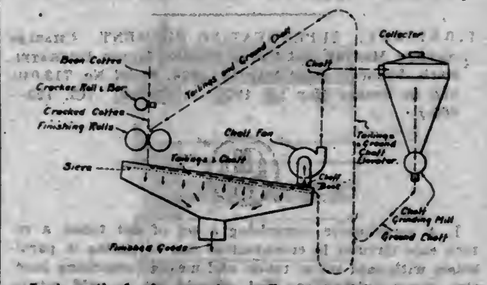
1. A machine of the class described comprising a vehicle, a pivoted hanger supported by said vehicle, knife means mounted upon said hanger, and means for counterbalancing said hanger comprising a weight having its effective leverage normally fixed, and another weight having its effective leverage automatically varied in accordance with the height of vegetation being cut by the machine.

1,637,645. FENCEPOST. HAROLD C. JONES, Chicago, Ill.; George H. Jones administrator of said Harold C. Jones, deceased. Filed Aug. 18, 1923. Serial No. 658,046. 3 Claims. (Cl. 189—23.)



1. A fence post consisting of a metal bar having a main web and a transverse web arranged in T-form, said transverse web having smooth marginal portions on its outer face and rows of lugs spaced apart along the inner edges thereof, and forming notches therebetween, adapted to be engaged by fastening members for the purpose described.

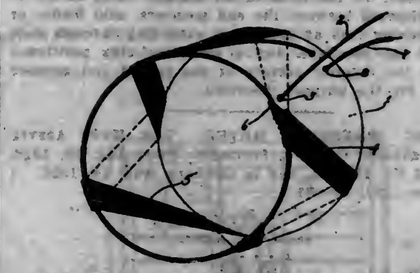
1,637,646. VARIABLE CONDENSER. HISAICH KIMURA, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Jan. 7, 1925. Serial No. 1,067. 8 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.5.)



1. A variable condenser comprising a stationary conducting element, an annular dielectric surrounding and contacting with the conducting element, a flexible conducting element, a rotatable member about which the flexible conducting element is normally wound, means by which the rotatable member is movable bodily and concentrically about the di-electric, and means for rotating the member about its own axis when bodily rotated by said means to wind or unwind the flexible conducting element on or off of the di-electric according as the member is bodily rotated in one direction or the other.

1,637,647. POSTAL FRANKING MACHINE. EDWARD HENRY KINNARD, London, England, assignor to Universal Postal Frankers Limited, London, England, a British Company. Filed July 12, 1924, Serial No. 725,741, and in Great Britain July 27, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 101—91.)

1. A postal franking machine comprising a rotary printing drum bearing cancellation and dating dies, a roller carried in the printing drum, a number of stamp impressing dies each of a different value disposed around the periphery of said roller and adapted to be brought selectively into printing position and means whereby repeated impressions of the stamp die may be made without repeating the cancellation and dating markings.



1,637,648. COFFEE PRODUCT AND METHOD FOR MAKING IT. JOSEPH L. KOFF, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Jabez Burns & Sons, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 1, 1926. Serial No. 138,876. 8 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)

5. A method of preparing coffee comprising separating the chaff and a portion of the finely ground coffee from the main portion of the coffee during the grinding process, grinding this chaff and coffee separate from the main portion of the coffee, and then mixing this additionally ground material with the main portion of the coffee.

8. A non-stratifying substantially homogeneous coffee product adapted for percolation comprising cut coffee combined with chaff cut and separately ground to a desired size and in substantially the proportion occurring in the bean.

1,637,649. INDUCTANCE. STANLEY KUPKA, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 25, 1925. Serial No. 46,097. 1 Claim. (Cl. 175—359.)

An inductance comprising a tube formed of insulating material, and a wire having one end projecting through an opening in said tube, said wire being wound around said tube and having the other end project through another opening in said tube, the windings of said wire forming groups of wire portions disposed diagonally across the outer and inner surfaces of said tube, said groups being spaced apart.

1,637,650. ELECTRIC TRUNCHEON TORCH. ALEXANDER MCMURRAY, Auburn, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Apr. 25, 1925, Serial No. 25,878, and in Australia Nov. 5, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—64.)

1. A truncheon torch comprising a weighted hollow body, a detachable handle for said body, a removable electric battery and reflecting lamp within said body, a light projector lens associated with said body and lamp, electric conductive means including a metal carrier for the battery extending from the opposite poles of the battery, compressible means fitted at one end of the carrier and having a contact button for one pole of the battery, the opposite end of the carrier being fitted with the electric reflecting lamp, and a contact on the lamp adapted to make contact with the opposite pole of the battery, and means associated with said handle whereby the circuit of said battery is closable through operating said contact button to electrically connect the poles of said battery through said conductive means.

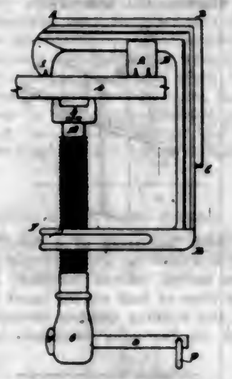
1,637,651. SUPERHEATING ELEMENT. CHARLES ARTHUR MESTER and EMILE EUGÈNE HENRI DUCHATEL, Paris, France. Filed May 13, 1924, Serial No. 713,040, and in France May 18, 1923. 3 Claims. (Cl. 122—462.)

1. A superheater comprising a set of flat tubes, a return tube circular in cross-section and extending in parallelism with said set of tubes, and means comprising junction boxes uniting one end of said set to said return tube and adapted to unite the other end of said set to a saturated steam conduit.

1,637,652. FAN OR BLOWER. WILLIAM H. C. NEES, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 23, 1925. Serial No. 39,030. 2 Claims. (Cl. 230—121.)

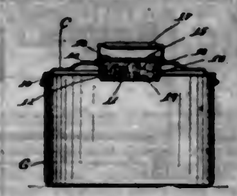


1. A fan or blower comprising an end member, a second end member in the form of an annular ring, blades or vanes disposed between the end members, said blades or vanes having lugs at their ends extending through slots in said end members, and a secondary ring positioned against the exterior surface of the second end member as and for the purpose described.

1,637,653. PRESSURE METER. TOM KNUT ARVED NORDENSSON, Glasgow, Scotland. Filed Aug. 16, 1926, Serial No. 129,605, and in Germany Aug. 19, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 73—31.)

Pressure-meter, especially for measuring vacuums, comprising two barometers of the liquid type the pipes whereof containing the counterbalancing liquid columns are connected with each other at the vacuum side so as to form a common vacuum chamber.

1,637,654. CLAMP. FRANCISCO HERNANDEZ Y PEREZ, Habana, Cuba. Filed June 22, 1921, Serial No. 479,528, and in Cuba Mar. 7, 1921. 1 Claim. (Cl. 81—41.)

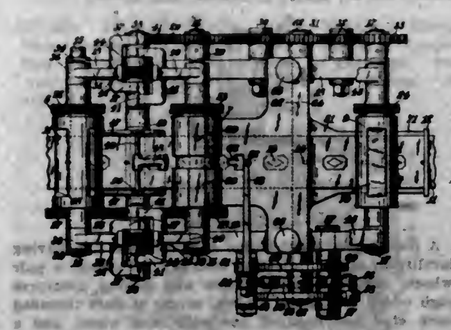


The herein described clamp comprising a frame forming a rectangle open on one side and consisting of a lower arm, an upper arm broader than the lower arm and a rear side connecting said arm, the said upper arm having serrated bearing members projecting from its lower side and also having openings to facilitate the application of screws or the like for securing an object such as a pipe clamp or the like to said arms, said rear side also having such openings, the said lower arm having a clamping screw extending therethrough toward said upper arm and provided with a swivelly mounted shoe at its upper end.

1,637,655. ADJUSTING DEVICE FOR DOORS AND THE LIKE. LEONARD C. PRISLEY, Montowese, Conn., assignor of one-half to Elijah Williams, New Haven, Conn. Filed July 9, 1926. Serial No. 121,310. 2 Claims. (Cl. 292—265.)

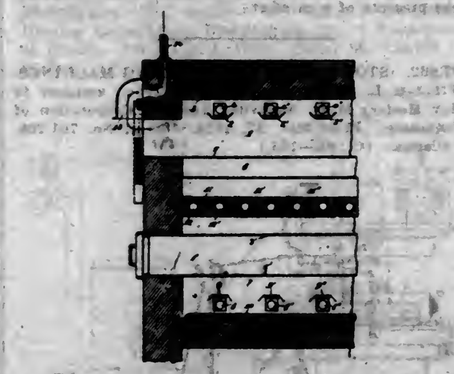
1. An adjuster of the class described having a bar held in its normal or engaging position by gravity, a loose rocking pivotal connection for said bar, an engaging support for the free end of said bar and means for releasing said bar from its engagement with said supoprt.

1,637,656. SANITARY GARBAGE CAN. OWEN F. RADCLIFFE, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to John C. Radcliffe, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 4, 1926. Serial No. 92,205. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—67.)



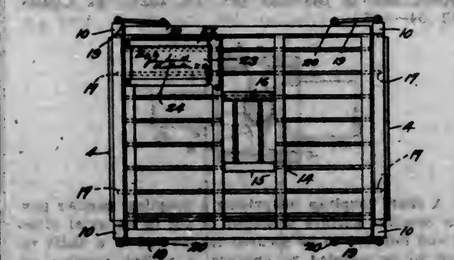
A garbage can having a sheet metal cover, the center portion of which is pressed downwardly forming an open topped receptacle integral with the cover adapted to receive a disinfectant, there being perforations formed in the side walls only of the receptacle through which disinfectant may pass to the interior of the can, a closure for the receptacle having threads adapted to engage threads on the interior of the receptacle so as to be detachably fastened to the cover, and a handle fastened to the closure whereby when the closure is fastened to the cover, the handle may serve to lift the cover from the can and the same handle may also serve to tighten or loosen the closure and to remove it from the receptacle when detached from the cover.

1,637,657. WALL AND PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTING THE SAME. JACOB RIEGEL, Lakewood, Ohio, assignor of one-half to Emil Greuloch, Chagrin Falls, Ohio. Filed May 25, 1923. Serial No. 641,316. 3 Claims. (Cl. 72—37.)



1. The method of building a structure of bricks or like blocks which consists in laying up courses of such bricks or blocks with spacers between certain bricks or blocks in each course and between certain bricks or blocks in successive courses, arranging such spacers whereby, in laying a plurality of such courses, reversely arranged triangular sections or units will be formed separated by such spacers from adjacent reversely arranged sections or units, and assembling and uniting such sections or units.

1,637,658. APPARATUS FOR FEEDING AND REGISTERING A PAPER WEB. WILLIAM ROSE, Gainsborough, England. Filed Feb. 10, 1927, Serial No. 167,330, and in Great Britain Sept. 23, 1925. 10 Claims. (Cl. 271—2.6.)

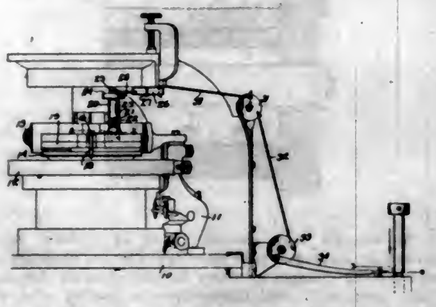


1. In feeding and registering apparatus of the class specified operating on a paper web in which apertures are formed at regularly spaced intervals in its length, the combination of feeding means operable to engage the web and impart to it a step-by-step advance in the direction of its length, means to free the web for longitudinal adjustment between consecutive steps in its advance, a peg device shaped for engagement with the web apertures and spaced apart from the feeding means aforesaid in the longitudinal direction of the web, and means to reciprocate the peg device into and out of the path of the web in such manner that the device enters said path only when the web is free as aforesaid for longitudinal adjustment, and means to move the web in the direction of web feed.

1,637,659. THERMOELECTRIC OVEN. SECONDO SACERDOTE, Milan, Italy. Filed Apr. 7, 1926, Serial No. 100,376, and in Germany Apr. 18, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 219—35.)

1. An electric oven provided with an internal heating chamber having a heat-reflecting wall; a plurality of heat-reflecting channel members in said chamber disposed to face such wall; and thermo-electric heating elements arranged in said channels, whereby the radiant heat emitted by said heating elements at one side thereof is intercepted by the channels and reflected by the same exclusively against said wall to be reflected uniformly by the latter against the opposite wall of the chamber.

1,637,660. SHIPPING CRATE. JOHN W. SAMPLES, Sue, W. Va. Filed Oct. 6, 1926. Serial No. 139,891. 2 Claims. (Cl. 217—49.)



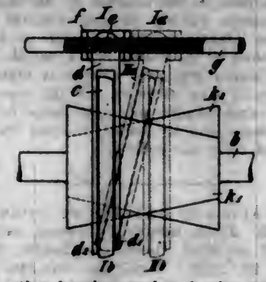
1. In a device of the class described, a base including corner posts and a bottom supported thereby, side walls, means for mounting the side walls hingedly, end walls hinged to the posts and spaced from the bottom, extensions slidable on the end walls and bridging the space between the end walls and the bottom, a top, means for supporting the top removably in spaced relation to the bottom, and cooperating members including an address carrier and a guard therefor, one of said cooperating members being secured to one of the side walls, and means for connecting the other of said cooperating members to the extension of said side wall for movement with said extension, whereby the guard, in a predetermined position, will reveal the address carrier.

1,637,661. PRODUCTION OF ORGANIC COMPOUNDS. KARL FRIEDRICH SCHMIDT, Heidelberg, and PHILIPP ZUTAVERN, Ludwigshafen-on-the-Rhine, Germany, assignors to Knoll & Co., Ludwigshafen-on-the-Rhine, Germany, a Firm composed of Albert Knoll, Hans Knoll, and Max Daege. Filed Dec. 11, 1925, Serial No. 74,885, and in Germany Apr. 11, 1925. 13 Claims. (Cl. 260—44.)

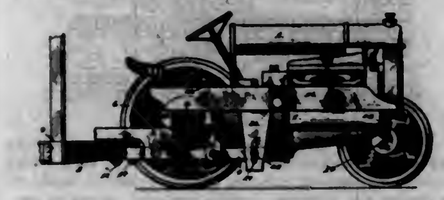
1. The process of treating organic compounds of the hydrocarbon type to directly introduce therein trivalent basic nitrogen comprising adding thereto hydrazoic acid in the presence of a catalyst.

1,637,662. STOP MOTION FOR KNITTING MACHINES. WILLIAM L. SMITH, Jr., Nashville, Tenn., assignor to May Hosiery Mills, Nashville, Tenn., a Corporation of Tennessee. Filed Mar. 22, 1924. Serial No. 701,208. 7 Claims. (Cl. 66—165.)

1. A stop motion for knitting machines comprising a feeler arranged within the circle of cylinder needles traveling within said circle, a vertically movable plunger, means tending to move the plunger upward, a detent for the plunger operated by said feeler, and means adapted to be actuated by said plunger when released for stopping the machine, substantially as set forth.



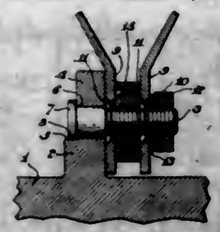
1,637,663. SHAFT COUPLING. WILHELM STOECKICHT, Munich-Solln, Germany. Filed Oct. 1, 1925, Serial No. 59,903, and in Germany Oct. 13, 1924. 12 Claims. (Cl. 64—107.)



1. A shaft coupling comprising a coupling member having a cam-like surface arranged to act in an axial direction and adapted to be secured to one end of a shaft required to be coupled to another, a rolling member cooperating with said cam-like surface, a second coupling member adapted to be acted upon by said rolling member so as to be rotated and at the same time thrust in an axial direction when said first coupling member is rotating, and pivotal means associated with one of said coupling members to permit of angular motion of the shafts to be coupled together with respect to each other.

1,637,664. CHANGE-SPEED FRICTION GEARING. WILHELM STOECKICHT, Munich-Solln, Germany. Filed Apr. 28, 1924, Serial No. 709,517, and in Germany Feb. 2, 1924. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—26.)

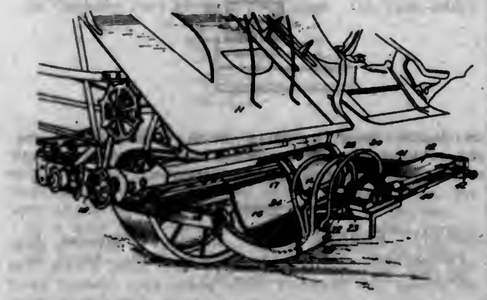
1. A change-speed friction gearing comprising a pair of cones; and a thrust ring for said cones and having a bearing surface for each cone, one bearing surface having and presenting to its respective cone a convex surface and the other bearing surface having and presenting to the other cone a frusto-conical surface and a convex surface.



1,637,665. TRACTOR-COUPLING DEVICE. GEORGE W. STONE, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to National Auto Body Works, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Dec. 28, 1925. Serial No. 77,927. 14 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.9.)

1. A tractor and trailer coupling comprising a pair of coupling supporting members mounted along the sides of a tractor independently of the tractor frame and in connection with the rear and front axles thereof; a yoke, arranged to be connected to a trailer; and means connected between the yoke and the supporting members for supporting said yoke and imparting tractive force.

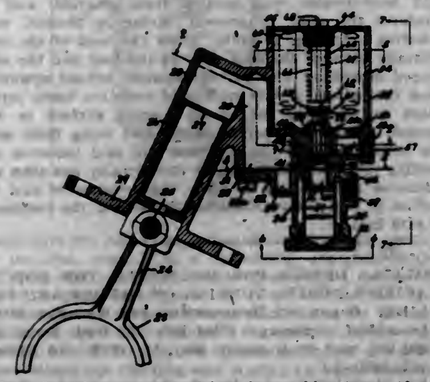
1,637,666. DOUBLE NUT FOR DUAL WHEELS. JOHN P. TARBOX, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Budd Wheel Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 8, 1926, Serial No. 134,149. Renewed June 23, 1927. 7 Claims. (Cl. 31—9.)



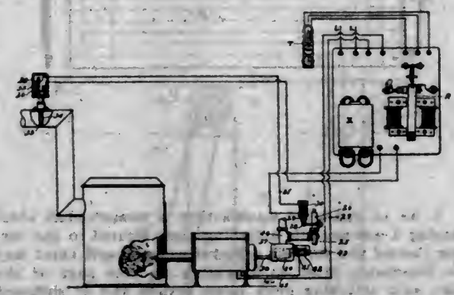
4. A dual wheel construction comprising a hub having a plurality of studs projecting laterally therefrom, a pair of wheels mounted on said hub and having apertures through which said studs project, a pair of nuts threaded on each stud and engaged one with each wheel, and a removable spacing element positioned adjacent each stud and interposed between said wheels.

1,637,667. CLOSURE FOR CONTAINERS. ROBERT J. VAUGHAN, Hamilton, Ohio, assignor to Children's Clinical Laboratory, Hamilton, Ohio, a Corporation of Oregon. Filed Apr. 24, 1926. Serial No. 104,880. 7 Claims. (Cl. 221—60.)

1. A closure for containers, comprising an enlarged hollow figured head portion and a reduced neck portion, said head constituting a handle member, a metallic member secured within and to said neck portion and provided with means adapted for interlocking engagement with the neck portion of the container.

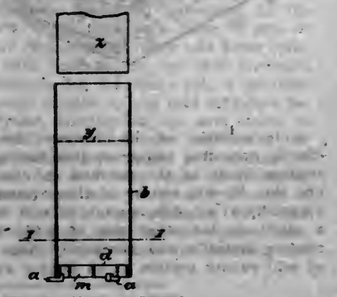


1,637,668. SHOCKING ATTACHMENT FOR GRAIN BINDERS. GEORGE W. VETTER, Commerce, Mo. Filed May 12, 1925. Serial No. 29,790. 12 Claims. (Cl. 56—424.)



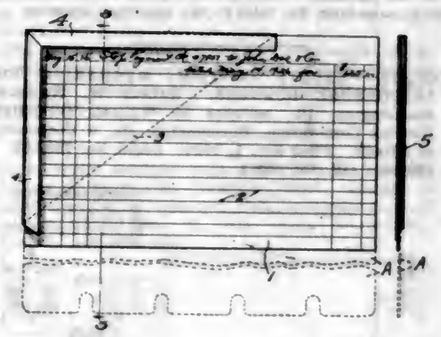
1. A shocking attachment for harvesting machines comprising a frame having means whereby the same may be secured to the harvesting machine, a carrier having a body and a pair of bundle receiving members hingedly connected to the body and provided with actuating arms, arcuate guide members carried by said frame and engaging said actuating arms, means for moving said carrier in an arcuate path, and the guide members being shaped receiving members to their open bundle receiving or discharging position at each end of the path of movement of the carrier.

1,637,669. LIQUID PUMP. HUGH WALLACE, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to General Motors Research Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 28, 1925. Serial No. 53,148. 3 Claims. (Cl. 103—42.)



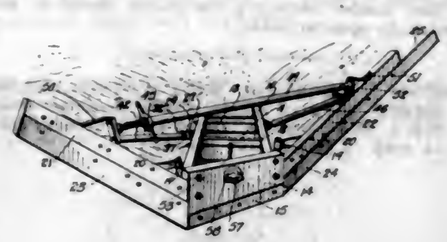
1. A liquid pump comprising, in combination, a frame adapted to be attached to a machine which operates the pump and providing a pulsating chamber and a pump outlet, a reciprocating pulsator within the chamber, a valve carried by the frame and controlling communication between the pulsating chamber and the pump outlet, a cover for the frame providing a pump inlet connected with the pulsating chamber, and a pump valve controlling the passage from the inlet to the pulsating chamber.

1,637,670. SAFETY CONTROL MECHANISM FOR LIQUID-FUEL BURNERS. WALTER W. WILLIAMS, Bloomington, Ill., assignor to Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating Corporation, Bloomington, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 1, 1924. Serial No. 753,166. 6 Claims. (Cl. 158—28.)



1. In a liquid fuel burning device, in combination, electrically operated means for projecting a mixture of air and sprayed fuel into a zone of ignition, means for igniting same, and automatic safety control mechanism operating upon an initial failure of ignition, or upon a cessation of combustion conditions to prevent or cause a cessation of the operation of the projecting means, including a thermostat located in a manner to be responsive to combustion conditions, a valve member in the fuel line controlled thereby, and a fuel reservoir including therein a float member controlling the electric circuit to the electrically operated means.

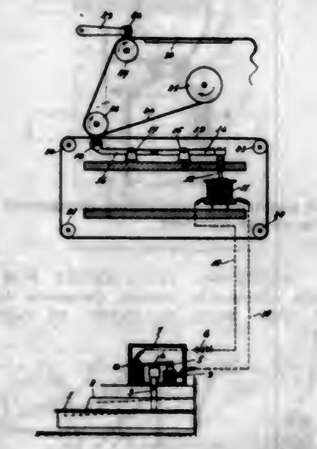
1,637,671. OIL-PRESS WITH DISINTEGRATING MEANS. HERMANN ZANDER, Stettin, Germany. Filed June 3, 1926, Serial No. 113,586, and in Germany July 14, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 100—50.)



1. A disintegrating means for an oil press having a cylinder, comprising a set of cutters, means for supporting the said set of cutters at the lower end of the pressing cylinder so that they are capable of being removed, a plunger capable of sliding in the cylinder, an opposing plunger also capable of sliding in the cylinder and of carrying the set of cutters along with it during its upward movement and of depositing it again on the supporting means, on the opposing plunger being withdrawn from the cylinder, whereby the cake is disintegrated on leaving the cylinder, as set forth.

1,637,672. MEMORANDUM DEVICE. EARL B. ANGELL, Troy, Mont. Filed July 2, 1926. Serial No. 120,285. 2 Claims. (Cl. 281—42.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a memorandum sheet having a non-metallic attaching piece secured to one corner thereof and forming a pocket whereby said sheet may be detachably fitted to a posting machine page or the like, said attaching piece being flexible and of sufficient thinness to be adapted for insertion between the rollers of a typewriting machine with said page.



1,637,673. DITCH-MAINTAINING DRAG. DUDLEY ATKINS, Jr., FRANK O. ANDERSON, and EVERETT E. LINDSEY, Minneapolis, Kans. Filed July 19, 1926. Serial No. 123,297. 6 Claims. (Cl. 37—177.)

1. In a device of the character described, a longitudinally extending runner portion having an obliquely extending blade at the forward end thereof, a blade on one side of said runner portion extending laterally and forwardly at an oblique angle to said runner portion and a blade on the other side of said runner portion extending laterally and rearwardly from the forward end of said runner portion at an oblique angle.

1,637,674. ELECTRIC MUSICAL RECORDER. ANGELO BARBIERI, Milan, Italy. Filed June 26, 1923, Serial No. 647,950, and in Italy June 28, 1922. 5 Claims. (Cl. 84—402.)

1. In an electric musical recorder, a plurality of rollers for supporting and guiding a record sheet, one of said rollers consisting of a drive for a record sheet and another of said rollers constituting a platen, an ink band movable coincidently with the drive roller, a pair of levers pivotally connected at their adjacent ends, note recording rollers rotatably mounted in the other end of one of the levers, electromagnetic means associated with the other end of the other lever for actuating the latter, an electric circuit including the electromagnetic means and a circuit closure interposed in said circuit and operable by the key of a musical instrument.

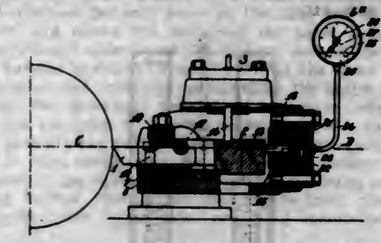
1,637,675. RUBBER HEEL. EDWARD G. BLOSER, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Mar. 4, 1926. Serial No. 92,225. 1 Claim. (Cl. 36—75.)



A rubber heel having a cup-shaped depression formed in its bottom surface centrally of the heel, defining a semi-circular wall adjacent the rear of the heel and a flat portion adjacent the front of the heel, a sheet metal insertion embedded in, and molded in the heel to prevent said semi-circular wall portion from wearing, and to reinforce the same to prevent caving in thereof, said insertion extending generally about the back of the heel centrally between the back edge of the heel and the cup-shaped depression, and having its width extend upwardly from the bottom of said wall, said insertion being corrugated to offer the maximum wearing surface to the ground, the bottom surface of the heel being flush with the bottom edge of the insertion and said insertion extending into the wall a distance considerably less than the thickness of said heel, whereby the presence of said insertion in said heel will detract little from the resiliency of said heel.

1,637,676. DEVICE FOR MEASURING THE FORCES ARISING DURING TURNING ON LATHES AND THE LIKE. OSKAR VON BOHUSZEWICZ and WILHELM WILK, Dusseldorf, Germany. Filed Feb. 28, 1924. Serial No. 695,816. and in Germany May 11, 1923. 10 Claims. (Cl. 265—1.)

1. A device for measuring the forces generated during rotation on lathes comprising in combination, a lever adapted for use as a tool holder; rods adapted to carry said lever; a plurality of balls supporting said rods; measuring instruments associated with said tool holder; and means for transmitting the forces to the instruments.

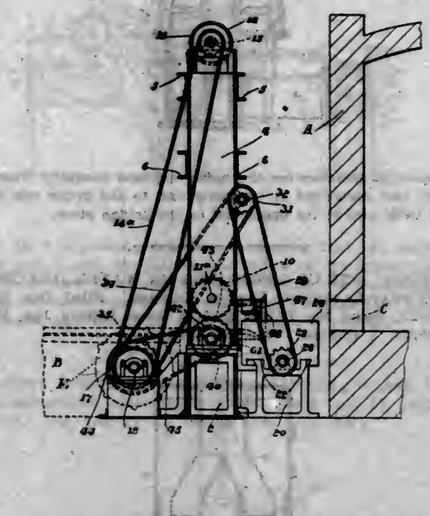
1,637,677. SHIP'S HULL. PAUL BONNEMAISON, Paris, France. Filed June 21, 1923, Serial No. 646,894, and in Germany June 28, 1922. 5 Claims. (Cl. 114—66.5.)

1. A boat hull, the sides of said hull being inclined inwardly and rearwardly toward its bottom, the bottom of said hull being substantially triangular in form and elevated above the lowermost portion of said sides, the apex of the bottom being adjacent the bow of the boat.

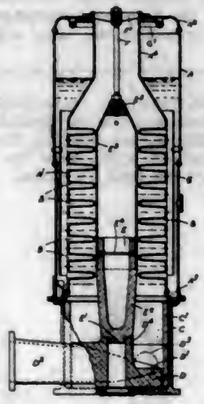


3. A boat hull, the bottom of said hull being formed from a series of planes, the forward portion of each of said planes being elevated above the rear and side portions thereof, each plane being V-shaped and having an acute angled apex.

1,637,678. APPARATUS FOR CLEANING, PEELING, OR SHELLING CORN, GRAINS, AND THE LIKE. STEFANO CAMILLA and FEDERICO PAGLIANI, Turin, Italy. Filed Sept. 9, 1924, Serial No. 736,742, and in Italy Sept. 11, 1923. 1 Claim. (Cl. 83—34.)

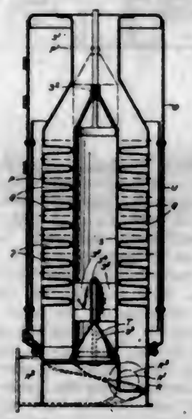
Apparatus for cleaning, peeling or shelling corn, grain and the like, comprising a cylindrical container with open upper end and closed bottom presenting a depressed annular surface semicircular in cross section; an upwardly projecting rotatable worm mounted in the bottom centrally of the annular surface, the shaft of said worm extending axially through the bottom portion of the container; means for rotating said worm; an upper portion provided in said container as an extension of said bottom portion above the point of application of the downwardly drawing force of said worm; a centrally situated supply duct extending through the said upper portion of the container, said duct being arranged in line with said worm and adapted to directly and continuously supply the bottom portion of the container, and a discharge hopper for the continuous discharge of the grain already treated surrounding the upper edge of the container.

1,637,679. TUBE-WELDING MACHINE. DOUGLAS WHIMSTER CHISHOLM, Garnkirk, Scotland, assignor to The Birchfield Engineering Company Limited, Cardiff, Wales. Filed Jan. 26, 1925, Serial No. 4,977, and in Great Britain Apr. 22, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 78—87.)



1. A tube welding machine comprising a bell-shaped die, two separate and similar jaw members adapted to grip equally therebetween the peripheral surface of the die, slidable tables carrying the said members, means for effecting simultaneous horizontal movement of the said tables towards or away from each other to grip or release the die, a pair of superposed upper and lower rolls, a beam structure, fixed brackets on the said structure bearings on said brackets for the lower roll, a movable frame, vertical journals carried by the said structure for each side of said frame, bearings on the said frame to support the upper roll, means to raise and lower the said frame, caps for retaining the upper roll bearings, a lug integral with each of said caps, caps for retaining the lower roll bearings, and a recess formed in each of said last mentioned caps said lugs engaging with said recesses to interlock said rolls when together against relative horizontal movement, and means for rotating the rolls.

1,637,680. STEAM GENERATOR OR WATER HEATER. THOMAS CLARKSON, London, England. Filed Dec. 31, 1925, Serial No. 78,671, and in Great Britain Jan. 16, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 257—216.)



1. A water heater comprising an annular water chamber surrounding a heating space through which hot gases are adapted to pass, closed-ended water tubes extending radially inwards from the water chamber into the heating space, means for supplying heat to the heating space adjacent to its lower end, a central outlet for the hot gases at the upper end of the heater, a bridge piece extending across this outlet, a substantially cylindrical baffle disposed centrally within the heating space with its wall adjacent to the ends of the water tubes and a supporting member for the baffle disposed coaxially therewith and connected at its lower end to the upper end of the baffle and at its upper end to the bridge piece.

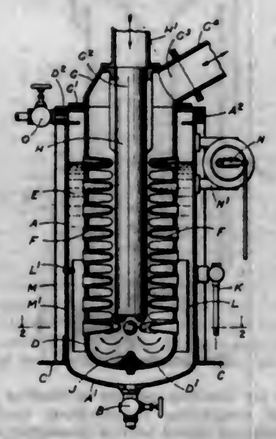
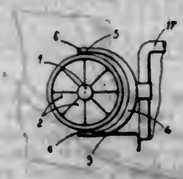
1,637,681. STEAM GENERATOR OR WATER HEATER. THOMAS CLARKSON, London, England. Filed Dec. 31, 1925, Serial No. 78,672, and in Great Britain Jan. 16, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 257—216.)



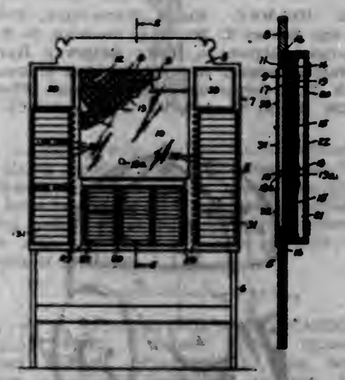
1. A water heater comprising an annular water chamber surrounding a heating space through which hot gases are adapted to flow, closed-ended water tubes projecting radially inwards from the water chamber into the heating space, a tubular member centrally mounted within the heating space with its wall adjacent to the ends of the water tubes, an inlet passage for the hot gases at the lower end of the water-heater so formed that a circular motion around the tubular member tends to be imparted to the gases in addition to their upward motion over the water tubes through the water heater, a central outlet for the gases at the upper end of the water heater, a by-pass passage and a valve adapted to vary the relative amounts of the hot gases which pass respectively through the by-pass passage and through that part of the heating space in which the water tubes lie.

1,637,682. STEAM GENERATOR. THOMAS CLARKSON, London, England. Filed Sept. 7, 1926, Serial No. 134,083, and in Great Britain Sept. 17, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 257—216.)



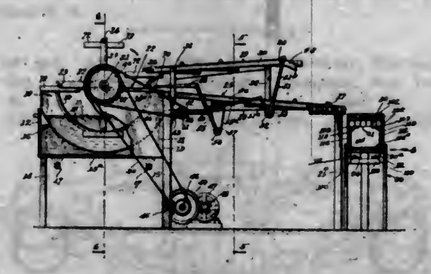
1. A water heater of the class described comprising in combination an annular water chamber surrounding a heating space through which hot gases can flow, closed-ended water-containing thimbles extending radially into the heating space from the water chamber, an inlet for the hot gases at one end of the chamber, an outlet therefor near the other end and a baffle of circular cross-section disposed centrally within the heating space, the cross-sectional area of the heating space between and around the thimbles being smaller towards the outlet than towards the inlet for the heating gases for the purposes specified.

1,637,683. STEAM GENERATOR OR WATER HEATER. THOMAS CLARKSON, London, England. Filed Jan. 23, 1924, Serial No. 688,036, and in Great Britain Feb. 15, 1923. 4 Claims. (Cl. 257—216.)



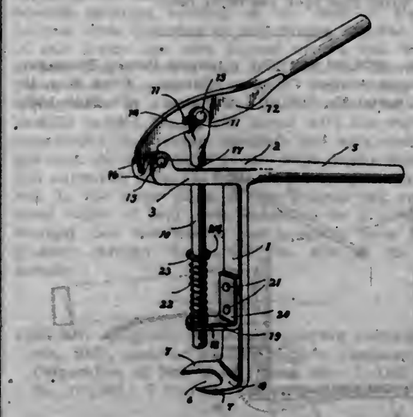
1. A water heater of the class described, including in combination, inner and outer elongated tubular wall-members, vertically disposed and enclosing between them a water and steam space, a series of water tubes supported in the inner wall-member and projecting inwardly therefrom, said tubes opening into the water space between said wall-members and having closed inner ends, an aperture through which hot gases may be introduced into the interior of the inner member at one end thereof, a discharge aperture for said gases at the same end of said member, and means for delivering the gases from the first mentioned aperture to the opposite end of the said inner member positioned centrally within the inner tube-like member and occupying substantially the entire space between the innermost points of the water tubes to cause the hot gases to flow in passing from the gas delivery point to the gas outlet, in a path substantially annular in cross section from the point of gas delivered to the point of gas egress, all of the hot gases being caused thereby to flow close to the wall of the inner chamber and between the water tubes projecting therefrom.

1,637,684. SIGNALING APPARATUS FOR ROAD TRAFFIC. ALBERT CLÉBERT, Paris, France. Filed Sept. 7, 1926, Serial No. 134,042, and in France Sept. 15, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 116—35.)



1. A road vehicle signal of the character described, including in combination a supporting bracket, a shaft journalled therein, a sleeve carried by the shaft medially of the ends thereof, a disc composed of a plurality of vanes rotatably mounted on the sleeve, and means operable from a point adjacent the driver of the vehicle for partially rotating the shaft so as to move the disc in a position to face the current of air set up by the movement of the vehicle, to effect rotation of the disc substantially as and for the purposes set forth.

1,637,685. DIRECTORY. CHARLES ESBALE COWLES, El Paso, Tex. Filed Oct. 18, 1926. Serial No. 142,404. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—132.)

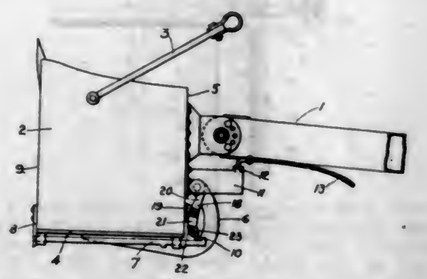


A directory comprising a cabinet including a frame having rabbeted edges, a transparent panel in the frame engaging the rabbeted edges, a map of translucent material positioned behind the panel, a backing plate behind the map, a second plate pressing against the backing plate for maintaining the map in flat formation, means for securing the second plate to the frame, said backing plate having openings therein at points to be designated on the map, said second plate having openings therethrough registering with the first openings, lamps mounted in the openings of the second plate and adapted to be selectively illuminated so as to illuminate that portion of the map in front of the corresponding opening in the backing plate, doors closing the openings in the second plate, said cabinet including side members, and top and bottom members secured to the frame and surrounding said plates and a door mounted on one of the members and closing the back of the cabinet and permitting access when opened to the first mentioned doors on the second plate.

1,637,686. PROCESSING MACHINE. JOSEPH L. COYLE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 7, 1925. Serial No. 48,728. 13 Claims. (Cl. 99—2.)

1. In a processing machine, a treating tank, an upper conveyor, means for placing containers on the upper conveyor, a lower conveyor, means for taking the containers from the upper conveyor, passing them through the treating tank, and depositing them on the lower conveyor.

1,637,687. BATTERY-TERMINAL LIFTER. CLARK C. ECHELBERGER, Hutchinson, Kans. Filed July 17, 1926. Serial No. 123,113. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—84.)

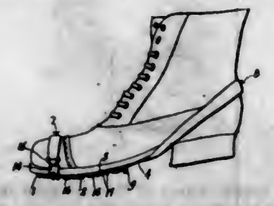


1. An extractor comprising a body portion including a standard and a cross bar carried thereby and constituting a handle and arm extending from opposite sides of the standard, a foot extending from said standard and beneath said arm adapted to engage an article to be detached from a companion article, a plunger slidable through said arm towards and away from said foot, and a lever carried by said arm in overhanging relation to the handle and plunger for moving said plunger into engagement with the companion article and exert pressure thereon to separate the articles when the lever and handle are forced toward each other.

1,637,688. HOLDER FOR CLOTHES AND OTHER ARTICLES. JOSEPH EMBL, Seabeck, Wash. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 163,735. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—34.)

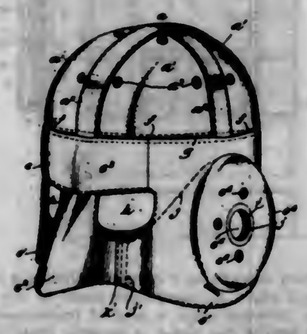
1. A device of the character described comprising in combination two telescopically-arranged tubes, one of which has a longitudinal slot and a plurality of notches communicating with said slot, a stud carried by the other one of said tubes and projecting into said slot and adapted by a relative axial and rotational movement of said tubes to be moved into one of said notches for securing the tubes together in different positions, means slidingly mounted on the outer tube for holding articles, means for securing said article-holding means in different adjusted positions lengthwise of said outer tube, and a spring within the tubes and connected with them to retain the outer tube upon the inner tube.

1,637,689. STEAM SHOVEL. JOSEPH PIERCE ENDERBY, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. Filed May 10, 1926. Serial No. 108,101. 2 Claims. (Cl. 214—146.)



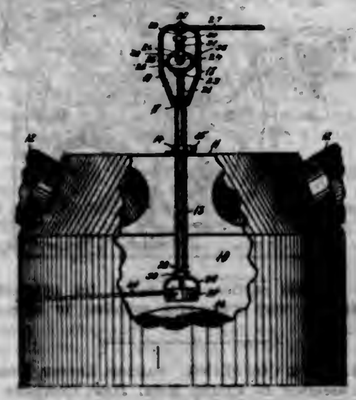
1. An opening device for power shovel buckets having a hinged door forming a bottom closure and a slidable bolt adapted to hold the door in closed position comprising a bell crank mounted on the bucket, power operated means for actuating the crank, a lug upon the rear end of the bolt and a finger pivotally mounted upon the bell crank adapted to engage the lug to withdraw the bolt when the crank is moved in one direction and to pass freely over the lug when the crank is moved in the opposite direction.

1,637,690. PLATE-CLAMPING MECHANISM FOR PRINTING PRESSES. WILLIAM EVENSEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Goss Printing Press Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 2, 1926. Serial No. 85,425. 12 Claims. (Cl. 101—378.)



1. In a plate clamping mechanism for printing presses, the combination of a clip rod provided with a recess, a clip, and means carried by the clip to cooperate with the recess in the clip rod to limit the movement between the clip and clip rod.

1,637,691. ICE CREEPER. EDWARD FERAD, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 5, 1925. Serial No. 13,119. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—63.)



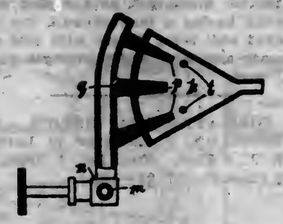
1. An ice creeper comprising a heelless sandal having jointed metallic plates adapted to respectively fit the toe, ball and forward part of the shank portions of the bottom of a shoe, the toe and ballplates having struck out therefrom numerous short prongs distributed over their outer surface to provide a level tread and the shank plate having one or more relatively long rigid spikes disposed thereon in such relation as normally to be in light engagement if any with the ground but adapted to be pressed downwardly when the weight of the body is placed firmly on the arch of the foot.

1,637,692. HELMET. KEENE FITZPATRICK, Princeton, N. J., and ROBERT T. MULLINS, Brooklyn, N. Y.; said Fitzpatrick assignor to Henry Ridgeway Hart, and said Mullins assignor to A. G. Spalding & Bros., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 18, 1926. Serial No. 116,810. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—3.)

1. In a protective device, the combination with a head guard, of a protector for the face, ears and back of the head comprising a relatively stiff outer covering of leather, a metallic re-enforcement for the nose portion, fibrous re-enforcements for the cheek bone and ear portions and an inner layer of felt padding.

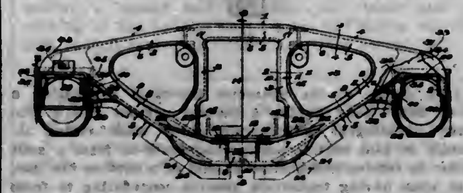
1,637,693. HUMIDIFIER. JAMES W. GALLOWAY, Waterloo, Iowa, assignor of one-half to Alwin C. Haffner, Des Moines, Iowa. Filed Nov. 23, 1926. Serial No. 150,216. 6 Claims. (Cl. 126—113.)

1. A humidifier in combination with a hot air heater, comprising a thermostatic element formed of concentric tubes of unequal length interconnected at one end and mounted vertically through the top of said heater, a yoke carried on the upper end of the outer tube, a valve seat and water supply connections carried by said yoke, a second yoke carried by the upper end of the inner tube within said first named yoke, a spring-pressed plunger valve carried by said second yoke and adapted to register with said seat and an evaporating pan supported by and beneath said thermostatic element.



1,637,694. BELT CLAMP. CHARLES E. GIRTEN, Houston, Tex. Filed Jan. 4, 1926. Serial No. 79,078. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—37.)

1. A fastener for belts, and the like, comprising arcuate plates hinged together, bolts fitted through the belt ends and through the corresponding plates, the inner ends of the bolts having enlarged heads, barbs carried by the head, the facing sides of the plates having recesses which coincide with said heads and nuts threaded onto the outer ends of said bolts.



1,637,695. BURNER FOR HYDROCARBON AND SIMILAR FUEL. ROBERT EDWIN GOLDSBROUGH, Consett, England. Filed Feb. 9, 1923, Serial No. 617,986, and in Great Britain Feb. 16, 1922. 3 Claims. (Cl. 158—56.)

1. For producing gas from liquid hydrocarbons, apparatus comprising, in combination, a conduit, means for raising said conduit to a high temperature, and means for introducing the hydrocarbon and an atomizing fluid therefore into said conduit, said means including a mixing chamber positioned exteriorly of, but in communication with, the conduit, means for independently introducing said hydrocarbon into said mixing chamber, means for independently introducing said fluid into said chamber for atomizing said hydrocarbon, and means for independently introducing an additional supply of said fluid into said mixing chamber for commingling with the mixture of said atomized hydrocarbon and of the fluid that atomized it.

1,637,696. SIDE FRAME. CYRUS HANKINS, Baltimore, Md., assignor to The Symington Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 70,274. 12 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)

1. A car truck side frame comprising a compression member, a tension member, bolster guide columns interposed between intermediate portions of said members, said compression and tension members being generally channel shape in cross section, said compression member being formed with an upper web, and depending flanges at the edges of said web, said tension member being formed with a lower web and upstanding flanges at the edges of said web, the flanges of said compression and tension members merging at the ends of the frame, journal boxes connected to said flanges adjacent the ends of said frame and each formed with a roof with each of said flanges merged with said roof, the connection between said journal boxes and frame being further strengthened by a connecting web extending between and parallel to said flanges and joined with the webs of the compression and tension members and with each journal box roof, the outer edges of said webs sloping downwardly and outwardly from the ends of the compression member web to the outer edges of the journal box roofs, the inner edges of said webs extending in a substantially straight line downwardly and inwardly from the compression member web along the web of the tension member.

1,637,697. MIXING NOZZLE. OYSTEIN JACOBSEN, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Duriron Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 7, 1927. Serial No. 173,209. 7 Claims. (Cl. 137—112.)

1. The combination with a pipe through which fluids to be mixed are circulated, of a nozzle mounted in the pipe having an inlet portion with its passage tapering inwardly in the direction of the flow of the fluid, and having a mixing portion into which the reduced end of such inlet portion discharges, said mixing portion comprising a cavity having a forward wall, the central part of said forward wall being in line with said reduced end and imperforate and with outlet passages outward from such central part.

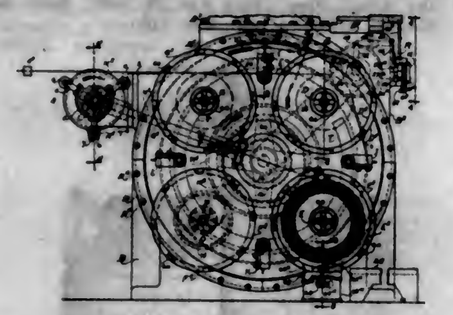
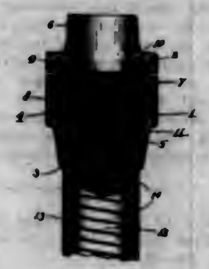
1,637,698. CORD-ATTACHING DEVICE. WARREN R. LARTER, Newark, N. J., assignor to Larter & Sons, Newark, N. J., a Firm. Filed Feb. 1, 1926. Serial No. 85,342. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—123.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a sheet metal body having a central portion and a plurality of integral radial arms which when swung inwardly of said central portion cooperate to form a split socket to receive and enclose an end of a cord or the like, said arms having transverse grooves cooperating to form an annular groove on the exterior of said body and said body being tapered and increasing in diameter from the open end of said socket to said groove, and a clamping ring of less diameter than said groove and slidable upon said tapered portion to seat in said groove and force and hold said arms together to clamp the end of a cord in said socket.



1,637,699. JEWELRY CLASP. SAMUEL LAUTERBACH, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 4, 1927. Serial No. 158,873. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—242.)

1. In a clasp, the combination of two members pivoted together and relatively movable around the axis of the pivot, the main portions of the member being of similar cross section, one of the members being forked and having a slot adjacent to the pivot, while the other has an extension beyond the pivot co-operating with the slot and forming a tongue integral and rigid with the part that carries it, said tongue being wider radially of the clasp than the remainder of the device, the extension of the tongue projecting into the interior of the clasp.



1,637,700. DRAWING AND SPOOLING MECHANISM AND METHOD. JOHN H. LEE and FRANK HONIG, Oak Park, Ill., assignors to Cyclo Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 5, 1923. Serial No. 649,495. 36 Claims. (Cl. 242—280.)

1. In combination, a self-discharging capstan operative to deliver a continuous strand, and take-up mechanism for winding said strand in a plurality of coils, said take-up mechanism comprising a carrier, a plurality of spindles mounted on said carrier, and means for automatically connecting the wire with said spindles, in turn.

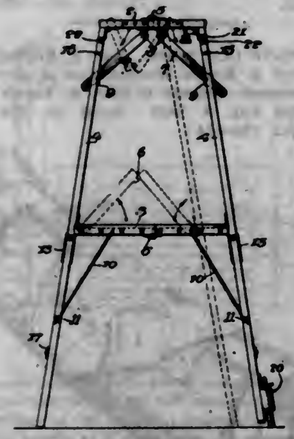
1,637,701. PIPE COUPLING. SAMUEL LEVITT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to United Metal Hose Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 13, 1920. Serial No. 395,928. 11 Claims. (Cl. 285—71.)

2. A coupling of the character described comprising a member adapted to surround a hose and provided with a shoulder for engaging the end of the latter, another member also adapted to surround the hose, said members being provided with cooperating threads and the bore of the latter of said members being tapered, and coil spring gripping means composed of a plurality of turns of wire located in said tapered bore between said members and capable of being compressed into forcible engagement with the hose as said coupling members are screwed together.

1,637,702. VEHICLE SIGNAL DEVICE. NEWTON W. MATTHEWS, Fullerton, Calif. Filed Jan. 14, 1924. Serial No. 686,004. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—329.)

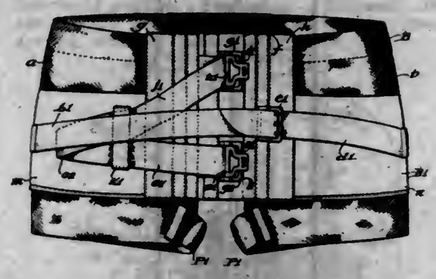
A direction indicating signal for vehicles comprising a signal support adapted to be secured to a vehicle, said support including a switch member comprising a disk provided with a plurality of spaced contacts and a plurality of latch elements on one face thereof in radial alignment with the contacts, a pivotally mounted signal arm on said support, a lamp on said arm, a contact on said arm, an insulated latching member carried by said signal arm, said latching member being provided with a plurality of latch elements cooperating with the latch elements on the switch member when said contact on the signal arm is in engagement with any one of the contacts on the switch member.

1,637,703. PROCESS OF MAKING GREASE. JAMES MCKEE, Chester, Pa., assignor to Sun Oil Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 24, 1925. Serial No. 52,223. 7 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)



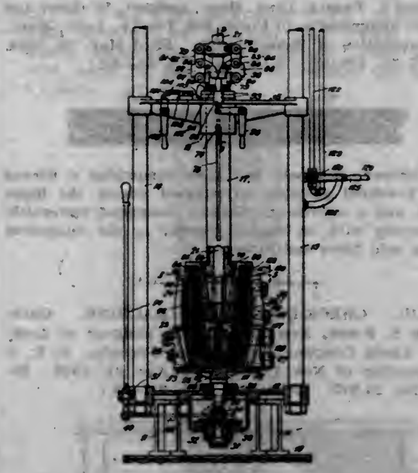
1. The process of making a high boiling point grease which comprises mixing from five to fifty per cent of a hard cocoanut oil soap with from ninety-five to fifty per cent respectively of a paraffin base mineral oil, and heating the same to a temperature above 450° F.

1,637,704. CURTAIN-DRAPING DEVICE. ALLEN A. MOATS, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Mar. 13, 1924. Serial No. 698,903. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—33.)



1. A curtain draping device including an elongated curtain-retaining member; an attachment plate having a projection with a free outer face; and means pivotally connecting said curtain-retaining member to said projection to allow said member to rotate in a plane entirely at one side of said projection, said pivotal means being operative to place the pivotal portion of said member under spring tension for holding said pivotal portion of said member in frictional contact with said face of the attachment plate and to allow said member to be moved and held in any position within its entire circle of rotation.

1,637,705. FOLDABLE SUPPORTING STAND FOR OPTICAL PROJECTING MACHINES. HUGO NEWMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 7, 1925. Serial No. 67,558. 10 Claims. (Cl. 45—117.)

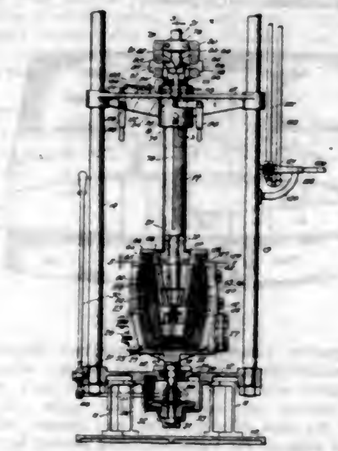


1. A folding supporting stand for instruments comprising a top and bottom and a pair of side bars hinge connected to said top and bottom adjacent to the ends thereof, said top and bottom each being hinge connected intermediate its length to fold inward toward each other and toward the center of the stand and wholly within the side bars, and foldable legs for supporting the stand and foldable upwardly against the edges of said side bars.

1,637,706. SUPPORTER. HATTIE M. PFALTZGRAFF, Atlantic City, N. J. Filed Feb. 12, 1926. Serial No. 87,778. 12 Claims. (Cl. 2—41.)

1. A supporter comprising an inner belt adapted to extend substantially around the body of the wearer, a padded support secured to said belt at the back of the wearer, a second belt encircling said inner belt and opening at the back of the wearer, and means overlying said padded support for tightening said second belt.

1,637,707. METHOD OF MANUFACTURING CRUCIBLES AND THE LIKE. HAROLD E. PORTER, Bayside, N. Y., assignor to Charlotte T. Porter. Filed Mar. 25, 1924. Serial No. 701,663. 9 Claims. (Cl. 25—156.)



1. The process of manufacturing crucibles and the like, which consists in depositing the crucible forming material in the mold shaped to form the outer surface of the crucible, compressing said material with a former having continuous side and bottom walls to form the inner surface of said crucible, and rotating said mold and crucible forming material relative to the former while the material is undergoing compression.

1,637,708. MACHINE FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF CRUCIBLES AND THE LIKE. HAROLD E. PORTER, Bayside, N. Y., assignor to Charlotte T. Porter. Filed Mar. 25, 1924. Serial No. 701,664. 26 Claims. (Cl. 25—27.)

1. A machine for manufacturing crucibles and the like, comprising a mold into which the crucible forming material is deposited, a hollow, flexible and expansible punch movable into the mold to partially compress said material, means for expanding the punch after it has entered the mold to further compress said material, and means for effecting a relative rotation of the mold and punch as the material is being compressed.

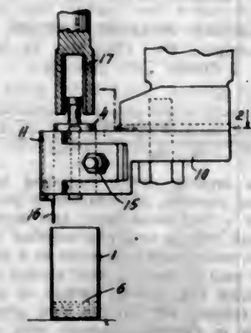
1,637,709. STIFFENER FOR BOOTS AND SHOES. GEORGE L. PREBLE, Lynn, Mass., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Preble Box Toe Co., Lynn, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 18, 1924. Serial No. 700,009. 4 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)

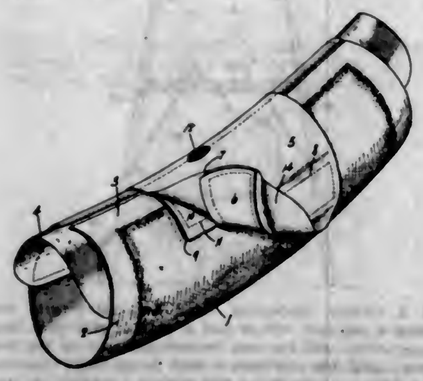
3. Stiffeners for boots and shoes comprising a fibrous sheet, powdered asbestos interspersed among the fibers thereof, and a matrix of cellulosic compound susceptible of softening with an organic solvent in the interstices between said fibers and asbestos.



1,637,710. CHECK-DISPENSING MACHINE. GRANVILLE S. RIDER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Lock-Stub Check Company, Incorporated, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 21, 1925. Serial No. 24,905. 19 Claims. (Cl. 211—8.)

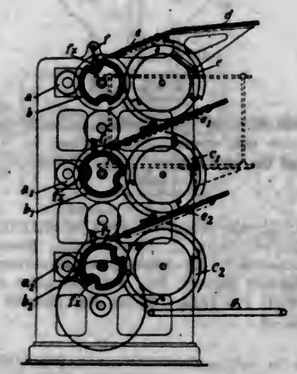
1. In a check dispensing machine, a magazine for containing a stack of checks, an ejecting mechanism including a reciprocatory element movable in one direction from a normal position to engage and partially eject from said magazine the lowermost check in said stack and thereupon movable back to its normal position, and means operated by the complete withdrawal of said check to cause said reciprocatory element to partially eject a succeeding check and then return to its normal position.

11. In a check dispensing machine, a casing for containing a plurality of checks, an ejecting mechanism including a reciprocatory element operable to partially eject one of said checks from said casing, said reciprocatory element being engageable with only one of the checks during a single ejecting movement of said element, and means operated by the complete withdrawal of the check from the casing to effect a repetition of the operation of said ejecting mechanism.



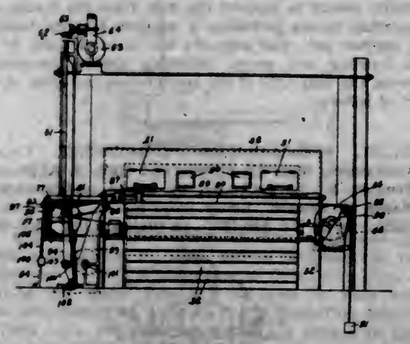
1,637,711. APPARATUS FOR INSERTING DRY-CELL CORES INTO CANS. HANS A. RING, Madison, Wis., assignor to Burgess Battery Company, Madison, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed June 18, 1926. Serial No. 116,852. 11 Claims. (Cl. 226—1.)

1. In mechanism for inserting a dry cell cathode core into a can, a core-holder with a core-deflecting finger thereon.



11. Apparatus for inserting a dry cell cathode core into a can of electrolyte without undue splashing of the electrolyte consisting essentially of means for lowering the core into the can and means for thrusting it sidewise in contact with the can wall and allowing it to move down into the electrolyte while in frictional engagement with said can wall.

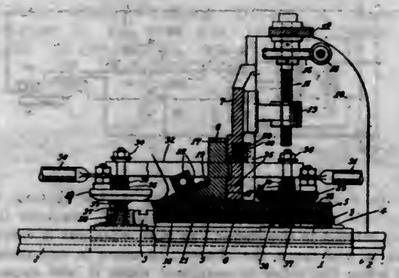
1,637,712. BLOW-OUT BOOT. JOHN F. ROGERS, Dayton, Ohio; Albert R. Rogers administrator of said John F. Rogers, deceased, assignor to Lucy A. Rogers, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Aug. 9, 1926. Serial No. 128,031. 12 Claims. (Cl. 152—24.)



11. In a blowout boot for pneumatic tires, a longitudinally slit tubular body portion to enclose an inner tube, a locking flap on one side of the body for extension across the slit into overlapping relation with the opposite side of the body, and into position to be subjected to clamping pressure of the side wall of a tire casing and interengaging beads upon the contacting faces of the locking flap and boot body, held in engagement with each other by said clamping pressure of the tire casing and inner tube.

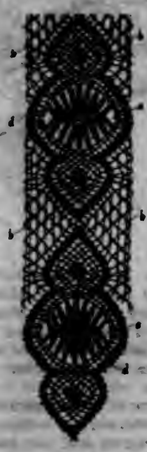
1,637,713. THREE-COLOR INTAGLIO ROTARY PRINTING PRESS. CARL SCHÜNEMANN, Bremen, Germany. Filed July 13, 1926, Serial No. 122,079, and in Germany Apr. 15, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 101—152.)

1. A three-color intaglio printing press comprising in combination three complete printing presses for successive printing actions on a sheet, conveying cylinders one between each two printing presses, grippers on said conveying cylinders, and a stop for each printing press against which the sheet is laid and whereby the sheet is gaged for the succeeding action as soon as it is released by the grippers of the preceding conveying cylinder.



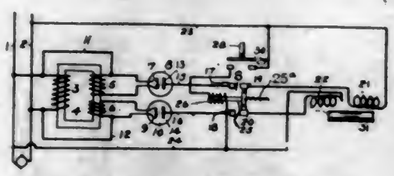
1,637,714. CONTINUOUS LEER. EDWIN E. SLICK, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Feb. 11, 1925. Serial No. 8,402. 17 Claims. (Cl. 198—31.)

1. The combination with a leer conveyor, of a charging conveyor movable across the leer conveyor, means for conveying articles to the charging conveyor, a displacer for moving one article at a time from the charging conveyor to the leer conveyor and means for causing the displacer to move at one speed while transferring the articles from the charging conveyor and at another speed while returning to initial position.



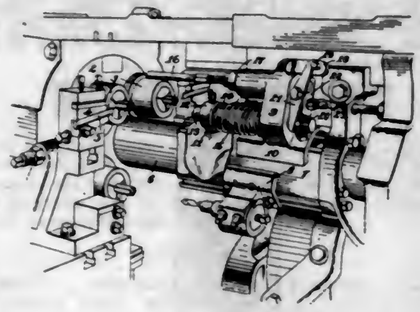
3. The combination with a leer conveyor, of a charging conveyor, a conveyor for loading the charging conveyor and a transfer table between the loading conveyor and the charging conveyor and frictionally driven thereby.

1,637,715. MANUFACTURE OF PLASTIC MATERIALS AND TO APPARATUS THEREFOR. FREDERICK TROUTON SMALL and WILLIAM ALEXANDER DICKIE, Spondon, near Derby, England, assignors to Celanese Corporation of America, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 7, 1923, Serial No. 630,608, and in Great Britain Apr. 21, 1922. 9 Claims. (Cl. 18—51.)



1. Method or process of cutting sheets from blocks of low-flammable celluloid-like materials having a basis of low-flammable cellulose derivative and substantially free from volatile solvent, characterized in that the sheets are cut from the block of said material by means of a heated knife, whereby the low-flammable celluloid-like material in the neighborhood of the knife is softened and rendered plastic and enabled to yield more readily to the cutting edge.

1,637,716. MACHINE-BRAIDED LACE INSERTION AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. EUGEN TÜRCK, Barmen-Langerfeld, Germany. Filed Apr. 9, 1926, Serial No. 100,792, and in Germany Oct. 6, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 96—24.)

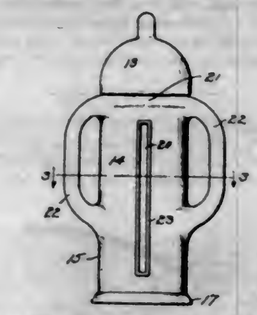


1. A continuous flat braided motif bearing lace having parallel longitudinal edges and comprising a series of motives and a ground-work surrounding the motives and from which the motives are adapted to be marginally severed, each motif including a body and an edging, some of the threads of the body of each motif being common to the body and groundwork and extending therebetween across the motif edging and braided with the threads of the latter, and some of the threads of the motif body extending to and being braided with the threads of the edging and then returned to the body, said threads reinforcing the motif edging and forming a firm selvaged edging structure from which the groundwork may be severed without impairing the integrity of the threads of the edging.

1,637,717. RECIPROCATING MOTOR SYSTEM. CARL S. WEYANDT, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Central Electric Tool Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 26, 1922. Serial No. 577,719. 12 Claims. (Cl. 172—126.)

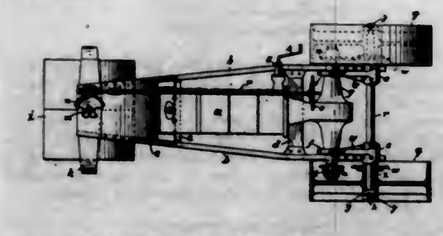
1. In a system for reciprocating electric motors, a reciprocable magnetic element, a pair of windings inductively related to the element so that when one is energized alone it will cause the element to move in one direction and when the other is energized alone it will cause the element to move in the opposite direction, alternating current supply lines, each containing one of the said windings and an electron rectifying means in each circuit.

1,637,718. NUT-FACING ATTACHMENT FOR AUTOMATIC MACHINES. EARL H. WHEELER, Windsor, Vt., assignor to The National Acme Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 20, 1926. Serial No. 123,631. 27 Claims. (Cl. 29—57.)



1. The combination of a sliding main tool carrier, a tool holder mounted thereon, a sliding tool support carried by said holder, means for stopping the forward movement of said tool support during the continued advance of the main tool carrier, and means cooperating with the tool holder for retracting said sliding tool support.

15. The combination of a reciprocating tool carrier, a tool holder mounted thereon, an independently reciprocating tool support carried by said tool holder for the reception of a tool, an independently reciprocating stop supported by the tool holder, connecting means between the stop and tool support, shiftable means carried by said connecting means, and means carried by the tool holder and tool support and cooperating with said shiftable means for retracting the tool support at an accelerated speed during the advance of the tool carrier.



1,637,719. SAFETY SLIP FOR NURSING BOTTLES. SALLIE WHITLOCK, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 26, 1924. Serial No. 734,187. Renewed May 24, 1927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 215—11.)

1. For use upon a glass nursing bottle, a removable rubber slip shaped to snugly fit the bottle, a rib at the top and bottom of said slip and a handle formed on opposite sides of said slip, said slip having an elongated slot formed therein constituting a sight opening, the rubber about said opening being raised to form a rib at the edge of the opening.

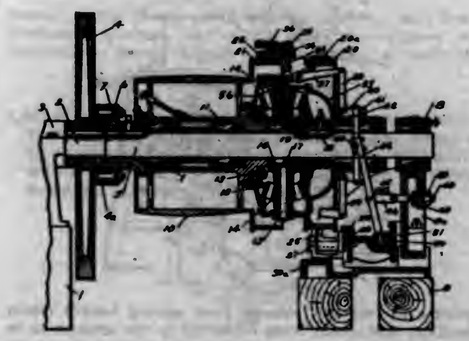
1,637,720. ROAD ROLLER AND SCARIFIER. GEORGE C. ABBE and ROY C. WILLIAMSON, Kennett Square, Pa., assignors to American Road Machinery Company, Inc., Kennett Square, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 24, 1924. Serial No. 739,489. 7 Claims. (Cl. 262—8.)

1. A road machine comprising, in combination, a frame, a roller mounted beneath the forward end of the frame, a pair of rollers mounted oppositely at the rear of the frame, a tractor unit having a rear axle and housing therefor, means to support the unit from the frame, said supporting means including a support for the front of the tractor unit and supports for the two ends of the axle housing and means affording driving connections between the rear axle of the tractor unit and each of said pair of rollers.



1,637,721. STEAM-BOILER ATTACHMENT. CARL Z. ALEXANDER, West Livingston, and EARL S. ALEXANDER, Newark, N. J., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Edwin C. Seward, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Jan. 18, 1922. Serial No. 530,196. 18 Claims. (Cl. 122—218.)

1. A steam heater comprising a fire-box section and a plurality of evaporating chambers above the water level and through which water is adapted to flow in thin sheets, and a geyser device having a heating portion within said fire-box section in communication with the water space thereof and distributing connections extending one to each of said evaporating chambers to automatically supply water to all of them simultaneously.

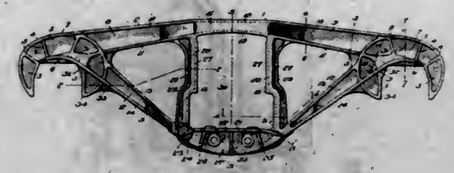
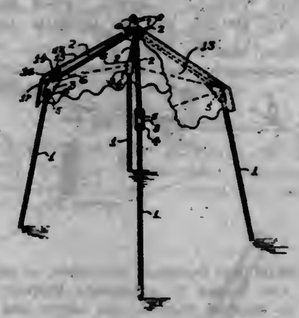
1,637,722. CONTROL MECHANISM. RAYMOND L. AUSTIN, Bradford, Pa., assignor to Bovaird & Seyfang Manufacturing Company, Bradford, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,800. 1 Claim. (Cl. 192—17.)



In a control mechanism, the combination of a clutch; a brake; and a cam mechanism comprising a cam setting the clutch and a cam actuating the brake, said cam being formed in a sliding block and adapted to actuate the clutch and brake alternately.

1,637,723. WINDOW-SASH CONSTRUCTION. ROY T. AXE, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to The O. M. Edwards Company, Inc., Syracuse, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 8, 1925. Serial No. 1,322. 1 Claim. (Cl. 189—76.)

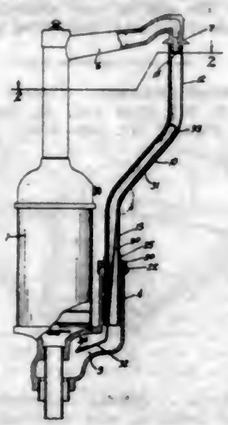


A window sash consisting of metal members substantially H-shaped in cross section whereby the sash members are formed with grooves in their inner edges for receiving the glass pane and channels in their outer edges, the connecting piece of the H formation being in the form of a rectangle approaching a square in cross section whereby the end faces of one of said connecting pieces forms a substantial bearing surface for abutting against the side face of the other connecting piece, the connecting piece of the H formation of one sash member which meets another to form a corner terminating short of the end of such member an amount equal to the depth of said channel and the other of said sash members having its connecting piece projecting beyond the end of the same an amount equal to the depth of the groove and abutting against the end portion of the connecting piece of the former member, and a screw extending transversely through the end portion of the connecting piece of the former member and lengthwise into the connecting piece of the latter member whereby the end edges of the side pieces of the H formation of the latter member abut against the side edges of the side pieces of the former member when the end of one connecting piece bears against the side of the other connecting piece.

1,637,724. SIDE FRAME. DONALD S. BARROWS, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Aug. 15, 1925. Serial No. 50,441. 20 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)

1. A side frame comprising compression, tension and bolster column members, said compression and tension members being rigidly united at their ends, said bolster column members spacing intermediate portions of the compression and tension members and flexibly united with the tension member.

1,637,725. CANOPY OR TENT. WILLIAM C. BAXTER, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to E. M. Trimble Mfg. Co., Inc., Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 2, 1926. Serial No. 126,427. 10 Claims. (Cl. 135—4.)

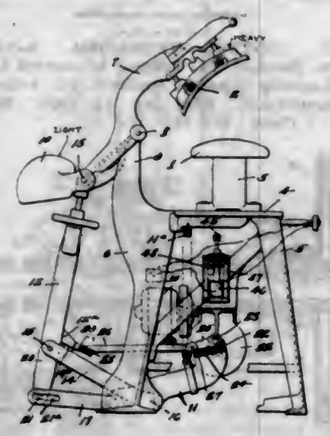


10. A canopy or tent comprising uprights, top rods connected at their outer ends to the uprights, projections at the inner ends of said top rods, and a central member formed of two abutting plates, each provided with two depressions on its abutting face forming two pockets of elongated cross section, the plates being spaced apart between the pockets, and a bolt passing through both plates between the pockets for drawing the same together in order to clamp the projections in the pockets, said plates each having at its upper ends a depression forming an upwardly opening pocket in which a flag pole may be received.

1,637,726. PROCESS OF PRODUCING EXPLOSIVES. FRANK H. BENGHIM, Woodbury, N. J., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 18, 1926. Serial No. 116,975. 17 Claims. (Cl. 52—20.)

1. The process which comprises forming a nitrated aliphatic hydrocarbon oxide by nitrating an aliphatic hydrocarbon oxide mixed with a polyhydroxy alcohol.

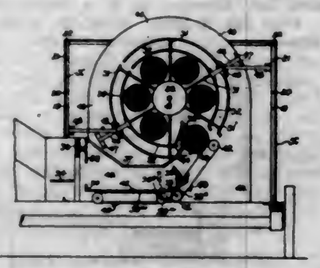
1,637,727. PUMP CONSTRUCTION. HANS M. BOE, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Aug. 23, 1926. Serial No. 130,989. 7 Claims. (Cl. 221—72.)



1. In combination, a base member having an angled passage, an angled tubular member, having one portion rotatably engaging within one portion of said passage, a stop engageable by said tubular member, and a torsion element wholly within the passage and tubular member having angled portions respectively engaged within said passage and tubular member and under tension to force the tube against the stop.

1,637,728. RIDDLE. EDMUND BOUAKE, Footscray, near Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Filed Sept. 4, 1923, Serial No. 660,966, and in Australia June 3, 1922. 1 Claim. (Cl. 209—319.)

In a riddle for threshing machines, a pair of screen sections, and means to adjustably support said screen sections in stepped relation one above and forward of the other comprising a pair of fixed brackets having superposed notches in either one of which notches an end of a screen section is adapted to be engaged and supported, brackets fixed adjacent to the opposite end of and extending downward from said screen section, said brackets being arranged with vertically disposed notches and in either one of which notches an end of the other screen section is adapted to be engaged and supported to arrange the screen sections in stepped relation one above and forward of the other, and means to separately support the screen sections at the opposite ends from a fixed part to have adjustment in a vertical direction and variably incline one screen section independently of the other.



1,637,729. PRESSING-MACHINE CONTROL. PHILIP N. BRAUN, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Prosperity Company, Inc., Syracuse, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 26, 1924. Serial No. 728,500. 8 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)

1. A pressing machine comprising cooperating pressing elements, one of which is movable toward and from the other, a power member, connections between the power member and the movable element normally arranged in ineffective position and movable automatically into effective position by a preliminary closing movement of the movable element independently of the power member, an actuator for the power member and means for normally holding the movable element from moving toward closed position, said means being connected to the actuator to be moved out of operative position and permit the movable element to close and said connections between the power member and the movable element to come into effective position.

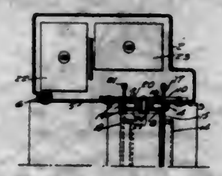
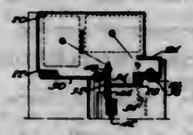
1,637,730. HARVESTING MACHINE. LYLE JOHN CAMERON, Blundellsands, near Liverpool, England. Filed Jan. 16, 1922, Serial No. 529,778, and in Great Britain Jan. 20, 1921. 11 Claims. (Cl. 56—424.)



1. A shock positioning apparatus adapted to accompany a binder and receive bunched sheaves and deposit said sheaves as a shock in an upright position on the ground, said apparatus including a main frame, tracks carried thereby, a gliding frame on some of said tracks, a shock carrying ring supported from said gliding frame, and means engaging other tracks to cause said ring to be raised and lowered during a period of travel by said gliding frame.

1,637,731. WINDOW FRAME AND SASH CONSTRUCTION. HARRY E. CAMPBELL, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Campbell Metal Window Corporation, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Jan. 27, 1926. Serial No. 83,999. 2 Claims. (Cl. 189—72.)



1. A window-frame and sash construction comprising a jamb having two vertical openings in the members forming the inner face of the jamb, partitions behind said openings, means for preventing air from passing between said openings on the inner side of said partition, a second pair of openings through said partition, one of said openings running up substantially from the bottom of the jamb to the middle thereof, and the other running down substantially from the top of the jamb to the middle thereof, sashes having plates adapted to slide in said first-mentioned openings, and having chain lugs adapted respectively to extend through said second pair of openings.

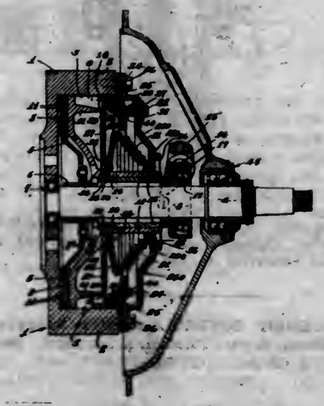
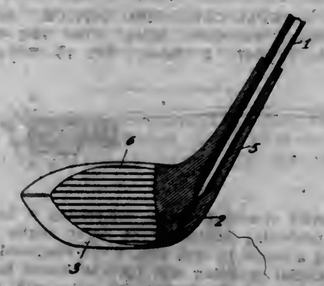
1,637,732. WINDOW FRAME AND SASH CONSTRUCTION. HARRY E. CAMPBELL, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Campbell Metal Window Corporation, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Apr. 23, 1926. Serial No. 104,086. 10 Claims. (Cl. 189—72.)



1. A window-frame and sash construction of the type in which the sash chains are behind the inner faces of the jambs and in which the sashes are provided with plates extending into openings in the inner face of the jamb, comprising jambs having an opening for a lower sash which is entirely closed, above the middle of the window, against the passage of air into a weight chamber or into any inner part of the jamb which may connect with the corresponding opening for the upper sash, and having an opening for an upper sash which is entirely closed, below the middle of the window, against the passage of air into any inner part of the jamb which may connect with the corresponding opening for the lower sash.

1,637,733. WINDOW FRAME AND SASH CONSTRUCTION. HARRY E. CAMPBELL, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Campbell Metal Window Corporation, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Nov. 2, 1926. Serial No. 145,759. 4 Claims. (Cl. 189—72.)

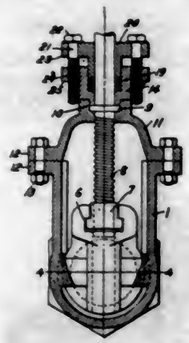


1. In a window-frame and sash construction, tubular side members forming weight boxes, two vertical openings in each of said members extending down about half way from the top, channels formed in the inner wall of each of said members connecting with said openings and continuing the line thereof to the bottom of said members and sashes adapted to slide in said channels having weight attaching portions extending through said openings.

1,637,734. FRICTION CLUTCH. GEORGE C. CARHART, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to Brown-Lipe Gear Company, Syracuse, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 1, 1921. Serial No. 474,217. 19 Claims. (Cl. 192—68.)

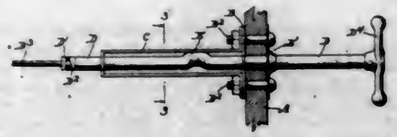
18. In clutch mechanism, the combination of a clutch casing member having a friction surface, a clutch plate engageable with said surface, a thrust ring slidable relatively to said casing, levers fulcrumed loosely at their outer ends on said casing, lever-actuating means with which said levers engage loosely at their inner ends, said levers engaging said ring intermediate their ends, and spring means arranged to exert pressure between said lever-actuating means and said ring and operative to force said ring and plate toward said surface.

1,637,735. GOLF CLUB AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. STANLEY E. COLLINSON, Newton Center, Mass. Filed Jan. 12, 1926. Serial No. 80,708. 5 Claims. (Cl. 273—77.)



3. The method of making a golf club which includes pinching a portion of the head end of a tubular handle shaft to provide head end sections of relatively different shapes, and casting a metal head upon said sections, whereby the head and shaft will be firmly united against relative twisting and separation.

1,637,736. GATE VALVE. RUDOLPH CONRADES, Erie, Pa. Filed June 17, 1925, Serial No. 37,784. Renewed Oct. 23, 1926. 18 Claims. (Cl. 251—57.)



1. In a valve, the combination of a body; a seat in said body; a gate valve head operating on said seat; and wedging mechanism having engaging surfaces rigid with the body and head forcing the head into seating engagement with the seat as the head is moved across the xis of the seat in closing, said wedging surfaces permitting, when engaged, universal inclinational freedom of the head relatively to the seat.

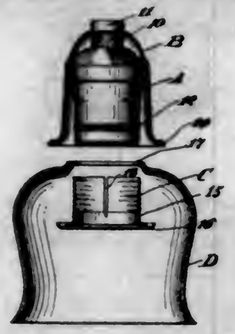
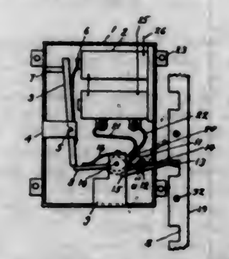
1,637,737. DASH CONTROL. ALLYN RANFT COOPER, Marshalltown, Iowa. Filed Mar. 24, 1924. Serial No. 701,263. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—39.)

1. In a control device, a shaft mounted for axial and for rotary movement, a lateral projection from said shaft, a housing for said shaft provided with a curved portion, the shaft being mounted eccentrically with respect to said curved portion, the projection from said shaft adapted to move against the curved portion of the housing to engage the same to lock the parts against movement.



1,637,738. DENTAL CLEANSING DEVICE. ADONIRAM BIRD COUGH, Watertown, Mass. Filed July 6, 1926. Serial No. 120,647. 3 Claims. (Cl. 15—210.)

1. A dental cleansing device comprising a handle, a thin lip projecting therefrom at right angles thereto and having a recess in each side, a cap composed of soft fibrous material enclosing said lip, and means for pressing adjacent portions of said cap into said recesses, said means consisting of a spring clip of hairpin form having projections cooperating with said recesses and having its ends turned in slightly.



1,637,739. LAMP-SHADE HOLDER. THURE DAHL, New York, N. Y., assignor to Corona Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 10, 1925. Serial No. 8,153. 4 Claims. (Cl. 240—133.)

1. The combination with a lamp socket shell of the type having threads on the exterior thereof, of a metallic lamp shade holder including a threaded collar portion adapted to engage with the threads of the shell, said collar portion being longitudinally split to define a plurality of spring sections whereby it may be forced into place on the shell by a direct thrust, said holder having a flange for sustaining the weight of a shade with its rim resting on the flange.

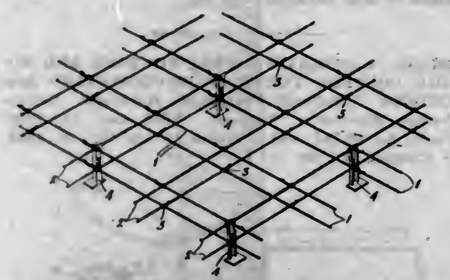
1,637,740. ELECTRIC WINDOW-CLOSING DEVICE. FRANK DZIERZENGA, Brooklyn, N. N. Y. Filed Sept. 20, 1926. Serial No. 136,537. 5 Claims. (Cl. 70—50.)



1. In a window closing device, the combination with a magnet of an armature in a cooperative relation with said magnet, an arm pivotally supported in a cooperative relation with said armature and adapted to support the window panel in an open position, said arm being further adapted to be locked in an operative position with the window panel open by said armature and to be released when said magnet is energized.

1,637,741. DEVICE FOR PROMOTING COMBUSTION. ELDON A. EARLE, Bloomfield, N. J. Filed Oct. 23, 1925. Serial No. 64,343. 2 Claims. (Cl. 110—175.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising a conduit having means for connection to an opening into the fire-box of a furnace so as to extend into said fire-box and supply air above the fuel-bed, said conduit having its inner end turned laterally downward and flared and having at the end of the flare a broad horizontally projecting annular flange which will be heated from the fire and heat the incoming air as it passes beneath said flange radially outward over the fire.

1,637,742. REENFORCED CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION. WALTER S. EDGE and RUSSELL C. OLMSTED, New York, N. Y. Filed June 24, 1924. Serial No. 722,004. 7 Claims. (Cl. 94—8.)

1. A reenforcing mat for concrete structures comprising a plurality of longitudinal and transverse bars arranged in two layers, the bars of each layer being secured together at points of intersection by bar-ties and a plurality of supporting chairs distinct from the bar ties secured to said bars at points of intersection by certain of said bar-ties.

1,637,743. DEVICE FOR TESTING SAFETY VALVES ON TANK CARS. WILLIAM H. FINE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 10, 1926. Serial No. 108,033. 7 Claims. (Cl. 265—47.)

1. A safety valve tester comprising a support, a cylinder upon said support, a liquid in said cylinder, a plunger in the cylinder, a jack screw extending through the plunger, means for connecting the jack screw to a valve to be tested, a collar threaded onto the jack screw adapted on rotation to press upon the plunger to cause the jack screw to unseat the valve and at the same time to cause the plunger to exert pressure upon the liquid, and means for indicating the pressure developed upon the liquid in the cylinder.

1,637,744. DIRECTION SIGNAL FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. FRANK F. GENTSCH, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Sept. 4, 1926. Serial No. 133,691. 1 Claim. (Cl. 116—30.)

A device of the character specified, comprising a casing open at both ends, a unitary signal plate slidably mounted in said casing, two cords, one end of one of said cords being attached to one end of said signal plate, and one end of the other cord being attached to the opposite end of said signal plate, roller bearings in said casing at the opposite ends thereof, each of said cords being adapted to pass over the roller bearings in the end of the casing opposite the end of its attachment to said plate, the free ends of said cords being extended through an opening in the lower central portion of said casing, whereby said signal plate may be extended through either end of the casing by the operation of one or the other of said cords, indicia on the respective end surfaces of said plate adapted to be displayed beyond the respective ends of the casing when said plate is extended, a closure for each end of said casing, said closures being pivotally mounted at the upper ends of said casing, and each being adapted to be operated by the extension of said plate through its end of the casing, the lower end of each of said closures being weighted so as gravitationally to return them to closing position, and means for attaching said casing to a motor vehicle.

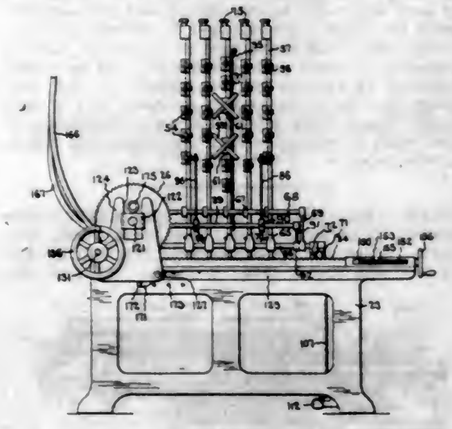
1,637,745. EXPANSIBLE BORING MACHINE. AMOS GOSPER, Brighton Le Sands, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Dec. 27, 1926, Serial No. 157,251, and in Australia May 5, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 144—85.)

1. An improved boring machine for boring holes having enlarged inner ends comprising, a casing, a spindle rotatable in said casing, a pair of tool holders pivotally carried by said spindle, control arms on said tool holders extending inwardly into the casing, cutters carried by said tool holders, a stem slidable within the spindle and adapted to engage said control arms, and a control member mounted adjacent to the cutters and adapted to be actuated by the work-pieces being bored to slidably move the stem member and thus automatically open the cutters to form the enlarged inner ends of the holes being bored.



1,637,746. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. JOSEPH JEAN GREGOIRE, Hollywood, Calif. Filed Oct. 26, 1926. Serial No. 144,294. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—188.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, the combination of a cylinder having a vertical slide-way on the exterior thereof, a valve including a bar-like body having extending from one end thereof a pair of loops, a crank shaft for the operation of said valve, a connecting rod engaged with said crank shaft and having a laterally extending pin at one end, said one end extending between the loops with the pin ridable in the loops so as to form a lost-motion connection between the crank shaft and the valve to transfer the rotary motion of the crank shaft into vertical rectilinear motion of the valve for the purpose of closing and opening intermittently a port provided in the cylinder.

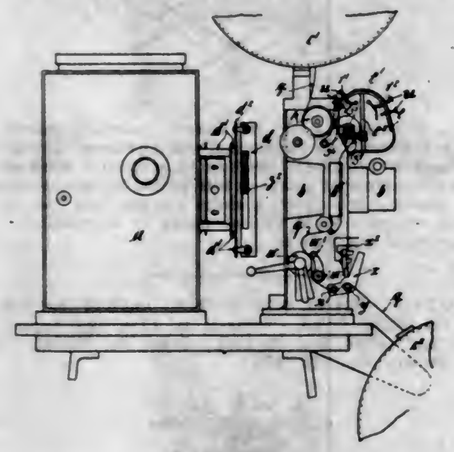
1,637,747. APPARATUS FOR CURVING PRINTING PLATES. ALBERT HALSTEAD, Jr., Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Jan. 4, 1926. Serial No. 79,101. 21 Claims. (Cl. 101—401.2.)

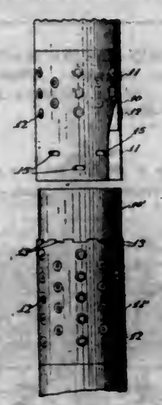


1. In a machine for curving printing plates, the combination of a rollable mold, a flexible band, means attaching one end of said band to said mold, means anchoring the other end of said band substantially stationary with relation to said rollable mold, the circumference of said rollable mold having an integral printing plate resisting surface, and means whereby to roll said mold and thereby wrap said flexible band about said mold with the printing plate between said flexible band and said integral surface throughout the area of the printing plate.

1,637,748. MEANS FOR SUPPORTING THE CONTENTS IN FREIGHT CARS. ROY E. HARMON, Lockland, Ohio. Filed Oct. 22, 1926. Serial No. 143,496. 7 Claims. (Cl. 105—369.)

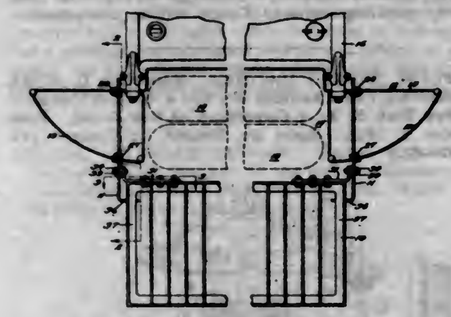
1. In means for supporting the contents of a freight car, a pair of spaced apart horizontal bars secured to the inner wall of a freight car and having projecting flanges extending toward each other, thereby forming a channel between said flanges and wall with a series of oppositely disposed notches in each of said flanges, a horizontal bar attached to the opposite wall of said car and having a flange spaced apart from said wall and provided with a series of notches in alignment with the notches of said first-mentioned bars, and a detachable cross bar pivotally and slidably mounted between said first-mentioned bars and adapted to be swung into a cross-wise position whereby it will engage one of said notches in said last-mentioned bar.

1,637,749. AUTOMATIC SAFETY SHUTTER AND MOTOR CONTROL FOR PICTURE-PROJECTING MACHINES. CHARLES FREDERICK HARRISON, Levenshulme, Manchester, England. Filed Oct. 13, 1925, Serial No. 62,281, and in Great Britain Apr. 30, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—17.)



4. In picture projecting machines and in safety appliances therefor, a series of electric switches collectively operated by either the ballooning, tightening, slackening or breaking of the film, an electro-magnet common to all said switches and electrically connected therewith and a shutter controlled by such electro-magnet for shutting off the light when the film balloons, tightens, slackens or breaks, one of said switches comprising a lever on the axis of the bottom guide roller or sprocket wheel of the machine, a pair of stationary terminals near to one arm of the lever, said terminals being connected with the electro-magnet, and said lever having a roller or further sprocket wheel on the arm furthest from the terminals, whereby on a film being placed in the machine and passed over one roller or wheel and below the other, the tension of the film serves to hold the lever clear of the terminals, while immediately the film breaks or slackens unduly, the lever makes contact with the terminals and completes the magnet circuit, the said circuit remaining completed until the lever is again held clear of the terminals by a film, substantially as herein set forth.

1,637,750. JOINT FOR CASING SECTIONS AND METHOD FOR MAKING THE JOINT. OLIVER W. KILHAM, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to American Steel Pipe and Tank Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed July 21, 1926. Serial No. 123,928. 6 Claims. (Cl. 113—112.)



1. The method of assembling together sections of stovepipe casing or the like, which includes inserting the projecting end of the inner joint of casing on one end of one casing section into the projecting end of the outer joint of casing on one end of another casing section until the outer joints abut each other, forming recesses in the abutting edge of one of said outer joints, and filling said recesses by welding, thus joining the abutting outer joints to each other and to the inner joint.

4. A section of stovepipe casing or the like comprising a plurality of inside joints arranged in alinement, a plurality of outside joints secured about the inner joints, the seams between the outer joints being staggered or broken with respect to the seams between the inner joints, the end inner joint on one end of the casing projecting beyond the end outer joint on the same end, said end outer joint having recesses formed on its end edge as and for the purpose described.

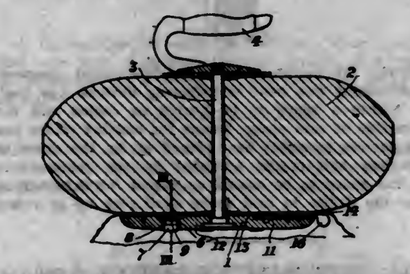
1,637,751. AUTOMOBILE LUGGAGE CARRIER. FRANK J. LAHER, Oakland, Calif. Filed Aug. 31, 1926. Serial No. 132,726. 8 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

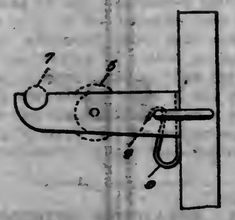
1. A luggage carrier comprising a rack, a pair of extension members, means for pivotally securing said rack to said extension members, and means for securing said members to an automobile bumper.

1,637,752. COMBINED AUTOMOBILE LUGGAGE CARRIER AND BUMPER. FRANK J. LAHER, Oakland, Calif. Filed Mar. 2, 1927. Serial No. 171,954. 11 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



1. A combined luggage carrier and automobile bumper comprising a rack, means for pivotally securing said rack to an automobile bumper whereby it may be swung about a horizontal axis, means forming a fixed rest for said rack when in operative position, and means for vertically adjusting said pivotal securing means with respect to said rest.

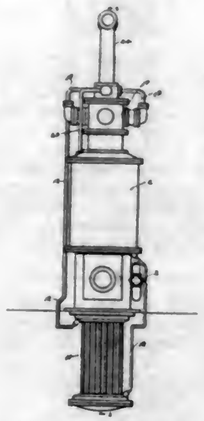
1,637,753. TIRE STRUCTURE. ANNIE M. LANE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 1, 1926. Serial No. 145,523. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—8.)



1. A resilient tire comprising a circular rim channel shape in cross section, a helical spring fitting inside the rim and projecting outwardly therefrom, a core disposed within the spring having such inside diameter that it will hold the spring against the rim, the outside of the rim being disposed in spaced relation to the outside of the spring, means connecting sides of the rim through the core and spring, the inner portions of the convolutions of the spring being arranged in abutting relation, and the outer portions of the convolution being spaced over each other, and a casing fitting over the spring and rim.

1,637,754. CURLING STONE. PETER MCLEOD, Glasgow, Scotland. Filed Nov. 23, 1926, Serial No. 150,288, and in Great Britain Nov. 27, 1925. 19 Claims. (Cl. 273—108.)

2. A curling stone having pieces of wax carried in the stone adapted to project below the lower surface of the stone to form a bearing therefor and means for feeding the wax as it is worn away.



1,637,755. SHADE AND CURTAIN SUPPORT. LORENZO PLESCE, Hasleton, Pa. Filed Apr. 24, 1926. Serial No. 104,412. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—23.)

The herein described support comprising rod-like supporting means adapted to be secured in front of a face of a window frame or casing, and brackets each having a back plate adapted to bear against the face of a window frame or casing and forwardly extending supporting arms on said back plate and each also having a portion integral with and pendent from the back plate in the same plane as said plate and a portion extending forwardly and upwardly and downwardly from said pendent portion and adapted to rest back of and over the rod-like supporting means; the said pendent portion being adapted to cooperate with the back plate in preventing sagging of the forwardly extending supporting arms on said back plate.

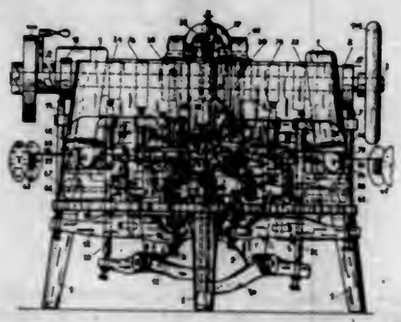
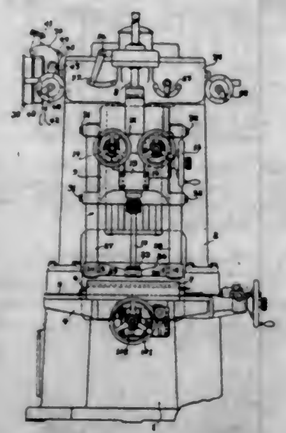
1,637,756. METHOD AND MEANS FOR MAINTAINING A PREDETERMINED TEMPERATURE. CHARLES A. STICKNEY, Rockford, Ill., and ALPHEUS B. STICKNEY, New Haven, Conn. Filed Oct. 29, 1925. Serial No. 65,707. 7 Claims. (Cl. 236—1.)



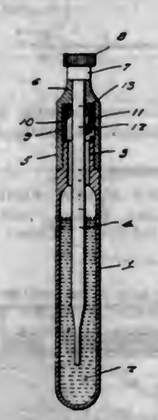
1. Means for maintaining a pre-determined temperature comprising two heat transferring devices, one positioned within a space to be heated or cooled and the other outside of said space, means for causing either one of said devices to reject heat picked up by the other of said devices and means actuated by the temperature within the space to be heated or cooled for determining whether the device in said space shall pick up or reject heat.

1,637,757. INSTRUMENT FOR GAUGING INTERNAL TAPERS. BERNHARD M. SWANSON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Feb. 28, 1925. Serial No. 12,464. 1 Claim. (Cl. 33—174.)



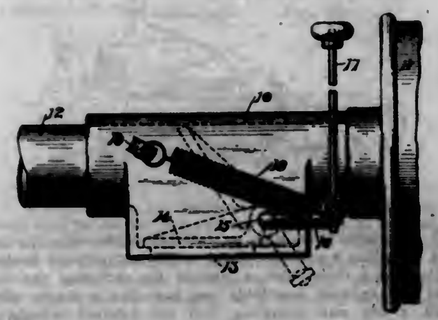
A gauge comprising an elongated threaded member provided with graduations of length, two spherical members of unequal diameters threaded on said member and provided with graduations adapted to cooperate with the graduations on said elongated member, and means for locking said spherical members on said elongated member in adjusted position.

1,637,758. CHAIN-MAKING MACHINE. JONATHAN WENZ, Pforzheim, Germany. Filed Jan. 16, 1925, Serial No. 2,780, and in Germany Feb. 6, 1924. 40 Claims. (Cl. 59—25.)



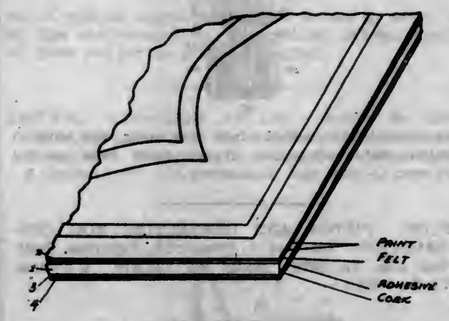
1. A chain making machine including a support, two sets of chain making mechanisms extending transversely one of the other on opposite sides of said support, said mechanisms each including link forming members and wire feeding mechanism to mesh and secure the links one with another, and a single cam shaft extending transversely of both of said chain making mechanisms and having cams of duplicate construction arranged for alternately operating said sets of chain making mechanisms.

1,637,759. BORING MACHINE. FREDERICK C. ALLEN, Hartford, Conn., assignor to Pratt & Whitney Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 2, 1922. Serial No. 598,588. 2 Claims. (Cl. 77—63.)



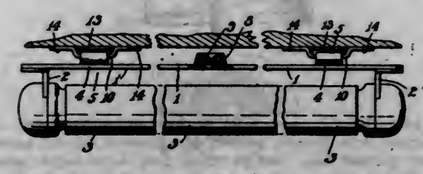
1. In a boring machine, the combination with a boring spindle rotatable about a fixed axis, and a work table movable transversely of said boring spindle, of a micrometer head for measuring the movement of said table, a casing for supporting said micrometer head, a pin projecting axially from said head, and resilient means retained against rotation and adapted to be forced into contact with said pin for locking said pin to the casing to hold the micrometer in any set position.

1,637,760. CLINICAL THERMOMETER. CHARLES E. BASDT, Mahanoy City, Pa. Filed Dec. 2, 1926. Serial No. 152,172. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—16.5.)



In a clinical thermometer of the class described, a casing constructed to provide a container for sterilizing fluid, said casing being further constructed at one end to provide a reduced screw threaded neck having a bore serving as a passage for a thermometer, a special fitting threaded onto said neck, said fitting being provided with a socket, the bottom of which is spaced from the adjacent end of said neck, a bushing fitting into said socket, a spring pressed valve carried by said bushing, said fitting being provided with a bore with which said valve is cooperable, and a packing disc interposed between the bottom of said socket and the adjacent end of said bushing, said valve being cooperable with said packing.

1,637,761. MUFFLER CUT-OUT. HENRY R. BUTLER, Oakland, Calif., assignor of one-half to Theodore H. Cook, Oakland, Calif. Filed June 25, 1923. Serial No. 647,562. 1 Claim. (Cl. 251—125.)

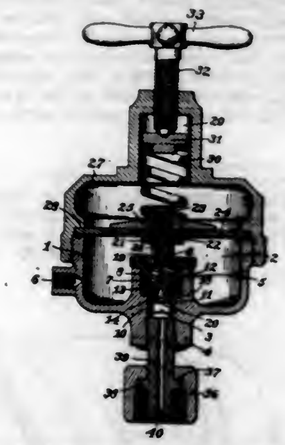


A cut-out for mufflers comprising a tubular section for insertion in the exhaust pipe in front of a muffler, said tubular section having a rectangular portion extending downwardly therefrom, the bottom of said extension being formed with an opening, a flap valve mounted in said rectangular portion for controlling said opening, a pivot shaft journalled in said rectangular portion and upon which the flap valve is fixed, said shaft extending at right angles to the axis of the exhaust pipe, one end of shaft being bent to form a crank exteriorly of the rectangular portion, a vertical rod pivotally connected to said crank for operating the valve, a lug projecting from the side of the tubular section, and a tension spring connected to said lug and to said crank portion of the pivot shaft, said lug being disposed at such an angle with relation to the pivot shaft that the spring will yieldingly retain the valve in either open or closed position, said spring and crank portion of the pivot shaft lying alongside of said rectangular portion of the tubular section.

1,637,762. FLOOR COVERING. JOHN B. CAMPBELL, Salem, N. J., assignor to The J. B. Campbell Manufacturing Company, Salem, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Sept. 7, 1926. Serial No. 133,789. 4 Claims. (Cl. 154—49.)

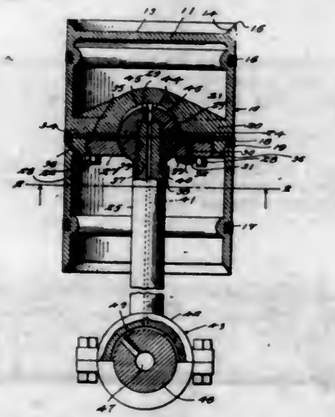
4. In combination with the body of a floor covering of felt base type, a backing therefor formed of a thin film of powdered cork bound to the body by a pyroxylin adhesive.

1,637,763. ROLLER-SHADE BRACKET. EDWIN R. CLEGG, La Fayette, Ind. Filed June 10, 1925. Serial No. 36,133. 3 Claims. (Cl. 156—23.)



1. A curtain support for automobiles comprising a spring bar having on one face thereof bracket fixtures for a shade roller and on the opposite face thereof a pair of downwardly presented clips, said spring bar intermediate the clips having a portion projecting from the clip surface to an extent greater than the distance from said surface to the nearest plane of the clipping mouth, whereby, when the bar is clipped upon a support the bar will be sprung laterally by the projection and the projection will frictionally engage the support.

1,637,764. PRESSURE REGULATOR. THOMAS COLES, Homestead, Pa. Filed Feb. 16, 1926. Serial No. 88,568. 5 Claims. (Cl. 50—23.)



1. A high pressure gas regulator comprising a body, a high pressure and low pressure chamber therein, a communicating passageway therebetween, a valve head movable axially under impulse of gas pressure onto a seat to close said passageway, said valve head having two frusto-conical faces merging into each other, and adapted to successively engage two frusto-conical faces on the valve seat to close said passageway.

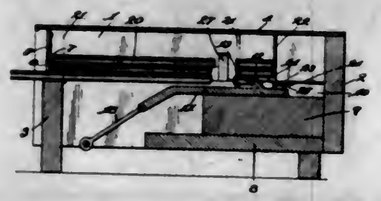
1,637,765. PISTON AND CONNECTING-ROD CONSTRUCTION. CHARLIE A. COMSTOCK, Fullerton, Calif. Filed Aug. 31, 1926. Serial No. 132,876. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. In combination, a piston having a bearing, a connecting rod having a head at its upper end mounted in the bearing in the piston, and a bearing at its lower end for engagement with the crank shaft, a port connecting the faces of said bearings, a ring groove in the exterior of the piston, a connection between said ring groove and the bearing of the piston and a further connection between said ring groove and the interior of the piston.



1,637,766. HAIRPIN. WILLIAM H. H. DAVIS and FRANK CELENTANO, San Francisco, Calif., assignors, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-half to said Davis and one-half to Harry White, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 24, 1926. Serial No. 118,163. 4 Claims. (Cl. 132—50.)

1. A hair pin comprising a single flat strip of spring material doubled upon itself to form a pair of parallel branches normally in contact their entire length and a looped end, said strip being also shaped to provide a pair of spaced finger hold portions between the branches and said looped end, at least one of said portions having a portion converging into contact with the branch secured to the other fingerhold portion thereby forming a fulcrum for the branches.

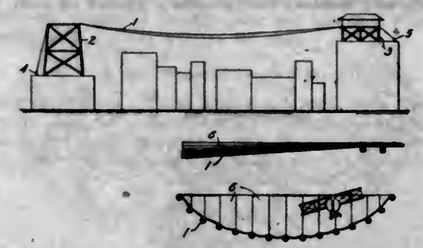
1,637,767. SANITARY STRAW-VENDING MACHINE. WILLIAM H. DELANO, Saugus, Calif. Filed Nov. 1, 1926. Serial No. 145,556. 3 Claims. (Cl. 211—8.)

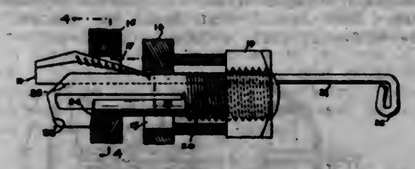


1. A straw vending machine comprising a combination, a housing having an opening, a V-shaped cradle for straws, a reciprocating plunger having a tooth to engage the rear end of the lowermost straw, an agitating device comprising a resilient strip, part of said strip being engaged by the tooth upon the reciprocation of the plunger, and a finger in engagement with the straws to agitate same.

1,637,768. MANIFOLD-HEAT RETAINER. CLARK W. DIMOND, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Jan. 16, 1925. Serial No. 2,916. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)

2. In combination with an internal combustion engine and including a cylinder block, intake and exhaust manifolds, and a carburetor, a housing for enclosing the intake and exhaust manifolds and including a single side wall, a top wall arcuating over the exhaust manifold, and a forward wall arcuating in stream line manner from the top wall downwardly along the cylinder block in rearwardly sloping relation to protect the intake and exhaust manifolds from air currents from forwardly of the internal combustion engine, a bottom wall for said casing adjacent said carburetor, and a carburetor casing including an outer side wall, an arcuate rear wall, a short inner side wall, a bottom, and being open at the top thereof, and means detachably connecting the carburetor casing with said first mentioned heater casing to permit flow of heat from the first mentioned housing into the carburetor casing between the same and said carburetor.

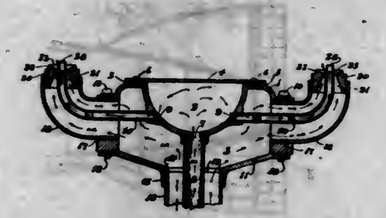
1,637,769. LANDING AND TAKING-OFF STATION FOR AIRCRAFT. WALTER JAY ENNISSON, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Edith A Ennisson executrix of said Walter J. Ennisson, deceased. Filed May 23, 1923. Serial No. 640,861. 9 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)



1. An aviation station comprising a roadway of relatively flat and self sustaining material suspended from spaced points and having a portion of said roadway along a side edge banked upwardly from the central portion.

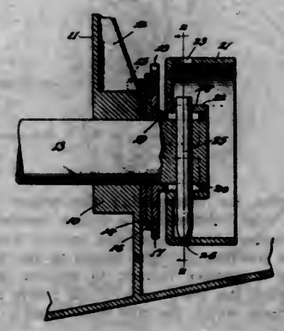
1,637,770. FENDER GUARD. ROLLIE B. FAGSOL, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to American Chain Company, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 18, 1925. Serial No. 9,980. 3 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. In combination with an automobile frame and wheel fenders carried thereby, a fender guard of U-shaped design, one leg of which is adapted to be fastened to the side bar of the automobile main frame, and the other leg of which extends along the outer face of the fender, said last named leg terminating in an inturned hook extending around the outer marginal flanges of a fender.



1,637,771. WEDGE. THADDEUS L. E. HADO, Berkeley, Calif. Filed Apr. 23, 1923. Serial No. 633,896. 5 Claims. (Cl. 85—1.)

1. A bolt having an abutment at each end and means which may be moved into and out of position to lock said bolt against withdrawal and to permit its release while both of the abutments are maintained in fixed position on the bolt, which means includes a wedging surface provided with grooves extending in a direction across said surface.



1,637,772. AIR-BLAST GAS BURNER. CHARLES F. HECKEL, Newport, Ky., and EDWARD MESSER, Pittsburgh, Pa.; said Heckel assignor to said Messer. Filed Mar. 22, 1923. Serial No. 626,767. 12 Claims. (Cl. 158—110.)

1. In combination with a gas furnace and contained therein, a gas chamber with means for admitting gas thereto, an air chamber surrounding said gas chamber and means for admitting air thereto, a plurality of gas outlets leading and radiating from said gas chamber, a plurality of air outlets leading from said air chamber and encircling said gas outlets, respectively, in spaced apart relation thereto, and adjustable means in the outer end of said air outlets with means therein by which the air flow and pressure may be regulated, substantially as set forth and for the purposes specified.

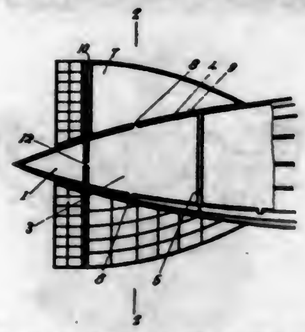
1,637,773. FAN-BELT PULLEY. HARRY B. HULL, Oilton, Okla., assignor of one-half to Clyde S. Goodall, Yale, Okla. Filed May 19, 1926. Serial No. 110,205. 3 Claims. (Cl. 308—167.)



3. The combination with an engine crank shaft, and a bearing for the forward end portion thereof, of a bearing washer fitted upon said shaft against said bearing and held against rotation with the shaft, a second washer fitted upon said shaft and provided with a sleeve snugly fitting the shaft and extending towards its front end, the sleeve being formed with opposed longitudinally extending slots and said shaft having a diametrically extending passage communicating with the opposed slots of the sleeve, a pulley having a hub fitted upon said sleeve and adjustable longitudinally thereon, and a pin extending diametrically through the hub of said pulley and through the opposed slots of said sleeve and passage of said shaft.

1,637,774. GAS-INFLATED AIRSHIP. KARL HÜNTLE, Akron, Ohio, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Filed Jan. 20, 1926, Serial No. 82,854, and in Germany Feb. 4, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)

1. An airship comprising a rigid hull, a plurality of individual gas cells inserted into said hull, two adjacent gas cells having a horizontal flue connecting them together, said flue constituting the sole means of communication to the interior of one of the two adjacent gas cells, the other gas cell having gas inlet and outlet fixtures.

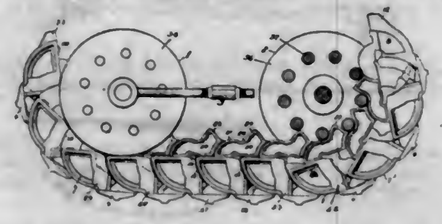
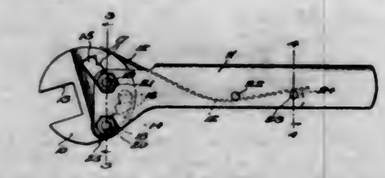
1,637,775. COMBINATION ADVERTISING FOLDER AND GAUGE. ROBERT H. KEATON, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Oct. 20, 1924. Serial No. 744,699. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—175.)

1. A device for determining the proper inflation of pneumatic tires, comprising a folder consisting of two hingedly connected sections, one section adapted to be swung to a position at right angles to the other section and having a member thereon to register with the rim of a tire when the lower edge of the folder rests upon a pavement upon which the tire rests when a tire is properly inflated.



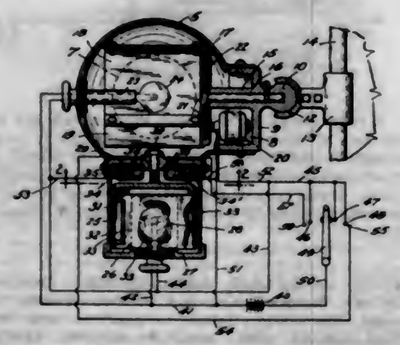
1,637,776. ARRANGEMENT FOR CHANGING THE MACHINERY OF HIGH-SPEED SUSPENSION. FRANZ KRUCKENBERG and FRITZ GENTZCKE, Heidelberg, Germany; said Gentzcke assignor to said Kruckenberg. Filed Jan. 24, 1925, Serial No. 4,576, and in Germany Nov. 12, 1924. 16 Claims. (Cl. 105—66.)



1. A high speed suspension car provided with driving mechanism, the car body having an opening in the bottom of the hull, said opening being so located as to permit the driving mechanism to be dropped therethrough clear of the car body.

1,637,777. TRACTOR CHAIN. HENRY Y. LAW, Merced, Calif. Filed Nov. 24, 1920. Serial No. 426,134. 3 Claims. (Cl. 305—10.)

1. A tread chain comprising a plurality of links each consisting of two offset spaced arcuate members, a tread plate connecting the lower ends of the arcuate members, a bar connecting the upper ends of the arcuate members, rocker contact lugs formed on the upper inside corners of said members, said lugs being adapted to engage the corresponding lugs of adjacent links to pivotally connect them, said members having arcuate grooves on their opposed faces, extension lugs formed on the outer ends of said members for engagement by the grooves of adjacent links, rail surfaces on the upper sides of said members and lugs laterally displaced from the rail surfaces and adapted to contact with the under surface of the said connecting bar to prevent flexure of the chain in an upward direction.



1,637,778. WRENCH. ISAAC W. LITCHFIELD, Newtonville, Mass. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,182. 19 Claims. (Cl. 81—58.)

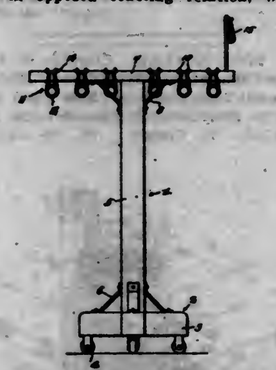
1. A wrench comprising a jaw member, an operating member, and connections therebetween comprising a plurality of angularly disposed serrated slots in one of said members, and means on the other of said members simultaneously engaging a serration in each said slot.

1,637,779. SIGNALING DEVICE. WILLIAM T. MARCOTT, Olympia, Wash., assignor to Marcott Auto Signal Company, Olympia, Wash., a Corporation of Washington. Filed July 5, 1921, Serial No. 482,596. Renewed Jan. 22, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—329.)

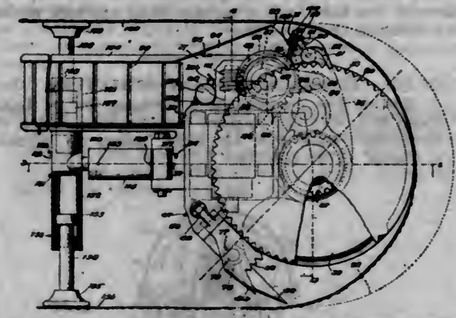
In a signaling device for automobiles, a cylindrical bracket piece having one closed end, a globular mounting arm projecting outwardly from the closed end, a boss, having a bore, carried by the closed end of the bracket piece and projecting through the bore of the latter, a substantially spherical casing having a cylindrical communicating projection receiving and fastened to the cylindrical bracket piece, said casing having sight openings, a cylindrical signal cage having a stub shaft journaled in the bore of the boss and arranged within the casing for being viewed through the sight openings of the latter, an internal ring gear concentric with and projecting from one end of the cage, and an electric motor mounted within the cylindrical bracket piece and having a pinion meshing with the ring gear on the cage.

1,637,780. SEAT. ALFRED FELLOWS MASURY, New York, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 3, 1925. Serial No. 72,928. 7 Claims. (Cl. 155—50.)

1. In a device of the character described, in combination, a base, a plate carried with the base, a supporting element, blocks of yielding non-metallic material disposed between the plate and the supporting element along the rear edge thereof, said blocks being formed with a plurality of vertically disposed recesses, and straps of yielding non-metallic material secured to the forward edge of the supporting element and to the plate adjacent thereto.



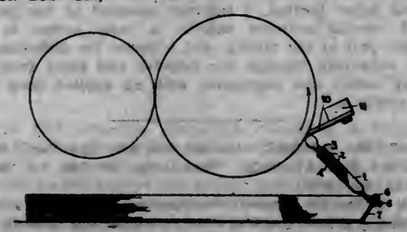
1,637,781. HAIR-TINTING DEVICE. FREDERICK J. MATHESON, Newark, N. J. Filed Sept. 4, 1926. Serial No. 133,552. 7 Claims. (Cl. 132—41.)



1. A device adapted to prevent hair previously dyed from being streaked when dye or the like is applied to the new grown hair comprising clamp members pivotally attached, said clamp members held in a closed position by a snap fastener, said clamp members provided with curved portions, adapted to conform to the head of a person, a notch provided at the upper edge of the free extremity of the clamp member, a second notch formed in the lower edge of the second clamp member, so as to permit the device to be readily opened.

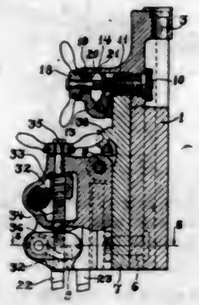
1,637,782. BROOM HOLDER. ANDREW JACKSON MILLIGAN, Hoopeston, Ill. Filed June 28, 1926. Serial No. 119,111. 1 Claim. (Cl. 211—14.)

A stand of the class described comprising a base, a vertical standard secured thereon, a horizontal arm having its intermediate portion secured on the upper end of the standard, broom supporting means carried by said arm, said means comprising a series of eye members secured on the top of said arm and arranged in pairs adjacent each longitudinal edge of the arm, a spring clamp having a broom handle engaging loop hingedly associated with each pair of eye members, each of said spring clamps being formed of a single strand of wire, the intermediate portion thereof being bent to provide a broom handle clamping loop, the free ends of the wire being disposed rearwardly in converging relation, and terminating in laterally disposed ends which are adapted for disposition in the respective eye members of each pair, said spring clamps being disposed on opposite sides of the arm in opposed coacting relation, whereby the brush heads of each pair of opposed brooms on the opposite sides of the arm will engage with each other to hold the spring clamp in an outwardly disposed position.



1,637,783. MINING AND LOADING MACHINE. EDMUND C. MORGAN, New York, N. Y.; Olive Eugenie Morgan executrix of said Edmund C. Morgan, deceased. Filed Nov. 15, 1920. Serial No. 424,051. 78 Claims. (Cl. 262—5.)

3. In a mining and loading machine, the combination with supporting frame-work, of conveyer mechanism mounted thereon, coal cleavage mechanism having a free and unobstructed space in advance thereof, means for operating the same by direct action on the native bed in the mine, and means for collecting the dislodged material and moving it toward the receiving end of said conveyer mechanism.



1,637,784. CALENDER KNIFE. KIMBALL OYLER, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 8, 1925. Serial No. 35,621. 4 Claims. (Cl. 164—39.)

3. The combination with a trimming device adapted to engage a calender roll, of a scraper operatively associated with the trimming device and adapted to engage the roll to remove scraps of severed material from the latter.

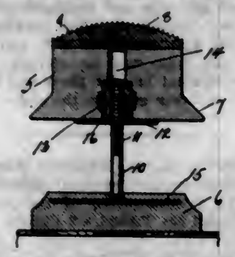
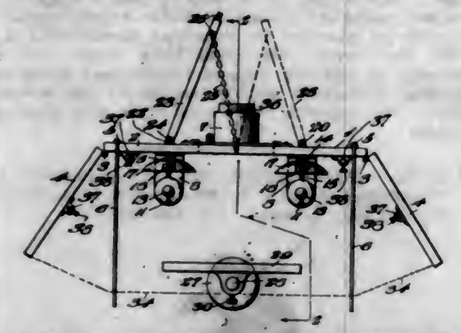
1,637,785. TOOL HOLDER. CLIFFORD F. RANDOLPH and NICHOLAS MARCALUS, Plainfield, N. J., assignors to Niles-Bement-Pond Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 24, 1923. Serial No. 670,535. 10 Claims. (Cl. 90—52.)

1. A tool holder comprising in combination, a block adapted to receive a cutting tool therein, a plurality of rotary eccentrics operative against the tool to clamp the same in the block, and a unitary hand operated means for rotating the eccentrics.



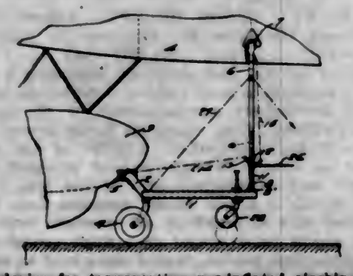
1,637,786. INCANDESCENT-LAMP STRUCTURE. JAY J. REKAR, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to De Luxe Lamp Mfg. Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Feb. 15, 1926. Serial No. 88,381. 9 Claims. (Cl. 240—78.)



2. A lamp structure including a canopy having a ventilated upper portion, a reflector mounted in the canopy and venting outward thereto, a lamp socket in the upper part of the canopy, and a device for deflecting hot air outwardly through the reflector and away from the lamp socket and engageable with an applied lamp bulb to steady it.

1,637,787. BRIDGE. GEORGE SCHMID, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 17, 1923. Serial No. 681,245. 1 Claim. (Cl. 84—309.)

A bridge for musical instruments comprising a head having a groove therein, a string supporting piece in said groove, said head having a bore therein, a sleeve in the bore, projections on the sleeve for preventing turning movement thereof, a threaded spindle operable through said sleeve to raise and lower the head, a base, an enlarged foot member on the spindle positioned in said base and a lock nut on the spindle for maintaining the head in its adjusted position.

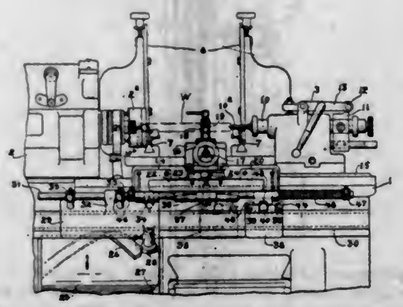


1,637,788. PROJECTING LANTERN. FREDERICK W. SCHMIDT, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 18, 1924. Serial No. 707,352. 3 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

1. In a projecting lantern, a casing consisting of a front wall having a light opening and side walls hinged to the front walls, a lens for said light opening, lamp supports carried by said front wall, reflectors for said lamps adjustably connected with the casing, a mirror to deflect rays of light from said lens, and means common to said mirror and said front wall to movably connect them above or below or at either side of said lens so that the mirror can be angularly adjusted either up and down or from side to side.

1,637,789. DEVICE FOR GROUND TRANSPORTATION OF AIRSHIPS. BENO SCHNITZER, Akron, Ohio, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Bodensee, Germany. Filed Dec. 22, 1924. Serial No. 757,327, and in Germany Jan. 7, 1924. 16 Claims. (Cl. 244—1.)

1. A device for transporting gas-inflated airships while on the ground comprising a frame and pressure resisting means for detachably connecting said frame both to a car and to the framework of said airship.

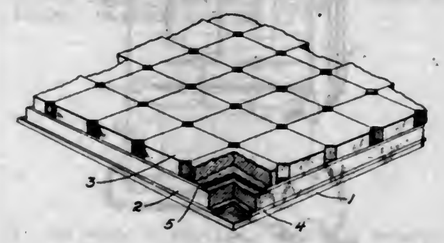


1,637,790. ART OF VULCANIZING RUBBER. JAN TEPPEMA, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 12, 1926. Serial No. 87,949. 13 Claims. (Cl. 18—53.)

1. A method of accelerating the vulcanization of caoutchouc that comprises vulcanizing the same in the presence of a halogen derivative of a mercapto-thiazole.

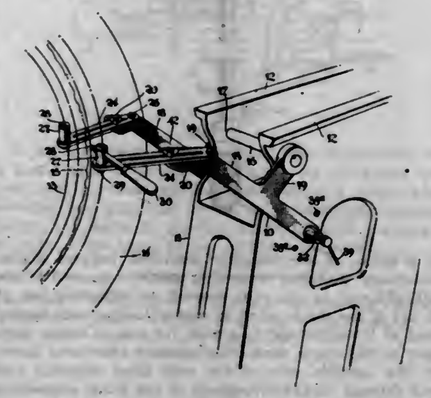
1,637,791. ART OF VULCANIZING RUBBER. JAN TEPPEMA, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Original application filed Feb. 12, 1926, Serial No. 87,949. Divided and this application filed Nov. 3, 1926. Serial No. 146,068. 15 Claims. (Cl. 18—53.)

1. A method of accelerating the vulcanization of caoutchouc that comprises vulcanizing the same in the presence of a metallic salt of a halogen derivative of a mercaptobenzothiazole.



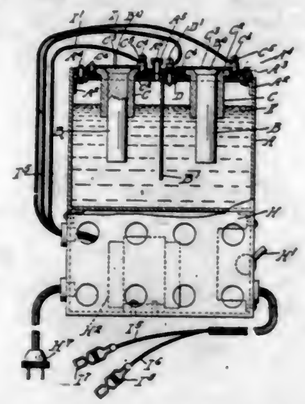
1,637,792. AUTOMATIC LATHE. JOHN J. THACHER, Wethersfield, Conn., assignor to Pratt & Whitney Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 17, 1924. Serial No. 686,859. 12 Claims. (Cl. 82—2.)

1. In a lathe, the combination of a bed having ways extending longitudinally thereatong, means on the bed for supporting and rotating a blank parallel with the ways, a tool carriage slidably mounted on the ways, a tool slide movable transversely on the carriage, means for holding the carriage against movement on the ways, power means, and means to longitudinally move said carriage including a rod movable longitudinally of the bed and relatively to the carriage and a coiled compression spring thereon through which the power means acts to automatically move the tool slide inwardly to operatively engage the work when the carriage is stationary, the said spring reacting to automatically and quickly move the tool slide outwardly away from the work at the completion of the cutting operation.



10. In a lathe, the combination of a bed having ways extending longitudinally thereatong, means on the bed for supporting and rotating a blank parallel with the ways, a tool carriage on the ways, a tool slide movable transversely on the carriage, a templet and cooperating means for moving the tool slide inwardly to operatively engage the work as the templet is moved in one direction relative to the carriage, a rod connected to the templet, means for moving the rod and templet a predetermined amount in the said one direction relative to the carriage, and means on the rod adapted to thereafter move the carriage with the templet.

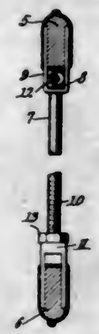
1,637,793. METHOD OF FINISHING METAL WALLS. MARTIN C. VAN DER KAMP, San Jose, Calif. Filed May 21, 1925. Serial No. 31,858. 2 Claims. (Cl. 72—17.)



1. A method of finishing metal walls of ships, comprising forming a coating layer over the wall to be finished of an elastic binding agent, arranging blocks of magnesite material on said binding agent whereby to cement the blocks to the wall, and then forming a finish coating on the exterior surface of said magnesite blocks.

1,637,794. KNIFE BRACKET FOR TIRE MACHINES. DAYTON L. WILLIAMS, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 23, 1925. Serial No. 32,407. 5 Claims. (Cl. 154—9.)

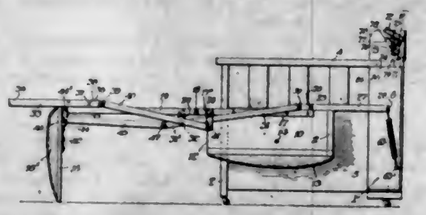
1. A tire trimming mechanism including a bracket adapted to be pivoted to a stationary support comprising means for supporting a knife on the bracket, a pin mounted on the bracket and spaced from the pivotal point thereof adapted to engage the stationary support to hold the bracket in a predetermined position, and a yieldable member connected to and tending to actuate the pin toward the support.



1,637,795. ELECTRODE FOR RECTIFIERS AND ELECTROLYTIC CONDENSERS. EDWARD F. ANDREWS, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Andrews-Hammond Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 10, 1926. Serial No. 134,651. 17 Claims. (Cl. 175—318.)

1. An electrode for an electrolytic apparatus, which consists of an alloy of magnesium, aluminum and cadmium.

13. In an electrolytic film forming apparatus an electrode which consists of an alloy of aluminum and magnesium having not less than 23 percent of magnesium.



1,637,796. LOOM-HARNESS SUPPORT. ISAAC ANDREWS, Spartanburg, S. C. Filed June 16, 1925, Serial No. 37,512. Renewed Feb. 23, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 139—91.)

In a device of the character described, harness shafts, substantially U-shaped connecting members secured to the shafts adjacent to the ends thereof, an adjusting rod at each end of the shafts, each of said adjusting rods having a head at its upper end to permit the rod to rotate with respect to the upper connecting member associated therewith, the opposite ends of the rods being threaded and passed through threaded openings in the lower connecting member associated therewith, and lock nuts for holding the connecting rods against movement.

1,637,797. CONVERTIBLE FURNITURE. JOHN A. ARTON, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 26, 1920, Serial No. 399,025. Renewed Nov. 11, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 5—24.)

1. In convertible furniture having an overturnable seat; a bed section attached to the seat, a back section hinged to the seat section, a back hinged to the back section, a head section pivoted to the seat section, means actuated by the back section and attached to the head section to fold or unfold the latter, and means attached to and actuated by the last named means to fold and unfold the back, simultaneously with the corresponding movements of the head and back sections.

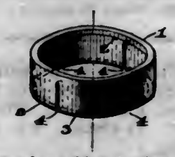
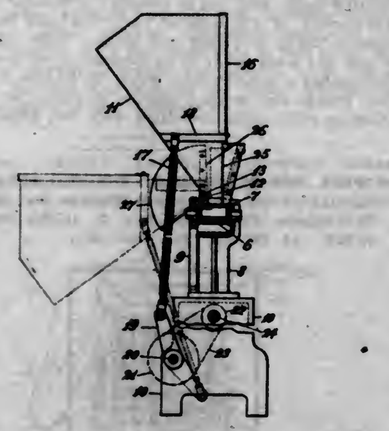
1,637,798. COMBINED SHADE ROLLER AND HOLDING MEANS FOR WINDOWS. DAVID A. BATTS, Atlanta, Ga. Filed May 3, 1926. Serial No. 106,398. 1 Claim. (Cl. 156—27.)



In combination with a window shade including a stationary shaft and a shade roller mounted thereon, a pair of guide units arranged vertically upon opposite sides of the window frame and within which the ends of said shaft are mounted for sliding movement, cooperating construction between the units and the roller whereby the shade in its entirety is moved in reverse direction when the roller is turned upon the shaft, means at the opposite ends of the units whereby the roller may be mounted for turning movement without the consequent movement of the same in reverse directions, said means at the opposite ends of the units being simultaneously operable and means at the opposite ends of the units for preventing the dropping of the shade when said other means are moved to position to permit the rotation of the roller without its movement in reverse direction with respect to the window.

1,637,799. CONSTRUCTION AND MOUNTING OF A VALVE-SEALING MECHANISM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. ROBERT W. A. BREWER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Harold F. Pitcairn, Bryn Athyn, Pa. Filed Mar. 9, 1925. Serial No. 13,993. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—75.)



1. In an internal combustion engine, a cylinder, a combustion chamber, a cylinder head closure plug having an annular seat thereon, slide valve, an annulus between the closure plug and the walls of the combustion chamber in which said valve is positioned, and a short stationary sleeve adapted to be carried on the annular seat of said closure plug and depending in said annulus with a surface juxtaposed to that of said sleeve valve, said depending portion consisting of a skirt having limited flexibility, having a small clearance of the back thereof between the closure plug and said depending portion.

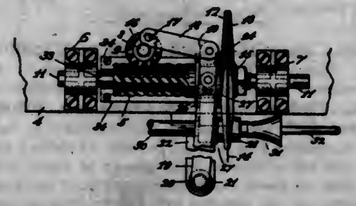
1,637,800. DEVICE FOR FEEDING SCRAP TOBACCO. WILHELM B. BRONANDER, Montclair, N. J., assignor to International Cigar Machinery Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 13, 1926. Serial No. 81,017. 8 Claims. (Cl. 131—39.)

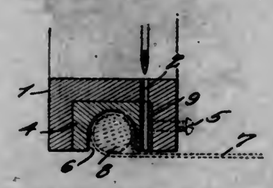
1. A device for feeding scrap tobacco, comprising a source of supply, a conveyor receiving tobacco from said source, and mechanism for moving said source to cause it to periodically deliver tobacco in excess of a predetermined quantity to said conveyor and to remove the excess therefrom.

1,637,801. TOBACCO-STEMMING MECHANISM. WILHELM B. BRONANDER, Montclair, N. J., assignor to Standard Tobacco Stemmer Company, a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Apr. 7, 1926. Serial No. 100,362. 18 Claims. (Cl. 131—57.)



1. The combination with two coacting leaf-stripping members, of means whereby a plurality of stems are simultaneously drawn between said members, and means for producing in rapid succession movements of said members which are the resultants of travelling movements around axes substantially parallel with the stems and of reciprocating movements along the stems to cause said members to repeatedly engage each stem and strip a short section of leaf therefrom.

1,637,802. PACKAGE AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. WILHELM B. BRONANDER, Montclair, and JAMES W. LEARY, Bloomfield, N. J., assignors to American Machine & Foundry Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 19, 1926. Serial No. 110,141. 11 Claims. (Cl. 93—4.)



11. The series of steps in a method of forming a package, which consists in folding a rhombic wrapper to form a trough, then placing an article in the trough, then folding the obtuse corners of the wrapper over the top of the article, then folding down the protruding upstanding parts of the wrapper adjacent the ends of the article, then folding the acute corners up the ends and over the top of the article and said obtuse corners, and then applying an adhesive strip to the uppermost corner and the body of the wrapper.

1,637,803. CIGARETTE-MACHINE CUT-OFF. WILHELM B. BRONANDER, Montclair, N. J., assignor to American Machine & Foundry Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 13, 1926. Serial No. 128,985. 5 Claims. (Cl. 131—37.)

1. In a cigarette machine cutoff, the combination with a knife, of a holder for said knife, an elongated spiral gear carrying and rotating said holder, a spiral pinion rotating said gear, and means for reciprocating said gear, holder and knife to produce acceleration of the angular velocity of the same during cutting action only.

1,637,804. CORDING DEVICE. LUCILE A. BROOKS, Seattle, Wash. Filed Aug. 5, 1926. Serial No. 127,459. 1 Claim. (Cl. 112—139.)

In a cording device for sewing machines, a presser foot formed in its under surface with a channel opening through the bottom and one end of the presser foot, said channel being of less height and width than the similar dimensions of the presser foot, whereby to leave the bottom of the presser foot in part and the full upper surface of the presser foot intact, and a cord block fitting in and filling such channel, and formed in its under surface with a cord receiving and guiding recess, and a needle opening in said block arranged at one side of the recess, and means for securing the block against endwise movement in the channel.

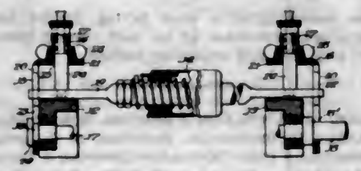
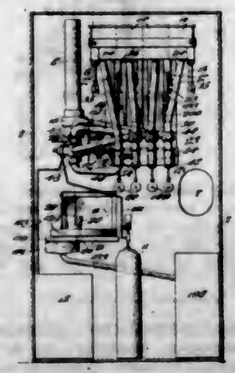
1,637,805. THERMOMETER. WILLIAM M. CHACE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 4, 1924. Serial No. 690,524. 1 Claim. (Cl. 73—119.)



A thermometer for use with receptacles or chambers comprising the combination with the chamber wall having an opening therein, of a cup shaped casing of metal open on one side and provided thereon with a peripheral flange, the opposite side being closed, means for attaching the casing to the exterior of the chamber wall covering the said opening, the closed end of the said casing having a central aperture, a shaft rotatably mounted therein and projecting on opposite sides of the said end of the casing, a bimetallic element on the inner end of the said shaft adapted by expansion and contraction to turn the same, a wheel on the outer end of the shaft having graduations arranged about the periphery thereof, and a stationary pointer member secured to the casing and having an end portion lying contiguous to the periphery of the wheel.

1,637,806. SELF-ALIGNING GEAR MOUNTING. ROLAND CHILTON, Keyport, N. J., assignor to Healey-Aeromarine Bus Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 14, 1926. Serial No. 109,108. 11 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



1. In apparatus of the class described, the combination of a housing, a lay shaft comprising a gear and pinion drivably connected for slight relative tilting action, bearing means for the gear disposed at the midwidth thereof, a bearing for the pinion, and a mounting sleeve for said bearing supported for slight tilting action in the housing.

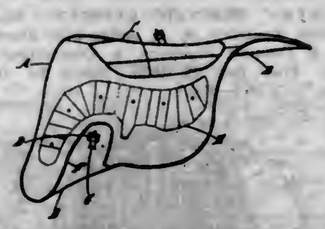
1,637,807. INK-DISTRIBUTING ROLLER. ARTHUR J. DAANE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Acme Printing Appliance Co., Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 9, 1925. Serial No. 13,941. 14 Claims. (Cl. 101—338.)

1. In a device of the class described the combination of a roller having means for attaching said roller to a printing press, said means including a member arranged transversely of the axis of the roller and having an opening therein to permit said member to be passed over an end and transversely of an element of the press which element has a shoulder with which the transverse member may engage and prevent endwise movement of the distributing roller when associated with said press.

1,637,808. MIXED-BEVERAGE-VENDING APPARATUS. WILLIAM C. DE ARMOND and WILLIAM RAY H. WATT, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed July 2, 1925. Serial No. 40,997. 14 Claims. (Cl. 225—21.)

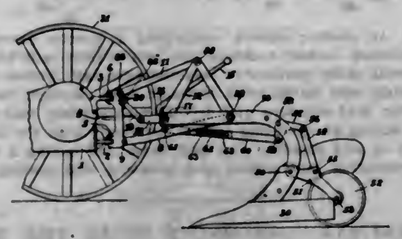
1. In a device of the character stated, the combination of a main shaft, a plurality of operating levers mounted upon said shaft, syrup measuring and delivering devices operatively connected with each of said levers, and a control valve operatively connected with said main shaft.

13. In a device of the character stated, a control valve, a water carbonating device, a water measuring device communicating with said water carbonating device, said control valve being adapted to effect the charging of the water with carbonating gas in the closed position thereof, and adapted to discharge the carbonated water from said measuring device in the open position thereof, a syrup measuring and delivering device, a cup dispensing device adapted to deliver a cup in position to receive the discharge from said control valve, and said syrup delivering device, and means common to said cup dispensing device, said syrup measuring and delivering device and said control valve, for actuating all with a single manual operation.



14. A beverage dispensing device comprising a cabinet having a front panel, an operating handle extending through said panel, a dispensing aperture in said front panel, a door over said aperture, a cup support carried by said door, a cup dispensing device within said cabinet adapted to deliver a cup into said cup support, and means to deliver a charge of liquid to the cup.

1,637,809. AUXILIARY SOLE FOR FOOTWEAR. JOHN L. G. DYKES, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 23, 1926. Serial No. 104,083. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—6.)

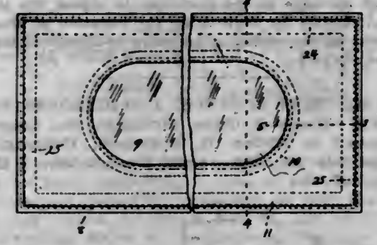


2. An auxiliary sole for footwear comprising a sole, an upstanding flange extending around the forward edge of said sole between points posterior of the widest portion thereof, and means for constructing the upper edge of said flange when in assembly with footwear, consisting of an endless, uniform, vulcanized, reinforced cord or bead running along the upper edge of said flange and extending rearwardly thereof and adapted to be twisted beneath the arch and entering the groove between the heel and upper of said footwear.

1,637,810. SADDLE PANEL. FITZPATRICK HASSIN, Rathfarnham, Ireland. Filed Feb. 17, 1927, Serial No. 168,884, and in Great Britain Nov. 28, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 54—66.)

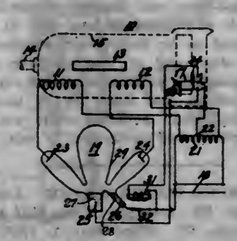
3. In a saddle panel, a leather cover, a lining of relatively soft material such as felt, stiffeners secured between said cover and said lining in the form of a reverted curve having a downwardly directed cusp, and means for engaging the panel with a girth strap of a saddle.

1,637,811. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENT. HARRY FERGUSON, Belfast, Ireland. Filed Feb. 21, 1924, Serial No. 694,195, and in Great Britain Dec. 11, 1923. 10 Claims. (Cl. 97—47.)



1. In combination, an agricultural implement, a draft connection between the implement and the tractor allowing freedom of relative bodily up and down movement therebetween, ground engaging means on the implement, and means cooperating with said draft connection and said ground engaging means whereby, on the occurrence of pitching movement of the tractor, the said movements are compensated for so as to maintain the implement at a regular working depth in the ground.

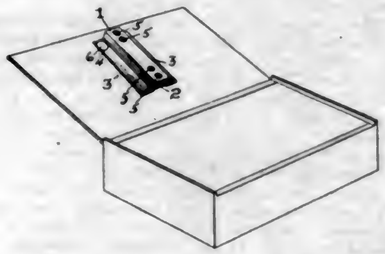
5. In combination, an agricultural implement, ground engaging means on the implement, a draft connection for hitching the implement to a tractor, and linkage interposed between said draft connection and said ground engaging means which, when the implement is connected to a tractor and the tractor is subjected to pitching movements, coacts with the draft connection and compensates for said movements so as to maintain the implement at a regular working depth in the ground.



10. The combination with an agricultural implement, of an implement head adapted to be pivotally connected about a vertical axis to a tractor, link connections pivoted about horizontal axes to the head and to the implement, and depth regulating means comprising an arm pivoted on the implement, and rotatably supported by said arm and adapted to bear on the ground, a bell-crank lever pivoted on the implement frame, a link connecting said wheel supporting arm and said bell-crank lever, a cross head pivoted on the implement frame and having forwardly projecting arms and a depending arm, and a link pivotally connected for vertical movement to said implement head and to the forwardly projecting arms of the crosshead.

1,637,812. REMOVABLE CLOSURE FOR VEHICLES. IVAN P. FERGUSON, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Towson Body Co., Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 8, 1924. Serial No. 754,682. 6 Claims. (Cl. 296—145.)

1. The combination with a vehicle body and a top therefor, of a flexible covering extending between the body and top having an opening therein and pockets at the top and side edges of the opening, a closure for the opening engaging the pockets, a transparent panel for said closure, and means for holding the closure in the pockets, including a headed element engaging the closure and body.



1,637,813. RECIPROCATING ELECTRIC MOTOR. HAROLD E. FOX, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to National Electric Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 21, 1923. Serial No. 676,042. 10 Claims. (Cl. 172—240.)

1. The combination with a source of alternating current, of a reciprocating motor comprising a field-producing winding and a reciprocating member controlled thereby, a rectifier in circuit with said source and said winding, means for rendering said rectifier active, and switching mechanism carried by said motor controlling said means to start said rectifier and controlling the circuit of said winding and rectifier.

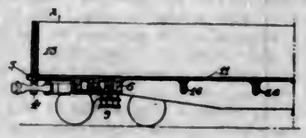
1,637,814. CIGAR-BOX MOISTENER. DENNIS JOSEPH GALLAGHER, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 22, 1923. Serial No. 658,686. 1 Claim. (Cl. 131—30.)

In a tobacco moistener, a channel-shaped holder of absorbent material having a flange extending from the free edge of its side and adapted to fit against a wall of a tobacco container, said flange having therein an aperture for the passage of an attaching tack, said aperture being adjacent an end of the holder whereby when attached to a wall of a container adjacent an edge thereof, the holder can be swung about the tack as a pivot beyond the edge of the container to expose the interior of the channel for facilitating the insertion of absorbent material or the adding of moisture to absorbent material in the channel.

1,637,815. TIRE MOUNTING AND DISMOUNTING DEVICE. HENRY G. GILES, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor of one-half to William H. McFarland, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Oct. 19, 1926. Serial No. 142,593. 4 Claims. (Cl. 157—1.)

1. In a device for mounting and dismounting a tire on or off a split-rim, an anchor adapted for securement to a hitch positioned on one end of said rim; a hitch-link adapted to be secured on another hitch positioned on the other end of said split-rim; a draw-bar hingedly connected to said anchor; an operating-lever hingedly mounted on said draw-bar; a hook-link pivotally mounted on said operating-lever, and means for hingedly connecting said hook-link to said hitch-link.



1,637,816. MARCEL WATER WAVER. ANNA J. GREENWICH, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to Walter M. Roewer, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 1, 1926. Serial No. 105,940. 15 Claims. (Cl. 132—38.)

1. A Marcel water waver comprising a pin member, a yoke pivotally mounted on one end thereof, detents on said yoke and on said pin member to permit the yoke to be removably locked in an adjusted position with respect to said pin member, a plurality of links movably connected to the ends of said yoke, combs pivotally engaged on said links, and hook members on said combs adapted to be removably engaged on said pin.

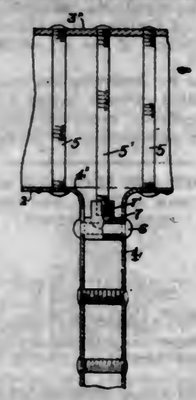
1,637,817. CONCRETE RAILWAY CAR. ARTHUR C. GRIEWANK, Oakland, Calif. Filed Oct. 31, 1918. Serial No. 260,434. 26 Claims. (Cl. 105—405.)

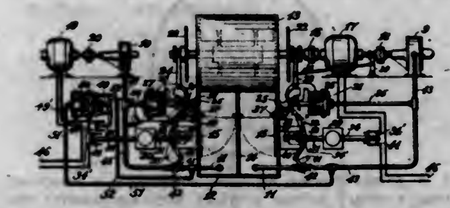
25. A car comprising a selfsustaining reinforced concrete body portion mounted on trucks, a hollow central longitudinal girder under said body portion and draw bar connections to said central longitudinal girder and means for connecting the car body to the trucks.

1,637,818. ELECTRIC CAPSTAN. WILFORD J. HAWKINS, Montclair, N. J., assignor to American Machine & Foundry Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 21, 1925. Serial No. 76,926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 254—150.)



1. An electric capstan comprising a rotative barrel, a stationary hollow standard for and within said barrel, hunting-tooth planetary reduction gearing within and driving said barrel, and a water and oil tight motor within said standard and driving said gearing, said barrel having an operating section concentric with the lower part of said standard and said motor and having a head surmounting said section and enclosing said gearing.

1,637,819. LOCOMOTIVE-BOILER-FIRE BOX. CHARLES GILBERT HAWLEY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Locomotive Firebox Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 13, 1922. Serial No. 560,656. 2 Claims. (Cl. 122—496.)



1. A locomotive firebox having a crown sheet and a spaced wrapper sheet in combination with a thermic siphon positioned in the firebox, said thermic siphon being composed of spaced, vertically disposed and longitudinally arranged walls opening through the crown sheet, staybolts connecting said spaced siphon walls and a row of stays arranged in the median plane of the siphon and anchored at their top ends in the wrapper sheet and directly connected to the topmost staybolts connecting said spaced siphon walls.

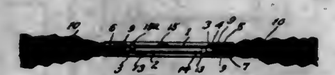
1,637,820. AUTOMATIC HEATER. WILFORD J. HAWKINS, Montclair, N. J., assignor to American Machine & Foundry Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 1, 1926. Serial No. 145,493. 8 Claims. (Cl. 158—28.)

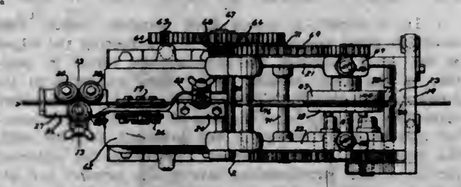
1. The combination with a furnace, of a blower, an air conduit leading from said blower to said furnace, a plurality of pumps and operative connections for forcing oil to said furnace, and means for automatically controlling the number of pumps in action in accordance with predetermined conditions, said means including operative connections, a plurality of sets of inlet and outlet valves associated with said blower, and a plurality of sets of gearing for independently actuating said sets of valves and for simultaneously actuating the valves of each set.

1,637,821. COMPRESSION VALVE. FRED J. HEIDEMAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor to T. C. Whitehead, Detroit, Mich. Filed Jan. 18, 1926. Serial No. 82,115. 16 Claims. (Cl. 230—34.)



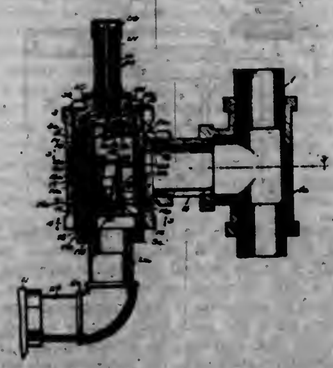
1. A valve having a substantially flat base portion, and return-bent arms at the ends thereof terminating in curved portions spaced longitudinally of said base.

1,637,822. THERMOCOUPLE. OTTO HERMANN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Thermo Electric Battery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 9, 1926. Serial No. 134,581. 7 Claims. (Cl. 136—5.)



1. A thermo-couple in which the negative element is an alloy which includes nickel, cobalt and molybdenum in its make-up.

1,637,823. BRUSH. LAWRENCE C. HEROLD, Rocky River, Ohio. Filed June 14, 1926. Serial No. 115,745. 7 Claims. (Cl. 15—198.)



1. In a rotary brush, a pair of plates formed to provide a circumferential recess therebetween, means for retaining bristles in said recess and means including corrugations offset relatively to each other on said plates and disposed outwardly of said bristle retaining means for maintaining such retaining means in position.

1,637,824. WIRE-CUTTING MACHINE. JOSEPH F. HIDZICK, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Mar. 29, 1926. Serial No. 98,312. 16 Claims. (Cl. 140—140.)

1. In a wire cutting device of the character described, means for freely supporting a spool of wire, means engaging one end thereof for unwinding the wire from the spool, and means interposed between the spool and the unwinding device for straightening the wire, said straightening device comprising a plurality of units affecting the advancing wire in planes disposed at angles to one another.

1,637,825. FLUSH VALVE. RUDOLPH KLANN, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 6, 1925. Serial No. 35,450. 5 Claims. (Cl. 137—93.)

3. A flush valve comprising a chamber having a discharge opening at one end thereof and having a second discharge opening at the other end, valves for controlling said discharge openings, ports communicating with said chamber, means connecting said ports with a supply of liquid under pressure, and a flexible band around said chamber and collapsible under fluid pressure for controlling the flow of liquid through said ports.

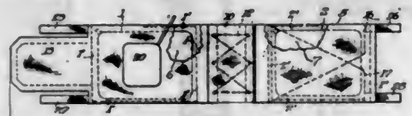
1,637,826. APPAREL GARMENT. WALDEMAR KOPS, New York, N. Y., assignor to Kops Bros. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 11, 1924. Serial No. 719,293. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—43.)

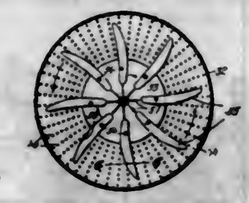
1. In a corset, a closed back member, elastic side members, front members, means for connecting the edges of the front members for securing the corset in position on the body, tension straps each connected at its forward end adjacent the forward edge of a front member extending over the outer surface of the said front member and passing through a slit provided therefor with the inner end portion thereof underlying the adjacent portion of the corresponding elastic side member and attached at its inner end to the adjacent edge of the back member, and self reducing straps each connected to a front member and adapted to overlie the portion of the tension strap extending across the said front member and to cooperate therewith by the tension applied thereto in shaping and supporting the abdomen of the wearer.

1,637,827. COUPLING DEVICE FOR CALCULATING MACHINES. AUGUST KOTTMANN, Sommerda, Germany, assignor to Rheinische Metallwaaren- und Maschinenfabrik, Dusseldorf-Derendorf, Germany. Filed Dec. 24, 1925, Serial No. 77,654, and in Germany Oct. 10, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 235—1.)



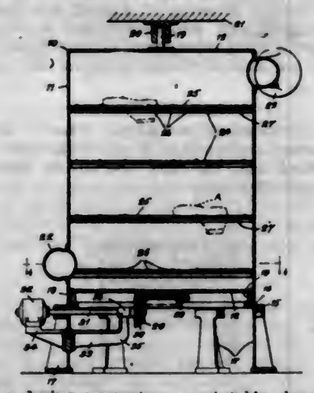
1. A coupling device for calculating machines having a reversing gear which is out of engagement when the main shaft is in its neutral position, comprising in combination a cam mounted on said shaft, levers adapted to be moved by said cam, a lever mechanism operated by said levers when the said shaft rotates out of its neutral position for moving the reversing gear into one of its operative positions, the direction of such movement being dependent upon the setting (for addition or subtraction) of the counting mechanism of the said calculating machine.

1,637,828. ELECTRICAL APPARATUS. MARIUS LATOUR, Paris, France, assignor to Latour Corporation, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 19, 1921, Serial No. 493,662, and in France May 20, 1915. 2 Claims. (Cl. 172—281.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. In apparatus for distorting the wave form of high-frequency alternating currents having a magnetic circuit and means for cyclically supersaturating it, a magnetic circuit comprising substantially all nickel.

1,637,829. BINDER FOR SECURING MEDICAL ELECTRODES. WILLIAM A. LURIE, New Orleans, La. Filed Nov. 7, 1925. Serial No. 67,603. 1 Claim. (Cl. 174—88.)



In a garment for use in securing the placement of an electrode in medical treatment, pneumatic means for applying pressure to the electrode including a compartment of the garment contiguous to the electrode which may be variably inflated at will depending upon what pressure it is desired to apply to the electrode.

1,637,830. POTATO-PEELING MACHINE. WOLDEMAR MAMMENDORFF, Charlottenburg, Germany. Filed Oct. 21, 1925, Serial No. 63,884, and in Germany Nov. 10, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 146—49.)

1. A potato peeling machine, comprising a receptacle having a rotary bottom provided with an abrasive surface and a grater device, and means to rotate said bottom and grater device in opposite directions.

1,637,831. ROTARY DRIER. CHARLES MILLER, Long Island City, N. Y. Filed Mar. 7, 1925. Serial No. 13,763. 5 Claims. (Cl. 34—28.)

1. In a drying apparatus, a rotatable chamber having a substantially cylindrical side wall, means providing only at the lower end of the wall an intake having its ingress passage extending in the direction of rotation of the chamber, and means providing only at the upper end of the wall an air outlet having its egress passage disposed away from the advancing intake whereby air will be caused to circulate in an upward circuitous course through the chamber.

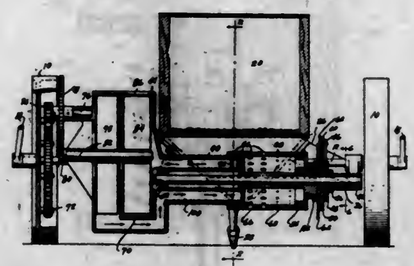
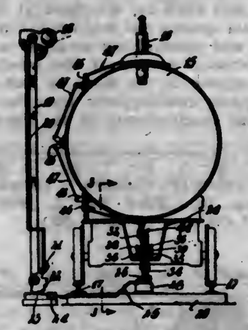
1,637,832. FASTENING DEVICE FOR PAPERS. MICHAEL A. MILLER, Long Island City, N. Y. Filed Jan. 13, 1926. Serial No. 80,987. 8 Claims. (Cl. 24—67.)

2. A paper fastener, comprising a plate of pliable sheet metal foldable to provide two leaf members for receiving therebetween the paper to be secured, an intermediate portion disposed between said leaf members, ribs formed in said plate and running along opposite sides of said portion, said ribs and said intermediate portion forming a pocket for the edge of the papers when the plate is in the folded position, and a protruding prong struck from one of the leaf members for penetrating the paper, said prong so positioned for being bent upon the paper and covered by the second leaf member when also folded upon the paper toward the first named leaf member.



1,637,833. FEEDING MECHANISM. EMIL L. MUELLER, Rutherford, N. J., assignor to David A. McIntyre, Newark, N. J. Filed Jan. 7, 1927. Serial No. 159,607. 12 Claims. (Cl. 271—41.)

1. In a feeding mechanism, means to hold a stack of articles to be discharged, a feed roller for discharging said articles, a member arranged adjacent the feed roller having a curved surface adapted to be engaged by the articles preparatory to discharge by the feed roller, and means for altering the curvature of said curved surface.



1,637,834. SEED PLANTER. MELFORT V. OLIVER, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 2, 1925. Serial No. 59,988. 3 Claims. (Cl. 221—124.)

1. In a seed planter, a seed receptacle, a rotatably supported hollow cylindrical distributor having seed pockets on its periphery communicating with its interior and adapted to receive seeds from the receptacle, suction creating mechanism terminating in a tubular portion extending into said distributor and open to the seed pocket openings in the distributor, and air blast creating mechanism terminating within said distributor to direct an air blast upon the seed pockets to eject the seeds therefrom, said distributor provided with a plurality of longitudinally spaced-apart seed pockets of different size and being movable lengthwise to bring pockets of different size into position to receive seed from said receptacle.

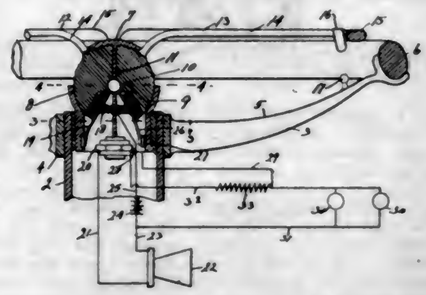
1,637,835. DANGER-SIGNAL ATTACHMENT FOR LOCOMOTIVES. OTTO ROESLER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Sept. 17, 1926. Serial No. 136,082. 5 Claims. (Cl. 246—200.)



1. In a device of the class described, having a whistle on top of a locomotive proper, the combination of a bracket fastened to the bottom of said locomotive, said bracket having an aperture, a pair of tongues adjacent said aperture, a third tongue depending from said bracket, and a fourth tongue between said pair of tongues and said third tongue, a trip lever pivoted to said pair of tongues, means for resiliently holding said trip lever vertical, a link pivoted to said trip lever, said link being formed with an elongated aperture on one end, a bell-crank pivoted to said fourth tongue, a pin in one arm of said bell-crank engaging in said elongated slot, another pin in the other arm of said bell-crank, a second link having two elongated slots, said second pin engaging in one of said elongated slots, a bell-crank pivoted to said third tongue, said last mentioned link being connected with one arm of said bell-crank, a third link connected with said trip lever, said last mentioned link being formed with an elongated aperture, a pin engaged in said last mentioned aperture, a bell-crank pivotally connected to said fourth tongue, said last mentioned bell-crank supporting said last mentioned pin, and another pin in the last mentioned bell-crank, said last mentioned pin engaging the second elongated aperture of said link with the two elongated apertures, and means connected with the bell-crank pivoted to said third tongue for operating said whistle.

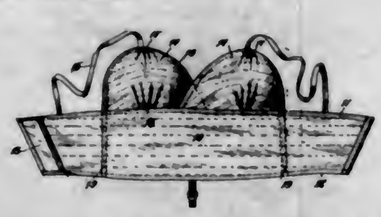
1,637,836. CORD CONNECTER. ABRAHAM RUBIN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Henry Hyman & Co., Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 24, 1922. Serial No. 570,657. 3 Claims. (Cl. 173—361.)

3. In a device of the class described, a conductor cord having a sleeve terminal with its upper end extending beyond the periphery of the cord, a block having an opening arranged to permit the sleeve terminal to be entered into the block only by moving the terminal in a direction longitudinally of the cord, a contact member in the block arranged to engage the terminal when the terminal is entered in the block, and a locking member mounted on said block for movement at right angles to the axis of said opening and held against movement longitudinally of said opening, and arranged to be positioned above the extended portion of the terminal when the terminal is entered in the block, to lock said terminal positively against disengagement from the contact member by a pull longitudinally of the cord.

1,637,837. CIRCUIT CLOSER. GEORGE W. SHAW, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Feb. 1, 1923. Serial No. 616,281. 5 Claims. (Cl. 200—59.)

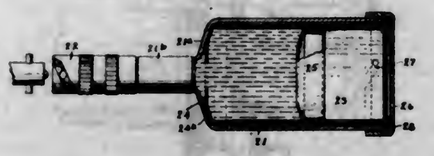
1. A circuit closer including a casing mounted upon the column of a steering wheel assembly, oscillating members within said casing and an actuating member carried by each of the oscillating members, said actuating members including arcuate hand portions extending around two opposite portions of the steering wheel concentric therewith.

1,637,838. METHOD OF TREATING ORES. FRANCIS M. SIMONDS, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-half to A. Fillmore Hyde, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 27, 1925. Serial No. 5,159. 7 Claims. (Cl. 75—60.)



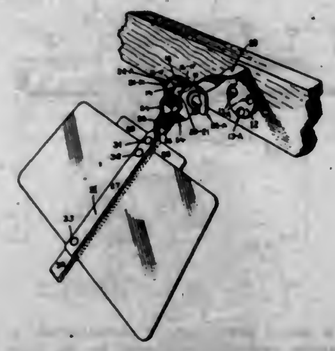
1. In the treatment of a sulphide-bearing ore, first heating the ground ore at a relatively low temperature in a slightly reducing or neutral atmosphere and then in a slightly oxidizing atmosphere to cause burning of a portion of the sulphur, whereby a further rise in temperature is caused by burning the sulphur, to complete the process of partial desulphurizing and softening, with the evolution of elemental sulphur.

1,637,839. INTERMENT MAT. JOSEPH M. STERN and EMIL M. ELDER, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Jan. 26, 1925. Serial No. 4,954. 2 Claims. (Cl. 27—29.)



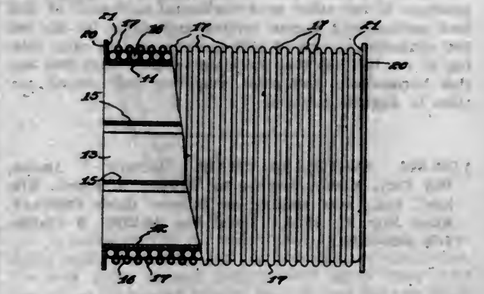
1. An interment mat for lining graves and covering earth, comprising a woven textile body having short pieces of raffia fiber sewed in closely intermingled relation upon one side thereof, said fiber being colored grass green and having a glossy surface and water shedding properties, and both the textile body and the fiber being treated with a fire-proofing substance.

1,637,840. BRASSIÈRE. HATTIE F. VOLK, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 26, 1924. Serial No. 688,635. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—42.)



A garment of the class described including a body encircling portion formed substantially of inelastic material and of a width to extend from approximately the waist line to the lower portion of the breast and having a substantially horizontal upper edge, means for securing the same together along the center line of the back, a breast covering and supporting portion of flexible material secured to the upper edge of said body encircling portion and consisting of two separate and independent approximately semi-elliptical portions gathered along a narrow portion of their upper and lower edges, said semi-elliptical portions being overlapped at the central portion of the upper edge of the body encircling portion at the front thereof and forming an upper V-notch and a lower triangular portion of a plurality of thicknesses, an inelastic binding along the upper and side edges of said breast covering portion and straps secured to the upper edge of said breast covering portion at the opposite sides of said notch and also secured to the upper rear edge of said body encircling portion and adapted to extend over the shoulders.

1,637,841. LUBRICATING APPARATUS. SAMUEL K. WELLMAN, Cleveland Heights, and ALLEN A. GOULD, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 19, 1925. Serial No. 10,344. 7 Claims. (Cl. 221—47.3.)

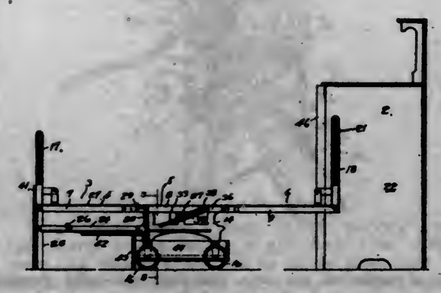


1. In a lubricant gun, the combination of a chambered body; a discharge nozzle for one end of the body; a cartridge-like container for lubricant removably mounted in the chambered body, said container having a lubricant discharge opening at its inner end adapted to be covered by a substantially liquid-tight closure when the container is out of the chambered body and comprising a tubular side wall and a piston-like outer end wall exposed on its outer side to atmospheric pressure and adapted to move within the tubular side wall; means associated with the nozzle for sucking lubricant from the container and forcing it out of the nozzle; and means for maintaining a substantially air-tight joint between the wall of the container and that of the chambered body to prevent passage of air between said walls to the said suction means.

1,637,842. AUTOMOBILE VISOR. HARRY E. WEST, Decatur, Ill. Filed Nov. 3, 1924. Serial No. 747,532. 3 Claims. (Cl. 296—97.)

1. An automobile visor of the character described comprising a substantially L-shaped bracket fixedly mounted on a windshield frame and having an arm extending rearwardly from said wind shield, a visor carrier hingedly mounted on the end of said arm; said carrier consisting of a pair of parallel bars terminating at their front ends in an integral yoke straddling the end of said bracket arm and at their rear ends in a handle for adjusting said carrier, a visor secured to said carrier, a friction washer interposed between each face of said bracket arm and the opposite wall of said yoke, a headed hinge bolt inserted through said yoke, washers and bracket arm, and a clamping nut screw threaded on one end of said bolt to clamp said carrier in angularly adjusted position with respect to said bracket arm.

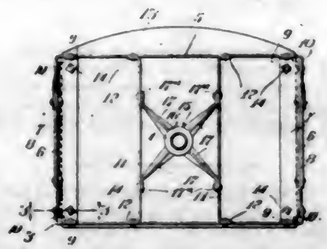
1,637,843. HOLD OVER. THOMAS C. WHITEHEAD, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 14, 1926. Serial No. 116,029. 7 Claims. (Cl. 62—95.)



1. In a mechanical refrigerating apparatus, an expansion coil unit comprising a refrigerant receiving tube, tubing for a nonfreezing solution in thermal contact with said refrigerant receiving tube and serving as a holdover, and a body constituting a core around which said tubes are wound.

1,637,844. GUARD RAIL. GEORGE W. WHITEMAN, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Frog Switch and Manufacturing Company, Carlisle, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 9, 1925. Serial No. 14,299. 20 Claims. (Cl. 238—19.)

1. In a guard rail structure, the combination of the guard rail proper, a series of tie-engaging plates from which said guard rail is spaced, and a plurality of braces connecting each of said tie-plates to the guard rail.



1,637,845. FOLDABLE BED. SOLOMON ABRAMS, Hayward, Calif. Filed June 22, 1925. Serial No. 38,691. 4 Claims. (Cl. 5—152.)

1. In a foldable bed arranged to be connected to a relatively fixed object, a horizontally disposed bed section adapted for movement in a horizontal plane to and from said object, a second section pivotally connected to said first section and arranged to lie horizontally aligned or perpendicularly disposed with relation to said section, means connecting said second section to said object and arranged to guide said second section from one of said positions to the other upon horizontal movement of said first section, and means carried exclusively by the bed and connected to one of said sections tending after folding of the bed has been initiated to move said first section horizontally and place said first and second sections in angular relation.

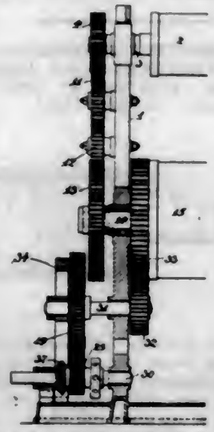
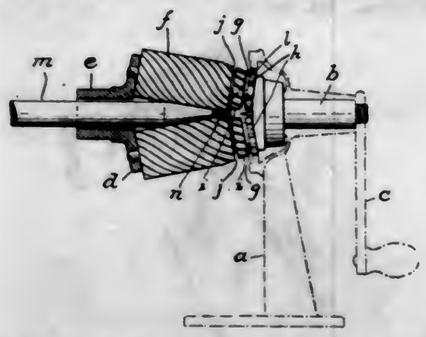
1,637,846. SWIVELING CHAIR. ARTHUR J. ADAMS, Bay City, Mich., assignor to William S. Ferris, Elkhart, Ind., now trading as Domore Chair Company. Filed July 27, 1925. Serial No. 46,226. 5 Claims. (Cl. 155—194.)



1. A chair embodying therein a seat frame comprising angle bar side members having a top horizontal flange and vertical side flanges, vertically edgewise arranged front and rear members, having their ends bent over to engage upon the vertical flanges of said side members, brace members between and parallel with said side members and secured at the ends to said front and rear members, and a seat member resting at its ends upon and secured to the horizontal flanges of said angle bar side members.

1,637,847. PLANETARY REDUCTION GEAR. ERLE K. BAKER, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Baker Reduction Gear Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Mar. 11, 1922. Serial No. 542,889. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—79.)

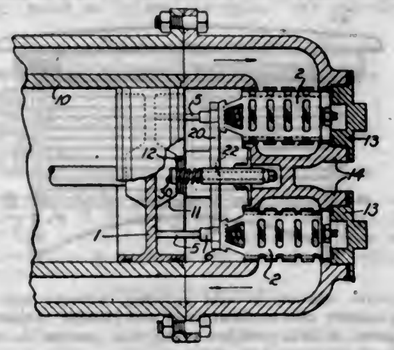


1. A device of the class described embodying therein a steering post, a plurality of lugs carried thereby, a pinion rotatively mounted on each lug with its axis spaced from the axis of its associated lug, a non-rotatable internal gear and a rotatable external gear arranged coaxially therewith, both of said gears being in mesh with all of said pinions.

1,637,848. DRIVING MECHANISM FOR PRINTING PRESSES. HOWARD M. BARBER, Westerly, R. I., assignor to C. B. Cottrell & Sons Company, Westerly, R. I., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 20, 1926. Serial No. 89,686. 6 Claims. (Cl. 101—179.)

1. In a web perfecting rotary printing press, a suitable frame, two printing units, a geared connection between the two units located outside of the frame, and a press driving mechanism comprising a primary drive located outside of the frame and a secondary drive located inside of the frame and including a driven gear fast on the impression cylinder of one of the said printing units.

1,637,849. PENCIL SHARPENER. GEORGE E. BARTOL, Jr., Ardmore, Pa., assignor to C. Howard Hunt Pen Company, Camden, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 21, 1926. Serial No. 143,086. 3 Claims. (Cl. 120—96.)



1. In a pencil sharpener, in combination, a base, a cutter carrier rotatably supported by the base, a pair of cutters rotatably supported by the carrier and having annular slots formed therein between their ends and a pencil stop projecting into said slots and extending between said cutters.

1,637,850. VARIABLE VALVE-OPERATING MEANS FOR FLUID METERS. CARLOS JAMES BASSLER, Portland, Oreg., assignor to American Liquid Meter Company, Portland, Oreg., a Corporation of Washington. Filed July 29, 1922. Serial No. 578,471. 17 Claims. (Cl. 73—30.)

1. In combination with a meter of the positively acting type including a movable meter member, a plurality of control valves laterally spaced at each end of the meter, and a trip engageable by said meter member to control the time of actuation of said valves, of a spring interposed between each valve and the meter member, and energizable by the meter member as it moves and prior to release of said trip to store up energy to cause movement of the valves.

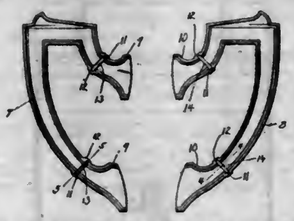
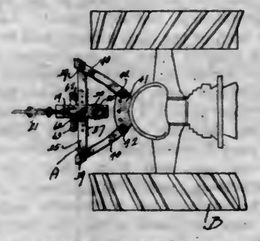
1,637,851. CHLORO DERIVATIVES OF N-DIHYDRO-1,2,1',2'-ANTHRAQUINONE-AZINE AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. OAKLEY M. BISHOP, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 24, 1922. Serial No. 570,727. 10 Claims. (Cl. 260—31.)



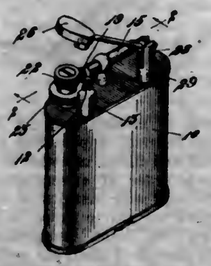
1. The process of making a chloro-derivative of N-dihydro-1,2,1'2'-anthraquinone-azine which comprises passing dry chlorine gas into a suspension of said azine in a liquid composing acetic acid.

1,637,852. RECORDING INSTRUMENT. WILSON C. BRANDENBURG, Weston, W. Va., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 8, 1924. Serial No. 736,404. 10 Claims. (Cl. 234—5.5.)



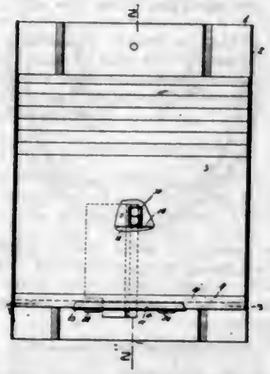
1. Apparatus for recording related vector quantities of an alternating current circuit comprising two meters connected in said circuit so as to measure different related vector quantities thereof, a record sheet, a pair of recording styli cooperating with said record sheet, means responsive to the measurements of said meters for respectively moving said styli proportional to the respective measurements and guiding means for said styli whereby vector records of said measurements are produced in their true vector relation.

1,637,853. HOLLOW HANDLE FOR METAL VESSELS. LESLIE A. BROWN, Meriden, Conn., assignor to International Silver Co., Meriden, Conn., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 23, 1927. Serial No. 177,626. 2 Claims. (Cl. 16—119.)



1. A hollow handle for metal vessels, consisting of two shells, each comprising grip-portions and socket-portions, the said shells formed within their inner faces with grooves, stops located in said grooves, and the two shells connected together.

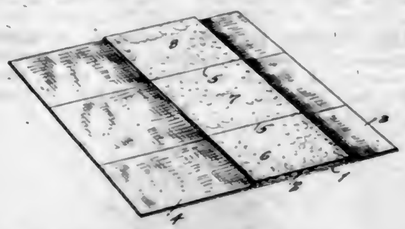
1,637,854. DRAFT COUPLING. JOHN BURBACH, Bangor, Wis. Filed Mar. 18, 1926. Serial No. 95,711. 10 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.10.)



1. In draft gearing the combination of an elongated bar, implement connecting members pivotally connected on vertical axes at the outer ends of said bar, a coupling slidable on the bar between said implement connecting members, a draw bar device connected with the last mentioned member, and means to lock the said last mentioned member in any desired position along said bar.

1,637,855. CIGAR LIGHTER. WILLIAM J. BUTLER, Cranston, R. I., assignor to Henry Lederer & Bro. Inc., Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Feb. 23, 1927. Serial No. 170,223. 4 Claims. (Cl. 67—7.1.)

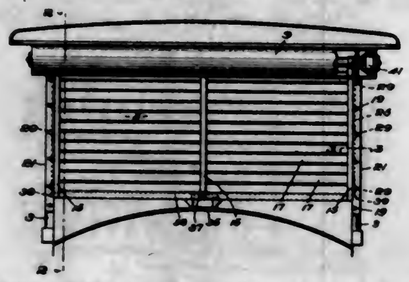
1. In a cigar lighter, a fuel reservoir carrying a wick tube having a wick therein, a pyrophoric tube, a spark wheel and thumb wheel unit in sleeve form, said two wheels being spaced apart and formed integral and of a single piece of metal, and a spring pressed pyrophoric material in the tube in engagement with the spark wheel whereby an igniting spark is carried from the pyrophoric material to the wick when the spark wheel is operated through a rapid rotation of the thumb wheel.



1,637,856. CARD INDEX. RALPH C. DAVIS, Brockton, Mass., assignor of one-half to John J. Moriarty, Boston, Mass. Filed Oct. 24, 1924. Serial No. 745,682. 10 Claims. (Cl. 129—16.)

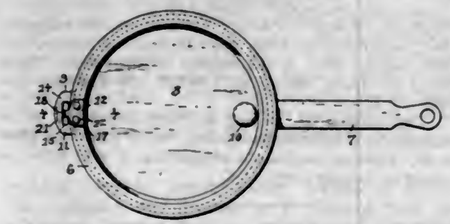
1. In an index, the combination comprising a backing, a plurality of card holders parallelly arranged and superposed upon the backing with extension crosswise thereof, a support for the card holders fixed to the backing with extension longitudinally thereof beneath said holders, means whereby each of the card holders will be detachably secured to said support upon an application of the card holder laterally thereto and occupy positions contacting with one another, and cards carried by said holders.

10. A card index having a card and a holder for said card from which the card extends and within which a portion of the card is contained, said holder comprising a casing having an open end from which the card may be laterally withdrawn, and a spring tongue struck from the side of the casing and frictionally engaging that portion of the card contained within the casing.



1,637,857. SURGICAL DRESSING AND METHOD OF MAKING IT. WILLIAM ROWLAND DORMAN, New Brunswick, N. J., assignor to Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 29, 1925. Serial No. 78,132. 3 Claims. (Cl. 128—296.)

1. The method of making surgical dressings of the filled type, which consists in providing a blank including covering material and filling material in superposed relation and in such order of arrangement as to provide relatively narrow and wide margins of covering material, folding the narrow margin to cause it to lap the filling material, folding the blank longitudinally along preselected lines to provide a multi-ply relationship defining an entry or pocket, and then folding the wide margin and tucking its free end in said pocket.



1,637,858. ANTITHEFT DEVICE. ISAAC M. GLICK, Boston, Mass. Filed Jan. 17, 1923. Serial No. 613,129. 4 Claims. (Cl. 177—314.)

4. An anti-theft device for vehicles having a windshield, comprising a curtain having a position in which it is operative to obstruct vision through said windshield, side guides for said curtain, an alarm, a plurality of switches in one of said side guides, a bolt for holding said curtain at the bottom of said side guides, and a resilient strip extending along one of said side guides in operative relation to said switches, whereby said bolt will contact said resilient strip and thereby actuate one or more of said switches when said curtain is raised without withdrawal of said bolt.

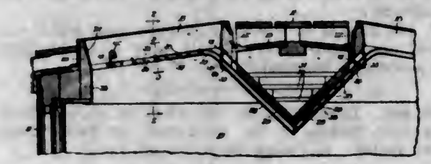
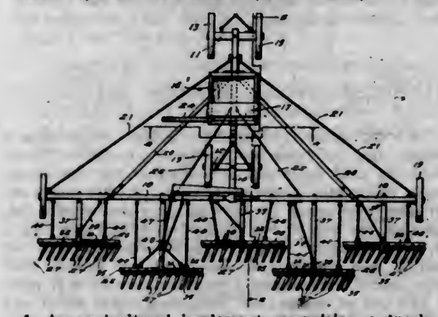
1,637,859. CULINARY UTENSIL. MARIE AMELIA HILGERS, Pawtucket, R. I. Filed Mar. 24, 1927. Serial No. 178,026. 1 Claim. (Cl. 53—8.)



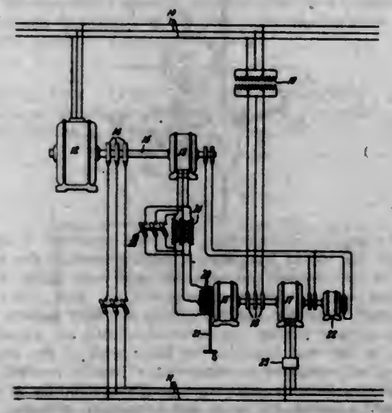
In a covered culinary utensil, means for movably attaching the cover to or detaching the cover from the body of the utensil, comprising a body member having a body plate secured to the body of the utensil, a slotted plate on the body plate at right angles to the body plate, said slot being parallel with the body plate, a cover member secured to the cover and having an arm with a bent portion extending downwardly through the slot in the slotted plate, said bent portion of the arm then being bent outwardly and terminating into a T shaped end, which lies under the slotted plate, whereby the cover may be swung sidewise on or off the body of the utensil in either direction and lifted from the body of the utensil without detaching the cover from the body of the utensil, or the cover may be entirely detached and removed from the body of the utensil, when necessary.

1,637,860. SNAP LINK. ORIS C. HILL, Pawtucket, R. I. Filed Apr. 5, 1927. Serial No. 181,041. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—236.)



1. A fastening link comprising an open body having hooks at its ends and provided with a non-circular lug on the outer side of one hook, and a spring tongue provided at one end with a non-circular opening engaged with said lug and having its free end arranged to bear against the inner side of the other hook, said lug being integral with and formed from displaced material of the hook.

1,637,861. VENTILATING DOOR FOR THE HATCHWAYS OF REFRIGERATOR CARS. GEORGE A. HULL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Equipment Specialties Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 11, 1924. Serial No. 755,203. 20 Claims. (Cl. 105—377.)

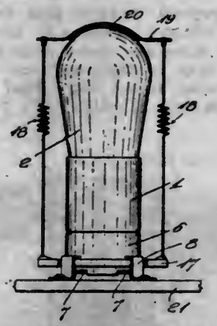


1. In combination, a railroad car comprising a roof having a pair of hatchways, and a ventilating door for one of said hatchways movably supported to close said hatchways or to lie wholly between the adjacent edges of said hatchways.

1,637,862. WEEDER. JAMES H. IMUS, Boardman, Oreg. Filed Aug. 7, 1924, Serial No. 730,652. Renewed Mar. 17, 1927. 3 Claims. (Cl. 97—144.)

1. An agricultural implement comprising a truck, lateral bars projecting in opposite directions from the truck and hingedly connected for relative movement vertically at their outer ends, scraper members connected to said lateral bars, and adjustable laterally and movable vertically, and means connected to said members whereby the said members may be adjusted vertically to clear them of accumulation or for other required purpose.

1,637,863. FREQUENCY CHANGER. GEORGE H. JUMP, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 18, 1925. Serial No. 16,551. 7 Claims. (Cl. 172—281.)

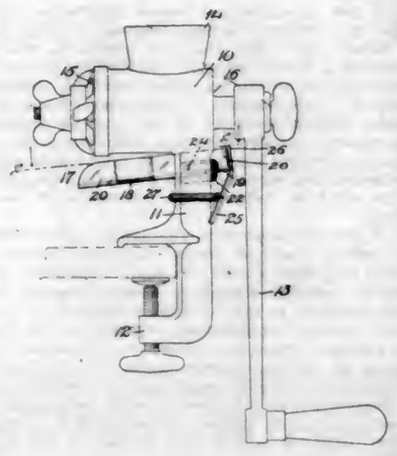


1. Variable frequency changer apparatus comprising a rotary transformer having relatively rotatable alternating current windings, a synchronous dynamo electric machine directly connected to the rotatable member of said rotary transformer, an alternating current source of excitation for said synchronous machine, and means for varying the phase angular relation of such excitation with respect to that existing in one of the windings of said transformer.

2. A pair of alternating current distribution systems subject to a relatively varying frequency relation, means for transferring power from one system to the other comprising a rotary frequency transformer having relatively rotatable alternating current windings respectively connected to said systems, a synchronous dynamo electric machine directly connected to the rotatable member of said frequency transformer, and means for exciting the alternating current winding of said synchronous machine with alternating current having a frequency proportional to the difference between the frequencies of the two systems.

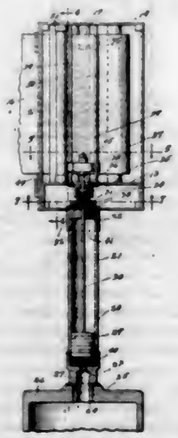
3. A pair of independent alternating current distribution systems, means for transferring power between said systems comprising a rotary frequency transformer having relatively rotatable alternating current windings respectively connected to said systems, a synchronous dynamo electric machine for producing relative rotation between said windings, means for exciting the alternating current winding of said synchronous machine with alternating currents at a frequency proportional to the difference in the frequencies of said two systems, and means for adjusting the phase angular relation of such alternating current excitation with respect to that of one of said systems.

1,637,864. ELECTRON-TUBE APPARATUS. FREDERICK A. KOLSTER, Palo Alto, Calif., assignor to Federal Telegraph Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed May 25, 1926. Serial No. 111,533. 1 Claim. (Cl. 250—27.5.)



An electron tube apparatus comprising in combination with an electron tube having a bulb portion and a base portion, a socket for receiving said base portion, a plate member having an annular flange with a dome shaped central portion connected thereto, a pad disposed upon the under surface of said dome shaped central portion and a pair of resilient members disposed between diametrically opposite points on said annular flange and points on said socket for maintaining said plate in engagement with the bulb portion of said electron tube.

1,637,865. SASH CONSTRUCTION. JOHN F. LEVAN, Elkhart, Ind., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Adams & Westlake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 22, 1926. Serial No. 110,894. 7 Claims. (Cl. 189—76.)

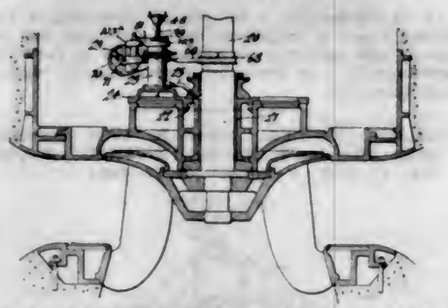


1. In a sheet metal sash, a hollow marginal member consisting of two channel strips which are arranged together in nested relation with the edges of the inner strip bent reversely about the edges of the outer strip.

1,637,866. DRIP PAN FOR FOOD CHOPPERS. CADDIS B. LIGHTFOOT, East Orange, N. J. Filed Nov. 10, 1926. Serial No. 147,407. 3 Claims. (Cl. 146—185.)

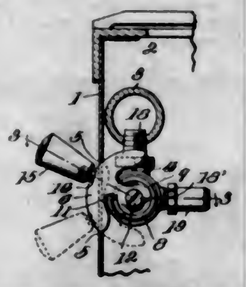
1. A drip pan for food choppers comprising a U-shaped trough to straddle the support of a chopper and means for securing the trough in place.

1,637,867. TESTING DEVICE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. THOMAS O. LILES, Tyler, Tex., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of three-eighths to Duke C. Matthews and four-eighths to Brodie H. Ashby, Dallas, Tex. Filed June 23, 1927. Serial No. 200,909. 13 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)



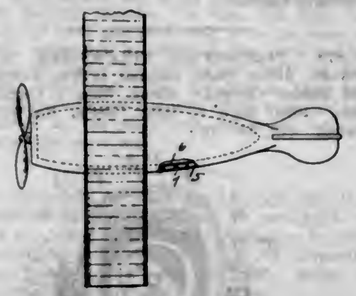
1. In a testing device for internal combustion engines, a compression cylinder for connection at one end to the cylinder of an internal combustion engine for admitting fluid pressure from the engine cylinder, means cooperating with the compression cylinder for compressing a fluid medium at the end thereof opposite the engine connection, and means controlled by the aforesaid means for indicating pressure variations in the engine cylinder.

1,637,868. PROCESS OF PRODUCING INDOPHENOL COMPOUNDS. WALTER A. MANSS, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 14, 1923. Serial No. 680,581. 14 Claims. (Cl. 260—55.)



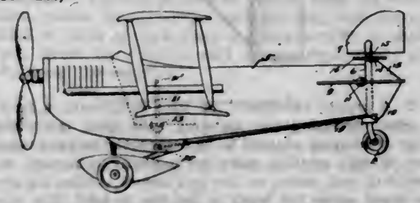
1. The process of producing an indophenol which comprises condensing ethyl-carbazole with a nitrosophenol compound at a temperature below —13° C.

1,637,869. LUBRICATING APPARATUS. CHARLES W. MANZEL, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Mar. 26, 1925. Serial No. 18,440. 15 Claims. (Cl. 184—37.)



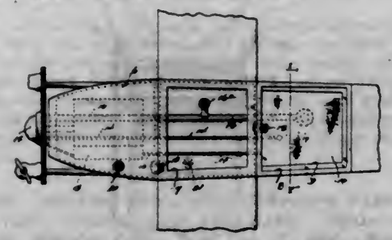
1. In a lubricator for hydraulic turbines, comprising a container for the lubricant having an outlet, a piston movable in said container, a feed-screw for the piston movable lengthwise of the container, a ratchet wheel coaxial with said screw for turning it, a rocker arm fulcrumed on the hub of the ratchet wheel and carrying a feed pawl engaging the same, power-driven means for actuating said rocker arm, and combined shifting and locking means on the rocker arm for moving said pawl into and out of engagement with the ratchet wheel and maintaining it in either of such positions, said last-named means being movable in a plane parallel to the plane of movement of said rocker arm.

1,637,870. CLOSED GAS STOVE AND VALVE THEREFOR. FREDERIC G. NICOLAUS, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to American Stove Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 19, 1927. Serial No. 162,143. 4 Claims. (Cl. 126—39.)



1. A gas stove comprising a closed structure, a manifold in the closed structure extending parallel the front wall of the closure and adjacent said wall, a gas valve housing within the closure connected with the said manifold, a burner located within the said closure, the valve housing having communication with the burner, a valve in the said housing, the front wall of the closure having an elongated opening and a handle located outside of the closure and having a portion extending through the said opening, its inner end connected with the said valve, the handle having an intermediate elongated curved portion extending through the said elongated opening, the parts operating for the purpose described.

1,637,871. WALL CONSTRUCTION FOR AEROPLANE FUSELAGES. ANTON NOSAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 26, 1926. Serial No. 124,951. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—30.)

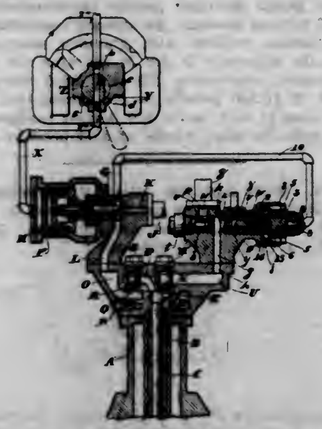


An aeroplane fuselage having double air tight walls with a vacuum space therebetween and ribs at intervals between the walls in said space, said ribs being fixed to the respective walls, and heat insulating packing between the ribs and the walls.

1,637,872. STEERING MECHANISM FOR AEROPLANES. ANTON NOSAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 26, 1926. Serial No. 124,952. 5 Claims. (Cl. 244—29.)

5. A steering mechanism for aeroplanes or the like, comprising a steering post, a vertical rudder mounted thereon, a pair of horizontal rudders mounted at opposite sides of the post respectively, upper brackets on the horizontal rudders, a plate loosely mounted on the brackets and adapted to swing therewith when the horizontal rudders are both tilted in the same direction and to turn when they are tilted in opposite directions, said plate having a slidable and non-rotating connection with the post, and a single controlling lever operatively connected to the horizontal rudders and movable in a plurality of directions to selectively tilt the horizontal rudders either in the same or different directions.

1,637,873. AIR-PURIFIER APPARATUS. ANTON NOSAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 18, 1926. Serial No. 129,982. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—30.)

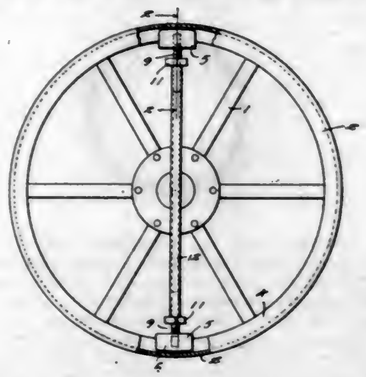


1. An aeroplane fuselage provided with an engine compartment, a control compartment, and an air purifier compartment, valves between said compartments, and means to conduct air thru the air purifier compartment and thru said valves into the other compartments.

1,637,874. SOCKET CASING. ADOLPH C. RECKER, Oakville, Conn., assignor to Chase Companies, Inc., Waterbury, Conn., a Corporation. Filed Dec. 14, 1925. Serial No. 75,867. 3 Claims. (Cl. 173—362.)

1. In a socket-casing, the combination with a cap having its skirt encircled with corrugations producing substantially-straight inset reaches and alternating substantially-circular outwardly-set sockets, of a shell having its edge formed with corrugations producing inset substantially-straight reaches and substantially semi-circular outwardly-set flutes, the junction of the said reaches and sockets in the cap forming angular locking-abutments which co-act with the side-walls of the outwardly-set flutes of the shell to resist the relative rotary movement of the shell and cap under normal conditions of use.

1,637,875. DISCHARGE UNLOADER. SNOWDEN B. REDFIELD, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 4, 1927. Serial No. 172,718. 6 Claims. (Cl. 230—28.)



1. A discharge unloader for a compressor cylinder, comprising a casing adapted to be connected in the discharge line of the compressor, said casing having a passage for conveying pressure fluid from the cylinder to the discharge line, said casing having a vent affording communication between the passage and the atmosphere, and means in the casing controlling the vent, said means being held inoperative by intake pressure fluid during the loaded period of the compressor.

1,637,876. CLAMPING MEANS FOR EXTRA TREAD RIMS OF TRACTOR WHEELS. EDGAR R. SANDERS, Lakeville, Ind. Filed Feb. 8, 1927. Serial No. 166,744. 4 Claims. (Cl. 301—30.)

4. Means for clamping an extra rim to a traction wheel having a flange thereon, comprising a flange on the extra rim, U-shaped members embracing said flanges and having openings therein, the side arms of said U-shaped members being converged, threaded members having tapered ends to engage between the flanges through said openings, a tube slidably engaging said threaded members and spanning the wheel, and nuts on said threaded members and termially engaging the tube to force the tapered ends of said members between the flanges and spread them into engagement with the arms of the U-shaped members.

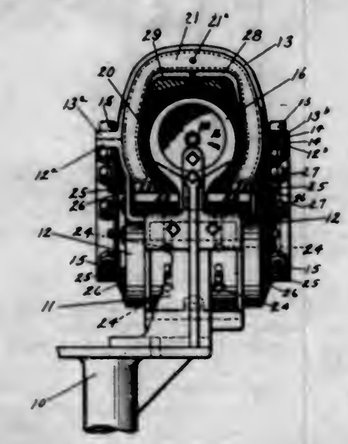
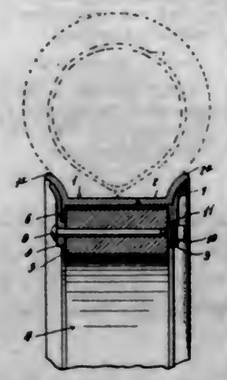
1,637,877. PROCESS FOR MANUFACTURING SOLID CORK BODIES AND THE LIKE. GEORGE SCHELLHAAS, Frankenthal-Pfalz, Germany. Filed May 11, 1926. Serial No. 108,417. 3 Claims. (Cl. 18—55.)



1. The herein described process for manufacturing articles of pressed granular substances, consisting in mixing a binding medium with granular substances, permitting the substance to dry in the open air and without pressure, compressing the said dried mass under a pressure of 16,500 pounds to the square inch and subjecting same to heat up to 130 degrees centigrade, without re-expansion after release of said pressure and heat.

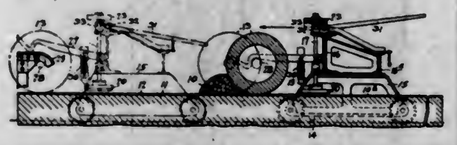
1,637,878. HOG RINGER. CARL E. SCHWESER, David City, Nebr., assignor of one-half to Fred G. Schweser, David City, Nebr. Filed Apr. 3, 1926. Serial No. 99,557. 1 Claim. (Cl. 128—332.)



A variable clinching attachment for hog ringers having a wire curving and guiding jaw and an opposed wire loop socket jaw, comprising a plug carried by said socket jaw in the socket and inclined toward the outer end of the jaw for engagement through a wire loop in the socket and having a beveled outer corner facing the guiding jaw and adapted to receive the free end portion of a wire as the latter passes through said loop to deflect the free end portion of the wire inwardly of the jaws and beneath the inner side of the loop when said jaws are brought together.

1,637,879. TIRE-REPAIR VULCANIZER. CLYDE M. SEMLER, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Sept. 5, 1924. Serial No. 736,051. 6 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)

1. A repair vulcanizer for tires comprising a mandrel, a shell enclosing the mandrel, said shell comprising a pair of sections adapted to be detachably secured together, one of said sections being permanently connected to the mandrel, and means on the last named section adapted to be urged against the beads of the tire to hold them against the mandrel, said means comprising pairs of arc-shaped presser strips, one of which is adapted to engage the inner edges of the beads and the other of which is adapted to engage the outer sides of the beads, and means for exerting pressure on said strips.



1,637,880. RIM FOR AUTOMOBILE WHEELS. CHARLES L. STEWART, Jacksonville, Ala. Filed Jan. 21, 1926. Serial No. 82,773. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—21.)

In combination, a wheel, a rim embodying inner and outer sections resting on the felly of the wheel with their adjacent edges contacting with each other, said rim sections being provided at their remote edges with tire retaining flanges and said inner rim section being provided with an annular shoulder contacting with the inner side of the felly, inner lugs contacting with the felly and with the shoulder and flange of the inner rim section, bolts passing through the lugs and felly, nuts mounted on the bolts and contacting with the outer side of the felly, outer lugs mounted on the bolts and contacting with the outer rim section and with the flange thereof, said outer lugs being provided in their inner sides with recesses for the reception of the nuts, and other nuts mounted on the bolts and contacting with the outer sides of the outer lugs.

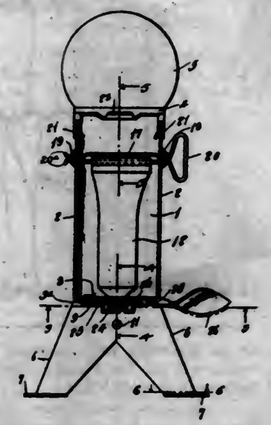
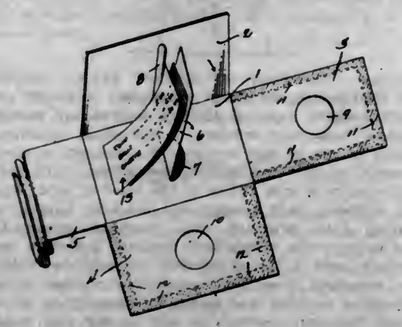
1,637,881. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING SHEET GLASS. RICHARD O. STILWELL and CHARLES H. CHRISTIE, Butler, Pa., assignors to Standard Plate Glass Company, Butler, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 6, 1925. Serial No. 48,457. 13 Claims. (Cl. 49—3.)

2. Sheet glass forming apparatus comprising a forming roll adapted to roll out a mass of plastic glass, an ironing block, means for advancing said ironing block across the sheet of glass as said sheet is being formed by said roll, and means for rotating said block independently of its advancing movement.



1,637,882. FRINGE AND METHOD OF MAKING. CHARLES B. STRETCH, Brockton, Mass. Filed July 21, 1926. Serial No. 123,902. 5 Claims. (Cl. 139—385.)

1. A woven fringe having a body portion comprising woven warp and weft threads and a fringe composed of warp threads extended beyond said body portion with the weft thread omitted from a majority of the fringe-forming warp threads but the weave of the weft thread continued through the remaining few of the fringe-forming warp threads for preventing the weft thread from raveling.



1,637,883. HOLDER FOR TUBES OF TOOTH PASTE, SHAVING CREAM, AND THE LIKE. EVALD E. STURK, Altadena, Calif. Filed Apr. 25, 1925. Serial No. 25,791. 1 Claim. (Cl. 221—60.)

A holder of the character set forth, comprising a receptacle fully open at the front and provided in its bottom with an opening and in its sides with slots extending through the upper ends thereof, a top pivoted to the sides and provided with channeled flanges embracing the upper ends of the sides so as to prevent relative lateral movement of those portions of the sides located forwardly and rearwardly beyond the slots, a closure pivoted to the under side of the bottom, and a tube winding key slidably and rotatably mounted in the slots.

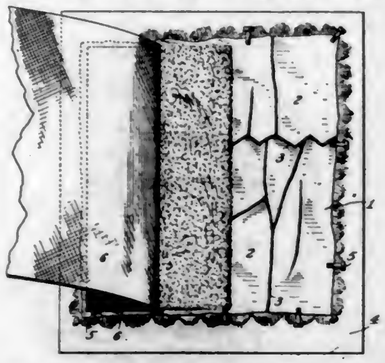
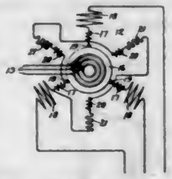
1,637,884. SAFETY ENVELOPE. ARTHUR W. WALKER, Conway, Mo., assignor of one-fourth to Charley N. Finn, Conway, Ark. Filed Aug. 24, 1926. Serial No. 131,201. 4 Claims. (Cl. 229—68.)



1. An envelope comprising a body, a plurality of flaps or extensions on the body, certain of which have gummed edges, a pocket member attached to the body, the flaps or extensions being folded one above the others upon the body and above the pocket member, one of the said flaps being rolled with the contents of the envelope, and means for sealing certain of the flaps or extensions to each other and to the rolled portion.

1,637,885. PROCESS OF PRODUCING FUR-BEARING SHEETS USED IN THE MANUFACTURE OF GARMENTS AND GARMENT TRIMMINGS. HYME WASSERMAN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 2, 1927. Serial No. 180,604. 3 Claims. (Cl. 149—28.)



3. The process of producing a fur bearing sheet for use in the manufacture of garments or parts thereof, which consists in stretching, while in a wet condition, a sheet constructed of a plurality of pelts stitched together, maintaining said sheet in stretched condition until dry, applying to such sheet while dry a coating of cement and pressing onto said cemented surface a substantially non-stretchable flexible reinforcing fabric covering all of the pelts and the stitching whereby each and every part of the stretched pelts is firmly joined to the reinforcing fabric and the fur bearing sheet thereby reinforced and held against shrinking.

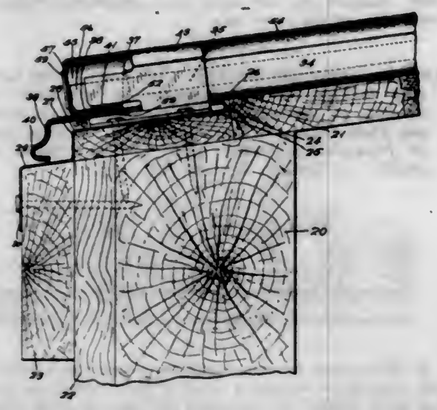
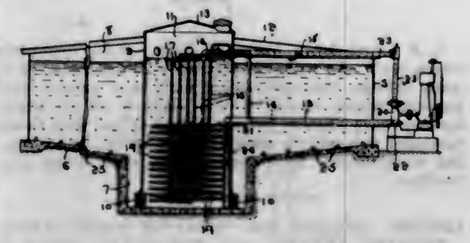
1,637,886. SINGLE-PHASE INDUCTION-MOTOR CONTROL SYSTEM. WILHELM WEILER, Niederschonhausen, Berlin, Germany, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 16, 1926, Serial No. 142,087, and in Germany Feb. 24, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 172—280.)



In combination, a source of supply, a single phase induction motor supplied thereby, said motor having a polyphase secondary winding, a polyphase commutator machine driven by said motor and connected in cascade therewith, means for supplying polyphase excitation at the frequency of said source to the rotor of said commutator machine, said commutator machine having commutating poles provided with windings connected in series between the commutator and the induction motor secondary, and a second winding on said commutating poles energized from the commutator voltage of said commutator machine, and means for suppressing the flow of high frequency currents in said second field winding while permitting the flow of current of slip frequency.

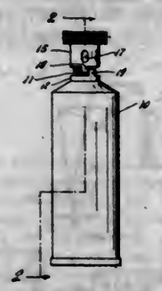
1,637,887. VOLTAGE REGULATION OF EXCITERS. ROBERT M. WILSON, Montclair, N. J., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 26, 1924. Serial No. 702,133. 3 Claims. (Cl. 17—223.)



1. A dynamo electric machine comprising a yoke member, a pole core removably attached to said yoke member and slotted to form a central core section extending between said yoke member and the tip of said core, a main field winding surrounding said core, and a bucking field winding surrounding only said section.

1,637,888. CAR ROOF. WILLIAM WRIGHT, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Chicago-Cleveland Car Roofing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 14, 1924. Serial No. 743,540. 17 Claims. (Cl. 108—3.)

1. In a car roof, in combination: roof sheathing, a flashing secured on said sheathing; roof sheets having side flanges, said flanges extending from the ridge of the roof to a point short of the eaves edge thereof and the unflanged portions of each sheet being extended to form ears, the ears of adjacent sheets being lapped one over the other; seam caps enclosing the side flanges of adjacent roof sheets, and an anchor at each eaves end of the seam caps, said anchors being secured on the flashing and enclosed by the seam caps, said anchors comprising a curved top bent inwardly at each side to provide a holding down portion engaging the upper portion of the side flanges of adjacent roof sheets, said top being bent to provide two depending contacting substantially vertical sides having a slot at their lower portions towards the eaves end into which the lapped ears of adjacent roof sheets extend, said sides terminating in outwardly extending bearing portions upon which the lapped ears bear, said bearing portions terminating in depressed seats that are secured to the car.



1,637,889. STORING AND HANDLING APPARATUS FOR ASPHALT. HORACE W. ASH, Winchester, Mass. Filed Aug. 6, 1925. Serial No. 48,562. 10 Claims. (Cl. 257—205.)

3. In combination, a tank, having in communication a heating chamber and a storage chamber, a heating coil in the heating chamber extending for a distance upwardly from the bottom of the tank, a suction pipe extending downwardly in the heating chamber, a vertically arranged hollow member having a lower closed end located below the lower end of the said suction pipe and enclosing the suction pipe upwardly to substantially the level of the top of the said heating coil, and the said member being provided with openings allowing free entrance into the top of the said member of liquid material having a certain fluidity and lower restricted openings to prevent the entrance of material less fluid.

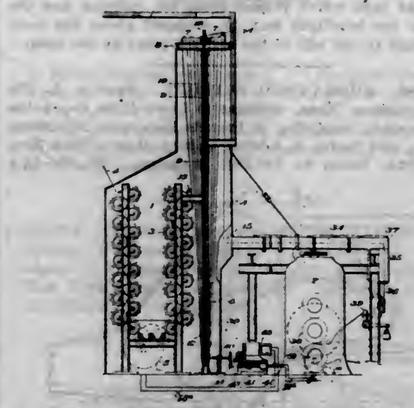
1,637,890. COLLAPSIBLE TUBE WITH AN UNLOSABLE CAP. GEORGE E. BAKER, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 5, 1924. Serial No. 724,274. 3 Claims. (Cl. 221—60.)

1. A collapsible tube having an annular shoulder and a threaded neck extending upwardly therefrom provided with a longitudinal passage and communicating with the interior of the tube, the neck also having a discharge opening extending transversely from said passage, a lug formed integral with the shoulder, a cap provided with a discharge opening in one side and registerable with the transverse opening, and a lug formed integral on the lower edge of the cap and being bendable downwardly and inwardly to engage the first lug and stop removal of the cap when the openings are in registration, the lug on the cap engaging the annular shoulder to limit the movement of the cap for closing said openings.



1,637,891. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR PACKAGING MATERIAL. ADELMER M. BATES, deceased, Chicago, Ill., by Clara H. Bates, administratrix, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Bates Valve Bag Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 23, 1926. Serial No. 117,953. 6 Claims. (Cl. 226—53.)

1. The method which consists in forming a bag-tube having reinforcing cross-bands at spaced intervals, filling charges into the tube through slits in said cross-bands and sewing tube-closing seams through the cross-bands.

6. In apparatus for filling a bag-tube having reinforcing cross-bands at spaced intervals, a filling device and co-operating rollers adapted to engage the inside and the outside of the tube, respectively, the rollers being so located with respect to the filling device that they engage a cross-band when the bag-tube is in proper register with the filling device.

1,637,892. COMPENSATING MECHANISM. WINTHROP W. BENNER, Cuyahoga Falls, and EDMUND A. HOENER, Akron, Ohio, assignors to The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 23, 1923. Serial No. 620,712. 17 Claims. (Cl. 271—2.3.)

1. The combination with a calender and a drier for feeding a strip, of fabric thereto, of a compensating mechanism between the calender and the drier adapted for forming the plurality of vertical nested folds in the strip said drier and mechanism being enclosed in a common chamber.

1,637,893. HAIR WAVER OR CRIMPER. BERNHARD M. BESKOW, Clearwater, Fla. Filed July 30, 1926. Serial No. 125,963. 3 Claims. (Cl. 132—41.)

1. A hair waver or crimper comprising two sets of intermeshing spring members alternating with and normally springing towards each other, and adapted to be forced, by pressure, into hair-engaging position, said members being staggered or disposed in different planes so that the members of one set will be between the members of the other set.

1,637,894. BRAKE. JOHN T. CRANE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 5, 1925. Serial No. 67,036. 8 Claims. (Cl. 188—259.)

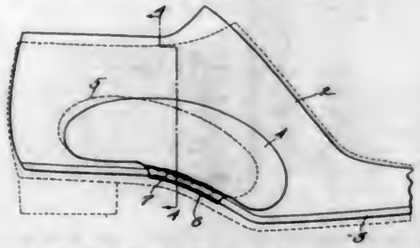
1,637,895. GLARE SHIELD FOR HEADLIGHTS. MICHAEL PATRICK CULLINAN, Laredo, Tex. Filed Mar. 27, 1926. Serial No. 97,938. 1 Claim. (Cl. 240—48.4.)



A shield for headlights comprising a pair of sectors, one of said sectors being formed to fit the reflector of the headlight with the opposite edges arranged in obtuse angular relation, the other sector being formed to fit against the lens of the headlight with the opposite edges arranged in acute angular relation, said sectors being mounted in said headlight with the radial centers positioned in obtuse angular relation whereby the objectionable light rays which project from the reflector and the lamp in the headlight may be excluded above the horizontal and to the left of the vertical plane of the lamp.

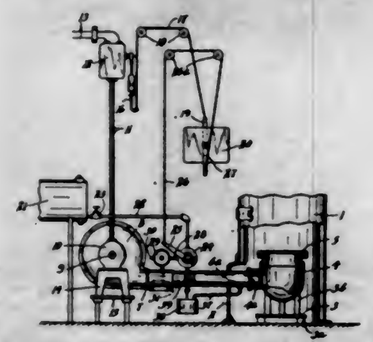
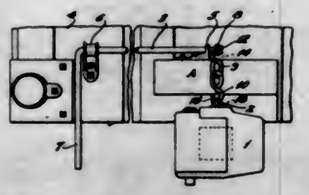
1,637,896. SHOE-UPPER SUPPORT. SEXTUS A. EDDINS, Quincy, Mass., assignor to Cordo-Hyde Co., a Copartnership consisting of Francis Hannigan, Braintree, Mass., and Sextus A. Eddins, Quincy, Mass. Filed Mar. 24, 1924. Serial No. 701,284. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—71.)



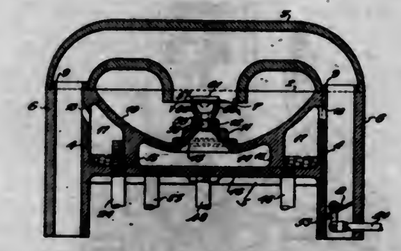
1. A support for the upper of a shoe, comprising two wings of thin, stiff, resilient, sheet material, said wings being shaped to fit between the lining and upper of a shoe in the region between the heel and forepart at opposite sides of the shoe and serving to hold the upper in its original shape, and a bridge connecting the lower edges of said wings and integral with them, said bridge being shouldered at its opposite sides to accommodate the corresponding edges of the insole of the shoe.

1,637,897. SHOE AND PROCESS OF MAKING THE SAME. SEXTUS A. EDDINS, Quincy, Mass., assignor to Cordo-Hyde Co., a Copartnership consisting of Francis Hannigan, Braintree, Mass., and Sextus A. Eddins, Quincy, Mass. Filed Mar. 24, 1924. Serial No. 701,285. 9 Claims. (Cl. 36—71.)



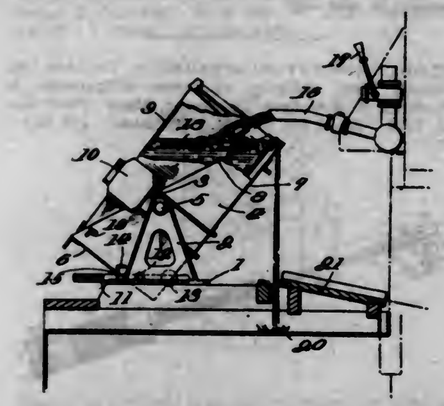
1. A shoe including an insole, an upper secured to said insole, a lining for said upper, and a support for said upper comprising two wings of thin, stiff, resilient sheet material fitting between the lining and upper of the shoe and supporting the upper in the region between the heel and forepart at opposite sides of the shoe, said support including a bridge connecting the lower edges of said wings with the bridge lying under the portion of the insole on which the foot bears in the shank portion of the shoe.

1,637,898. AUTOMATIC OIL BURNER. FRANK J. EVANS and HERMAN C. HANSEN, Minneapolis, Minn., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Louden Machinery Company, Fairfield, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed June 23, 1924, Serial No. 721,687. Renewed May 12, 1926. 8 Claims. (Cl. 158—28.)



1. An oil burner comprising a burner bowl, a conduit communicating therewith, a feed pipe extending longitudinally of said conduit to a point closely adjacent said bowl, then extending transversely of said conduit, then longitudinally of said conduit away from said bowl and then being reversely bent to project toward said bowl and provided with a small discharge orifice alined with and directed toward said transversely extending portion, said pipe forming both a fuel supply and a pilot burner.

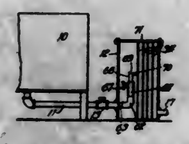
1,637,899. CAR-UNCOUPLING MECHANISM. HARRY F. FINNEY, Chicago, Ill., and FRANCIS A. JACOBS, Warren, Ohio, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Chicago-Cleveland Car Roofing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 4, 1922. Serial No. 598,998. 8 Claims. (Cl. 213—170.)



1. A link connection for uncoupling lever constructions, for uniting the lifting mechanism with the knuckle lock, comprising upper and lower links interengaged with each other with a looseness which permits relative movement of the links both towards each other, said links being of bent rod of like size and engageable with and disengageable from each other by a twisting movement of a link, the upper and lower ends of said links respectively having laterally extending stop elements for engagement with the lifting lever and the knuckle lock, and whereby they are maintained in said engagement, and after assembly of the parts the said links being held by said laterally extending elements from twisting movement and from disengagement from each other by the engagement therewith of the lifting lever and the knuckle lock.

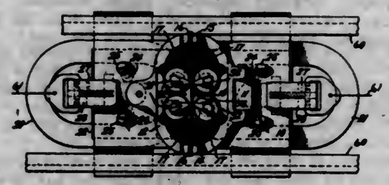
1,637,900. LIQUID-FUEL BURNER. RAYMOND L. FOSTER, Apponaug, R. I. Filed Apr. 14, 1924. Serial No. 706,830. 12 Claims. (Cl. 158—66.)

3. A liquid-fuel burner comprising in a unitary structure, a fire-bowl having a burner-nozzle at its center, a fuel-reservoir arranged beneath the bowl in communication with the nozzle, air-ducts leading upwardly at the sides of the bowl, an air-manifold connected with said ducts and provided with a downwardly directed opening arranged above the burner-nozzle, and a steam-generating chamber arranged beneath the bowl and communicating with the air-ducts to provide for the passage of steam thereinto to humidify the air passing to the flame.



1,637,901. ICE-CAN DUMP. NORMAN H. GAY, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Jan. 14, 1926. Serial No. 81,355. 4 Claims. (Cl. 226—22.)

1. An ice can support including in combination, a support, brackets mounted on said support, an ice can dump mounted on said brackets so as to swing from a vertical to an inclined position, and cooperating devices carried by said ice can dump and said support for holding said ice can dump and the can in a predetermined inclined position whereby when the can is filled to overflowing, it will, when turned to upright position, contain a predetermined quantity of water.

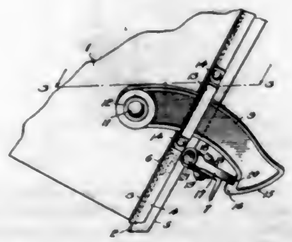


4. An ice can support including in combination, a pivoted ice can dump, a lug carried by said ice can dump, a pivoted latch adapted to engage said lug on the ice can dump for holding said ice can dump in a predetermined inclined position, whereby when said ice can is filled to overflowing it will, when returned to upright position, contain a predetermined quantity of water, means for automatically swinging said latch into engagement with the lug for stopping and holding the ice can dump when a predetermined inclined position is reached, said latch being manually released from engagement with said lug.

1,637,902. LIQUID-LEVEL-CONTROLLING MEANS FOR DRY-CLEANING SYSTEMS. RALPH HOLLAND, Laramie, Wyo. Filed June 30, 1926. Serial No. 119,677. 11 Claims. (Cl. 8—8.)

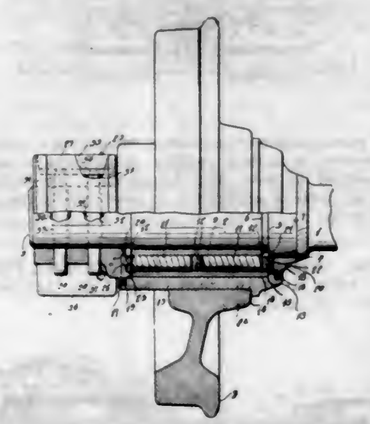
1. In dry cleaning apparatus of the character described, a washing machine, means for feeding a cleaning fluid to said machine, and adjustable means controlling the discharge of said fluid from said machine for maintaining a substantially constant predetermined level of cleaning fluid in said machine.

1,637,903. PRODUCTION OF PHONOGRAPHIC RECORDS. CHARLES A. HOXIE, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 28, 1921. Serial No. 525,362. 11 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.1.)



1. A phonographic record cutter, comprising a vibratory strip secured in a fixed position at its ends, a cutting point carried by said strip intermediate its ends and having its point of application in substantially the plane of said strip.

1,637,904. PITMAN BOXING. HARRY L. HUNT, Bigelow, Mo. Filed Aug. 10, 1926. Serial No. 128,486. 1 Claim. (Cl. 287—93.)



The combination with a yoke-shaped frame of a pitman box, of a yoke having its arms apertured and disposed between the arms of the frame, a pitman rod having a threaded end engaged through the bight of said yoke, bearing blocks in the frame, a block in the frame bearing against one of said bearing blocks, the end of the pitman rod bearing against said block, adjustable clamping means on the pitman engaged with the bight of the yoke, and removable pivot members in the openings of the yoke and in the arms of the frame, said pivot members being headed and retained in position by one of said clamping means.

1,637,905. DOOR MECHANISM FOR RAILWAY CARS. BYRAS W. KADEL, Baltimore, Md. Filed Jan. 23, 1925. Serial No. 4,193. 11 Claims. (Cl. 105—308.)

1. A car body having a door adapted to be supported in different positions of closure, a latch pivotally mounted on the car body adapted to engage a relatively immovable portion of the door to maintain the latter in partly closed position, and means carried by the door movable into and out of engagement with the latch to support the door in fully closed and partly closed position respectively.

2. In combination, the pedestal of a car truck, an axle, a wheel, a bearing interposed between the wheel and axle, and a housing for the bearing having a part thereof fixed to the axle and slidably mounted in the pedestal to prevent the rotation of the axle.

1,637,907. SAWMILL DOG. ROSS E. LANGILL and WILLIAM B. GRUETER, Menominee, Mich., assignors to The Prescott Company, Menominee, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 25, 1926. Serial No. 83,438. 8 Claims. (Cl. 143—125.)

1. In a sawmill dog, a knee having a vertical face, a shoe, a hanger, a bolt connecting said shoe and hanger for pivotal movement with respect to each other and arranged with its head engaging said knee to guide said shoe and hanger for movement parallel to the knee face, a log-holding arm supported for pivotal movement in a vertical plane and arranged with its log-engaging end extending loosely through said hanger and beyond the knee face, and means operable to effect said pivotal movement of said arm.

1,637,908. LUBRICATING APPARATUS. CHARLES LEA, Boston, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Frederick C. Blanchard, Dorchester, Mass. Filed Jan. 31, 1923. Serial No. 616,064. 11 Claims. (Cl. 221—47.)

1. In a lubricating apparatus, the combination of a receiver and a filler comprising a lubricant reservoir and adapted to be applied to and to fill said receiver, one of said parts presenting a surface which is a zone of a sphere and the other presenting an annular surface cooperating therewith, and means to lock said parts together and to maintain a joint permitting relative turning movement about the center of said sphere, said parts presenting a separable coupling affording a conduit for the lubricant in its passage from said reservoir to said receiver.

1,637,909. BOLT-TYPE EMERGENCY GOVERNOR. FRANK C. LINN, Lynn, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 20, 1924. Serial No. 744,700. 1 Claim. (Cl. 264—17.)

surface adapted to be engaged by the rotating member, said striking surface being concave and having a curvature such that the initial movement of the trip finger is comparatively small and successive equal angular movements of the striking member produce gradually increasing outward movements of the trip finger.

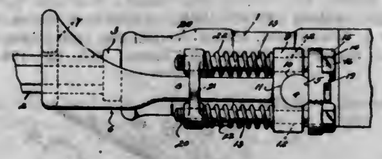
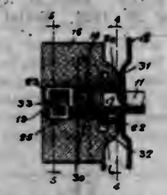
1,637,910. WINDOW FASTENER. WILLIAM E. MORRISON, Granite City, Ill., assignor of one-half to Israel R. Hurwitz. Filed Sept. 9, 1925. Serial No. 55,297. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—225.)



The herein described sash fastener comprising a bracket, a vertically swingable U-shaped retainer having an arcuate toothed bight portion adapted for use in opposed relation to a window sash and also having at the lower end of said arcuate portion a short lower arm pivoted at its end remote from the arcuate portion to the said bracket, and further having a long arm extending in the same vertical plane as the lower arm from the upper end of the arcuate portion and overhanging and spaced from the lower arm and the bracket and extending beyond the pivoted end of the lower arm and the bracket, a string or cable connected to and directly pendent from the end of the long arm, and a bowed spring attached to the bracket below the pivot connection of the lower arm of the retainer and extending upwardly from the point of connection and outwardly beyond the pivot connection of the lower arm and having a free end portion overhanging the pivot connection and the adjacent portion of the lower arm of the retainer and exerting a downward pressure on said lower arm; said free end portion of the spring resting in the space between the lower and upper arm, whereby it is protected by the upper arm.

1,637,911. RAILWAY-DOOR LATCH. JOHN O. NEIKIRK, Lombard, Ill., assignor to Wine Railway Appliance Co., Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation. Filed Apr. 4, 1923. Serial No. 629,794. 13 Claims. (Cl. 105—308.)

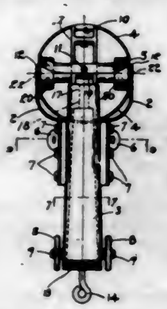


1. In a railway car a hook for holding a door in its closed position, a cam for locking said hook in its holding position, and stops fixed to said cam for limiting the movement of said cam in its locking and its unlocking movement.

1,637,912. DRILL-STEEL RETAINER. GUSTAVE M. NELL and WILLIAM G. KALE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignors to The Cleveland Rock Drill Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed June 18, 1923. Serial No. 646,032. 5 Claims. (Cl. 121—32.)

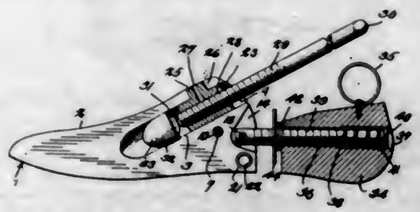
1. In combination with the front head of a rock drill having a collared drill steel operatively mounted therein, lugs upon opposite sides of the front head, a drill steel retainer comprising a yoke having a drill steel engaging loop, the side arms of the yoke bearing against the front sides of the lugs, paired bolts slidable in the side arms and having heads, lock bars pivotally connected to one bolt of each pair and bearing against the rear sides of the lugs, means for holding the side arms and lock bars in yielding engagement with the lugs, and means carried by the lock bars for engaging the bolt heads, as and for the purpose set forth.

1,637,913. SWITCH HANDLE. ARVID H. NERO, New Britain, Conn., assignor to The Arrow Electric Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Mar. 31, 1921. Serial No. 457,438. 8 Claims. (Cl. 200—172.)



1. A switch handle comprising a chambered body, a ferrule rotatable in said chambered body, and a ratchet dog pivotally mounted on said ferrule and having a one-way operating engagement directly with said body.

1,637,914. ROTARY SEWER CLEANER. TOIVO PELTOLA, Marquette, Mich. Filed Aug. 7, 1922. Serial No. 580,084. 3 Claims. (Cl. 15—104.12.)



1. In a machine for cleaning the inner surface of a pipe or conduit, a fluid supply pipe a wheel or rotor attached thereto and mounted for rotation about an axis substantially perpendicular to that of the conduit, said fluid supply pipe being arranged to extend longitudinally of the conduit with a nozzle for discharging fluid from said pipe against the periphery of the wheel for driving it, said wheel being formed with laterally extending hubs and one or more scraper blades arched over the wheel with both ends of each blade secured to said hubs.

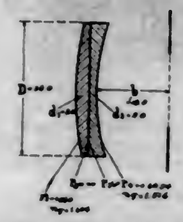
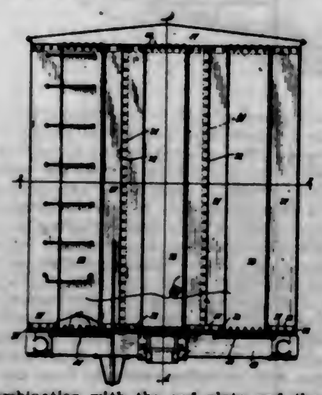
1,637,915. SHOE STRETCHER. ANDREW J. QUIST and BERT A. MELLANDER, Mount Jewett, Pa. Filed Dec. 10, 1925. Serial No. 74,563. 2 Claims. (Cl. 12—128.3.)



1. In a device of the class described, a toe comprising laterally separable sections, means for connecting the said sections for lateral movement, means for expanding the said sections, a screw pivotally mounted on the toe, a heel slidable for adjustment on the screw, a nut threaded on the screw and cooperating with the inner end of the heel, and a compression spring on the screw, within the heel, one end of the spring being engaged with the screw, and the other end of the spring being engaged with the heel.

1,637,916. BOX OPENER. JOHN H. RICHARDS, Yakima, Wash. Filed June 29, 1926. Serial No. 119,352. 2 Claims. (Cl. 145—21.)



1. In an opener for cleated boxes, an elongated plate member of substantially the same width as the lid of the box to be removed, said plate being curved transversely throughout its entire length, for facilitating the rocking of the same upon the box lid, a handle extending upwardly from the rear edge portion of said plate for rocking the same, the forward edge of said plate being sharpened and adapted to be disposed against the inner side edge of the aforementioned cleat, a flat plate-like member pivotally secured at its inner longitudinal edge to the intermediate portion of the concaved face of said rockable plate, the outer longitudinal edge portion of said pivoted plate being disposed beyond the forward edge of the rockable plate and bent downwardly and thence inwardly to provide a cleat engaging lip, the free edge of said lip being serrated and engaging the outer side edge of the cleat.

1,637,917. LENS ATTACHMENT FOR PHOTOGRAPHIC OBJECTIVES. ROBERT RICHTER, Berlin-Friedenau, Germany, assignor to the Firm Optische Anstalt C. P. Goerz Aktiengesellschaft, Friedenau, near Berlin, Germany. Filed May 6, 1924, Serial No. 711,307, and in Germany May 12, 1923. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—57.)

1. A dispersive achromatic two lens attachment for photographic objectives having its outer surfaces curved in the same direction, the radius of curvature of the concave outer surface being materially larger than the diameter of the system the lenses of the system being so shaped and manufactured of such kinds of glass that the sum of the refractive powers of the two inner surfaces of the system is not greater than the positive numerical valve of the refractive power of the whole system.

1,637,918. CAR END. THOMAS NATHAN RUSSELL, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Chicago-Cleveland Car Roofing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 9, 1924. Serial No. 685,259. 6 Claims. (Cl. 105—410.)

1. In combination with the end plate and the floor of the car of a plurality of metal end panels extending from the floor to the end plate, said panels having a web portion and transversely extending side portions, said side portions terminating in laterally extending flanges, the extremities of the flanges of adjacent panels being lapped and rigidly secured together; the flanges of the panels at each side of the car being flanged and secured at the corners of the car; angle pieces rigidly securing the upper and lower edges of said panels to the end plate and floor respectively.

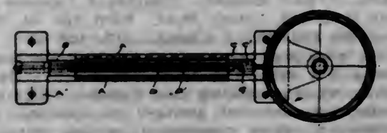
1,637,919. TRACK BRACE AND GAUGE. VICTOR O. SAMPSON, Woodland, Wash. Filed Nov. 5, 1926. Serial No. 146,500. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—450.)

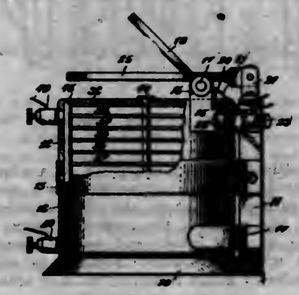


1. A combined gauge, brace and connecting rod for switch points, comprising threaded members having plates on their outer ends which are received in the inner fishing spaces of switch rails, and are bolted to the webs thereof, a turn buckle screwed on each of the said threaded members, removable means locking the turn buckles on the members, flat members having rounded and threaded ends also engaged by the turn buckles, means for adjustably locking the turn buckles on said members and a throw bar underlying and connecting said last mentioned members.

1,637,920. METHOD OF REMOVING OIL FROM EVAPORATING SYSTEMS. THOMAS SHIPLEY, York, Pa., assignor to Shipley Patent Corporation, York, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 26, 1926. Serial No. 83,936. 5 Claims. (Cl. 62—115.)

2. The method of recovering oils from the evaporators of refrigerating systems having a suction line, which consists in drawing oil from the evaporator with such liquid refrigerant as incidentally accompanies it, confining such oil and refrigerant at a point remote from the evaporator at approximately evaporator pressure, causing such refrigerant to boil off from the oil to the suction line, and finally discharging the oil.

1,637,921. APPARATUS FOR MEASURING LINEAR DIMENSIONS. JAMES SIMPSON, Bellshill, and JOHN GLEN, Coatbridge, Scotland. Filed Dec. 30, 1926, Serial No. 158,028, and in Great Britain Oct. 31, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—147.)

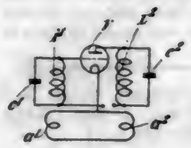


1. Measuring apparatus of the class described comprising a graduated bar having a longitudinal slot and provided with a jaw fixed relatively to said bar, a jaw movably mounted on said bar, a slidable member extending through said slot and also through bores with which said jaws are provided, a graduated evolute cam mounted for rotation and bearing against one end of said member, a spring active to keep said end of said member in contact with said cam, and means to fix said cam in adjusted position.

1,637,922. GAME BOARD. FRANK A. SULLIVAN, Bethlehem, Pa. Filed Sept. 8, 1926. Serial No. 134,253. 8 Claims. (Cl. 273—136.)

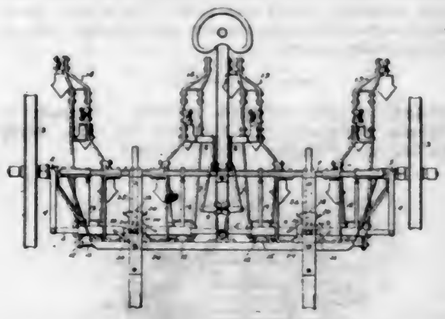
2. A game board comprising a body having a series of pockets and also having a playing face overlying the pockets, the playing face having an opening therein over each pocket, a closure element for each pocket, yieldable means for closing each closure element, the playing face having shoulders around each pocket, and playing pieces having portions interlockable with the shoulders and receivable in said pockets.

1,637,923. RADIO TUNING DEVICE. HERBERT F. VENZKE, Boyertown, Pa. Filed Nov. 17, 1925. Serial No. 69,713. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—359.)



7. In a radio tuning device, a plurality of super-posed windings which are each in flat, spiral form, each winding formed of insulating material, coated with a conductive layer, a connecting bar of insulating material connected to the inner ends of each winding and a connecting bar of insulating material connected to the outer ends of the windings, the connecting bars being coated with conductive material between the ends of alternate pairs of windings to provide a continuous path of current through the series of windings.

1,637,924. THERMIONIC VALVE CIRCUITS. PETER WILLIAM WILLANS, Pattishall, Towcester, England. Filed Oct. 27, 1926, Serial No. 144,553, and in Great Britain July 2, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 179—171.)



A thermionic valve system comprising a valve having grid, filament and plate electrodes, an input circuit disposed between said grid and filament electrodes, an output circuit included between said plate and filament electrodes, independent inductances for tuning each of said circuits, an auxiliary circuit including separate inductance elements in series, one of said elements being coupled to one of said aforementioned inductances and the other of said elements being coupled to the other of said aforementioned independent inductances, and a connection from said auxiliary circuit to said filament electrode, said inductances being related for neutralizing for a considerable range of wave length the electromotive force induced in either of said input or output circuits by mutual inductive relationship of said independent inductances.

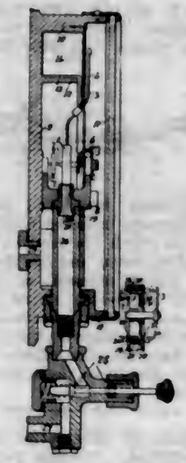
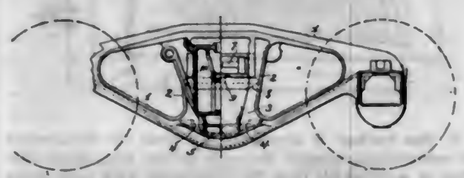
1,637,925. CULTIVATOR. HERMAN E. ALTGELT, South Bend, Ind., assignor to Oliver Chilled Plow Works, South Bend, Ind. Filed Feb. 19, 1924. Serial No. 693,891. 5 Claims. (Cl. 97—156.)



1. In a cultivator, the combination of a plurality of pairs of cultivator gangs, independent lever means connected with each pair of gangs and operable independently to adjust the gangs of the respective pairs laterally with relation to each other, and means whereby each lever means may be adjusted laterally to adjust the spacing of pairs of gangs relatively to each other.

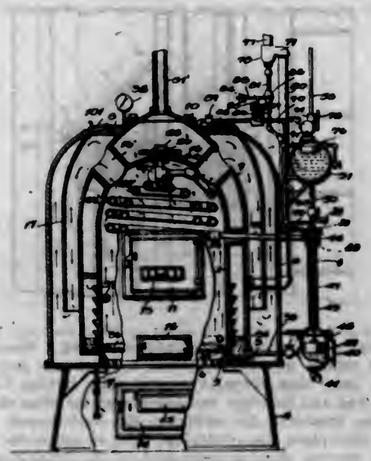
1,637,926. STALK-CUTTING ATTACHMENT FOR PLOWS. JOSÉ LORENZO AMARGOS, San Manuel, Cuba. Filed July 30, 1926. Serial No. 126,076. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—209.)



An attachment for a plow comprising a pair of L-shaped members adapted to have their front ends connected with the front end of the beam of the plow, means for adjustably connecting the short arms of the members with the beam in front of the curved portion thereof, a cutter disk placed between the members and supported from the same at the junction of the short arms with the long arms of the members and an arm, formed with loops to make it flexible, fastened to one member and extending outwardly and rearwardly from said member.

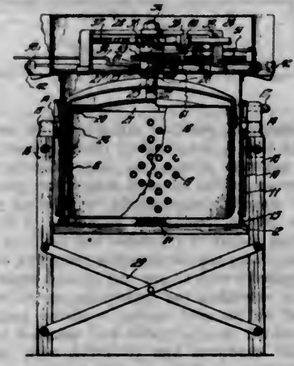
1,637,927. FLOW METER. CARL ROBERT HUGO BONN, Hillhead, Glasgow, Scotland. Filed Jan. 25, 1924, Serial No. 688,629, and in Great Britain Jan. 27, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 265—23.)

1. In combination, a turbine wheel having transverse blades; resilient means for controlling said wheel; regulating means for said resilient means; means responsive to a movement of said turbine wheel; and a nozzle adapted to direct fluid into said blades so as to rotate said wheel against the action of said resilient means.



1,637,928. CAR TRUCK. SAMUEL P. BUSH, Columbus, Ohio, assignor to The Buckeye Steel Castings Company, Columbus, Ohio. Filed July 20, 1926. Serial No. 123,721. 5 Claims. (Cl. 105—197.)

1. The combination with a side frame having an opening therethrough, a spring plank having an end supported by the side frame at the bottom of the opening, springs carried by the spring plank and by the side frame, respectively, the springs carried by the side frame being housed by the columns thereof, a bolster having an end inserted in the opening in the side frame over the springs, and means engaged with all the springs for supporting the bolster for relative rocking movement.



1,637,929. STEAM BOILER. CHARLES J. CARLSON and OSCAR M. ELTON, Helena, Mont. Filed Apr. 23, 1923. Serial No. 634,062. 2 Claims. (Cl. 122—40.)

1. In a boiler, a casing formed to provide a combustion chamber and a steam and liquid compartment adjacent thereto, a water conducting coil disposed within said combustion chamber and arranged to discharge into the steam and water compartment, means connecting with the water conducting coil for conducting water from a source of supply to said coil, a valve controlling said water supply means, a float chamber extending slightly above the level of the lower end of said steam and water compartment, a conduit lying at the level of the lower end of said steam and water compartment and connecting the latter with said float chamber, a float in said float chamber and adapted to rise and fall with the water in the latter, and means connecting the float and said valve, whereby the latter will be actuated in response to the rise and fall of the float within the float chamber.

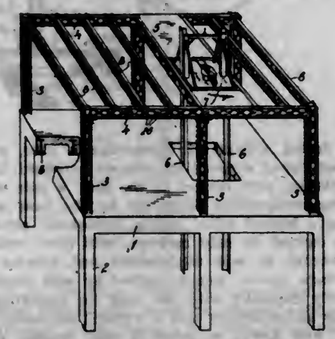
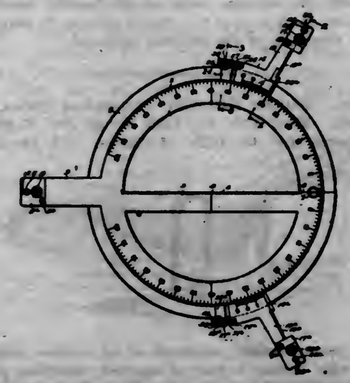
1,637,930. COMBINED LAUNDRY WASHING MACHINE AND HYDRO-EXTRACTOR. ARCHIE DIMATOS and GREGORY DIMITRI MICHAL, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Aug. 24, 1926, Serial No. 131,281, and in Australia Apr. 27, 1925. 5 Claims. (Cl. 68—18.)



2. In a laundry machine, a casing, a perforate bowl in said casing, means for imparting oscillatory or rotary movement to said bowl, a spindle at the upper extremity of the bowl, a lever pivotally connected with the casing and rotatably receiving the spindle and operatively associated with said movement imparting means and means rotatably mounting the lower extremity of the bowl in the casing and permitting tilting movement of the bowl whereby either oscillatory or rotary movement may be imparted to said bowl.

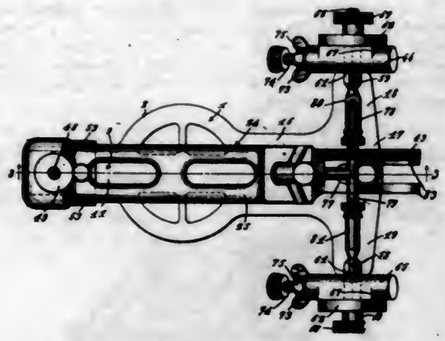
1,637,931. VULCANIZER. PAUL FRANÇOIS MARC ALBERT FONTANA, Cluses, France, assignor to Societe des Appareils Mephisto Jules Manfredi and Cie., Cluses (Haute-Savoie), France. Filed Nov. 18, 1925, Serial No. 69,882, and in France June 25, 1925. 6 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)



1. A repairing element for a vulcanizer lighted and heated automatically, comprising a metal cup, a rubber patch impregnated with sulphur and secured to the under face of this cup, a combustible composition within the cup, and ignition means covering said composition over its entire surface.

1,637,932. REENFORCED CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION. THOMAS J. FOSTER, Ridgewood, N. J. Filed Aug. 28, 1922. Serial No. 584,631. 4 Claims. (Cl. 72—71.)

1. The concrete floor construction of the beam and panel type comprising skeleton web reenforcing beams adapted to support the molds for the concrete beams and strong concrete cast around said beams and reenforced thereby to form reenforced concrete beams and having portions cast integral therewith forming the adjacent portions of the floor panels projecting laterally from said concrete beams and lighter concrete forming the intermediate portions of the floor panels and intimately united to such strong concrete.



1,637,933. PROTRACTOR. CHARLES B. GALVIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 24, 1923. Serial No. 670,601. 4 Claims. (Cl. 33—75.)

1. A protractor which comprises a ring having a diametrical crossbar and a fixed arm extending radially outward at one end of said crossbar, there being an index point on said arm, an arm mounted on said ring to rotate about the center thereof and having an index point thereon at the same distance from the center of said ring as the previously mentioned index point.

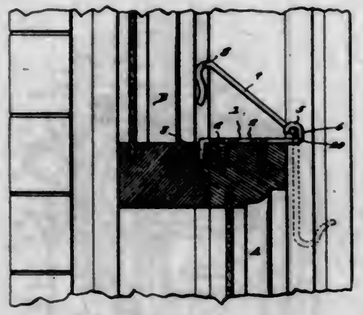
1,637,934. ARTICULATOR. WILLIAM M. GAMBILL, Merkel, Tex. Filed July 24, 1926. Serial No. 124,704. 13 Claims. (Cl. 32—1.)

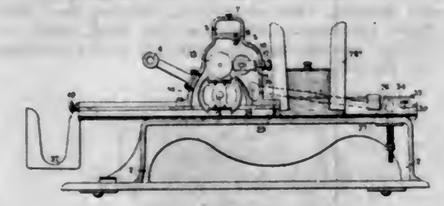
1. A dental articulator comprising a base, a spring-controlled upper articulator member arranged in superposed relation with respect to the base, a pair of spaced tensioning mechanisms supported by the base and each including a housed coiled spring, transverse pivot means for and carried by said member, said pivot means slidably mounted in said mechanisms and bearing against said springs, driven means carried by said member and operatively engaging with the base for imparting simultaneously an oscillatory and a vertical movement to said member, and means mounted in said member for operating said driven means.

1,637,935. POROUS COMPOSITION BUILDING MATERIAL. DANIEL GARZA, New Orleans, La. Filed Apr. 26, 1926. Serial No. 104,845. 1 Claim. (Cl. 106—18.)



An improved light, strong, porous building material comprising Portland cement, sand and scoriaceous basalt in substantially equal parts and grbund cork in at least two parts to every part of the basalt, said basalt being reduced to small state short of powdered condition and having numerous small cells, said cement, sand and cork forming a mix to receive the cellular basalt and bonding only with the exterior cells of the basalt, leaving the inner cells unfilled, said cork being cellular to add, to the cellular structure of the building material.

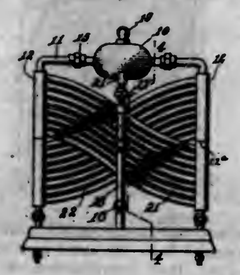
1,637,936. MONEY HOLDER. CHRISTIAN GROSS, Paris, France. Filed Feb. 10, 1926, Serial No. 87,465, and in France Mar. 18, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 24—261.)



1. A money holder composed of an endless section of spring wire having a pair of opposed clamping portions joined together at one end by crossed connecting portions, said crossed connecting portions being pivotally connected to each other.

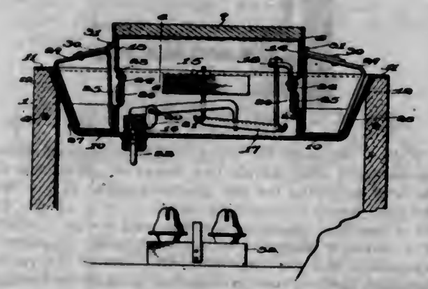
1,637,937. SASH FASTENER. FRANK J. HART and DANIEL W. MCGEE, Fort Worth, Tex.; said McGee assignor to said Hart. Filed June 11, 1926. Serial No. 115,303. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—194.)

A device of the class described comprising a base plate having prongs at one end thereof which are bent upwardly into hook shape, a second plate having a hook at one end and its other end notched at the sides thereof to form trunnions for engaging the hook-shaped parts of the first plate, the vertical portions of the hooks being flat to prevent slipping movement of the trunnions and the space between the prongs being extended to receive the neck formed by the notches of the second plate when said second plate depends from the first plate.



1,637,938. ADDRESSING MACHINE. EDMOND HEUZÉ-BEAUREGARD, Ste.-Adresse, France. Filed Dec. 14, 1926, Serial No. 154,759, and in France Dec. 8, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—55.)

1. An addressing machine comprising in combination, a supporting base, a longitudinal frame rockably mounted thereon, a magazine adapted to carry stencils in stacked relation, means guided in said frame for receiving and feeding the stencils consecutively to printing position, a reciprocable casing, releasably connected with the said stencil feeding means, a regulable ink fount in the upper part of said casing, ink distributing rollers in said casing, spring controlled levers at one end of said rockable frame, an upwardly extending lug carried by one of said levers, an abutment on the said casing, a spring controlled rod slidably mounted on the frame and adapted to be operated by said abutment and co-acting with said lug to hold the frame in printing position, and a rotary ink pad mounted on a spindle in said casing, as and for the purpose set forth.



1,637,939. BOILER. WILL G. HOAGLAND, Independence, Kans. Filed Aug. 11, 1923. Serial No. 656,791. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—256.)

In a boiler of the character described, a mud ring, a longitudinally extending dome located above the mud ring at a point above the center thereof and of considerably less width than the mud ring, a plurality of upright pipes connected with the sides of the mud ring and terminating in horizontal inward extensions leading into the opposite sides of the dome, a steam outlet at the center of the top of the dome, a circulating pipe connecting the mud ring and the dome at one end of the latter and equipped with a water inlet, and a plurality of series of tubes arranged in interfitting relation, there being two banks or series of tubes for each pair of upright pipes, one bank or series of tubes of each pair connecting at one end with the lower portion of one upright pipe and at the other end with the upper portion of the opposite upright pipe, said upright pipes being provided with partitions between the connections of the banks of tubes therewith, and the tubes of one bank or series being offset to be out of alinement with those of the other series to avoid the same.

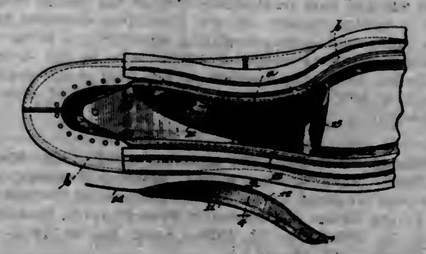
1,637,940. HOG WATER FOUNTAIN. MATHIAS J. HOSCH, Randolph, Nebr. Filed Sept. 12, 1924. Serial No. 737,367. 4 Claims. (Cl. 119—78.)

1. A fountain having a partition defining a water pan, a mud pan in said water pan providing an auxiliary bottom, means by which the mud pan may be lifted out including a bail, and means carried by the bail arranged to be moved into engagement with a portion of the adjacent partition to lock the mud pan in place.

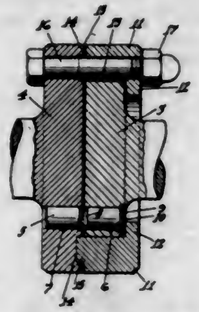
1,637,941. VAPOR-UTILIZING DEVICE. IRVING JAY HUNTER, Medina, N. Y. Filed Oct. 7, 1925. Serial No. 61,060. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—119.)



1. In combination with the intake manifold, throttle control mechanism and breather pipe of an internal combustion engine, a member mounted upon the open upper end of the breather pipe and provided with a lateral extension having a passage therein communicating with a port in its upper surface, a cap normally closing said member, a valve member rotatably mounted upon said lateral extension and operatively connected with the throttle control mechanism of the carbureter, said rotary member having a passage on its face engaging the lateral extension of said member, said lateral extension having a second port therein, a tubular conduit connected and communicating with said second named port and with the intake manifold of the engine, the passage in said rotary member being adapted to be brought more or less into registration with both of said ports.

1,637,942. PUMP. JOHN SAMUEL HUNTER, Coalinga, Calif. Filed Mar. 1, 1926. Serial No. 91,548. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—181.)

A device of the class described, comprising a barrel and a casing wherein the barrel is seated against downward movement, a ring, means for detachably mounting the ring in the casing, in accessible relation to one end of the casing, a spring keeper secured at its upper end rigidly to the ring, the lower end of the keeper being provided with a recess that receives the end of the barrel, an inwardly extended lug on the lower end of the keeper and disposed above the recess, a pumping plunger slidable in the barrel, an operating member carrying the plunger, the barrel being provided with a projection which the plunger engages to raise the barrel when the operating member is raised beyond the limit of a pumping stroke, and a releaser on the operating member and engaging the lug on the keeper to flex the keeper and disengage the recess from the upper end of the barrel when the operating member is raised sufficiently.



1,637,943. SHANK STIFFENER FOR SHOES. JACOB F. JONAS, Bellevue, Ky., assignor to The Krippendorf-Dittman Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 18, 1921. Serial No. 462,132. 1 Claim. (Cl. 36—76.)

In a shoe, a shank stiffener having angularly disposed inner and outer surfaces merging in a curved line lengthwise of the shank stiffener with the terminals of the curved line at the inner side of the shank member, the outer surface arcuate longitudinally and the inner surface inclined relative to the outer surface and arcuate longitudinally.

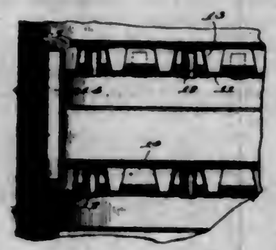
1,637,944. COUPLING DEVICE. ALFRED R. KELLER, Worcester, Mass., assignor to Morgan Construction Company, Worcester, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed July 22, 1925. Serial No. 45,332. 6 Claims. (Cl. 64—105.)

1. In a safety coupling device of the class described, alined shaft sections provided with end flanges of different diameter in abutting relation, driving pins extending through said flanges, and a member carried by the larger of said flanges for inclosing the smaller flange and for holding said pins against longitudinal movement.

1,637,945. VENEER DRIER. FREDERICK KENSHAW, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Proctor & Schwartz, Incorporated, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,410. 1 Claim. (Cl. 34—12.)

The combination in a drier, of a casing; two vertically arranged longitudinal partitions therein separating a central drying chamber from side circulating chambers; two horizontal partitions separating the drying chamber from upper and lower circulating passages; fans in one of the vertical partitions; means for driving the fans so that air will pass transversely through the drying chamber, returning through the side circulating chambers and the upper and lower circulating chambers; a series of endless conveyors extending horizontally in the drying chamber; and steam heating pipes located in the drying chamber between the upper and lower runs of certain conveyors.



1,637,946. METHOD OF MAKING IMITATION MARBLE. KARL RUDOLF KNOFE, Dresden, Germany, assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-half to Trygve Mamen and one-half to John Edwards, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Feb. 27, 1926. Serial No. 91,119½. 3 Claims. (Cl. 18—48.8.)

1. A method of making imitation marble which comprises forming a mold with a glass bottom, coating the bottom of the mold in colors, applying a layer of different colors to produce veining on the coating, throwing in a preconcreting mixture with considerable force to spread the veins and the colors and then pouring in a body layer of concrete drying the product in the mold for about twenty-four hours under heat and then removing the product from the mold and drying it in the air for two days, then impregnating the product with a water-proofing solution and then allowing it to dry for one day.

1,637,947. SEPARATOR. MEINHARD H. KOTZEBUE, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Apr. 21, 1926. Serial No. 103,550. 3 Claims. (Cl. 261—114.)

2. In a separator for separating gasoline from natural gas having a tray therein and means in connection with the tray providing for the upward passage of gas therethrough, means arranged to define a level on the tray for a gasoline absorbing medium, and means consisting of a series of layers of reticulate material supported in connection with the tray above the level of the gasoline absorbing medium and arranged to produce and support foam whereby to increase the surface contact between the gas and the gasoline absorbing medium, as described.

1. In a hose supporter, a gripping member including a base plate formed at one end with a turned over flattened section presenting a resilient gripping portion and at the other end with portions bent back on the plate to a point substantially centrally of the plate, a pair of ears extending from said last mentioned portions, a clamping plate formed with a pair of ears positioned to register with the first mentioned ears, and a turned over flattened section co-acting with the turned over flattened section of the base plate, a pintle for connecting said ears together, and a spring for causing said clamping plate to function.

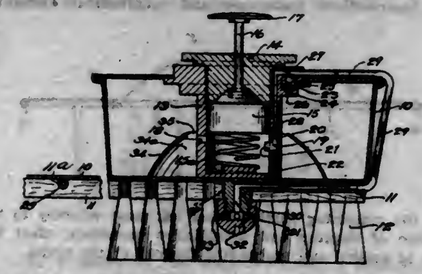
1,637,949. BOILER TOOL. HARRY ANTHONY LACERDA, Watervliet, N. Y. Filed Feb. 18, 1926. Serial No. 89,125. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—53.)

1. A tool of the character described, comprising a socket member adapted to be removably coupled to a rotary driving means, a head member removably coupled to the socket member and having an enlarged externally screw-threaded portion intermediate its ends, and an internally screw-threaded coupling sleeve adapted to couple a stay-bolt socket to said head, said head at its forward end adapted to engage within the stay-bolt socket and prevent contact of the end of the stay-bolt socket with said head member.



1,637,950. COMBINATION RANGE. HENRY LANGE, Quincy, Ill. Filed June 10, 1925. Serial No. 36,227. 18 Claims. (Cl. 126—39.)

1,637,951. DISPENSING DEVICE. LEWIS MARCHIONE, Medford, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Heaney Mfg. Co., Boston, Mass., a Corporation. Filed May 28, 1923. Serial No. 642,013. 1 Claim. (Cl. 221—80.)

A device of the character described having in combination, an air tight liquid container; a piston pump within said container; a delivery conduit connected with the outlet of said pump; a piston-operated valve controlling the outlet of said pump; a relief port communicating at one end with said conduit and at its other end with the interior of said container above the level of the liquid contained therein, and a check valve controlling said port, said valve opening toward said conduit.

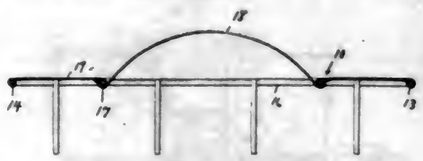
1,637,952. LOCOMOTIVE. OLIVER MARGETSON and PERCY GRIERSON ROBINSON, London, England. Filed Mar. 26, 1923, Serial No. 627,849, and in Great Britain Apr. 13, 1922. 16 Claims. (Cl. 105—62.)

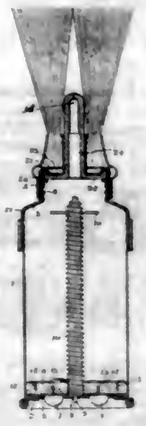
1. An internal combustion locomotive comprising a plurality of oppositely disposed horizontal internal combustion engines and a plurality of oppositely disposed horizontal steam engines operating on a common crank shaft geared to an intermediate crank shaft, a plurality of pairs of road wheels having crank pins connected by common coupling rods, the internal combustion engines and the steam engines being arranged as pairs having a common piston rod, and the crank pins on the intermediate shaft operating directly in the coupling rods of the road wheels.

1,637,953. CYLINDER LOCK. MAXWELL C. MAXWELL, Stamford, Conn., assignor to The Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, Stamford, Conn. Filed Aug. 2, 1926. Serial No. 126,556. 3 Claims. (Cl. 70—46.)



1. The combination of a cylinder and a rotary member therein, said cylinder and member having parts formed with mating grooves and said cylinder having a tangential hole, and a fixed, continuous securing member occupying said mating grooves and extending into said tangential hole.

1,637,954. AEROPLANE WING. FRED E. MCGRATH, Clarksburg, Mass. Filed Oct. 26, 1925. Serial No. 64,943. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)



1. In an aeroplane wing, a trapezoidal shaped frame including longitudinal and transverse elements, a fabric covering on the upper and lower sides of the frame, a portion of the covering being omitted at one side between the intermediate transverse and longitudinal elements and the remaining portion being left loose whereby to be capable of bagging and providing a parachute effect in case of sudden and unexpected descent of the plane.

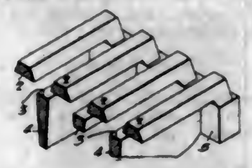
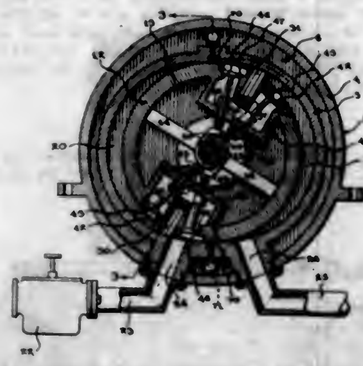
1,637,955. TUBULAR DISPENSER. FRANK MCLAUGHLIN, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Feb. 28, 1924. Serial No. 695,856. 3 Claims. (Cl. 221—79.)



1. A dispensing container, comprising a tubular member, a rotatable member closing the bottom of said tubular member and having a slot arranged centrally thereof, a spindle having a flat projection extending into said slot and withdrawable thereon through the rotation of said rotatable member, a piston threaded on said spindle, and resilient means for closing the outer end of the container.

1,637,956. TESTING APPARATUS. JOHN HENRY MORIARITY, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to The Barber Asphalt Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 1, 1925. Serial No. 33,988. 6 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)



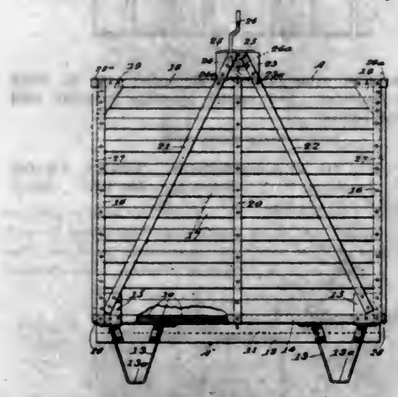
1. An apparatus for tube testing, including in combination, a pair of abutments integral with a common base between which the tube is supported, said abutments comprising co-axially aligned trammel projections one of which is adjustable relative to the other adapted to engage within the ends of the tube and to seal the same; and means for supplying a pressure medium to the interior of the tube while thus supported.

1,637,957. GRATE BAR. ABRAM C. MOTT, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Abram Cox Stove Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 7, 1925. Serial No. 21,304. 3 Claims. (Cl. 126—167.)

1. A grate bar made of a single casting and having two series of spaced longitudinal ribs on different planes, the lower surfaces of one series being above the upper surfaces of the other series, the ribs of the upper series being above the spaces between the ribs of the lower series; and end sections at the ends of said ribs formed integrally therewith.

1,637,958. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. FREDERICK M. NEWSON, Salt Lake City, Utah. Filed Jan. 13, 1926. Serial No. 81,050. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—16.)

2. A rotary internal combustion engine including a stationary casing, a rotor operating in the casing and co-acting therewith to define an intake and compression chamber and a working chamber, sliding vanes mounted on the rotor co-operable with the casing and operating in said chambers, said rotor having a chamber therein associated with each vane and extending on the opposite sides of its vane, said rotor having an inlet opening in advance of each vane leading into the adjacent chamber in the rotor and also having an outlet opening behind each vane leading out of the adjacent chamber, an inlet valve co-operable with the inlet opening, an outlet valve co-operable with the outlet opening, spring means for closing the valves, and means for positively opening the valves at the proper time in the cycle of operation.



1,637,959. WINDOW-PANE FASTENER. FRANK S. OSBORN, Shinglehouse, Pa. Filed Mar. 21, 1927. Serial No. 177,079. 1 Claim. (Cl. 20—56.4.)

A glazing means comprising a strip of angle shape in cross section, with its edges curved inwardly so that the major portion of the strip will be spaced from the pane and its frame when the strip is in position, a strip of flexible material occupying part of the space and bearing against the pane, the corners of the strips being pushed outwardly at intervals to form flattened portions which are perforated, washer plates covering the flattened portions and having inwardly bent ends for fitting in the corner of the angle strip and screws passing through the washer plates and the perforations in the flattened portions for holding the parts in position.

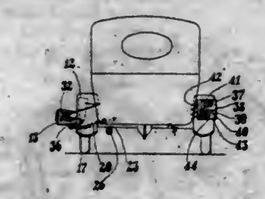
1,637,960. PORTABLE RACK. ROBERT T. ROMINE, Mount Clemens, Mich. Original application filed Jan. 26, 1926, Serial No. 83,947. Divided and this application filed Nov. 10, 1926. Serial No. 147,459. 8 Claims. (Cl. 294—67.)

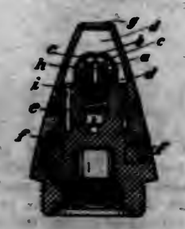


1. In a platform rack the combination of a load supporting floor, a container frame-work mounted on said floor, a pair of trusses extending beneath said floor, one at each longitudinal side thereof, each truss being angular in cross section and supporting the floor, leg supports connected to said trusses, a pair of bars at each side of the rack extending upwardly in converging relation and connected at their lower ends to opposite ends of one of the trusses, and means for connecting a hoisting mechanism to the upper converging ends of said bars whereby the upward lifting strain will be transmitted to said trusses.

1,637,961. DRAWING OF GLASS IN SHEET FORM AND APPARATUS THEREFOR. EUGÈNE ROWART, Auvelais, Belgium, assignor to Pilkington Brothers Limited, Liverpool, England, a Limited Liability Company of Great Britain. Filed Feb. 26, 1924, Serial No. 695,254, and in Belgium Mar. 5, 1923. 23 Claims. (Cl. 49—17.)

22. The process of drawing sheet glass, which comprises drawing the main body of the sheet and the two edge portions from separate sources.

1,637,962. AUTOMOBILE SIGNAL DEVICE. ADALBERTO SANCHEZ, Kingman, Ariz. Filed Jan. 22, 1926. Serial No. 82,987. 3 Claims. (Cl. 116—53.)

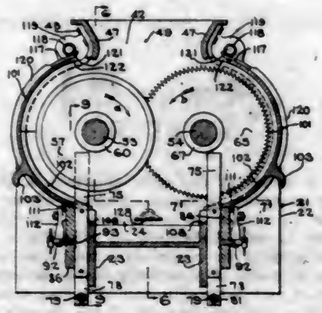


1. In a device of the class described, a plurality of pivotally mounted indicators disposed under the rear fender of an automobile, a plurality of operating levers connected to said indicators, a plurality of resilient members adapted to retain said indicators under said fender, a plurality of telescoping shafts mounted beneath the floor of said automobile and extending from the rear thereof to a position forward of the driver's seat, and foot pedals attached to said telescoping shafts for rotating the same to actuate said levers for causing said indicating members to be rotated from beneath said fender to a conspicuous position.

1,637,963. PHOSPHORESCENT LUMINOUS ENAMEL. FERNAND SAUVAGE, Paris, France. Filed Sept. 21, 1925. Serial No. 57,795, and in France Oct. 4, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 91—70.)

A method of rendering objects luminous in the dark consisting in coating the objects with layers of a mixture of a varnish and phosphorescent zinc sulphide, and drying the article after each coating at a temperature of about 65° C. and increasing the temperature by 10° after the application of each layer.

1,637,964. FUSE FOR PROJECTILES. VALENTIN SCHLAFER, Sommerda, Germany, assignor to Rheinische Metall-Waaren- und Maschinenfabrik, Dusseldorf-Derendorf, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Nov. 19, 1924, Serial No. 750,894, and in Germany Dec. 1, 1923. 7 Claims. (Cl. 102—36.)



1. A fuse for projectiles for firing at objects at great heights comprising a fuse body having an opening therein which leads by means of a passage to the fuse composition; a thin plate in the forward end of said opening; and means for automatically breaking said plate when the projectile is fired in order to allow the atmosphere to penetrate into the fuse body and to the fuse composition by means of said passage.

1,637,965. HASHING MACHINE. OSCAR C. SCHMIDT and AUGUST G. KLAWITTER, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignors to The Cincinnati Butchers' Supply Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Sept. 29, 1924. Serial No. 740,444. 11 Claims. (Cl. 146—122.)

5. In a hashing machine of the character described, the combination of a plurality of sets of rotatable spaced hashing blades, shafts on which said blades of said respective sets are located, said shafts located in substantially similar horizontal planes, means for rotating said sets of blades toward each other at their upper portions, spaced-apart combs below said shafts for said respective sets of blades, a hopper above the inner portions of said sets of blades, and arcuate doors extending substantially the distance between said hopper and said respective combs about the outer arcs of said respective sets of blades.

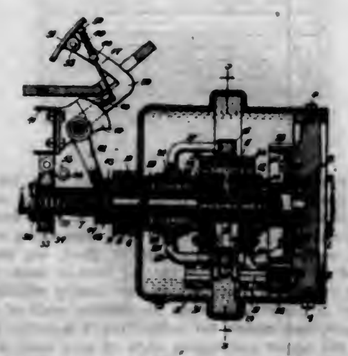
1,637,966. SELF-LUBRICATING BEARING. ADOLPH H. SINGELMANN, Newburgh, N. Y. Filed June 26, 1924. Serial No. 722,501. 2 Claims. (Cl. 308—238.)

1. A shaft bearing comprising a skeleton cage through which the shaft passes, said cage embodying a pair of spaced rings and a circular series of rods rigidly connecting said rings and arranged in uniformly spaced parallel relation, radially slidable bearing strips fitted in the spaces between the rods and projecting inwardly of the rods and the rings with their inner longitudinal edges conforming to and engaging the shaft, the outer edges of said rods being inwardly of the outer peripheries of said rings and the outer edges of said bearing strips, and a band encircling the bearing strips between the rings to maintain said bearing strips in engagement with the shaft.



1,637,967. MEASURING CAN FILLER. THOMAS SHIPLEY, York, Pa., assignor to Shipley Patent Corporation, York, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 10, 1924. Serial No. 719,154. 6 Claims. (Cl. 226—105.)

1. In a liquid measuring device, the combination of a plurality of measuring chambers having overflow connection with each other above the normal lever of the measured charge of liquid therein; a liquid supply delivering to said chambers; an automatic level controlled valve subject to the level in said chambers and arranged to shut off said supply when the liquid level reaches a definite height above said overflow connections; displacement bodies movable into and out of said chambers and arranged to raise the level of the measured charge of liquid by displacement from below said connections to a level above the same when said bodies are in their displacing positions; and means operable to shift said displacement bodies.

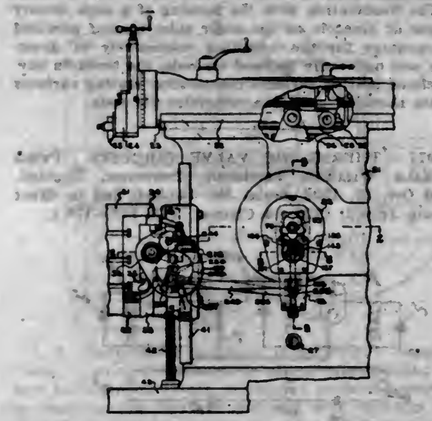
1,637,968. FLUID TRANSMISSION. MAYROE DEXTER SIMPSON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 19, 1927. Serial No. 185,025. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)



1. A fluid transmission, including a casing adapted to be filled with fluid, a gear in the casing fixed to turn with the drive shaft, and a driven shaft projecting into the casing and having a longitudinal bore therein, a cylinder block mounted to turn with the driven shaft and having a cylinder therein, a crank shaft carried by the block, a plunger in the cylinder operatively connected to the crank shaft, a pinion on said crank shaft engaging the gear, a jacket around a portion of said driven shaft, said driven shaft having within said jacket a series of by-pass ports communicating with the bore thereof, a valve movable in the bore of the driven shaft and adapted to open and close said by-pass ports, and inlet and outlet check valves communicating with said cylinder, the outlet ports communicating with the jacket, and the bore of said driven shaft having open communication with the interior of the casing.

1,637,969. FEEDING MECHANISM FOR METAL-WORKING MACHINERY. AUGUSTUS M. SOSA, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The American Tool Works Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 21, 1924. Serial No. 727,104. 22 Claims. (Cl. 90—39.)

3. In feeding mechanism of the character described, the combination of a feeding assembly comprising a normally stationary member and a movable member and having a point for power reception, power applying means having a point for power application, adjusting means for said feeding assembly for qualifying the distance between said points, said power applying means including a normally stationary member and a movable member, automatic resilient yielding means permitting automatic yielding between said last-named members and causing automatic return to substantially normal relation between said last-named members, means connecting said normally stationary members, and connecting means between said movable members.

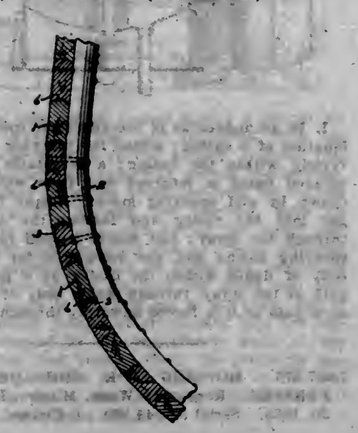
1,637,970. CAR-TRUCK SIDE FRAME. HARRY WALTER STREITBACH and MERRITT RASMUS HANSEN, Columbus, Ohio, assignors to The Buckeye Steel Castings Company, Columbus, Ohio. Filed Mar. 11, 1925. Serial No. 14,782. 3 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)

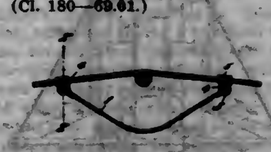
1. A cast side frame for car trucks including a tension member, a spring seat merging into the tension member, a column rising vertically from the spring seat at the junction of the same with the tension member, and longitudinally extending depending side walls on the bottom of the spring seat, said walls being offset relative to the sides of the column.

1,637,971. AUTOMOBILE AWNING. LEO O. STRUBLE and CHARLES E. HANLY, Salina, Kans. Filed Mar. 1, 1927. Serial No. 171,809. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—44.)



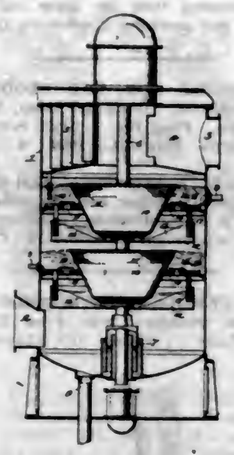
1. In an awning, a combined support and pivot element for a spring controlled roller and an adjustable carrier for a flexible awning body winding on and off said roller, said element having its outer end provided with a loop and a right angularly disposed part at the inner end of the loop terminating in a loop disposed at right angles to the other loop to provide a support for a pintle of the roller, and said element further having its inner end formed with a loop and a right angularly disposed part extending from the inner end of the last mentioned loop and providing a pivot for the carrier.

1,637,972. PROCESS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF ETHYL CHLORIDE. HERMANN SUIDA, Modling, near Vienna, Austria. Filed Feb. 3, 1925, Serial No. 6,651, and in Austria Feb. 11, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 260—166.)



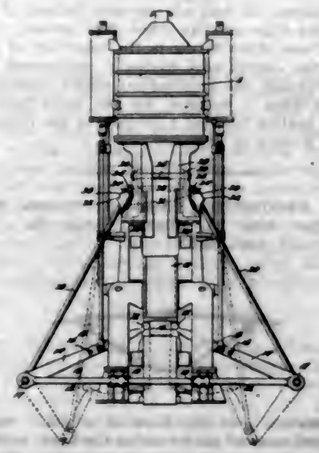
1. Process for the manufacture of ethyl chloride which comprises combining ethylene and dry hydrochloric acid gas with the aid of catalysts at superatmospheric pressure and temperatures not exceeding 10° C.

1,637,973. BOAT-HULL CONSTRUCTION. CHRISTIAN J. THOMPSON, Peshtigo, Wis. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,358. 1 Claim. (Cl. 114—82.)



A ship having its hull planks each formed of a concavity in one edge and its other edge convex, the convex edge of one plank fitting in the concavity of another plank and the convex edge having a compressed portion extending through the longitudinal center thereof which will expand when it becomes wet the outer face of the compressed portion forming a portion of the convex edge before said portion is expanded.

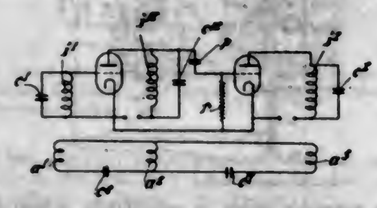
1,637,974. PROTECTOR. JOHN T. TURNER, Exmore, Va. Filed May 26, 1926. Serial No. 111,790. 1 Claim. (Cl. 180—69.01.)



In combination with the hood of a motor vehicle, a trough-shaped member placed under the hinge part of the hood for receiving water dripping through the hinge, said member having a tubular part at each side edge thereof, a coiled spring in each tubular part and a hook at each end of each spring, said hooks projecting from the ends of the tubular parts and engaging end portions of the hood to hold the device on the hood.

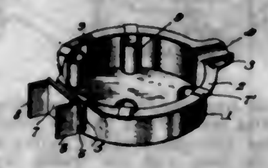
1,637,975. LIQUID AND GAS CONTACT APPARATUS. FREDERICK H. WAGNER, Baltimore, Md., assignor to The Bartlett Hayward Company, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed June 17, 1925. Serial No. 37,796. 8 Claims. (Cl. 261—91.)

1. In an apparatus of the character specified, the combination of a casing; means for spraying a liquid transversely within the casing; a receptacle to which the sprayed liquid is returned and from which it is withdrawn by and spraying means; means for introducing gas into the casing and forcing the same upwardly through the spray; and means located intermediate the spraying means and the receptacle for maintaining a body of liquid within the casing at a point below the path of the spray, through which body of liquid the gas must pass as it is forced upwardly through the casing.



1,637,976. HOUSING FOR HIGH-DENSITY COMPRESSES. ROBERT D. WEBB, Minden, La. Filed July 20, 1925. Serial No. 44,860. 6 Claims. (Cl. 100—9.)

2. The combination with a high density compress having a housing and a pair of heel pins, of a pair of tie rods attached at one end to said heel pins, and a bracket on each side of said housing, to receive the other ends of said tie rods, an abutment on each bracket, and means cooperating with each tie rod for transmitting pressure from said heel pin to said abutment, said means being adjustable to vary the length of said rod.

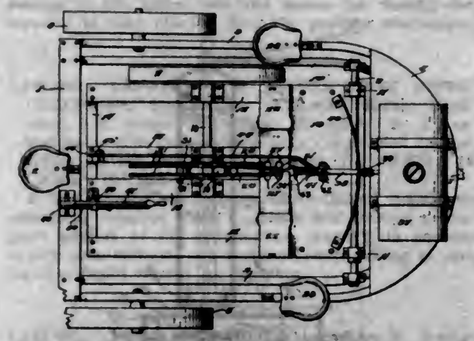


4. The combination with the housing of a high density compress of brackets on the outer sides thereof provided with openings for the reception respectively of downwardly and outwardly inclined tie rods, the brackets having inclined bearing surfaces constituting seating surfaces for nuts threaded upon the respective tie rods.

1,637,977. THERMIONIC VALVE CIRCUITS. PETER WILLIAM WILLANS, Pattishall, Towcester, England. Filed Oct. 27, 1926, Serial No. 144,554, and in Great Britain July 2, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 179—171.)

1. In a thermionic valve amplifier comprising inductances respectively connected in plate and grid circuits and in which capacitative coupling exists between certain of the amplifier elements, means for neutralising said capacitative coupling, said means comprising auxiliary inductances and a condenser connected in a closed circuit said auxiliary inductances being electromagnetically, coupled respectively to said plate and grid circuit inductances.

1,637,978. SMOKER'S TRAY. CHARLES EDWARD ANDERSON, Sioux Falls, S. Dak. Filed Aug. 27, 1926. Serial No. 131,977. 2 Claims. (Cl. 131—51.)



1. A smoker's tray, constructed of metal having bendable extensions on the mouth thereof which merge into lateral projections, designed to be folded upon themselves to provide tubes that are received in the tray when the extensions are bent over the mouth of the tray.

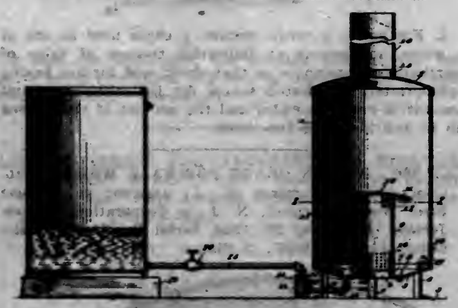
1,637,979. ARTICULATED CONNECTING ROD. GLENN D. ANGLE, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 19, 1926. Serial No. 123,550. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—17.)

3. The combination with a connecting rod and cap, of link pins mounted therein and cap securing bolts intersecting said pins and locking the same in place.

1,637,980. PLANTER. EDGAR ARNOLD, Kent, Ohio. Filed Aug. 17, 1925. Serial No. 50,730. 2 Claims. (Cl. 111—3.)

1. A plant-setting machine comprising a supporting frame, a pair of transversely alined plant-holding members having downwardly converging portions terminating in abutting stop lips and provided with openings therethrough at said lips, means for yieldably holding the opposed converging portions of said members in contact whereby to support a plant, and a plurality of pairs of normally open plant-clasping fingers arranged to ride upon and between said plant-holding members to engage the plant and remove the same, said fingers being provided with forwardly projecting spurs to enter the openings in the plant-holding members whereby to avoid dislodgment of the plant prior to its clasping by the fingers.

1,637,981. PICTURE HANGER. DONALD C. BALDWIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 31, 1925. Serial No. 78,712. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—143.8.)



1. As a new article of manufacture, a picture hanger composed of a sheet metal body having means at one end to suspend the same from a support and an opposite upwardly directed free rebent end forming a seat, and a series of adjacent substantially aligned projections at the rear of and above said seat and having broad bases with biting edges at the opposite sides of the body, said projections having free ends extended upward substantially parallel to and spaced from said rebent end and the body to form a plurality of wire receiving seats.

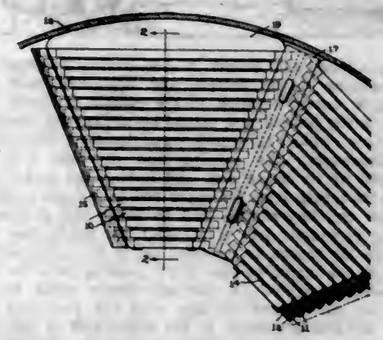
1,637,982. DUSTLESS ASH SYSTEM. HERMAN P. BANNINGA, Muskegon, Mich. Filed Oct. 2, 1926. Serial No. 139,150. 1 Claim. (Cl. 299—121.)

A nozzle having a tubular body with two forwardly projecting curved flanges of unequal extent in the axial direction of said body, said flanges cooperating to partially define an enlarged continuation of the bore of said body, said flanges being spaced to form slots communicating with said bore continuation, a removable core snugly fitting and closing the inner end portion of the bore of said body, and spaced from the wall of the outer end portion of said bore, and carrying at its outer end an outwardly flaring head disposed within the said enlarged continuation of said bore and of greater diameter than that of the bore of said body, the inner end of said core being tubular with lateral outlets leading to the space between said core and the wall of the bore thru said body.

1,637,983. ORCHARD HEATER. JOSEPH CHARLES BECKLEY, Tampa, Fla. Filed Dec. 6, 1924. Serial No. 754,383. 2 Claims. (Cl. 158—91.)

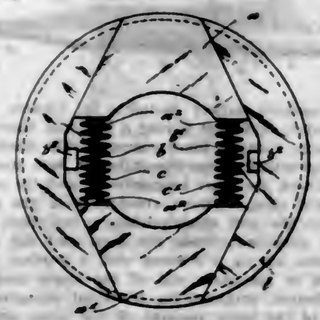
1. In a liquid fuel burner, a shell having a central air inlet opening in its bottom and supported with the opening in spaced relation to the ground, a liquid fuel trough in the bottom and extending around the opening, and an air conduit extending vertically from the bottom and surrounding the opening and provided with an air outlet at its upper end, and having the major portion of its length from its upper end to a point adjacent its lower end imperforate, and its lower end perforated whereby to radiate jets of air over the liquid fuel contained in the trough to generate gas in the lower end of the shell, the major volume of air passing into the conduit being preheated by the imperforate walls of the latter for mixing and burning with the generated gas as the air and gas unite at the upper end of the conduit and thereby insure combustion of substantially all of the volatile products of the gas.

1,637,984. SMOKER'S ARTICLE. GOTTLIEB BESSEMER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 16, 1925. Serial No. 15,947. 2 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)



1. A smoker's article including a tobacco bowl, a stem therefor, said stem having a partition therein dividing the same into an inner comparatively small and an outer comparatively large compartment, said stem having a port between the inner compartment and the outer surface of said stem, a sleeve arranged over the stem and with which the port communicates to establish a smoke conveying passage between the stem and the sleeve, a mouth piece having a reduced end, a portion of which is screwed in the outer end of the sleeve and the extremity thereof, arranged for frictional engagement with the bore of the outer passage of the stem, said mouth piece having an outlet smoke port communicating with the said outer compartment of the stem, and having ducts arranged to the opposite sides of the port and establishing smoke passages between the outer end of the sleeve and the outer compartment of the stem.

1,637,985. MERCANTILE CREDIT FORM. DANIEL L. CLINE, Medford, Okla. Filed May 5, 1926. Serial No. 106,856. 2 Claims. (Cl. 283—59.)



1. For use in a credit system, a check used as one of a series, and having an indication thereon of value of merchandise obtainable on that check, and further having appropriately designated spaces for indicating the total amount of credit extended and the amount of credit used up to and including the check.

1,637,986. SCREEN GRATE FOR BALL MILLS. WILLIAM CURRIE, Carteret, N. J., assignor to Chrome Steel Works, Carteret, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 20, 1924, Serial No. 714,651. Renewed June 25, 1927. 3 Claims. (Cl. 209—393.)

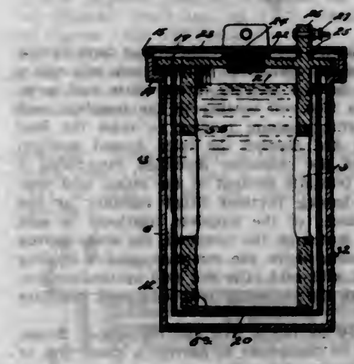
1,637,987. PISTON. ALEXANDER GARDEN DUNBAR, Glasgow, Scotland. Filed Dec. 5, 1925, Serial No. 73,485, and in Great Britain Jan. 9, 1925. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)

1. A packing for pistons comprising two diametrically opposite segmental sections of wedge formation, two helical parallel springs acting on said sections, and two diametrically opposite segments to co-operate with said wedge segmental sections.

1,637,988. SIGN. PATRICK D. EGAN, Fort Smith, Ark. Filed Sept. 12, 1925. Serial No. 56,068. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—33.)

2. In combination, a horizontally disposed elongated casing, means for supporting it adjacent a vertical wall, a horizontal bracket secured to said wall above the casing, and spaced therefrom, a vertically disposed casing rotatably mounted upon the horizontal casing and positioned between the latter and the bracket, display matter in the walls of the upper casing, a shaft arranged centrally within the vertical casing and journaled in the bracket, a bearing for said shaft arranged in the lower casing, an electric motor positioned in the last mentioned casing, a gear carried by said shaft and rotated from said motor, lamps arranged in the upper casing and included in a circuit, a rotary insulating member carried by the shaft and operating within the lower casing, rings carried by said member and electrically connected with said lamps, and brushes supported in contact with said rings and electrically connected with a current supply.

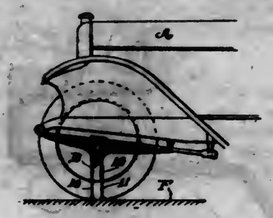
1,637,989. MACHINE FOR MAKING GLASS MOUNTS. CHARLES EISLER, Newark, N. J. Filed Mar. 5, 1926. Serial No. 92,471. 1 Claim. (Cl. 176—3.)



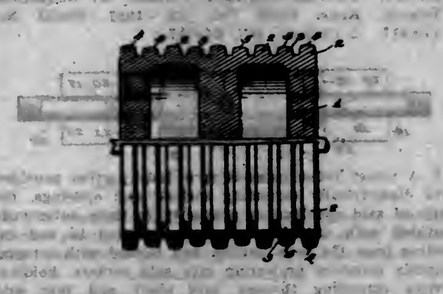
In a head for glass-mount making machines of the type in which portions of suitably held inner and outer tubes are heated at adjacent ends and the joint completed by the operation of a pressing mechanism, the combination with the pressing mechanism of a movable mandrel conical at its end to engage the heated interior surface of the inner tube and means for moving the mandrel in time relation with the pressing mechanism.

1,637,990. RECOVERY OF VALUES FROM NITROCELLULOSE MATERIAL. CARLETON ELLIS, Montclair, and HARRY M. WEBER, Bloomfield, N. J., assignors to Ellis-Foster Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 468,139. 14 Claims. (Cl. 252—1.)

1. The process of treating nitrocellulose compounds containing camphor which comprises first forming a complete solution of the nitrocellulose material in aqueous caustic soda material and in subsequently adding to said liquid a liquid solvent for camphor.



1,637,991. PRIMARY BATTERY. GEORGE S. ENGLE, Washington, D. C. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,875. 4 Claims. (Cl. 136—83.)

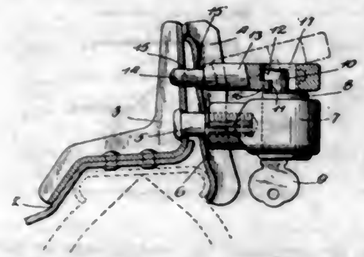


1. In a primary battery, the combination of an outer gray cast-iron element providing the containing means for the battery and having an upper enlarged extremity to provide a circumferential supporting shoulder, an amorphous carbon element of less diameter and length than the cast-iron element, the amorphous carbon element having a top closure member extended outwardly beyond the element to form a supporting flange which is held by the shoulder of the cast-iron element, a fine wire gauze partition interposed between the sides and bottom of the cast-iron and amorphous carbon elements and also having an upper extremity engaging the said shoulder between the flange and the amorphous carbon element and said shoulder, a top cover for the battery provided with a central breathing opening, the top closure of the amorphous carbon element also having a central opening with a fine wire gauze plug inserted therein and forming means for breathing purposes, and a liquid alkaline electrolyte primarily introduced into the amorphous carbon element and passing from the latter through the filtering means to the cast-iron element, the electrolyte being introduced through the opening in the top closure member of the carbon element by removing the said plug.

1,637,992. TWO-PART TIE DOWN. EDWARD S. EVANS, Detroit, Mich. Filed Dec. 10, 1926. Serial No. 153,941. 3 Claims. (Cl. 189—32.)

2. A tie down of the type described comprising two parts formed of elongated material with one part longer than the other part, the longer part being adapted for engagement with a part of an automobile, and an anchoring foot for each part, the meeting ends of the two parts being overlapped and secured together against relative longitudinal movements.

1,637,993. MEANS FOR MATURING AND STABILIZING ROAD STRUCTURES. SAM EVERETT FINLEY, Atlanta, Ga. Filed June 23, 1926. Serial No. 118,048. 2 Claims. (Cl. 94—50.)

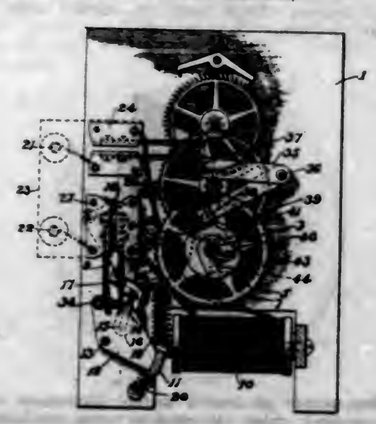


1. Means for maturing and stabilizing composite road structures, comprising a roller having continuous circumferential ribs in spaced relation and alternately varying heights on its periphery, the peripheral face of each rib being curved transversely.

1,637,994. JOINT FOR STUCCO BASES. CHARLES N. FORREST, Rahway, N. J., assignor to The Barber Asphalt Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Sept. 23, 1925. Serial No. 58,021. 3 Claims. (Cl. 72—124.)

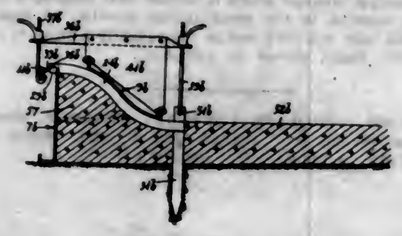
1. The method of joining gritted bituminous stucco sheets by direct union without intervening reinforcement which comprises applying cement to ungritted edges thereof, and uniting said sheets in planar relation by edge to edge adhesion.

1,637,995. LOCKED-NUT APPARATUS. CLARENCE A. GODSHALK, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 23, 1923. Serial No. 676,596. 15 Claims. (Cl. 70—90.)



14. The combination with a screw-threaded pin and a nut adapted to engage therewith, of a rigid part spaced transversely from the pin, and a key-operated lock supported in the nut and arranged to unite the nut and the said rigid part and thereby prevent rotation of the former.

1,637,996. POWER ROLLER. HARRY W. GUTTRIDGE, Liberal, Kans. Filed Feb. 25, 1927. Serial No. 170,917. 2 Claims. (Cl. 64—17.)



1. A power roller comprising a body portion provided with diametrically extending sockets and openings, the walls of said openings in proximity to their outer ends provided with shoulders, a shaft mounted in and extending from the body portion and formed with integral coupling members projecting into said sockets, holdfast devices extending through said shaft and into said openings and further abutting against the shoulders formed on the walls of the openings, said coupling members of a length to have their outer ends positioned inwardly of the outer ends of said sockets.

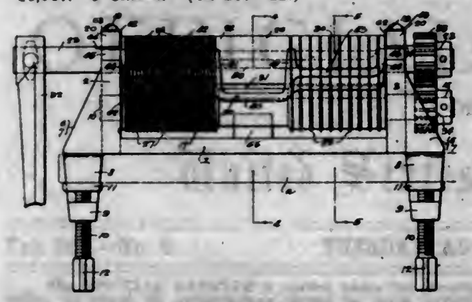
1,637,997. ELECTRIC SELF-WINDING CLOCK. CLAYTON S. HAM, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Aaron Turner, Oakland, Calif. Filed Jan. 17, 1925. Serial No. 3,073. 11 Claims. (Cl. 185—40.)

1. A self-winding spring-operated mechanism comprising the combination of a shaft and a coil spring having one end secured to the shaft, means loosely mounted on the shaft and having the other end of the spring connected thereto, electrically operated means cooperating with the first mentioned means to wind the spring, a switch for controlling the electrically operated means, means automatically operated by the shaft for closing the switch, and means cooperating with the first mentioned means for positively assuring that the switch will remain closed until the spring has been wound a predetermined amount.

1,637,998. CURB AND GUTTER FORM. JOHN N. HELTZEL, Warren, Ohio. Filed Jan. 31, 1927. Serial No. 164,820. 28 Claims. (Cl. 25—118.)

1. A holding device for a curb and gutter form having members adapted for connection with a back rail and a template of the form, a member intermediate said members to engage a face rail bearing on the template, and means for applying pressure tending to raise the first named members and depress the third named member.

25. A form of the character described comprising a rail, a stake, a template secured to the stake, said template and rail having portions fitted together by the downward movement of the template relatively to said rail, a face rail seated on the template, the stake having a portion extending above the template, and a holding device connected with said rails and said upstanding portion of the stake for clamping said rails and template together.

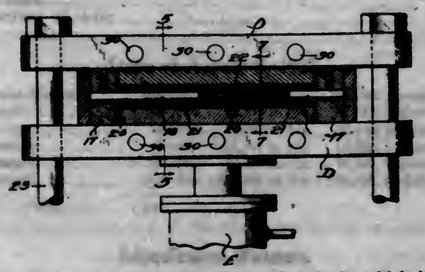


28. A form rail having a web and an uppper flange, with said flange so formed as to provide a single line of wheel contact directly above the web.

1,637,999. WHEEL ATTACHMENT FOR SLEDS. PAUL KILLINGER, Shippensburg, Pa. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,296. 1 Claim. (Cl. 280—8.)

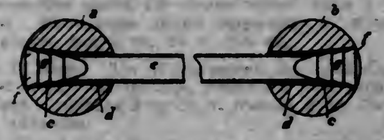
In combination with a sled having a body, runners, a cross bar connecting the forward ends of said runners, a handle bar above said cross bar, and a pivot pin connecting the handle bar with the cross bar, a turning bar rigidly secured to said handle bar and extending rearwardly therefrom at its point of pivotal mounting and projected downwardly, a brace pivoted to the forward end of said body and projecting forwardly over the forward end of said turning bar, said pin being extended through the forward end of said brace, wheel mountings pivotally mounted at opposite sides of the sled, arms extending forwardly from said mountings, a bar connecting said arms, and links connected to said connecting bar and extending forwardly and upwardly therefrom in converging relation to each other and connected to the rear end portion of said turning bar.

1,638,000. MACARONI MACHINE. GIULIO MERLONETTI, West Chester, Pa. Filed Feb. 16, 1926. Serial No. 88,647. 6 Claims. (Cl. 107—22.)



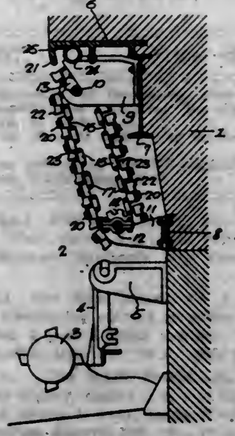
1. In a macaroni machine, the combination of a pair of co-operating rolls divided respectively into a sheet rolling section and a strip cutting section.

1,638,001. LIGHT-WEIGHT GYPSUM PRODUCT. HARRY E. BROOKBY, Evanston, Ill., assignor to United States Gypsum Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 583,040. 6 Claims. (Cl. 106—20.)



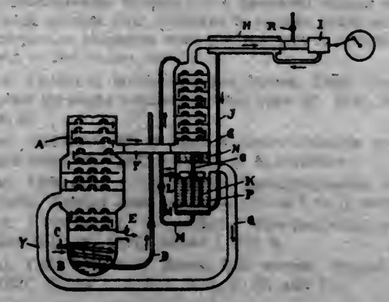
1. A dried light-weight cellular gypsum product comprising hydrated plaster of Paris as the major ingredient, and voids left by the contraction and drying of calcium caseinate contained therein.

1,638,002. METHOD OF MAKING PENCIL BODIES AND THE LIKE. JOHN P. LYNN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 4, 1926. Serial No. 126,977. 7 Claims. (Cl. 18—59.)



1. The method of forming a pencil body in which is a lined axial chamber at each end, which consists in extending a pair of aligned mandrels between a pair of die molds, in fitting upon each mandrel a sleeve, in placing between the molds on opposite sides of the sleeves strips of fusible material, and in then applying pressure and heat to the dies whereby to fuse in one operation the strips of material into an integral body in which the sleeves form linings for the end chambers thereof, substantially as described.

1,638,003. APPLIANCE FOR BODILY EXERCISE. BRUNO NEUMANN, Nuremberg, Germany. Filed Aug. 14, 1926, Serial No. 129,219, and in Germany Sept. 2, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 272—79.)



An appliance for bodily exercise, comprising in combination a rubber tube serving as an extensible member; two ball-shaped grips at either end of the said member; a bore provided in each of said grips and being partly cylindrical and partly outwardly flared; conical plugs provided with grooves fitted in the tube and adapted to serve as wedge members for fixing the extensible member in the said ball-shaped grips.

1,638,004. PROTECTIVE CURTAIN FOR FURNACES. JOHN L. SCHULTZ, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to American Engineering Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 3, 1923. Serial No. 649,237. 16 Claims. (Cl. 110—165.)

1. The combination in a furnace of a movable curtain structure positioned to constitute a portion of the furnace lining; and means for cooling said curtain structure.

1,638,005. PROCESS OF SEPARATION OF THE ELEMENTS OF AIR OR OF OTHER GASEOUS MIXTURES BY LIQUEFACTION AND RECTIFICATION. JEAN LE ROUGE, Boulogne, France, assignor to Societe l'Air Liquide (Societe Anonyme pour l'Etude et l'Exploitation des Procedes Georges Claude), Paris, France. Filed July 21, 1922, Serial No. 576,612, and in France Aug. 12, 1921. 22 Claims. (Cl. 183—115.)

1. A method of separating the constituents of a ternary gaseous mixture liquefying at low temperatures, which comprises subjecting the gaseous mixture to a primary rectification, withdrawing therefrom a gaseous mixture impoverished in the most volatile constituent, introducing this mixture in the gaseous phase to an auxiliary rectification, withdrawing the gaseous product of the auxiliary rectification, separating a portion of the most volatile constituent from the gaseous product, liquefying the remaining vapors and utilizing the liquid produced in the auxiliary rectification.

Adjudicated Patents.

(C. C. A. N. Y.) The Murray patent, No. 956,185, for electric cut-out, claim 5 Held valid and infringed. Metropolitan Device Corporation v. Williamsburg Electric Supply Co., 19 F. (2d) 442.

(C. C. A. N. Y.) The Palmer patent, No. 993,099, for electric-meter connection block in meter switch box, claim 3 Held valid and infringed and claim 6 Held not infringed. Metropolitan Device Corporation v. Williamsburg Electric Supply Co., 19 F. (2d) 442.

(C. C. A. N. Y.) The Palmer patent, No. 1,023,268, for case for electric-meter connection blocks, claim 4 Held valid and infringed. Metropolitan Device Corporation v. Williamsburg Electric Supply Co., 19 F. (2d) 442.

(C. C. A. N. Y.) The Palmer patent, No. 1,036,217, for protective casing for electric meter, claim 1 Held invalid. Metropolitan Device Corporation v. Williamsburg Electric Supply Co., 19 F. (2d) 442.

(D. C. Mich.) The Welch patent, No. 1,058,218, for method of finishing castings, claims 1–3 Held valid and infringed. American Plug Co. v. Hudson Motor Car Co., 19 F. (2d) 609.

(C. C. A. Calif.) The Crumrine patent, No. 1,099,281, for a fruit package, claim 3 Held invalid. California Fruit Growers' Exchange v. Blake, Moffitt & Towne, 19 F. (2d) 476.

(D. C. Conn.) The Kulp patent, No. 1,230,542, for a valve-spring lifter, claims 1–4 Held valid and infringed. Kulp v. Bridgeport Hardware Mfg. Corporation, 19 F. (2d) 689.

(D. C. Ill.) The Wahl patent, No. 1,479,496, for application of alternating current to power of driving hair clipper, claims 1 and 2 Held invalid. Wahl v. N. E. Norstrom Electric Mfg. Co., 19 F. (2d) 544.

(D. C. Ill.) The Wahl patent, No. 1,487,189, for electrical hair clipper, claims 2, 5, and 22 Held valid and infringed and claims 4, 9–11, 15–22 Held invalid. Wahl v. N. E. Norstrom Electric Mfg. Co., 19 F. (2d) 544.

(D. C. Md.) The Gibbs patent, No. 1,540,690, for animal traps, claims 14 and 15 Held invalid and claim 16 Held valid and infringed. Gibbs v. Montgomery Ward & Co., 19 F. (2d) 613.

(C. C. A. Kans.) The Crouse reissue patent, No. 15,432, for liquid-dispensing device, claim 5 Held not infringed. Wichita Visible Gasoline Pump Co. v. Clear Vision Pump Co., 19 F. (2d) 435.

Adverse Decisions in Interference.

In interferences involving the indicated claims of the following patents final decisions have been rendered that the respective patentees were not the first inventors with respect to the claims listed:

Pat. 1,516,020, McGlashan and Mayes, Body construction and toe-board bracket, decided June 27, 1927, claims 5 and 10.

Pat. 1,562,632, W. Weller, Voltage-regulating system, decided June 16, 1927, claims 1 to 3, inclusive.

Pat. 1,506,886, A. C. Stanley, Speed-increasing means for boats, decided June 29, 1927, claims 1 to 5 inclusive.

Pat. 1,603,144, S. D. Nichols, Shoe-fastening means, decided July 12, 1927, claims 1 and 2.

Pat. 1,606,590, L. L. Jones, Call system, decided July 22, 1927, claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, and 11.

Final decisions in interferences have been rendered against the following trade-marks:

T. M. 109,423, Eggs in cartons and cases, C. Schultz, New York, N. Y. Registered April 4, 1916. Decided July 2, 1927.

T. M. 186,811, Liquid for removing stains from wearing apparel, J. W. Rice, doing business as National Petroleum Products Company, San Francisco, Calif. Registered July 8, 1924. Decided June 23, 1927.

T. M. 198,086, Radio receiving sets, Triangle Electric Co., Chicago, Ill. Registered May 5, 1925. Decided June 23, 1927.

Condition of Applications Under Examination at Close of Business July 29, 1927.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES.

Amendments to the Rules of Practice.

Department of Commerce,
United States Patent Office,
Washington, July 28, 1927.

The Rules of Practice of the Patent Office are amended as follows.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

Rule 30, line 5, after "$20" insert and $1 for each claim in excess of twenty; line 7, cancel "(See rule 49.)" and insert (See rules 49 and 173.)

Rule 31, cancel the last paragraph and insert:

The application must be completed and prepared for examination within six months, as indicated above, and in default thereof, or upon the failure of the applicant to prosecute the same within six months after any action thereon (rule 77), of which notice shall have been duly mailed to him or his agent, the application will be regarded as abandoned, unless it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that such delay was unavoidable. (See rules 171 and 172.)

Where the day, or the last day, fixed by statute for taking any action or paying any fee falls on Sunday, or on a holiday within the District of Columbia, the action may be taken, or the fee paid, on the next succeeding secular or business day.

Rule 63, after paragraph (d) insert:

Where an applicant copies claims from a patent and the Examiner is of the opinion that he can make none of these claims, he should state in his action why he can not make the claims and set a time limit, not less than twenty days, for reply. If, after response by the applicant, the rejection is made final, a similar time limit should be set for appeal. Failure to respond or appeal, as the case may be, within the time fixed, will, in the absence of a satisfactory showing, be deemed a disclaimer of the invention claimed. (See rule 94.)

Cancel paragraph (f), effective January 1, 1928.

Cancel the last paragraph of the rule and insert:

Applications will not be advanced for examination excepting upon order of the Commissioner either to expedite the business of the Office or upon a verified showing which in the opinion of the Commissioner will justify so advancing it.

Rule 64, last paragraph, line 3, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 68, second paragraph, line 2, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 77, cancel first paragraph and insert:

77. If an applicant neglects to prosecute his application for six months after the date when the last official notice of any action by the Office was mailed to him, the application will be held to be abandoned, as set forth in rule 171.

Third paragraph, line 4, cancel "one year" and insert six months.

Rule 94, after first paragraph insert:

Where claims are copied from a patent and the Examiner is of the opinion that the applicant can make only some of the claims so copied, he shall notify the applicant to that effect, state why he is of the opinion he can not make the other claims and state further that the interference will be promptly declared and that the applicant can proceed under rule 109, if he further desires to contest his right to make the claims not included in the declaration of the interference.

Rule 109, last paragraph, after line 4, insert:

Any party to an interference may bring a motion to substitute any other application owned by him, as to the existing issue, or to include an application or a patent owned by him, as to claims which he deems should be made the basis of interference between himself and any of the other parties.

Rule 124, lines 6 and 7, cancel "Examiners in Chief in the first instance" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 126, lines 1 and 2, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 133, line 18, cancel "$10" and insert $15; line 19, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 134, last line, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 135, line 5, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 136, cancel.

Rule 137, cancel and insert therefor:

137. On filing of an appeal to the Board of Appeals a day of hearing will be fixed and due notice thereof given to the appellant. He shall on or before the day of hearing file a brief of the authorities and arguments on which he will rely to maintain his appeal.

Rule 139, cancel and insert therefor:

139. The Board of Appeals in its decision shall affirm or reverse the decision of the Primary Examiner only on the points on which appeal shall have been taken. (See rule 133.) Should it discover any apparent grounds not involved in the appeal for granting or refusing Letters Patent in the form claimed, or in any other form, it shall include in its decision a statement to that effect with its reasons for so holding.

This statement of the Board of Appeals, if adverse to applicant's right to a patent, will reopen the case for amendment or showing of facts, or both, before the Primary Examiner responsive thereto. The statement shall be binding upon the Primary Examiner unless an amendment or showing of facts not previously of record be made which, in the opinion of the Primary Examiner, avoids the additional grounds for refusal of the patent stated in the decision.

The applicant may waive the right to further prosecution before the Primary Examiner and have the case reconsidered by the Board of Appeals upon the same record. Where request for such reconsideration is made the Board of Appeals shall render a new decision which shall include all grounds upon which a patent is refused. The applicant may waive reconsideration by the Board of Appeals and treat the decision, including the added grounds for refusal of a patent given by the Board of Appeals, as a final decision in the case.

Should the decision of the Board of Appeals include a statement that the patent may be granted in amended form, applicant shall have the right to amend in conformity with such statement, which shall be binding on the Primary Examiner in the absence of new references or grounds of rejection.

Cases in which appeals were pending and heard before the Examiners in Chief prior to May 2, 1927, and in which appeal was taken from their decision to the Commissioner will be governed by the rules in effect on March 2, 1927.

Rule 140, cancel and insert therefor:

140. Cases which were decided by the Examiners in Chief or which have been decided by the Commissioner or by the Board of Appeals will not be reopened by the Primary Examiner, except under the provisions of rule 139, without the written authority of the Commissioner, and then only for the consideration of matters not already adjudicated upon, sufficient cause being shown (rule 68).

Rule 143, lines 2 and 3, cancel "Examiners in Chief and to the Commissioner" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 148, line 1, cancel "Commissioner" and insert Board of Appeals.

Rule 149, at the end thereof add the following:

If an applicant in an ex parte case appeals to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia he waives his right to proceed under section 4915 R. S.

If a defeated party to an interference proceeding appeals to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, his appeal will be dismissed if any adverse party to the interference shall, within twenty days after the appellant shall have filed notice of the appeal to the court, file notice with the Commissioner that he elects to have all further proceedings conducted as provided in section 4915 R. S. The notice of election must be served as provided in rule 154 (b) (see rule 153 (a)). If the appellant files a bill under section 4915 R. S. within thirty days after the notice of election, and files due proof thereof with the Commissioner of Patents, the issue of a patent to the party awarded priority by the Board of Appeals will be withheld pending final determination of the proceeding under section 4915 R. S.

From adverse decisions by the Board of Appeals, in both ex parte and contested cases, the appellant has the option of proceeding under section 4915 R. S. instead of appealing directly to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Rule 151, lines 1, 2, and 3, cancel "Commissioner at 10 o'clock a. m., and by the Board of Examiners in Chief at 1 o'clock p. m." and insert Board of Appeals at the hour stated in the notice.

Rule 153, line 5, after "office." insert:

A statement of the attorney attached to or appearing on the original papers when filed clearly stating the time and manner in which service was made will be accepted as prima facie proof of service.

Rule 166, line 4, cancel "one year" and insert six months.

Rule 171, lines 3 and 4, and line 5, cancel "one year" and insert six months.

Rule 175, cancel the last two sentences and insert therefor:

But any renewal application must be made within one year after the allowance of the original application. (If the notice of allowance is dated prior to May 2, 1927, the period is two years.)

Rule 191, cancel lines 3, 4, and 5, and insert therefor:

On filing each original application for a patent having
20 claims, or less, except in design cases	$20.00
For each additional claim	1.00
On filing each renewal application for a patent having
20 claims, or less, except in design cases	20.00
For each additional claim	1.00
On issuing each original patent having
20 claims, or less, except in design cases	20.00
For each additional claim	1.00

Lines 12 and 13, cancel "Examiners in Chief" and insert Board of Appeals; line 13, cancel "10.00" and insert 15.00; after line 13, insert,

On every appeal from the Examiner of Interferences to the Board of Appeals	25.00

Line 33, after "photo prints" insert or photostats; line 64, cancel "5.00" and insert 10.00; line 68, cancel "$5" and insert $10; line 73, cancel ".10" and insert .25; line 75, cancel ".05" and insert .10; after line 76, insert

Annual index relating to patents	1.00
Annual index relating to trade-marks	.50

Rule 196, second paragraph, line 2, cancel "$5" and insert $10; line 4, cancel "10" and insert 25; lines 9 and 10, cancel "which is sent to all subscribers without additional cost" and insert in two parts—one on patents, price $1.00, and the other on trade-marks, price 50 cents.

Disclaimers.

1,602,298.—Claude Bethel, Wilkinsburg, Pa. FLEXIBLE GEAR. Patent dated October 5, 1926. Disclaimer filed July 19, 1927, by the patentee, assignee, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, consenting.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to that part of the claim in said specification which is in the following words, to wit:

"1. A gear element comprising a hub and a rim member having spherical engaging faces and a flexible connection therefor, said hub and rim member being relatively movable independently of said flexible connection.

"2. A gear element comprising a hub and a rim member having spherical engaging faces and a flexible connection therefor, said hub having universal movement relatively to said rim member.

"3. A gear element comprising a hub and a rim member having spherical engaging faces and a flexible connection therebetween for permitting relative universal movement of said rim relative to the said shaft."

"7. The combination with a gear element, of a shaft therefor, and resilient connecting means for said shaft and the toothed rim of the gear, said shaft and gear having spherical engaging faces for permitting universal movement of said rim relative to the said shaft."
